NUMBER of Houſes are 700.

NOW for the modern State of this Ward, beginning with the Places within the Wall.

Foſter-lane, a Place well inhabited, chiefly by Silverſmiths. The South End next unto Cheapſide, that is, two Houſes Northwards from St. Vedaſt, or Foſter Church, is in the Ward of Faringdon within; and all the reſt of the Weſt Side, is in the Liberty of St. Martin's le Grand, as far as Bell-court: So that only Part of the Eaſt Side is in this Ward. In this Lane are theſe Places; Adam's-court, but ſmall, ſeated over-againſt the Church. Prieſt's-court, or Alley, long and ordinary, with a Paſſage into Gutter-lane, through the Half-moon Tavern. Roſe and Crown-court, good, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Dark Entry, very ordinary, gives a Paſſage into St. Martin's le Grand. On the North Side of this Entry, was ſeated the Pariſh-Church of St. Leonard Foſter-lane; which being conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to Chriſt-Church; and the Place where it ſtood, is incloſed within a Wall, and ſerveth as a Burial-Place for the Inhabitants of the Pariſh.

Sir John Trott, of Laverſtock in Flintſhire, Baronet, gave 200*l.* towards the Rebuilding of three Tenements for the Uſe of the Poor of St. Martin's le grand, in this Pariſh.

Carey-lane, falls into Gutter-lane, a Place of ſome Trade for Silverſmiths. Bell-court, a large open Place, with good Houſes, well inhabited; hath a Paſſage with a Free-ſtone Pavement into St. Martin's le Grand. Three Crown-court, both ſmall and ordinary, near Bell-court. Goldſmiths Hall, ſeated at the Corner of this Lane, turning into Maiden-lane, the back Part being in Gutter-lane; a handſome new Brick Building, with an open ſquare Court within. Over-againſt this Hall is a large Houſe, now made Uſe of for refining of Silver.

Maiden-lane, formerly Engain-lane, a handſome well built and inhabited Street; the Eaſt End falleth into Woodſtreet, but hath no more in this Ward, than to Staining-lane. At the North Weſt Corner, over-againſt Goldſmiths Hall, ſtood the Pariſh-Church of St. John Zachary, which ſince the dreadful Fire is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united unto St. Anne's Alderſgate; and the Ground on which it ſtood, incloſed within a Wall, ſerving as a Burial-Place for the Pariſh.

NEAR this Church-yard, is a ſpacious Houſe, with a large Court Yard, handſomely paved with Free-ſtone, formerly belonging to Sir Thomas Bludworth, Knt. Lord Mayor, 1666, and ſince to Richard Levet, Eſq; Son of Sir Richard Levet, Knt. Lord Mayor in the Year 1700; in which Houſe, he kept his Mayoralty. On the ſame Side, but beyond Staining-lane, is ſeated Haberdaſhers Hall, a large Building, which is in Part of this Lane, but in Cripplegate Ward.

Staining-lane, the Eaſt Side, which joineth unto Haberdaſhers Hall, is in Cripplegate Ward. At the upper End of the Lane was the Church of St. Mary Staining, which Church is not rebuilt ſince the Fire of LONDON; but the Pariſh united unto St. Michael Woodſtreet, and the Ground incloſed within a Wall, for the Burial of the Dead for the Pariſh.

Gutter-lane hath the Weſt Side, from the Corner of Maiden-lane unto Carey-lane, in this Ward, and the Eaſt in Cripplegate Ward.

Noble-ſtreet, long, and indifferently well inhabited; the End next to Foſter-lane being eſteemed the beſt. In this Street are theſe Places of Note; Lillypot-lane, but ordinary; falls into Staining-lane, as doth Oat-lane, alſo but ſmall. Betwixt theſe two Lanes is White-horſe-court, open, but ordinary. Dolphin-court, ſmall, ſeated oppoſite to Oat-lane. A little more Northwards, is Coachmakers Hall, a handſome Building. Fitche's-court, a handſome broad Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement; hath good Houſes, with Inhabitants anſwerable. At the Upper End is an old Timber Houſe, where formerly Titchborn, ſome Time Alderman and Lord Mayor, dwelt. This Houſe ſtrangely eſcaped burning in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, when all the Houſes round it were quite conſumed. Hide's-court, but ſmall. Coachmakers Hall.

St. Olaves's Silver-ſtreet Church, was ſeated on the North Weſt Corner of this Street; not rebuilt ſince its Burning in the great Fire of LONDON; and the Pariſh is united to St. Alban's Woodſtreet, as before-mentioned.

St. Anne's lane, a Place of ſome Trade, lieth betwixt Foſter-lane, and St. Martin's le Grand, near Alderſgate. About the Middle of this Lane, on the North Side, is St. Anne's-alley, having a Free-ſtone Pavement, which leadeth to St. Anne's Church, and from thence into Noble-ſtreet, ſevering the Church from the Church-yard. Since the Fire of LONDON, in which it was conſumed, it is rebuilt very handſome and neat, the Front facing Southward, all of rubbed Brick: To which is united the Pariſh of St. John Zachary.

St. Martin's le Grand lies Weſt out of St. Anne's-lane, now much inhabited by Shoemakers.

IT is a Place which yet claimeth Privileges, and belonging to the City of Weſtminſter: At the Election of Burgeſſes of Parliament for that City, the Inhabitants of St. Martin's, as is before-ſaid, have their Voices; and although within the City of LONDON, and Ward of Alderſgate; yet it is exempt from their Juriſdiction. In this Liberty they ſtill have a Priſon, and a Bailiff, and keep Courts for mean Actions. It contains but one principal Street, and that is called St. Martin's le Grand; which cometh out of Blowbladder-ſtreet, by the Weſt End of Cheapſide, and runneth to Alderſgate. But this Liberty runneth but to Bell-court, near unto St. Anne's-lane. And from Bell-court unto Alderſgate, is in Alderſgate Ward, and out of this Liberty. This Street is a Place of a conſiderable Trade, it is a great Thoroughfare, and its Houſes well built.

IN

IN this Liberty are theſe Courts and Places of Note; Round-court, large, with a handſome Free-Stone Pavement, the Part towards St. Martin's being a handſome ſquare Court. It has a Paſſage into Blowbladder-ſtreet, which is taken up by Milliners, Sempſtreſſes, and ſuch as ſell Copper Lace, called St. Martin's Lace, for which it is of Note. Out of this Court is an Alley which leads into New-rents, which alſo comes into St. Martin's-ſtreet; and at the Upper-End are two Paſſages into Forſter-lane, one of which goes into a Place called the Dark-entry, by St. Leonard Foſter-lane Church-Yard. Mould-makers-rents, an indifferent open Place; out of which are ſeveral Paſſages, as into New-rents, Dean's-court, and George ſtreet. New-rents, a handſome Street, which comes out of St. Martin's-ſtreet; and at the Upper-End was the Swan Tavern. Great Dean's-court, an open Place, indifferently well built and inhabited; has a Paſſage into Moldmakers-rents, or Row, and another into George-ſtreet. In this Court is another ſmall one, called Little-Dean's-court, which is but ordinary. George-ſtreet, of which there are two; the one leading into Foſter-lane, and the other into Round-court. St. John's-alley, ordinary. Cock-alley has a narrow Entrance which leads into an open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, indifferent. Chriſtopher's-alley, has a Free-Stone Pavement, good; which, at the Upper-End, has a Door into the Bagnio. Four-dove-court, an open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. King's-head-court, a handſome Place, well built and inhabited, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Angel-alley, good, the Upper-End falls into Butcherhall-lane. Of this Street, that Part within this Liberty goes no farther than King's-head-court; the reſt of this Street is in the Ward of Faringdon Within.

Bull-and-mouth-ſtreet goes out of St. Martin's le Grand, and runs up to Butcherhall-lane; but it has no more in this Ward than a little Weſtward of the Bull-and-mouth-inn, which is large, and well built, and of good Reſort by thoſe that bring Bone-Lace, where the Shop-keepers and others come to buy it. The Fountain Tavern, commonly called the Mourning Buſh, which has a Back-Door into St. Anne's-lane, is ſeated near unto Alderſgate. And in this Part of St. Martin's, is a noted Meeting-Houſe of the Quakers, called the Bull-and-mouth, and where they met long before the Fire.

Alderſgate-ſtreet, very ſpacious and long, and although the Buildings are old, and not uniform, yet many of them are very good, and well inhabited; and of the principal of them, two are very large, the one formerly called Dorcheſter-houſe, as being the Seat of the late late Marqueſs of Dorcheſter; and Peter-houſe, as belonging once to the Lord Peters, now called London-houſe, having laſt been the Seat of the Biſhop of LONDON. The other Thanet-houſe, which, ſays an ingenious Author, is a moſt delightful fine Edifice that declares the maſterly Hand of Inigo Jones, and was formerly the Reſidence of the Earls of Shaftsbury; an Edifice that deſerves a much better Situation, and greater Care in preſerving it from the Injuries of Time: But the Politeneſs of the Town is ſo far removed fram hence, that 'tis hardly poſſible this Fabrick ſhould be admired as it ought, or kept in ſuitabe Repair: Already it has been converted into a Tavern, and is made to ſerve other mechanick Uſes.

THIS Street runs Northward unto the End of Barbican on the Eaſt Side, and Long-lane on the Weſt, where Goſwel-ſtreet begins. In this Street are a great many Alleys and Courts, and for the deſcribing them, we ſhall begin at Alderſgate. Caſtle Inn, very large, and of a conſiderable Reſort. In the Yard are ſeveral good Houſes for private Families: And out of this Yard, is a Paſſage into Jewen-ſtreet. Harrow-court, ſmall and indifferent. Cooks Hall, ſeated over-againſt Little-Britain. Grey-hound-court, mean and ordinary. Cock-and-bottle-court, poor and ordinary. Ball-alley, long, narrow, and ordinary. Golden-lion-court, well built and inhabited on the North Side, the Eaſt Side being open and airy, with Gardens. Deputies-court, or Roſe-and-rainbow-court, ordinary; but there have been, within a few Years, ſeveral new Buildings at the farther End of it. Nettleton-court, large, but ordinary Buildings. Maidenhead-court, large, but indifferently built, with a Paſſage into Crowders-well-alley; from whence one may go into Jewen-ſtreet, in Cripplegate Ward. George Inn, formerly the White Hart Inn, very large, and convenient for the Reception of Coaches, Waggons, and Travellers. It hath Galleries that lead to the Chambers, as cuſtomary in many great Inns. There is in Thanet-houſe, which adjoins to this Inn, a Lace-Chamber of very good Reſort for Buyers and Sellers; and the Inn has moſt of the Trade which formerly did belong to the George Inn in Little-Britain. Trinity-court, open, but indifferently built. Weſtmoreland-alley, or the Paved-alley, as paved with Free-Stone; the Paſſage leads through Weſtmoreland-court into St. Bartholomew-cloſe. Angel-alley, large, and ſomewhat narrow towards the Upper-End; where it has a Paſſage into Horn-alley, an open Place, very long, with low Buildings. About the Middle it has a Paſſage into Cockpit-yard, well built, which gives Entrance into Jewen-ſtreet; and that falls into Redcroſs-ſtreet, near St. Giles's Cripplegate Church; and this is a Street well built and inhabited: But of this Street there is no more in this Ward than Cockpit-yard, the reſt and greateſt Part being in Cripplegate Ward. Cradle-court, a handſome open Place, well built, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Black-horſe-alley, but ſmall, and ordinary. Black-horſe-court, alſo ſmall. Half-moon-court, a little open, but mean. Half-moon-alley, but narrow, has a Paſſage through the Half-moon Tavern into St. Bartholomew's-cloſe. Tongue's-court, ſmall, with old Buildings. Lauderdale-houſe, or Court, a large old Building, with a Free-Stone Court before it. Hare-court, open for Carts; at the Upper-End it falls into Paul's-alley, and ſo into Redcroſs-ſtreet. Bell Inn, of good Reſort for Waggons with Meal, &c. The Sun Tavern, large, and of a good Trade.

Goſwel-ſtreet, begins at Barbican, where Alderſgate-ſtreet ends, and runs up to the Bars, in this Ward, and much farther Northward beyond Old-ſtreet. This Street is broad, but meanly built and inhabited, eſpecially beyond the Bars. In this Street, within the Bars, are theſe Courts and Places of Note: Cock Inn, has a good Trade, and reſorted unto by Waggons that bring Meal, and other Goods. Devonſhire-court, contains two Courts, one within another, and both but ſmall and ordinary. Red-lion Inn, of a good Trade, and has a large Yard for Coach-Houſes and Stabling. Through this Yard is a Paſſage into Charter-houſe-yard, and another into Long-lane. Beggars-lane, an open Paſſage into Charter-houſe-yard, and ſo to Smithfield-bars, and St. John's-ſtreet, a great Thorough-Fare. Three Cups Inn. White-horſe-yard, a large open Place for Stabling and Coach-Houſes, and has in it ſome Dwelling-Houſes. Vine-yard, large, but of ſmall Account, having old Houſes, and ſome Part not built. Fanns-alley, juſt without the Bars, as to the Entrance, which is broad enough for Carts, and but indifferently built and inhabited, the South Side being in this Ward, and the other in the Liberty of St. Giles's Cripplegate. This Alley has a Paſſage into Bridgwater-ſtreet, which leads into Brackley-ſtreet, and ſo into Litton-ſtreet, and thence into Golden-lane; all Places well built with new Brick Houſes, and built on the Ground belonging to the Houſe of the Earl of Bridgwater, who reſided there before it was all built into Tenements. But all theſe Streets are in Cripplegate Ward.

Barbican, a good large Street, comes out of the Upper-End of Alderſgate-ſtreet, and runs up to Redcroſs-ſtreet; a Place of good Trade for Saleſmen and Brokers for Apparel, both old and new. The Part of this Street within the Ward is but little, viz. from the Corner next to Alderſgate-ſtreet, to White-lion-court on the North Side; which is but mean, with Houſes ready to fall: And Fox-and-crown-court on the South Side, which is alſo but ordinary.

Long-lane, ſo called for its Length, coming out of Alderſgate-ſtreet againſt Barbican, and falls into Weſt-ſmithfield. A Place alſo of Note for the Sale of Apparel, Linen, and Upholſters Goods, both Second-hand and New, but chiefly for Old. This Lane has but little in this Ward, eſpecially the South Side; and the North Side takes in the Red-lion Inn, already ſpoken of.

Little-Britain comes out of Alderſgate-ſtreet, by St. Botolph's Alderſgate Church, and runs up to the Pump, where it opens into a broad Street, and turning Northward, runs up to Duck-lane, having another turning Paſſage to the Lame Hoſpital, or St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital. This Street is well built, and much inhabited by Bookſellers, eſpecially from the Pump to Duck-lane, which is alſo taken up by Bookſellers for old Books.

The Pariſh Church of St. Botolph's Alderſgate, ſeated at the End of this Street, next to Alderſgate-ſtreet, an old Building. This Church was not burnt in the Fire of LONDON, 1666.

In this Street of Little-Britain are theſe Courts and Places of Note. The George Inn, which has alſo a Paſſage into Alderſgate-ſtreet. Croſs-keys-court, a Place with good Buildings, and Gardens behind ſome of them. Redcroſs-alley, a ſmall and ordinary Place. Carpenters-yard, an open Place, which has a Paſſage into Towndtch, being an open Place belonging to Chriſt's Hoſpital, which has good Houſes on the Side fronting the Hoſpital. Pelican-court, a large Place, with good Houſes, well inhabited. At the Upper-End it divides itſelf into two Courts, and both bear the ſame Name. On the Weſt Side it has a Paſſage into Fryars-court, which is but ſmall and ordinary. Fryars-rents, has a narrow Paſſage into a ſmall and ordinary Court. Axe-yard, or Court, long and narrow, with good Houſes at the Upper-End. Great Mountague-court, a good handſome Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, well built and inhabited. Little Mountague-court, but narrow, with a Free-Stone Pavement.

CHAP. VIII.

FARINGDON WARD Within.

On the South Side of Alderſgate Ward lies Faringdon Ward, called infra, or within, for a Difference from another Ward of that Name, which lies without the Walls of the City, and is therefore called Faringdon extra. Theſe two Wards (of old Time) were but one, and had alſo but one Alderman, 'till the 17th of Richard II. At which Time the ſaid Ward (for the Greatneſs thereof) was divided into two, and by Parliament ordered to have two Aldermen, and ſo it continues 'till this Day. The whole great Ward of Faringdon, both infra and extra, took its Name from William Farendon, Goldſmith, Alderman of that Ward, and one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in the Year 1281, the 9th of Edward I. He purchaſed the Aldermanry of this Ward, as by this Abſtract of Deeds may appear.

Thomas de Ardene, Sonne and Heire to Sir Ralph Ardene, Knt. granted to Ralphe le Feure, Citizen of LONDON, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1277, all the Aldermanrie, with the Appurtenances, within the City of LONDON, and Suburbs of the ſame, between Ludgate and Newgate, and alſo without the ſame Gates; which Aldermanrie, Ankerinus de Averne held during his Life, by the Grant of the ſaid Thomas de Ardena. To have and to hold unto the ſaid Ralph, and to his Heires, freely without all Challenge; yeelding therefore yeerely to the ſaid Thomas and his Heires, one Clove (or Slip) of Gilliflowers, at the Feaſt of Eaſter, for all ſecular Service and Cuſtome, with warrantie unto the ſaid Ralph le Feure, and his Heires, againſt all People, Chriſtians and Jewes, in Conſideration of 20 Markes, which the ſaid Ralph le Feure did give beforehand, in Name of a Gerſum or Fine, to the ſaid Thomas, &c. Dated the 5th of Edward I.

Witneſſe, G. de Rokeſley, Maior,
R. Arrar, one of the Sheriffes,
H. Wales,
P. le Taylor,
T. de Baſſing,
J. Horn,
N. Blackthorn, Alderman of London.

AFTER this, John le Feure, Son and Heir to the ſaid Ralph le Feure, granted to William Farendon, Citizen and Goldſmith of LONDON, and to his Heirs, the ſaid Aldermanry, with the Appurtenances, for the Service thereunto belonging, in the 7th of Edward I. in the Year of CHRIST 1279. This Aldermanry deſcended to Nicholas Farendon, Son to the ſaid William, and to his Heirs. Which Nicholas Farendon, alſo a Goldſmith, was four Times Mayor, and lived many Years after; for Munday ſaith, he has read divers Deeds, whereuntō he was a Witneſs, dated A. D. 1360. He made his Will 1361, which was 53 Years after his firſt being Mayor, and was buried in St. Peter's Church in Cheap. So this Ward continued under the Government of William Farendon, and Nicholas his Son, the Space of fourſcore and two Years, and retains their Name unto this preſent Day.

THIS Ward of Faringdon within the Walls is bounded thus; beginning in the Eaſt, where the great Croſs ſtood in Weſt Cheap; from thence it runs Weſt, on the North Side where the Pariſh-Church of St. Peter ſtood, which was at the South Weſt Corner of Wood-ſtreet, to Gutter-lane, and down that Lane to Huggen-lane on the Eaſt Side, and to Kery-lane on the Weſt.

THEN again into Cheapſide, and to Foſter-lane, and down that Lane, on the Eaſt Side, to the North Side of St. Foſter's Church; and on the Weſt, till over-againſt the South Weſt Corner of the ſaid Church; from thence down Foſter-lane and Noble-ſtreet, is all of Alderſgate-ſtreet Ward, till you come to the Stone-Wall on the Weſt Side of Nolle-ſtreet; then by the ſaid Wall, down to Windſor-houſe, or Nevil's-Inn; and down Monks-well-ſtreet, on the Weſt Side; and then by London-wall to Cripplegate; and the Weſt Side of that ſame Gate is all of Faringdon Ward.

THEN back again into Cheapſide; and from Foſter-lane End, to St. Martin's-lane End; and from thence through St. Nicholas Shambles by Pentecoſt-lane, and Butchers-alley, and by Stinking-lane, thro' Newgate-market to Newgate. All which is the Notth Side of Faringdon Ward.

THEN on the South, from againſt the Place of the great Croſs in Cheap, Weſt from Friday-ſtreet, and down that Street, on the Eaſt Side, till over-againſt the North Eaſt Corner of St. Matthew's Church; and on the Weſt Side, till the South Corner of the ſaid Church.

THEN again along Cheap to the Old Exchange, and down that Lane, on the Eaſt Side, to the Pariſh-Church of St. Auguſtine; which Church, and one Houſe next adjoining in Watling-ſtreet, are of this Ward. And then on the Weſt Side of this Lane it ran to the Eaſt Arch or Gate by St. Auguſtine's Church, which enter'd the South Church-yard of St. Paul's, and which Arch was built by Nicholas Farendon, about the Year 1361; and within the Gate, all that was formerly call'd the North Church-yard, was of this Ward.

THEN again into Cheap, and from the North End of the Old Exchange Weſt, where the North Gate of St. Paul's Church-yard ſtood, up Pater-noſter-row, to within about twelve Doors of Ave-mary-lane; the Weſt Side of which Lane, is of this Ward.

THEN at the South End of Ave-mary-lane, is Creed-lane, the Weſt Side whereof is alſo of this Ward.

BETWIXT the South End of Ave-mary-lane, and the North End of Creed-lane, was the coming out of St. Paul's Church-yard, on the Eaſt; and the High Street, called Bowyer-Row, now Ludgate-ſtreet, on the Weſt, which goes to Ludgate, is of this Ward; on the North Side whereof, is St. Martin's Church, and on the South, the Turning into Black-friars.

NOW to turn up again to the North End of Ave-mary-lane, there is a ſhort Lane, on the Weſt End of it, called Amen-lane, or Amen-corner.

THEN on the North Side of Pater-noſter-row, beginning where the Conduit ſtood, over-againſt the Old Exchange Lane End, and going Weſt by which ſtood St. Michael's Church, at the Weſt End of which was a ſmall Paſſage thro' toward the North; and at ſome ſmall Diſtance, another Paſſage, which is called Panier-alley, and comes out againſt St. Martin's le Grand.

THEN farther Weſt, in Pater-noſter-row, is Ivy-lane, which runs North to where ſtood the Weſt End of St. Nicholas Shambles.

THE Weſt Side of Warwick-lane is of this Ward; but the Eaſt Side of that, of Ave-Mary-lane, and of Creed-lane, with the Weſt End of Pater-noſter-row, are all of Baynard's-caſtle Ward.

TO begin again from the Place of the Conduit by the Old Exchange; on the North Side thereof was a large Street that ran up to Newgate, the firſt Part to the Shambles, call'd Bladder-ſtreet. On the Back-ſide of the Shambles, were many Slaughter-houſes, and ſuch like belonging to the Shambles, and called Mount-godara-ſtreet. Then were the Shambles, and then Newgate-market; and ſo the whole Street on both Sides up to Newgate, all of this Ward, which is the fartheſt Extent of it.

MONUMENTS in this Ward were theſe:

AT the South Weſt Corner of Woodſtreet, was the Pariſh of St. Peter the Apoſtle, by the ſaid Croſs. John Sha, Goldſmith, Mayor, deceaſed 1503, appointed by his Teſtament, the ſaid Church and Steeple to be new built of his Goods, with a flat Roof. Notwithſtanding, Thomas Wood, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs, 1491, is accounted a principal Benefactor, becauſe the Roof of the Middle Iſle was ſupported by Images of Woodmen.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Years of our Lord 1616, and 1617, (the Charge of it amounting to 314 l.) but being burnt in the Fire of LONDON, was not rebuilt, but the Pariſh, by Act of Parliament, annexed to that of St. Matthew in Friday-ſtreet.

THE Inhabitants of this Lane (of old Time) were Goldbeaters, as doth appear by Records in the Exchequer. For the Eaſterling Money was appointed to be made of fine Silver, ſuch as Men make into Foyle, and was commonly called Silver of Guthurun's-lane, &c. The Embroaderers Hall is in this Lane. John Throwſtone, Embroaderer, then Goldſmith, Sheriff, deceaſed 1519, gave 40 l. towards the Purchace of this Hall. Huggen-lane on the Eaſt Side, and Kery-lane (called ſo from one Kery) on the Weſt. Then in the High-Street, on the ſame North Side, is Sadlers Hall. Embroaderers Hall.

The PARISH of St. VEDAST, alias FOSTER.

THEN is Foſter-lane, ſo called from St. Foſter's Church ſituated on the Eaſt Side, near the South End thereof.

St. Vedaſt (to whom this Church is dedicated) was once Biſhop of Arras, in Artois, concerning whom, Clodoveus, or Clovis, King of France (the firſt Chriſtian King of that Nation) about Ann. Chriſti 484, going to St. Remigius, Biſhop of Rhemes, took along with him this Vedaſt, a very devout Man, who in their Journey reſtored a blind Man to his Sight; the King being come to Remigius, was baptized by him, and returning home, left this Vedaſt with Remigius, who abiding with him, grew famous for his worthy Deſerts and Virtue, being religious and charitable, continually praying and faſting, and pitiful to all that were in Diſtreſs. At laſt, he was ſo well eſteemed by St. Remigius, that he ordained him Biſhop of Arras; this Biſhop then going towards his Biſhoprick, met two Beggars, the one lame, and the other blind, who begging ſomething of him, he having no Money, with Tears ſo effectually prayed for them, that he reſtored inſtantly, the one to his Sight, the other to his Feet. He afterwards meeting with a cruel Bear among the Ruins of an old demoliſhed Chriſtian Church, at his Command the Bear departed thence into the Wilderneſs, and never returned thither again, which is the Reaſon that he is ordinarily pictured with a Bear.

HE died under the Reign of Clotarius, King of France, Anno Dom. 566. Sigebert ſays, he died in 570. Of him write Beda and others. To ſhew this Biſhop's Worth, ſays Uſuardus, a Pillar of wonderful Brightneſs ſhone from Heaven over the Houſe where he lay ſick, preſaging his Death.

HIS Feſtivity is celebrated yearly on the 6th of February.

Stow ſays this was a fair Church, new built not many Ages ſince; and that Henry Coot, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, deceaſed in 1539, built St. Dunſtan's Chapel here. John Throwſtone, another of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in 1516, gave to the Building of this Church, 100*l.* by his Teſtament. John Brown, Serjeant-Painter, Alderman, deceaſed in 1532, was a great Benefactor, and was here buried.

HERE was a Chantry founded for the Souls of Jeffery at Gate, Joan and Alice, his Wives, and others.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified in 1614; and at the Chancel End, was added 20 Feet of Ground; which Ground, ſo to lengthen the Church, was given to the Pariſh, out of a fair Court then belonging to Sadlers Hall.

THIS Church ſuffered much in the Fire of LONDON, yet not ſo but that it was afterwards repaired, for the moſt Part, upon the old Walls, and the Tower and Steeple ſtood 'till the Year 1694; but being much weakened by the ſaid Fire, it was re-edified, as it now appears, in the Year 1697; and the Pewing and Ornament, by the Direction and Approbation of the Committee choſen by the united Pariſhes, Ann. Dom. 1698.

THIS Church is well built of Stone, the Roof within is flat, covered with Lead, and ſupported on the South Side with Columns of the Tuſcan Order, and a Gallery with four Columns of the ſame Order. Reader, ſtay, and thou ſhalt know What he was that here doth ſleepe; Lodg'd amidſt,
the Stones below, Stones that oft are ſeen to weep.
Gentile was his Birth and Breed,
His Carriage gentle much contenting;
His Word accorded with his Deed, Sweet his Nature
ſoone relenting.
From above
he ſeem'd protected,
Father dead
Before his Birth,
An Orphane, only
but neglected,
Yet his Branches
ſpread on Earth:
Earth, that muſt his Bones contain Sleeping till Chriſt's
Trumpet ſhall wake them, Joyning them to Soul againe
And to Bliſſe
eternal take them
It is not this rude and little Heape of Stones,
Can hold the Fame,
Although't containes the Bones.
Light be the Earth,
and hallowed for thy ſake,
Reſting in Peace
Peace that ſo oft didſt make.

NUMBER of Houſes, 132.

IN antient Time there was a Stone Wall, which incloſed a Garden-Plat before the Wall of the City, on the Weſt Side of Noble-ſtreet, and was of this Faringdon Ward. This Garden-Plat, containing 95 Ells in Length, nine Ells and an half in Breadth, was by Adam de Burie, Mayor, the Aldermen and Citizens of LONDON, let to John de Nevel, Lord of Raby, Radulph and Thomas, his Sons, for 60 Years, paying 6*s.* 8*d.* the Year; dated the 48th of Edward III. Having in a Seal pendant on the one Side, the Figure of a walled City, and of St. Paul; a Sword in his Right Hand, and in his Left a Banner; three Leopards about that Seal: On the ſame Side written, Sigillum Baronum Londoniarum. On the other Side, the like Figure of a City, a Biſhop ſitting on an Arch, the Inſcription, Me: que: te: peperis: ne: Ceſſes: Thoma: tueri.

THUS much for the Barons of LONDON their common Seal at that Time.

AT the North End of this Garden-Plat was a large Houſe, built of Stone and Timber, which Stow ſays was, in his Time, called the Lord Windſor's Houſe, but of old Time belonging to the Nevels, as in the 19th of Richard II. it was found by Inquiſition of a Jury, that Elizabeth Nevel died, ſeized of a great Meſſuage in the Pariſh of St. Olave in Monks-well-ſtreet in LONDON, holden of the King in free Burgage; which ſhe held of the Gift of John Nevel of Raby, her Husband; and that John Latimer was next Son and Heir to the ſaid Elizabeth.

THIS Houſe was called Nevel's Inn, and poſſeſſed by that Noble Family to the Time of Henry VI. In the 4th of whoſe Reign, Ralph Nevel, Earl of Weſtmoreland, died, ſeized of that Meſſuage in the Pariſh of St. Olave, in Faringdon Ward, LONDON; and the Heirs Male of his Body, begotten on Jane, his Wife. And of another Meſſuage called Le Erbor, in Dowgate Ward; both held in Burgage, as the City of LONDON was held.

IN this Street, on the Weſt Side thereof, is Barber-Surgeons Hall, already mentioned.

AT the North Corner of this Street, on the ſame Side, was ſome Time an Hermitage, or Chapel of St. James, called In-the-wall, near Cripplegate. It belonged to the Abbey and Covent of Garadon, as appears by a Record the 27th of Edward I. and alſo by a Record the 16th of Edward III. William de Lion was Hermit there; and the Abbey and Covent of Garadon found two Chaplains, Ceſtercian Monks of their Houſe, in this Hermitage: One of them for Amor de Valence, Earl of Pembrook; and Mary de Saint Paul, his Counteſs.

OF theſe Monks, and of a Well pertaining to them, the Street took that Name, and is called Monks-well-ſtreet. This Hermitage, with the Appurtenances, was, in the Reign of Edward VI. purchaſed from the ſaid King, by William Lambe, one of the Gentlemen of the King's Chapel, Citizen and Clothworker of LONDON. He deceaſed in the Year 1577, and then gave it to the Clothworkers of LONDON; with other Tenements, to the Value of 50 l. the Year; to the Intent they ſhall hire a Miniſter to ſay divine Service there.

TO come again to the High-Street of Cheapſide, from Foſter-lane End to St. Martin's, and ſo on; there was antiently on the North Side of Shambles, a Lane, called Pentecoſt-lane, containing divers Slaughter-Houſes for the Butchers, and here was, at that Time, the Butchers Hall.

The PARISH of

St. NICHOLAS SHAMBLES.

NEAR this was the Pariſh-Church of St. Nicholas, from which the Fleſh-Market took its Name, and was called St. Nicholas Shambles.

THERE was then a Lane or Paſſage from Vedaſt-lane, now Foſter-lane, to Great St. Martin's-Church on one Part, and to this Church of St. Nicholas Shambles on the other. But one William de Luda, ſome Time Dean of St. Martin's, ſtopped it up. Whereupon, at an Inquiſition made in Edward II's Reign, for Purpreſtures and Annoyances in the City, the King's Juſtices ſitting at the Tower, the Jury preſented this; and that it was to the Damage of the King and the Commonalty of the City. But Richard de Ellesfield, then Dean of St. Martin's, came and ſhewed, that he held the ſaid Lane ſtopped up, by Vertue of a Licence from King Edward I. and that by Letters Patents, which he produced.

THIS Church, with the Tenements and Ornaments, was by Henry VIII. given to the Mayor and Commonalty of the City, towards the Maintenance of the new Pariſh-Church, then to be erected in the late diſſolved Church of the Grey-fryars; ſo was this Church diſſolved and pulled down. In place whereof, and of the Church-Yard, many fair Houſes were built, in a Court with a Well, &c. in the Middle whereof the Church ſtood.

THEN was Stinking-lane, formerly ſo called, or Chick-lane, at the Eaſt End of the Gray-fryars Church. It is now called by the Name of Butchers-hall-lane, the Butches Hall having been there.

IN the 3d of Richard II. Motion was made, that no Butcher ſhould kill any Fleſh within LONDON, but at Knightsbridge, or ſuch like diſtant Place from the Walls of the City.

THIS was but the renewing of a Command ſtrictly given by King Edward III. in the 25th of his Reign, to the Mayor and Sheriffs, upon a great Contagion in the City: which was thought to have been occaſioned by the Stink of ſlain Beaſts within, or near the City. The King's Letter will explain this Matter more at large, and that confirmed, as it ſeems, in Parliament.

REX Maiori, &c. Quia per mactationem groſſarum beſtiarum, &c. i. e. Becauſe by Reaſon of killing great Beaſts, &c. from whoſe putrified Blood running down the Streets, and the Bowels caſt into the Thames, the Air in the City is very much corrupted and infected, whence abominable and moſt filthy Stinks proceed, Sickneſſes and many other Evils have happened to ſuch as have Abode in the ſaid City, or have reſorted to it; and greater Dangers are feared to fall out for the Time to come, unleſs Remedy be preſently made againſt it; we, willing to prevent ſuch Danger, and to pevent, as much as in us lies, for the Honeſty of the ſaid City, and the Safety of our People, by the Conſent of our Council, in our preſent Parliament, have ordained, That all Bulls, Oxen, Hogs, and other groſs Creatures, to be ſlain for the Suſtentation of the ſaid City, to be led as far as the Town of Stretford, (i. e. Stretford le Bow) on one Part of LONDON, and the Town of Knightsbrugg on the other, and there, and not on this Side, be ſlain, and that their Bowels be there cleanſed; and being ſo cleanſed, to be brought, together with the Fleſh, to the ſaid City to be ſold. And if any Butcher ſhall preſume any Thing raſhly againſt this Ordinance, let him incur Forfeiture of the Fleſh of the Creatures, which he hath cauſed to be ſlain on this Side the ſaid Towns, and the Puniſhment of Impriſonment for one Year. This Ordinance to be publickly proclaimed and held; and all Butchers doing otherwiſe, to be chaſtiſed and puniſhed according to the Form of the Ordinance aforeſaid. Witneſs, the King at Weſtminſter, the 25th of February.

The PARISH of

AND then the late diſſolved Church of Grey-fryars, (called alſo Fryars-minors within Newgate) the Original whereof was thus:

IN this Grey-fryars there was a ſtinking Dungeon, of what Antiquity is uncertain: But in Queen Mary's Time, they put in here ſuch as were Vagabonds and idle Perſons. The Porter of this Dungeon was one Niniau. Here Thomas Green, Servant to John Waylond the Printer, was brought; and after ſome Time whipped grievouſly, having the Correction of Thieves and Vagabonds, for a Book called Antichriſt, that he had aſſiſted at the Printing of.

IN the Year 1552, began the preparing of the Grey-fryars Houſe for the poor fatherleſs Children; and in November they were taken in to the Number of almoſt 400, as has been already mentioned, with other Matters relating to this Hoſpital, in Book I. Chap. XIV.

Dr.

Dr. Ridley, then Biſhop of LONDON, came and preached before the King's Majeſty at Weſtminſter. In which Sermon, he made a fruitful and godly Exhortation to the Rich, to be merciful unto the Poor; and alſo to move ſuch as were in Authority, to travel by ſome charitable Way and Means to comfort and relieve them. Whereupon, the King's Majeſty, (being a Prince of ſuch Towardneſs and Virtue for his Years, as England before never brought forth; and being alſo ſo well retained and brought up in all godly Knowledge, as well by his dear Uncle the Protector, as alſo by his virtuous Schoolmaſters) was ſo careful of the good Government of the Realm, and chiefly to do and prefer ſuch Things as moſt eſpecially touched the Honour of Almighty God; and underſtanding, that a great Number of poor People did ſwarm in this Realm, and chiefly in the City of LONDON, and that no good Order was taken for them; did ſuddenly, and of himſelf, ſend to the ſaid Biſhop, as ſoon as his Sermon was ended, willing him not to depart, until that he had ſpoken with him. And this was the very Report of the ſaid Biſhop Ridley; who (according to the King's Command) gave his Attendance. And as ſoon as the King's Majeſty was at Leiſure, he called for him, and cauſed him to come to him in a great Gallery at Weſtminſter, where (to his Knowledge, and the King likewiſe told him ſo) there was preſent no more Perſons than they two; and therefore made him ſit down in one Chair, and he himſelf in another, which (as it ſeemed) were, before the coming of the Biſhop, there purpoſely ſet; and forced the Biſhop, againſt his Will, to be covered, and then entered into Converſation with him in this Manner:

First giving him hearty Thanks for his Sermon and good Exhortation; he therein rehearſed ſuch ſpecial Things as he had noted, and that ſo many, that the Biſhop ſaid:

Truly, truly, (for that commonly was his Oath) I could never have thought that Excellency to have been in his Grace, but that I beheld and heard it in him.

At laſt the King's Majeſty much commended him for his Exhortation for the Relief of the Poor.

But, my Lord (quoth he) you willed ſuch as are in Authority to be careful thereof, and to deviſe ſome good Order for their Relief. Wherein, I think you mean me, for I am in the higheſt Place; and therefore am the firſt that muſt make Anſwer unto God for my Negligence, if I ſhould not be careful therein; knowing it to be the expreſs Commandment of Almighty God, to have Compaſſion of his poor and needy Members, for whom we muſt make an Account unto him. And truly, my Lord, I am (before all Things elſe) moſt willing to travel that Way; and I doubting nothing of your long and approved Wiſdom and Learning, who having ſuch good Zeal, as wiſheth Help unto them; but alſo that you have had ſome Conference with others, what Ways are beſt to be taken therein, the which I am deſirous to underſtand; and therefore I pray you to ſay your Mind.

The Biſhop thinking leaſt of that Matter, and being amazed to hear the Wiſdom and earneſt Zeal of the King, was (as he ſaid himſelf) ſo aſtoniſhed, that he could not tell what to ſay: But after ſome Pauſe, ſaid, That he thought (at this preſent) for ſome Enterance to be had, it were good to practiſe with the City of LONDON; becauſe the Number of the Poor there are very great, and the Citizens alſo are many and wiſe, and he doubted not, but that they were alſo both pitiful and merciful; as the Mayor and his Brethren, and other the Worſhipful of the ſaid City. And that if it would pleaſe the King's Majeſty to direct his gracious Letters to the Mayor of LONDON, willing him to call in ſuch as Aſſiſtants as he ſhould think meet, to conſult of this Matter, for ſome Order to be taken therein; he doubted not but Good would follow thereon. And he himſelf promiſed the King to be one himſelf, that ſhould earneſtly travel therein.

The King, forthwith, not only granted his Letter, but made the Biſhop tarry 'till the ſame was written, and his Hand and Signet ſet thereto; and commanded the Biſhop, not only to deliver the ſaid Letter himſelf, but alſo to ſignify to the Mayor, that it was the King's eſpecial Requeſt, and expreſs Commandment, that the Mayor ſhould therein travel; and ſo ſoon as he might conveniently, give him Knowledge, how far he had proceeded therein. The Biſhop was ſo joyful of the having of this Letter, and that now he had an Occaſion to travel in ſo good a Matter, wherein he was marvellous zealous, that nothing could have more pleaſed and delighted him. Wherefore the ſame Night he came to the Mayor of LONDON, who was then Sir Richard Dobbs, Knt. and delivered the King's Letter; and ſhewed his Meſſage with Effect.

The Lord Mayor not only joyfully received this Letter, but with all Speed agreed to ſet forward the Matter, for he alſo favoured it very much; and the next Day, being Monday, he deſired the Biſhop of LONDON, to dine with him; and againſt that Time the Mayor promiſed to ſend for ſuch Men as he thought fitteſt to talk of this Matter, and ſo he did. He ſent firſt for two Aldermen and ſix Commoners, and afterwards more were appointed, to the Number of 24. In the End, after ſundry Meetings, (for by the Means and good Diligence of the Biſhop, it was well followed) they agreed upon a Book they had deviſed, wherein, firſt, they conſidered on nine ſpecial Kinds and Sorts of poor People, and thoſe they brought into theſe three Degrees:

Three Degrees of Poor,

1. The Poor by Impotency.
2. Poor by Caſualty.
3. Thriftleſs Poor.

I. The Poor by Impotency, are alſo divided into three Kinds; that is to ſay;

1. The fatherleſs poor Man's Child.
2. The Aged, Blind, and Lame.
3. The diſeaſed Perſon by Leproſy, Dropſy, &c.

II. The Poor by Caſualty, are likewiſe of three Kinds; that is to ſay;

1. The wounded Soldier.
2. The decayed Houſholder.
3. The viſited with any grievous Diſeaſe.

III. The Thriftleſs Poor are three Kinds, in like Manner; that is to ſay;

1. The Rioter, that conſumeth all.
2. The Vagabond, that will abide in no Place.
3. The idle Perſon, as Strumpets, and others.

For theſe Sorts of Poor, three ſeveral Houſes were provided: Firſt, for the Innocent and Fatherleſs, which is the Beggar's Child, and is, indeed, the Seed and Breeder of Beggary, they provided the Houſe that was the late Grey-fryars in LONDON; and called it by the Name of Chriſt's Hoſpital; where poor Children are trained up in the Knowledge of GOD, and ſome virtuous Exerciſes, to the Overthrow of Beggary.

FOR the ſecond Degree, was provided the Hoſpitals of St. Thomas in Southwark, and St. Bartholomew in Weſt-ſmithfield. Where are continually, at leaſt, 200 diſeaſed Perſons; which are not only there lodged and cured, but alſo fed and nouriſhed.

FOR the third Degree, they provided Bridewell, where the Vagabond and idle Strumpet is chaſtiſed, and compelled to Labour, to the Overthrow of the vicious Life and Idleneſs.

THEY provided alſo for the honeſt decayed Houſholder, that he ſhould be relieved at Home, at his own Houſe, and in the Pariſh where he dwelt, by a weekly Relief and Penſion. And in like Manner they provided for the Lazer, to keep him out of the City, from clapping of Diſhes and ringing of Bells, to the great Trouble of Citizens, and alſo to the dangerous Infection of many; that they ſhould be relieved at Home, at their Houſes, by ſeveral Penſions.

NOW, after this good Order taken, and the Citizens, (by ſuch Means as were deviſed) willing to further the ſame, the Report thereof was made to the King's Majeſty; and his Grace (for the Advancement thereof) was not only willing to grant ſuch as ſhould be Overſeers and Governors of the ſaid Houſes, a Corporation, and Authority for the Government of them; but alſo required that he might be accounted as the chief Founder and Patron thereof.

AND for the Furtherance of the ſaid Work, and continual Maintenance of the ſame, he, of his meer Mercy and Goodneſs granted, that whereas before, certain Lands were given to the maintaining of the Houſe at the Savoy, founded by King Henry VII. for the Lodging of Pilgrims and Strangers; and that the ſame was now made but a Lodging for Loiterers, Vagabonds, and Strumpets, that lay all Day in the Fields, and at Night were harboured there; the which was rather a Maintenance of Beggary, than any Relief to the Poor, gave the ſame Lands, being firſt ſurrendered by the Maſter and Fellows there, (which Lands were of the yearly Value of 600 l.) unto the City of LONDON, for the Maintenance of the Foundation aforeſaid.

AND for a further Relief, a Petition being made to the King's Majeſty, for a Licence to take in Mortmaine, or otherwiſe, without Licence, Lands to a certain yearly Value; and a Space left in the Patent, for his Grace to put in what Sum it would pleaſe him. He looking on the void Place, called for Pen and Ink, and with his own Hand wrote this Sum, 4000 Marks by the Year; and then ſaid, in the hearing of his Council, Lord, I yield thee moſt hearty Thanks, that thou haſt given me Life thus long, to finiſh this Work to the Glory of thy Name. After which Foundation eſtabliſhed, he lived not above two Days: Whoſe Life would have been wiſhed equal to the Patriarchs, if it had pleaſed GOD ſo to have prolonged it.

BY Example of the charitable Act of this virtuous young King, Sir William Cheſter, Kt. and Alderman of LONDON, and John Galthrop, Citizen and Draper of the ſame City, at their own proper Coſts and Charges, made the Brick Walls, and Way on the Back-Side, which leads from the ſaid new Hoſpital to the Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew; and alſo covered and vaulted the Town-ditch, from Alderſgate to Newgate, which before was very noiſome and contagious to the ſaid Hoſpital.

The PARISH of

CHRIST CHURCH.

CHRIST Church, now ſo called, being dedicated to our Bleſſed Saviour CHRIST, a Word ſignifying Anointed. He was King, Prieſt, and Prophet, in whom alone are fulfilled all the Predictions of the true Meſſiah. He was born about Anno Mundi 4000, at Bethlehem in Judæa, in Syria in Aſia, whence it was called the Holy Land, of which Judæa Herod was then King; and Cyrenius, the Roman Governor of Syria, under the Emperor Auguſtus Cæſar. His Birth was of the Virgin Mary (attended by Angels, who ſung Gloria in Excelſis) having conceived by the Power of the Holy Ghoſt, and Man. It was about 33 Years from his Birth to his Death; the firſt 30 whereof he lived in a private Life, and in the laſt three Years he publiſhed his Goſpel, confirming the ſame by Miracles, ſo ſurprizingly and unuſually circumſtantiated, as far exceeded thoſe of the Patriarchs and Prophets who went before him, and of the Apoſtles and Diſciples that lived after him, plainly ſhewing him to be no leſs than GOD; then he was crucified on Mount Calvary, a Death in thoſe Days inflicted only on the moſt notorious Malefactors among the Jews. And the third Day after his Death he raiſed himſelf to Life, and lived on Earth 40 Days, doing many Miracles, foretelling his Diſciples what ſhould happen to them, inſtructing them how to behave themſelves, and comforting them with the Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt; and then, in their Preſence, as he was Bleſſing them, he was taken up from the Mount of Olives into Heaven, from whence (they were immediately told) he ſhould come again. After his Aſcenſion, he ſent the Holy Ghoſt, as he had promiſed, which enabled his Apoſtles, not only to preach in ſeveral Languages, but to cure divers Diſeaſes, and do many Miracles, to vouch the Truth of what they ſaid.

BEFORE the Diſſolution of the Religious Houſes this was the Church of the Grey-fryars, or Franciſcans, which was then very large, containing in Length 300 Feet, in Breadth 89, in Height 64 Feet two Inches. Mr. Weaver tells us, that it was honoured with the Sepulture of four Queens, four Dutcheſſes, four Counteſſes, one Duke, two Earls, eight Barons, and about 35 Knights, of which more hereafter.

THIS magnificent Church ſuffered with others in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, being burnt down, ſince which Time the Choir, or Eaſt End thereof, is only rebuilt, and is made the Parochial-Church for the Inhabitants of this and the Pariſh of St. Leonard Foſter-lane, which is annexed to it by Act of Parliament.

THE new Church is built of Stone, very ſtrong, ſpacious and beautiful, with Buttreſſes on the Outſide, and adorned with Acroters, Pine-Apples, Pediments, &c.

THE Roof is covered with Lead; and here is a new Spire, finiſhed Anno 1704, which is likewiſe of fine Stone, adorned with Vaſes, &c. The Dimenſions of all, ſee a little farther. The Roof of the Nave of the Church within is camerated, and that of the two Side Iſles is flat; the firſt ſupported by 10 ſolid Pillars of the Compoſite Order, the others by as many Pilaſters of the ſame Order.

THE Church is ornamental and pleaſant; the Inſide of the Roof, and uppermoſt Windows, are embelliſhed embelliſhed with Cartouches, Cherubims, &c. of Fret-Work.

It is wainſcotted with right Oak round the Church, eight Feet high, and the Columns nine Feet: And here are alſo curious large Wainſcot Galleries on the North Weſt and South Sides.

The Pulpit is of the ſame Wood finely finnier'd; and eſpecially the Carving is curious, where on one ſmall Pannel is done our Saviour and his 12 Apoſtles, at the laſt Supper; and on the other, the four Evangeliſts, all in Baſſo Relievo. There is alſo a ſpacious Wainſcot inner Door-caſe at the Weſt End of the Church; and a neat Marble Font and Wooden Cover, the firſt adorned with Cherubims, the latter with an Angel carved.

The Altar-Piece is ſpacious, of right Wainſcot well carved, of the Corinthian Order. To the North End of the Communion-Table are two Columns, with their Entablature and arched Pediment, at each End of which is a Lamp, and in the Middle a Pine-apple ſtanding on Acroters: And the like Columns, &c. to the South End of the ſaid Table. The Intercolumns are three fine Pannels, the largeſt of which (being in the Middle) is finnier'd and checquer'd, and they are each ſurrounded with Frames neatly carved, and the whole adorned with Feſtoons, Fruit, Leaves, Corn-Ears, &c. over which is in Fret-work, Pedroits, Cartouches, Cherubims, Shields, Palm-Branches, the King's Arms, &c. all incloſed with handſome Rail and Balliſter, and the Floor within paved with Black and White Marble.

The Length of the Church is 114 Feet, Breadth 81, and Height 38; and the Altitude of the Steeple (which conſiſts of a Tower and Spire) is (as obſerved by a Quadrant) about 153 Feet, wherein are two Bells.

Theſe two, Sir Chriſtopher Edmonds, and Dame Dorothy his Wife, lived together 44 Yeeres, in perfect Love and Society; both Servants to one Prince, and in great Credit both in the Court and Country where they lived, both for their Religion, Fidelity to their Soveraigne, and Liberality to the Poore.

This is the Monument of Sir Chriſtopher Edmonds, Knt, who was a Domeſtical Servant to the moſt Sacred Queen Elizabeth, both before her Coronation and after, ſo long as he lived. He was of great Credit and Eſtimation in his Country, for his Integrity of Life, Uprightneſs in Juſtice, and Hoſpitality; and gave to this Hoſpital of Chriſt's Church, 300 l. towards the Maintenance of the poor Children. He lived 72 Years, and died Anno Domini 1596.

ON a fair Monument cloſe by, in the ſame Wall, was this Inſcription:

Time's Triumph on the Death of Maſter Robert Rogers, who deceaſed Anno 1601, in the Manner of a Dialogue between Time, Death, and Rogers.

Death. Stand fairely encountred both,
Grave, Soveraigne Time;
Borne of Eternity,
Age's Father:
Prince of all Power; all
Powers on Earth are thine,
That doeſt my Ruines Trueſt Records gather;
Lend thy Conſent, thy Helping Hand to mine;
And Death will make Time's
Soveraingty as great
As the three Siſters,
Ladies of ſterne Fate.

Time. Impartial Death, Honours
reſpectleſſe Foe,
Grim, meager Caytiffe, wherefore doſt thou come?
Muſt Vertue's Children to the Slaughter go,
In thy bloud-yawning
Cell to fill a Rome?
Can none but they, quench thy bloudy Thirſt? Death. No;
Rogers I come for: Time,
Thou canſt not ſave him;
This Dart muſt ſtrike him, and grim Death will have him.

Rogers. Death, welcome; all by thee
I know muſt end;
Nor doe I care for longer Life than this:
I thank thee, thou haſt ſtaid
ſo long, (kind Friend.)
Sweet Time, be patient, pardon mine amiſſe;
If I have Time miſ-ſpent;
alaſs! we all offend.
If, ſaid I? yes, 'tis certaine, ſure I have;
For which Offence (deare Time) I Pardon crave.

Time. Death, grant me this (ſweet) doe not kill him Till I returne but from the Deſtinies.

Dea. I cannot ſtay a Moment.

Rog. Oh! will him
(Grave Time) to ſtrike me then,
I Death deſpiſe.

Dea. There lye thou dead.

Time. Thou canſt not ſpill him:
Time ſhall erect a Trophee of ſuch Fame,
That while Time lives,

TIME's Epitaph.

Give me an Adamantine Pen and Leaſe of Braſſe,
To character his Name,
whoſe Like ne'er was.
A ſingle Life he led,
loving to all,
The poore Man's Succour,
the Reliefe of Thrall; Vertue's Example, guide to eternal Life;
In Carriage courteous,
all devoid of Strife.
Here lyeth he interred,
Rogers's his Name,
Time's only Sonne, eternized by Fame.
Ougly Detraction, flye, and blacke Oblivion, hence;
Whilſt Rogers's Duſt lyes here,
Time will his Fame commence.

And choſen was eleven Times,
the Warden of his Company.

But chiefly his own Pariſhioners,

He held Diſdaine to brawle, or ſeeke

And with his Wife he lived

The complete Date of this his Life,

A loving and a faithful Wife,
With many Children bleſt.

The Lord hath lent to me.
My Soul is now with God,
To whom my Corps ſhall come;
And both ſhall Sentence have

When by his bloody Death,
Who is my Saviour juſt,
I ſhall have Life for ay,
Among the Saints, I truſt.
Now, of my earthly End,
If thou the Day wilt know,

That kept are here within.
When he did dye, then Deputy Unto the Alderman,
To end the Brawl of great and ſmall,

To feed the Poor with Meat:
His Gifts therein ſo large have been,
And Legacies ſo great.
His zealous Heart did never ſtart

Till from this Bell he went to dwell
In glory with the Lord.

A juſt Reward of Faith,
To all that grieve, and do believe
As holy Scripture ſaith.

To the Memory

Of Mr. Thomas Firmin, late Citizen of LONDON, and one of the Governors of this and St. Thomas's Hoſpital. He was to the Orphans of this, a moſt tender Father; and for the Sick and Wounded of the other, a careful Provider. He conſtantly expended the greateſt Profits of his Trade, Portions of his Time, and Labour of his Thoughts, in Works of Charity: In providing Work for Thouſands of poor People; in viſiting and relieving (neceſſitous Families, and in redeeming Debtors out of Priſon He alſo gave away, among vaſt Numbers of Poor, pious Books, writ by Divines of the Church of England. He took indefatigable Pains in ſuccouring the diſtreſſed Refugees of France and Ireland. He was a moſt eminent Example of improving all Opportunities of doing Good, of ſucceſsfully provoking others to good Works, and of an unfeigned Charity, both as to Places and Parties. He was very faithful and wiſe in diſpoſing of publick and private Charities, and zealous for promoting of a Reformation of Manners. Yet after all, he aſcribed nothing to himſelf, acknowledging on his Death-bed, that he had been an unprofitable Servant. And he profeſſed, that he hoped for Salvation only from the Mercy of God, through the Mediation of Jeſus Chriſt.

He departed this Life December the 20th, 1679, in the 66th Year of his Age.

THIS Monument was erected by his ſorrowful Widow.

He that ſoweth bountifully, ſhall reap bountifully, 2 Cor. ix. 6.

THIS Inſcription, it is ſaid, was compoſed by Dr. Fowler, ſome Time the good Biſhop of Gloceſter, who knew him well; and added the laſt Clauſe, which he uttered to him on his Death-Bed, becauſe he had been eſteemed to hold ſome Heterodox Opinions.

HERE are two Charity Schools in Bull-and-mouth-ſtreet; one for 50 Boys, and one for 40 Girls.

FROM this Church, Weſt to Newgate, is of this Ward.

NOW for the South Side of this Ward, beginning at where the Croſs in Cheapſide ſtood; from thence to Friday-ſtreet, and down that Street, on the Weſt Side, to the South Corner of St. Matthew's Church, is wholly of this Ward.

The PARISH of St. MATTHEW in FRIDAY-STREET.

ST. Matthew (to whom but this one Church in the City is dedicated) called alſo Levi, was, tho' a Roman Officer, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, and, probably, a Galilean, born at Nazareth, a City in the Tribe of Zebulun. He was the Son of Alpheus, and Mary, Siſter or Kinſwoman of the Bleſſed Virgin. His Trade, or Way of Life, was that of a Publican, or Toll-Gatherer, to the Romans; an Office of bad Report among the Jews: But among the Romans it was accounted a Place of Power and Credit, and honourable Reputation, not ordinarily conferred on any but Roman Knights.

OUR Lord having before cured a noted Paralytick, retired out of Capernaum, to walk by the Sea-Side, where he taught the People that flocked after him. Here he eſpied Matthew ſitting in his Cuſtom-Office, whom he called to come and follow him; which he immediately did, notwithſtanding he was rich, and had a wealthy and gainful Trade, which he muſt leave. He entertained our Lord and his Diſciples at a great Dinner, at his Houſe; where many Publicans and Sinners ſitting at Meat with him, and the Phariſees, thereupon, taking Occaſion to ſnarl at him; asked his Diſciples, Why their Maſter did eat with Publicans and Sinners, Perſons infamous to a Proverb? But he preſently replied upon them, That they that were whole needed not the Phyſician; and that he came not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance.

AFTER St. Matthew's Election to the Apoſtolate, he continued with the reſt 'till our Lord's Aſcenſion; and then, for the firſt eight Years, at leaſt, preached up and down Judea.

AFTER which, being to betake himſelf to the Converſion of the Gentile World, he was intreated by the Convert Jews, to commit to Writing the Hiſtory of our Saviour's Life and Actions, and leave it among them as a ſtanding Record of what he had preached to them; which he did accordingly, and ſo compoſed his Goſpel.

LITTLE Certainty can be had what Travels he underwent for the Advancement of the Chriſtian Faith. Æthiopia is generally aſſigned as the Province of his Apoſtolical Miniſtry, that is, the Aſiatick Æthiopia, lying near Judea; where, moſt probable it is, (as an antient Writer affirms) that he ſuffered Martyrdom at Naddaber, a City in that Country. [Dr. Cave's Life of St. Matthew.]

HIS Feſtival is yearly celebrated on the 21ſt Day of September.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners, in the Years 1632 and 1633; but ſharing the common Calamity by Fire in the Year 1666, it was rebuilt, and opened on the 29th of November 1685.

AS to the Building, it has a flat Roof covered with Lead; the Walls of the Church and Tower are Brick, the Window and Door-Caſes Stone, as is alſo the Front towards Friday-ſtreet, and the Floor is paved therewith. The Church has but two Iſles; but neither Pillar, nor any Part of Entablature, being very plain, and not ſo pleaſant as it would be, were the Houſes not built ſo high on each Side of it.

THE

THE Inſide is adorned with a Gallery at the Weſt End, having a neat Front, a Pulpit finely carved, with Enrichments of Arches, Shields, Vaſes, a Crown, Feſtoons, &c. and wainſcotted 10 Feet high, all fine Oak; and the three Door-Caſes, the Pews, and the Altar-Piece, are of the ſame Species of Timber.

THE laſt being adorned with two fluted Columns, their Entablature, and Compaſs Pediment, of the Corinthian Order; the Intercolumns are the Commandments in gilt Frames, and done in gold Letters on Black, under a Cherubim: Without the Columns, are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Black on Gold, each under a ſmall Triangular Pediment, where is placed on two Shields J. R. and the King's Arms (which Arms are alſo carved, gilt, and painted, being placed on the Front of the Gallery) and the whole Altar-Piece has Enrichments of four Lamps, alſo Feſtoons, Fruit, Leaves, &c. all of Oak; from which Altar the Font is placed directly Weſt.

Dimenſions are, Length 60 Feet, Breadth 33, Altitude 31; and that of the Tower 74 Feet, wherein is one Bell.

PART of Cheapſide; Part of St. Matthew's-alley, alias Fountain-court; Part of Friday-ſtreet, Angel-court, and Blue-boar-court.

NUMBER of Houſes 48 and a half.

IN this Pariſh of Friday-ſtreet, were three Houſes ſtanding together, all pertaining to Religious Houſes. The Middlemoſt was a Tenement inhabited by Robert Harding, Citizen and Goldſmith of LONDON, and ſome Time Sheriff; let to him for 30 Years, by the Prioreſs and Convent of St. Helen's, LONDON, for Five Marks Rent yearly, in the 9th Year of King Edward IV, Dame Alice Aſhfield the Prioreſs. Another Houſe on the Eaſt of it, belonged to the Houſe of St. Mary Overies in Southwark: That on the Weſt, to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's.

FROM this Friday-ſtreet, Weſt to the Old Exchange, a Street ſo called, from the King's Exchange, once there kept, which was for the Receipt of Bullion, to be coined. For Hen. III, in the 6th Year of his Reign, wrote to the Scabines, and Men of Ipre, that he and his Council had given Prohibition, that none, Engliſhmen, or other, ſhould make Change of Plate, or other Maſs of Silver, but only in his Exchange at LONDON, or at Canterbury. Andrew Bokerell then had to farm the Exchange of England, and was Mayor of LONDON in the Reign of Henry III. John Somercote had the keeping of the King's Exchange over all England. In the 8th of Edward I, Gregory Rokeſley was Keeper of the ſaid Exchange for the King. In the 5th of Edward II, William Hauſted was Keeper thereof. And in the 18th, Roger de Frowicke, &c.

THESE received the old Stamps, or Coining-Irons, from Time to Time, as the ſame were worn, and deliver'd new to all the Mints in England, as more at large, in another Place, is noted.

THIS Street begins at Cheapſide, in the North, and runs down South to Knight-riders-ſtreet, that Part of it which is call'd Old Fiſh-ſtreet: But the very Houſe and Office of the Exchange and Coinage, was about the Middle thereof.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Lane, betwixt Cheapſide, and the Church of St. Auguſtine, Henry Walleis, Mayor, by Licence of Edward I, built a Row of Houſes, the Profits ariſing from them to be employed on London-bridge.

The PARISH of St. AUGUSTINE.

IT is confidently believ'd, and not without probable Reaſon, that the Church of St. Auguſtine, (vulgarly call'd St. Auſtin's) near St. Paul's Cathedral in London, was (as likewiſe divers other Churches in England were) dedicated to the Memory, not of St. Auguſtine, Biſhop of Hippo, in Africa, that great and famous Father, called by ſome (and not unworthily) Doctor Doctorum; but rather of St. Auguſtine the Monk, the firſt Archbiſhop of Canterbury, in Relation to that peculiar Benefit, which this Nation, by his Means principally, under GOD, received in the firſt Converſion of the Engliſh Saxons to the Chriſtian Faith, which not without great Care and Pains (with GOD's Aſſiſtance) he did in a good Meaſure effect, converting firſt Ethelbert, King of the Kentiſh Saxons, and his People; by whoſe Example, afterwards, divers others alſo of this Nation were converted; and, therefore, with all reverend Reſpect, letting paſs that antient Holy Father, we ſhall proceed to ſpeak only in this Place of St. Auguſtine the Monk, to whom the aforeſaid Church of St. Auſtin is preſum'd, ſolely, to have been dedicated.

THIS Auguſtine, therefore, (as all Writers agree) was a Roman, and Head of the Monaſtery of St. Gregory at Rome, and of the Order of St. Benedict, ſent into England from Rome by Pope Gregory I, Anno Dom. 596, to convert the Engliſh Saxons to the Chriſtian Faith; which great Work he having begun, went out of England the next Year, An. 597, unto Arles in France, and by Eleutherius, Archbiſhop of that City, he was there ordained Archbiſhop of the Engliſh Nation the 16 Kal. of December; thence he returned into England, where the King confirm'd on him his Royal Palace at Canterbury, for his Epiſcopal Seat.

THIS Auguſtine afterwards (with the King's Approbation) removed the Archiepiſcopal See, which then was at LONDON, to Canterbury, where he himſelf was then, by Commiſſion from the Pope, conſecrated the firſt Archbiſhop of that new See, turning the Archbiſhoprick of LONDON into a Biſhoprick, whereof he conſecrated Melitus the firſt Biſhop, Anno Dom. 604.

IN Memory of this Archbiſhop, the Monaſtery at Canterbury, erected firſt by King Ethelbert, and this Archbiſhop Auguſtine, under the Name of St. Peter and St. Paul, was afterwards, by Archbiſhop Dunſtan, An. 978, dedicated to the Honour of St. Peter and St. Paul the Apoſtles, and to St. Auguſtine; and from thence called by the Name of St. Auguſtine's Monaſtery; which continued famous till the Suppreſſion of it by King Henry VIII.

CONCERNING the preciſe Year when Auguſtine died, Writers much diſagree; for ſome ſay he died in the Year 611, others in 608, and others in 614. His Body was buried, firſt without Doors, near to the Church of his Monaſtery, becauſe the Church was not finiſhed; but afterwards was removed into the North Porch of the ſaid Church. In which Place all the Bodies of the Archbiſhops following were laid till Theodore, who was firſt buried in the Church, becauſe the Porch was full. This Auguſtine is ſaid to have been a Man of exceeding tall Stature, well favour'd, and of a very amiable Countenance.

THIS Church (which is the only Parochial Church in this City dedicated to that Saint) ſtands on the Weſt End of Watling-ſtreet, on the North Side thereof, and in Records is called, Eccleſia Sancti Auguſtini ad Portam, becauſe it ſtood near the Gate that formerly gave Entrance into St. Paul's Church-yard out of Watling-ſtreet. It was partly rebuilt, and beautifully adorned, in the Years 1630 & 1631, at the Pariſh-Charge, which coſt 1200 l. but being conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, the Pariſh was united by Act of Parliament to that of St. Faith's, and this Church of St. Auguſtine new erected Anno Domini 1682. The Steeple was finiſhed 1695.

THE Roof is camerated, divided into Pannels, and adorned with Fret-work, as the Arches are with Cherubims; which Roof is ſupported with Pillars of the Ionic Order. The Church and Steeple are of Stone, the latter being a Tower with Acroteria, a Cupola, a Lanthorn adorned with Vaſes, and a Spire, whoſe lower Part is of a Parabolical Form.

ON the North and Weſt Side of the Church are Wainſcot Galleries, with the Ornament of Boleſtion Pannels, &c.

IT is well pewed and wainſcotted round with right Wainſcot eight Feet high. The Pulpit is alſo of the like Wainſcot, finely embelliſhed with Enrichments of carved Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, &c.

THE Altar-piece is ſpacious and beautiful, conſiſting of four Columns, with their Entablament of the Corinthian Order; above is a large arching Pediment, upon which is placed the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and painted in their proper Colours.

THE inner Columns are the Commandments, well done in Gold, upon Black, between the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, done in Gold Letters upon Blue; under the Pediment is a large Eleptical Figure or Space, wherein is (dexterouſly and lineally performed) a winged Heart, aſpiring and elevating towards a Glory, in Alluſion to that in the Holy Communion-Service, where the Miniſter ſays, Lift up your Hearts. The Communicants anſwer, We lift them up unto the Lord. In which Heart, are theſe Words in large Characters: SURSUM CORDA; all done in Gold on Blue, and adorned with Cherubims, Feſtoons, Fruit, &c. The Ornament-Enrichments are gilt with Gold, and the Whole encloſed with ſtrong Rail and Balliſter, within which the Pavement is white and black Marble.

THE Length of the Church is about 51 Feet, Breadth 45, and Height 30; and that of the Steeple (wherein is one Bell) is 145.

HERE was a Fraternity founded, Anno 1387, called, The Fraternity of St. Auſtin's in Watling-ſtreet, and other good People dwelling in the City. They were, on the Eve of St. Auſtin, to meet at the ſaid Church, and in the Morning, at High Maſs, every Brother to offer a Penny; and, after that, to be ready Al mangier, ou al revele; i. e. To eat, or to revel, according to the Ordinance of the Maſter and Wardens of the ſaid Fraternity. They ſet up in the Honour of GOD, and St. Auſtin, one Branch of ſix Tapers, in the ſaid Church, before the Image of St. Auſtin; and alſo two Torches; with which, if any of the ſaid Fraternity were commended to GOD, he might be carried to the Earth. They were to meet at the Vault at St. Paul's, [perhaps St. Faith's] and to go hence to the Church of St. Auſtin; and the Prieſts and the Clerks ſaid Placebo and Dilige; and in Mattins, a Maſs of Requiem, at the High Altar.

The CATHEDRAL CHURCH of St. PAUL.

ST. Paul, to whom the Principal Church of the City of LONDON is dedicated, was deſcended of the Tribe of Benjamin, born in the City of Tarſus, the Metropolis of Cilicia ; a City rich and populous, an Academy, and Roman Municipium. He came up to Jeruſalem, and there became a Diſciple of Gamaliel, a famous Phariſee. He was converted to the Faith of Chriſt, in that miraculous Manner which is ſet down in the Acts of the Apoſtles. He afterwards changed his Name of Saul to that of Paul, after he had openly converted and baptized the Proconſul Sergius Paulus, ſay ſome ; others, that he aſſumed that Name at his Converſion; and others, that he had a double Name given him at his Circumciſion, Saul, relating to his Jewiſh Original, and Paul, referring to the Roman Corporation where he was born. The Hiſtory of his St. Paul's Cathedral.

Travels and Preaching, down to his Impriſonment at Rome, is written by St. Luke in the Acts. We do not certainly know what he did after his Enlargement; ſome of the Antients were of Opinion that he went into Spain, but this is very uncertain, and the contrary ſeems to be more probable. Be that as it will, 'tis certain that he was beheaded afterwards at Rome, for his Religion, by Nero's Command, towards the 64th Year of the common Computation. He has written 14 Epiſtles, all which Antiquity has owned to be genuine and canonical, excepting the Epiſtle to the Hebrews; concerning which, there has been formerly ſome Doubt, and ſome Perſons have ſuppoſed, that it was written in Hebrew.

HIS Life has been written at large (among the Lives of the other Apoſtles) by the Reverend and Learned Dr. William Cave, publiſhed Anno 1676, who tells us, That the Place of his Execution was the Aquæ Salviæ, three Miles from Rome, where his Head was ſtruck off with a Sword; from which Inſtrument of his Execution, the Cuſtom, no doubt, firſt aroſe of picturing him with a Sword in his Right Hand. He was buried in the Via Oſtienſis, about two Miles from Rome, over whoſe Grave, about the Year 318, Conſtantine the Great, at the Inſtance of Pope Sylveſter, built a ſtately Church; which afterwards, as too narrow and little for the Honour of ſo great an Apoſtle, Valentinian, or rather Theodoſius, the Emperor, cauſed to be taken down, and a larger and more noble to be built in the Room of it.

AS to his Perſon, we find it thus deſcribed: He was little and of low Stature, and ſomewhat ſtooping, his Complexion fair, his Countenance grave, his Head ſmall, his Eyes carrying a kind of Beauty and Sweetneſs in them, his Eyebrows a little hanging over, his Noſe long, but gracefully bending, his Beard thick, and like the Hair of his Head, mixt with grey Hairs.

THERE are three Feſtivals celebrated in Memory of St. Paul. The firſt is of his Converſion, which is held yearly the 25th of January; and tho' formerly it was not reckon'd among the Holidays obſerved by the Reformed Church of England, yet Services were appointed to be celebrated in the Church on that Day, and an eſpecial Collect, with an Epiſtle and Goſpel, ſet down in the Book of Common-Prayer for that Feſtival. But ſince the Reſtoration of King Charles II, viz. in the 14th of his Reign, Anno Dom. 1662, this Feſtival of St. Paul (with that of St. Barnabas) are required to be celebrated as Holidays, by the Act of Uniformity, which eſtabliſhes the Book of Common-Prayer, as now uſed with all its Additions and Alterations.

THE ſecond is that of St. Paul and St. Peter, celebrated June 29, in Memory of both their Paſſions, which fell on that Day together, and by ſome is called Bis Feſta Dies.

THE third is of the Paſſion, or Commemoration of St. Paul alone, celebrated on the 30th of June, for this Reaſon, becauſe the Biſhop of Rome was wont, upon one and the ſame Day, to officiate his Pontifical Offices in both Churches, viz. in that of the Vatican, and that of St. Paul: But when it appeared that this could not well be performed, by reaſon of the too far Diſtance of the Places one from the other, without too much, and almoſt intolerable Labour, it was thought better, that on the firſt Day the Solemnity of them both ſhould be celebrated in the Vatican Church, and the next Day following the ſame Duties ſhould be performed in the Church of St. Paul, in which Place might be more fully compleated, what in that behalf might fortune to be omitted on the Day before.

THIS ſtately Church of St. Paul ſtands in or near the Place where once had been a Temple of Diana, the Goddeſs, worſhipped by the Londoners, as Apollo was by the People of Thorney, or Weſtminſter. This appeared from the Tuſks of Boars, Horns of Stags, and of Oxen, and from the Repreſentation of Deer, and even of Diana herſelf, upon the ſacrificing Veſſels found in digging the Foundation of it, which was began by Ethelbert, King of Kent, about the Year of Chriſt 610. He gave thereto Lands, as appears by Records: "Ædelbertus, Rex, Deo inſpirante, pro animæ ſuæ remedio, dedit Epiſcopo Melito terram quæ appellatur Tillingeham, ad Monaſterii ſui ſolatium, ſcilicet, S. Pauli, & ego Rex Ædelbertus ita firmiter concedo tibi præſuli Melito poteſtatem ejus habendi & poſſidendi, ut in perpetuum in Monaſterii utilitate permaneat, &c." Athelſtan, Edgar, Edward the Confeſſor, and others, alſo gave Lands thereunto.

THE Manor of Tillingham, which King Ethelbred gave, was in Eſſex. Erkenwald, the fourth Biſhop of LONDON from Melitus, beſtowed great Coſt in the building of the Church, and augmented the Revenues much with his own Eſtate; and beſides, procured divers ample Privileges thereto from the Pope, and from the Kings that then reigned. Kenred, King of the Mercians, granted this Church, that it ſhould at all Times be as free as himſelf deſired to be at the Day of Judgment. King Athelſtane endowed it with divers Lordſhips, viz. Sandon, Rode, Luffenhale, Bylcham, Edulfeſneſſe, and Neuſdune, in the County of Eſſex; Erdelyne and Cardingdone, in Hertfordſhire; Drayton and Willeſdon, in Middleſex, and Barnes in Surry. King Edgar gave Naveſtocke, in Eſſex. Queen Egelſtede, his Wife, Lageſare and Cochamſtede. King Edward the Confeſſor, gave the Lordſhips of Chingford and Barlings, in Eſſex. Ediva, a Noble Woman, gave Wiggele. And William the Conqueror gave to the Church of St. Paul, and to Mauricius, then Biſhop, and his Succeſſors, the Caſtle of Stortford, with the Appurtenances, &c. He alſo confirmed the Gifts of his Predeceſſors, in theſe Words, "Omne I. "Rex Angl. Clamo quietas in perpetuum, 24 Hi"das quas Rex Æthelbert dedit S. Paulo juxta "murum LONDON. &c.

THE Charter of King William the Conqueror, given to the Church of St. Paul in LONDON, exemplified in the Tower, the Latin thereof Engliſhed thus:

WILLAIM, by the Grace of God, King of Engliſhmen, to all his well-beloved French and Engliſh People, Greeting. Know ye, that I do give unto God, and the Church of Saint Paul of LONDON, and to the Rectors and Servitors of the ſame, in all their Lands which the Church hath, or ſhall have, within Borough, and without Sack and Sock, Thole and The, Infangtheefe, and Grithbricke, and all free Ships by Sea, and by Land, on Tide and off Tide, and all the Rights that into them Chriſtendome by rad and more ſpeake, and on Buright hamed, and on Buright worke, afore all the Biſhopricks in mine Land, and on each other Man's Land. For I will, that the Church in all Things be as free, as I would my Soule to be in the Day of Judgment.

Witneſſes, Oſmond, our Chancellor, Lanfrank, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Thomas Archbiſhop of York, Roger Earl of Salisbury, Alane, the County, Geffrey de Magna Villa, and Raphe Peverel.

THIS Charter is beſt underſtood by Domſday Book (ſays Biſhop Stillingfleet, ſome Time Dean Dean of this Church) wherein a particular Account is given of the Lands then held by the Canons of St. Paul's; which, for the moſt Part, are the ſame they enjoy to this Day. See there the particular Lands given by Saxon Kings to St. Paul's.

THAT all might underſtand the full Proportions of this famous Church, upon a fair Table, which did heretofore hang up on the North Part of the Choir, was written in a fair Character, as followeth:

The Dimenſions of this ſtately Church, as they were taken in the Year 1314.

The Length of the Church, from Eaſt to Weſt, 690 Feet.

The Breadth, 130 Feet.

The Height of the Roof of the Weſt Part, from the Floor, 102 Feet.

The Height of the Roof of the new Fabrick, (viz. Eaſt from the Steeple) from the Pavement, 88 Feet.

The Height of the Body of the Church, 150 Feet.

The Height of the Tower Steeple, from the level Ground, 260 Feet.

The Height of the Spire of Wood, covered with Lead, 274 Feet.

AND yet the Whole, viz. Tower and Spire, exceeded not 520 Feet; the Reaſon is, for that the Height of the Stone-work of the Tower, from the Ground, to the Timber upon which the Spire was raiſed, was not 260 Feet, but 240 Feet; the other 14 Feet being the Wall and Battlements above the Timbers on which the Spire was raiſed, and ſo the Height of both together will be but 520 Feet.

THE Ball above the Head of the Spire was ſo large, that it would contain within it ten Buſhels of Corn.

THE Length of the Croſs, above the ſaid Ball, was 15 Feet.

THE Traverſe of the ſaid Croſs, 6 Feet.

THE Quantity of Ground on which the Church ſtood, contained 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 26 Poles or Perches, without the Body of the Church. But within the Verge or Precinct of the Church-yard, which Richard Beaumor intended to incompaſs with a Wall, there were ſeveral other Places which related to the Church, as namely theſe following:

1. The College of Petty Canons.
2. Pardon Church-yard.
3. The Library.
4. Sherington's Chapel.
5. Holmes's College.
6. Jeſus Chapel.
7. The Charnel-Houſe.
8. The Cloiſters, or Bell-Tower.
9. The Croſs.

OF all which Places, Notice ſhall be taken in due Order.

IN the Year 1087, this Church of St. Paul was burnt with Fire, and therewith the greateſt Part of the City. Which Fire began at the Entry of the Weſt Gate, and conſumed to the Eaſt Gate. Mauricius, then Biſhop, began therefore the Foundation of a new Church of St. Paul; a Work, that Men of that Time judged would never have been finiſhed, it was to them ſo wonderful for Length and Breadth; and alſo the ſame was built upon Arches, or Vaults of Stone, for Defence of Fire: Which was a Manner of Work, before that Time, unknown to the People of this Nation, and then brought in by the French; and the Stone was fetched from Cane in Normandy. This Mauricius deceaſed in the Year 1107.

Richard Beaumor [or Belmeis] ſucceeded him in the Biſhoprick, who did wonderfully increaſe the ſaid Church, purchaſing (of his own Coſt) the large Streets and Lanes about it, wherein were wont to dwell many Lay-people: Which Ground he began to encompaſs about with a ſtrong Wall of Stone, and Gates. King Henry I gave to the ſaid Richard, ſo much of the Mote, or Wall, of the Caſtle on the Thames Side, to the South, as ſhould be needful to make the ſaid Wall of, and ſo much as ſhould ſuffice to make a Wall without the Way, on the North Side, &c.

THIS Patent of King Henry, (viz. Henry I.) was as followeth:

HEnricus Dei Gratia, Rex Anglie, Archiepiſcopis & Epiſcopis & Comitibus Anglie, & Hugoni de Bochalanda, & omnibus Baronibus, & Fidelibus ſuis Francis & Anglis de London, & de Middleſex, & de tota Anglia ſalutem. Sciatis, &c. i. e. "Know ye that I have "given to GOD, and the Church of St. Paul's "London, and Richard Biſhop of the ſame "Church, ſo much of the Ditch of my Caſtle "on the Thames Side, Southward, as ſhall be "needful to make the Wall of the ſaid Church; "and ſo much of the ſame Ditch as may ſuffice "to make a Way without the Wall. And on "the other Part of the Church, Northward, as "the ſame Biſhop hath deſtroyed of the ſame "Ditch." Witneſs, Roger Biſhop of Salisbury, and Roman Chancellor, and Giſlebert de Aquila, at Pordeſmund, on the Birth-Day of St. Hippolitus, Martyr. This Letter the Dean and Chapter produced to King Edward I. his Juſtices, upon a Preſentment againſt them, for appropriating to themſelves certain Ground thereabouts. But to this the Commonalty ſaid, "That "the King's Father granted as much as in him "was to the ſaid Dean and Chapter, that they "might incloſe their Church-yard, as is aforeſaid. But this ought not to prejudice the ſaid "Commonalty in this Behalf. And that becauſe there was not an Inquiſition upon this "made, as the Cuſtom is, Whether this Grant "would not be prejudicial and damageable to "the whole City. For they ſaid, That the "whole Soil, between the Gate called St. Auſtine's Gate, near the ſaid Church, and the "Gate on the Weſt Part of the ſaid Church, "towards Ludgate, is High-ſtreet, and the "King's Highway of the aforeſaid City. Whereof a great Part, by the raiſing of the Wall of "the Eaſt, and the building of the Houſes by "the ſaid Dean and Chapter, is now incloſed, "and the King's High-ſtreet much ſtreightened, "to the great Damage of the whole City.

TO this muſt be added, that it is true there was long before Conteſt between the Church of St. Paul's, and the Lords of Baynard's Caſtle, about their Bounds here. There was one Euſtathius, Earl of Boloign, who became Poſſeſſor of Baynard's Caſtle. Which Earl (as the Dean and Chapter ſhewed) Anno 1106, permitted and granted Omnes Calumpnias, i. e. all Claims which he had upon the Lands, which one Maurice, Biſhop of LONDON, aſſerted to be of the Church-yard of St. Paul's, LONDON; and upon all other Lands which were within the Walls of the ſaid Church-yard, to be quit to GOD and St. Paul, from the ſaid Earl and his Heirs for ever; and this by a certain Charter, which they produced under the Name of the ſaid Earl.

IT ſhould ſeem, that this Richard incloſed but two Sides of the ſaid Church or Cemitery of St. Paul, to wit, the South and North Sides:

For King Edward II. in the 10th of his Reign, granted that the ſaid Church-Yard ſhould be incloſed with a Wall, where it wanted, on Account of the Murders and Robberies that were there committed.

BUT the Citizens then claimed the Eaſt Part of the Church-Yard, to be the Place of Aſſembly to their Folk-Motes; and that the great Steeple, there ſituate, was to that Uſe, their common Bell, which being there rung, all the Inhabitants of the City might hear and come together. They alſo claimed the Weſt Side, that they might there aſſemble themſelves together, with the Lord of Baynard's Caſtle, for View of their Armour, in Defence of the City. This Matter was, in the Tower of LONDON, referred to Harvius de Stanton, and other Juſtices Itinerantes; but the Deciſion, or Judgment of that Controverſy, is not yet known.

CONCERNING the walling of this Church-Yard round, King Henry III. granted by his Letters Patents, for the King and his Heirs, that the Dean and Chapter might incloſe the Church-Yard of the ſaid Cathedral Church, and the Precinct, with a Stone Wall round about; and ſo incloſed, might hold it to them and their Heirs for ever: Which Grant, the ſaid King's Son, King Edward, confirmed by his Charter, among other Liberties of the ſaid Church.

TRUE it is, that Edward III. in the 17th of his Reign, gave Commandment for the finiſhing of that Wall, which was then performed. And ſo continued to Stow's Time, although on both the Sides, (viz. within and without) it was hidden with Dwelling-Houſes.

Richard Beaumor, deceaſed in the Year 1127, and his Succeſſors, (in Proceſs of Time) performed the Work begun.

IT had again a great Damage by Fire on December 22, in the 1ſt of King Stephen, 1135; but Richard Fitzneale, Biſhop of LONDON, in the Reign of Richard I. was at vaſt Charge, and great Care, to reſtore it.

SOME Years after, they began with the Steeple, which was finiſhed in the Year 1221, or 1222; and then going on with the Choir, it was finiſhed in 1240, as may ſeem by the new Dedication of it in that very Year, which was done with great Solemnity: Roger, ſirnamed Niger, then Biſhop of LONDON, being the chief Promoter thereof. Matthew Paris will have this Dedication to have been in 1242.

THE moſt of the Charge of carrying on ſo great a Work, was by Way of Indulgences; by which Means the Roof alſo of the old Structure, then in a ruinous Condition, was now made new, or ſubſtantially repaired.

THE farther Enlargement of this Church, long before intended, being the whole Extent of that which lately bore the Name of St. Faith's Church, began Anno 1256, (ſome ſay, 1251.) and the Croſs Iſles, was likewiſe carried on by the Indulgences, and the main of the Work was accompliſhed about the Year 1283.

Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, was a great Benefactor to that Part of it then called The new Work, as was alſo Ralph de Baldock, whilſt Dean, and afterwards, when Biſhop of LONDON, who was buried there: The firſt in St. Dunſtan's Chapel, which was at the Eaſt End of the South Iſle; and the latter in that Part of the new Work, which was called our Lady's Chapel.

ABOUT the Year 1312, was the Pavement of the new Work made of good and firm Marble; and within three Years after, a great Part of the Spire (which was Timber covered with Lead) being weak, and in Danger of falling, was taken down, and a new Croſs, with a Pomel well gilt, ſet on the Top thereof. In which Croſs the Reliques of divers Saints were put by Gilbert de Segrave, then Biſhop of LONDON, with great and ſolemn Proceſſion, on the 22th of October.

ON Candlemas Eve, in the Year 1444, about two o'Clock in the Afternoon, the Steeple of St. Paul's was fired by Lightning, in the Middle of the Shaft, or Spire, both on the Weſt Side, and on the South; but by Labour of many well diſpoſed People, the ſame (to Appearance) quenched with Vinegar; ſo that all Men withdrew themſelves to their Houſes, praiſing GOD: But between eight and nine o'Clock in the ſame Night, the Fire burſt out again, more fervently than before, and did much Hurt to the Lead and Timber; 'till by the great Labour of the Mayor and People that came thither, it was throughly quenched.

THIS Steeple was repaired in the Year 1462, and the Weather-cock again erected; but one Robert Godwin winding it up, the Rope broke, and he was deſtroyed on the Pinnacles, and the Cock was much bruiſed; but Burchwood, (the King's Plummer) ſet it up again. Since which Time, wanting Reparation, it was both taken down and ſet up in the Year 1553; it then weighed 40 Pounds. At which Time it was found to be of Copper, gilt over; and the Length, from the Tail to the Bill, being four Feet, and the Breadth over the Wings three Feet and a half. The Croſs, from the Bole to the Eagle (Cock) was 15 Feet and ſix Inches of Aſſize; the Length thereof, overthwart, was five Feet and ten Inches, and the Compaſs of the Bole was nine Feet and one Inch. The inner Body of this Croſs was Oak, the next Cover was Lead, and the outermoſt was of Copper, red varniſhed. The Bole and Eagle, or Cock, were of Copper, and gilt alſo.

SOMEWHAT above the Stone-Work of the Steeple was a fair Dial, for which there was Order taken in the 18th of Edward III. that it ſhould be made with all Splendor imaginable: Which was accordingly done, having the Image of an Angel pointing to the Hour, both of the Day and Night.

IN this Steeple were ſolemn Anthems ſung in former Times; when on ſome Saints Days, and ſome ſpecial Times of the Year, the Choir went up into the Steeple, and at a great Height chanted forth their Oriſons. Which Practice, a Writer in thoſe Times ſharply animadverted upon: "For their climbing up to the Top of "the Steeple, to ſing their Anthems, I demand "of them to ſhew a Reaſon, if there be any, "why it was done there, rather than on the "Ground? And why on ſuch Saints Days, rather than on others? And why that Time of "the Year, rather than others? When Baal's "Prieſts began to call on their Gods, and he "would not hear them; Elias ſaid, Cry louder, "peradventure your God is buſy; he is chaſing "his Enemy from home, or aſleep. So untill ye "find a better Argument, I am content freely "to lend you this; that ye may frankly ſay, ye "go up to the Top of the Steeple, to call on "your God, that he may the more eaſily hear "you ſtanding ſo high, &c.

THE College of Petty Canons there, was founded by King Richard II. in Honour of Queen Anne his Wife, and of her Progenitors, in the 17th of his Reign. Their Hall and Lands were then given unto them, as appears by the Patent, Mr. Robert Dokeſworth then being Maſter thereof.

IN the Year 1408, the Petty Canons then building their College, the Mayor and Commonalty granted them their Water-Courſes, and other Eaſements.

THERE

THERE was alſo one great Cloiſter on the North Side of this Church, inviroṅing a Plat of Ground, of old Time called Pardon Church-yard, whereof Thomas More, Dean of St. Paul's, was either the firſt Builder, or a moſt eſpecial Benefactor, and was buried there.

ABOUT this Cloiſter was artificially and richly painted the Dance of Machabray, or Dance of Death, commonly called the Dance of Paul's; the like whereof was painted about St. Innocent's at Paris in France. The Metres or Poeſy of this Dance, were tranſlated out of French into Engliſh, by John Lidgate, Monk of Bury; and with the Picture of Death leading all Eſtates, painted about the Cloiſter, at the ſpecial Requeſt and Expence of Jenken Carpenter, in the Reign of King Henry VI. In this Cloiſter were buried many Perſons of Worſhip and Honour; the Monuments for whom, in Number and curious Workmanſhip, ſurpaſſed all others in the Church.

OVER the Eaſt Quadrant of this Cloiſter was a handſome Library, built at the Charge of Walter Sherington, Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, in the Reign of Henry VI. which was once well furniſhed with many fair written Books on Vellum; but few of them were remaining in Stow's Time.

IN the Middle of this Pardon Church-yard was alſo a fair Chapel, firſt founded by Gilbert Becket, Portgrave, and Principal Magiſtrate of this City, in the Reign of King Stephen, who was there buried. Thomas More, Dean of St. Paul's before-named, re-edified this Chapel, and founded three Chaplains there, in the Reign of Henry V.

Mr. Strype gives us the following Will of a Perſon deſiring to be buried in this Pardon Church-yard, or Haw.

IN the Name of God the Fader, Sonne, and Hooly Goſt, three Perſonys and one God, Amen. I, John Hoterſal, Notary and Stationer of LONDON, holle of Mynde, thanked be Almighty God; vandering and labouring in this wretched World, whos end is Deth temporal, the which is very certeyn, and nothing more uncerteyn then is the Owre of Deth. Wylling therefore to diſpoſe ſuyche Goodis, &c. make therefore and ordeyn and conſtitute this my preſent Teſtament, &c. Firſt, I bequeath my Soulle unto Almighty God my Creator, Savyour and Redeemer, to his moſt bleſſid Moder, St. Mary Virgin, Quene of Heven, Ladye of al the World, and Empreſſe of Helle; and to al the Angelis and Saintis of Hevyn: And my Bodie to be buryed in Pardon Chirch Hawe, of the Cathedral Church of St. Pawle, LONDON, &c. Alſo I wil, as ſoon conveniently as it may be, &c. that there be ordeyned a Marble Stone of two Foot ſquare, or thereabouts, &c. the which Stone I wil that there be graved the Ymages, Signes and Scripturies, drawn and written in Paper, involved and lapped within this my preſent Teſtament. Yeven this laſt Day of Jan. 1492.

Walter Caketon, Citizen and Sector, LONDON, by his Will, dated Decemb. 1, 1429, gives to John Croxton, Chaplain, Richard Pepyn, Chaplain, and John Lombe, Chaplain of the Chantry in the Chapel in the Church-Yard of St. Paul's, called Pardon Church Hawe, in Honour of St. Anne and St. Thomas the Martyr, lately built by Thomas More, Clerk, thoſe his three Tenements, with Shops, &c. in the Pariſh of St. Martin's Ludgate, &c. to have the three ſaid Tenements, to the three ſaid Chaplains of the aforeſaid Chantry, and their Succeſſors for ever, to maintain one other fit Chaplain, viz. a fourth Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices in the ſaid Chapel.

In the Year 1549, on the 10th of April, the ſaid Chapel, by Commandment of the Duke of Somerſet, was begun to be pulled down, with the whole Cloiſter, the Dance of Death, the Tombs and Monuments; ſo that nothing there was left but the bare Plat of Ground, which was afterwards converted into a Garden of the Petty Canons.

THERE was alſo a Chapel at the North Door of St. Paul's, founded by the ſame Walter Sherington, by Licence of Henry VI. for two, three, or four Chaplains; endowed with 40 l. by the Year. This Chapel alſo was pulled down in the Reign of Edward VI. and in place thereof a fair Houſe built.

WITHIN this Church of St. Paul's were many Chapels dedicated to Saints, both Male and Female; here was a Chapel of the Bleſſed Virgin St. Mary, and another of St. Catharine, with Guilds founded in them.

William Perſival, and William Kyrton, Miniſtering Keepers of the Guild of the Annuntiation of the Bleſſed Mary, in her Chapel here, came before the Council of their Lord the King, in his Chancery at Weſtminſter, Feb. the 1ſt, 12 Rich. II. 1389, according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made in the City of LONDON, viz. for all the Guilds to bring into the Chancery, before the King, an Account of their Foundation and Conſtitution.

Robert de Lynne and John Selbery, Citizens of LONDON, & Cuſtodes ſervitii ac Fraternitatis S. Catharinæ ejuſdem infra Eccleſiam S. Pauli, LONDON. Virtute, &c. i. e. And Keepers of the Service and Guild of St. Catharine, in her Chapel within the Church of St. Paul; by Virtue of certain Letters of their Lord the King, directed to the Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, and proclaimed in the City, &c. they have in Writing this Account of the ſame, viz. That it was begun An. 1352, to keep up one burning Wax-Light in the ſaid Chapel, to the Honour of St. Mary the Virgin, St. Catharine, and all Saints. And ſo that Devotion was continued to the 36th of King Edward III. at which Time the Devotion of the ſaid Brothers and Siſters, and others flowing to it, ſo increaſed and multiplied, that they ordered among themſelves to have one Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices for the State, and the Souls aforeſaid, and of all Faithful deceaſed, &c.

THERE was furthermore a fair Chapel of the Holy Ghoſt in St. Paul's Church, on the North Side, founded in the Year 1400, by Roger Holmes, Chancellor and Prebendary of St. Paul's, for Adam Bery, Alderman and Mayor of LONDON, 1364. John Wingham, and others, for ſeven Chaplains, and called Holmes's College. Their common Hall was in St. Paul's Church-Yard, on the South Side, near unto a Carpenter's Yard. This College was, with others, ſuppreſſed in the Reign of Edward VI.

THEN under the Choir of St. Paul's, is a large Chapel, firſt dedicated to the Name of Jeſu, founded, or rather confirmed, the 27th of Henry VI. as appears by his Patent thereof, dated at Crowdowne, to this Effect:

MANY Liege-Men, and Chriſtian People, having begun a Fraternity and Guild to the Honour and moſt glorious Name of JESU CHRIST, our Saviour, in a Place called the Crowds, of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in LONDON; which hath continued long Time peaceably, till now of late. Whereupon they have made Requeſt, and we have taken upon us the Name and Charge of the Foundation, to the Laud of Almighty God, the Father, the Son, and and the Holy Ghoſt; and eſpecially to the Honour of Jeſu, in whoſe Honour the Fraternity was begun, &c.

THE King ordained William Say, then Dean of St. Paul's, to be the Rector; and Richard Ford, (a Remembrancer in the Exchequer) and Henry Bennis, (Clerk of his Privy Seal) the Guardians of theſe Brothers and Siſters. They, and their Succeſſors, to have a common Seal, Licence to purchaſe Lands or Tenements, to the Value of 40 l. by the Year, &c.

THIS Foundation was confirmed by Henry VII, the 22d of his Reign, to Dr. Collet, then Dean of St. Paul's, Rector there, &c. and by Henry VIII, the 27th of his Reign, to Richard Pace, then Dean of St. Paul's, &c.

AT the Weſt End of this Jeſus Chapel, under the Choir of St. Paul's, was the Pariſh-Church of St. Faith, commonly called St. Faith under St. Paul's; of which more hereafter.

THEN was there on the North Side of this Church-yard, a large Charnel-Houſe for the Bones of the Dead; and over it a Chapel of an old Foundation, ſuch as followeth:

IN the Year 1282, the 10th of Edward I, it was agreed, That Henry Walleis, Mayor, and the Citizens, for the Cauſe of Shops by them built, without the Wall of the Church-yard, ſhould aſſign to GOD, and to the Church of St. Paul, ten Marks of Rent by the Year, for ever, towards the new building of a Chapel of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary; and alſo to aſſign five Marks of yearly Rent to a Chaplain, to celebrate there.

THERE was alſo in this Chapel two Brotherhoods.

ONE of them was called, The Fraternity of All Souls, in the Chapel upon the Charnel, founded 1379. This Chapel, in the Reign of Richard II, was gone into great Decay; and from the Time of the Foundation of it, ſo little had been done in keeping it up, that it became very ruinous, the Windows broken to Pieces, and the Altar full of Filth and Cobwebs. "So "that none of the Chaplains of divers Chantries, "ordained in the ſame Chapel by Nobles, and "Perſons of Quality of the City, could ſing "there for their Souls for whom they were ap-"pointed, and had Charge, to the great Shame "of all the City." Whereupon the moſt excellent and moſt benign Lord, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, in a Sermon made by him at St. Paul's Croſs, declared the Ruin and Decay of all the ſaid Chapel; and at the Honour of GOD, and his Mother, and of all Saints of Heaven, and of all Chriſtian Souls, together with a great Pardon to all the Aiders thereof, he occaſioned a Fraternity of All Souls, in Relief of the ſaid Chapel. For certain good People of the ſaid City, having Conſideration of the ſaid Chapel to the Honour of GOD, &c. ordained a Chaplain to ſing for the Souls of all Chriſtians, and repaired the Chapel well and decently, furniſhing it with divers Ornaments, Veſtments, Chalices, and other Neceſſaries, to the Honour of GOD and Holy Church: And that the Chaplains which had Chantries in the ſaid Chapel, ſhould return to the ſaid Chapel, and there perform their Service, each one for the Souls for which they were bound; ſo that three or four Maſſes might be ſung from Day to Day in the ſaid Chapel. And at their Coſt the ſame Chapel was amended and repaired. On theſe Conſiderations, this Brotherhood of All Souls petitioned the Lord Chancellor, in Richard the Second's Days, "That it would "pleaſe his moſt noble and moſt ſage Reverence, "upon the Points before ſaid, and becauſe that "for the Sermon made by their moſt excellent "Father in GOD the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, "the ſaid Fraternity had been founded, and ſo "to this Day had been continued, and not other-"wiſe, to have Conſideration to the Foundation "of the ſaid Fraternity; that it might not be "aboliſhed, for GOD, and for the Souls of their "moſt noble Progenitors, and in the Work of "Charity." The Reaſon of this Supplication was, becauſe 12 Rich. II, an Account of all the Guilds in LONDON were required to be brought in before the King, at the Chancery.

THIS Fraternity, on the Eve of All Souls, met together in the Chapel over the Charnel-Houſe, and there Placebo and Dirige was ſaid, with the other Oriſons, for the Souls of all Faithful departed. On the Day of All Souls, at Morning Prayer, when the Bell rung at Seven o'Clock, they came together to the Church of Holy Trinity, near Aldgate, and ſo from that Place, with a grave Pace, they walk to the aforeſaid Chapel, numbering their Prayers as they went along, and their ſecret Oriſons; pouring them out vultu cordiali, with a ſerious Countenance, for the Living and the Dead. And when they had finiſhed that Journey, they attended one Maſs for the Dead, moſt devoutly. At which Maſs, the Brothers and Siſters honourably performed Oblations; and ſo returned home.

MOREOVER, in the Year 1430, the 8th of Henry VI. Licence was granted to Jenkin Carpenter, (Executor to Richard Whittington) to eſtabliſh upon the ſaid Charnel, a Chaplain, to have eight Marks by the Year.

IN this Chapel were buried Robert Barton, and Henry Barton, Mayor, and Thomas Mirſin, Mayor, all Skinners, and were intombed with their Images of Alabaſter over them, grated or coped about with Iron, before the ſaid Chapel; all which was pulled down in the Year 1549. The Bones of the Dead, couched up in a Charnel under the Chapel, were conveyed from thence into Finsbury Field, (by Report of him who paid for the Carriage) amounting to more than one thouſand Cart-loads; and there laid in a mooriſh Ground, in ſhort Space after raiſed by Soilage of the City, upon them to bear three Wind-Mills. The Chapel and Charnel were converted into Dwelling-houſes, Ware-houſes, and Sheds for Stationers, built before it, in the Place of the Tombs.

IN the Eaſt Part of this Church-yard, ſtands Paul's School, which hath been already treated of, Book I, Chap. XIII.

NEAR this School, on the North Side thereof, was (of old Time) a Clochier, or Bell-houſe, four-ſquare, built of Stone, and in the ſame, a moſt ſtrong Frame of Timber, with four Bells. Theſe were called Jeſus Bells, and belonged to Jeſus Chapel. The ſame had a great Spire of Timber, covered with Lead, with the Image of St. Paul on the Top; but was pulled down by Sir Miles Partridge, Kt. in the Reign of Henry VIII. The common Report then was, that he did ſet 100 l. upon a Caſt at Dice againſt it, and ſo won the ſaid Clochier and Bells of the King. And then cauſing the Bells to be broken as they hung, the reſt was pulled down, and broken alſo. This Man was afterwards executed on Tower-hill, for Matters concerning the Duke of Somerſet, in the Year 1551, the 5th of Edward VI.

IN Place of this Clochier, of old Time, the common Bell of the City was uſed to be rung, for the Aſſembly of the Citizens to the Folk-mote, as is before ſhewn.

ABOUT the Midſt of this Church-yard was a Pulpit-croſs of Timber, mounted upon Steps of Stone, and covered with Lead; in which were Sermons preached by Learned Divines, every Sunday in the Forenoon. The very Antiquity thereof is unknown. Paul's Croſs.

BUT,

BUT in the Year 1259, King Henry III. commanded a General Aſſembly to be made at the Croſs; where he, in proper Perſon, commanded the Mayor, that on the next Day following he ſhould cauſe to be ſworn before the Aldermen, every Stripling of 12 Years of Age, or upwards, to be true to the King and his Heirs, Kings of England.

ALSO in the Year 1262, the ſame King cauſed to be read at St. Paul's Croſs, a Bull obtained from Pope Urban IV. as an Abſolution for him, and for all that were ſworn to maintain the Articles made in Parliament at Oxford.

ALSO in the Year 1296, the Dean of St. Paul's accurſed, at Paul's Croſs, all thoſe which had ſearched in the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields, for an Hord of Gold.

THIS Pulpit-Croſs was, by Tempeſt of Lightning and Thunder, defaced, but rebuilt by Thomas Kempe, Biſhop of LONDON.

IN foul and rainy Weather, theſe ſolemn Sermons were preached in a Place called The Shrowds. Which was, as it ſeems, by the Side of the Cathedral Church, where was Covering and Shelter. Long after, both the Croſs and Shrowds were diſuſed, and the Sermons preached in the Cathedral itſelf, called St. Paul's Croſs Sermons.

FOR the better Maintenance of theſe St. Paul's Croſs Sermons, whither the Court, as well as the Mayor and Aldermen, and chief Citizens uſed to reſort, many were liberal Benefactors; as Aylmer, Biſhop of LONDON, Counteſs Dowager of Shrewsbury, Thomas Ruſſell, and George Biſhop, who gave 10 l. a Year, &c. And for further Encouragement of thoſe Preachers, in the Year 1607, the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen then ordered, that every one that ſhould preach there, (conſidering the Journies ſome of them might take, from the Univerſities, or elſewhere) ſhould, at his Pleaſure, be freely entertained for five Days Space, with ſweet convenient Lodging, Fire, Candle, and all other Neceſſaries, viz. from Thurſday before their Day of Preaching, to Thurſday Morning following. This Proviſion took good Effect; and this good Cuſtom long continued, and the Biſhop of LONDON, or his Chaplain, when he ſent to any one to preach, did uſually ſignify the Place whither he might repair at his coming up, and be entertained freely. Towards this Charge of the City, George Palin, a Merchant of LONDON, gave 200 l. that is, towards the bearing of the Charges of ſuch as ſhould from Time to Time, come to preach at the Croſs.

IN the Year 1561, the 4th of June, betwixt the Hours of three and four o'Clock in the Afternoon, the great Spire of the Steeple of St. Paul's Church was fired by Lightning. Which broke forth (as it ſeemed) two or three Yards beneath the Foot of the Croſs; and from thence it burnt downwards from the Spire, to the Battlements, Stone-Work, and Bells, ſo furiouſly, that within the Space of four Hours the ſame Steeple, with the Roof of the Church, were conſumed. Mr. Fuller relates a Story of the Sexton's burning it wilfully, by his own Confeſſion; but little Credit is due to it, ſince we ſee this Steeple was more than once burnt by Lightning, and Authors of more Antiquity and Credit than himſelf are ſilent in that Particular.

SOON after this diſmal Caſualty, the Dean of St. Paul's preached at the Croſs, where he ſeemed to glance at ſome of the Papiſts in thoſe Days, who muttered it about, that this was a Judgment for ſetting up a new Religion at St. Paul's. But theſe Fryars were no more than were in former Days under Popery. He ſhewed out of the Records of their Church (of St. Paul's) and the City, that in the Year 1382, May 21, with a great Earthquake through the Realm, the Croſs in St. Paul's Church-Yard was overthrown, in the 6th Year of King Richard II. He added, (to ſhew the Deceits of thoſe Times, and the Guides of the Church then) that to the Building of the Croſs again, William, the Biſhop of Canterbury, gathered great Sums of Money, and enriched himſelf. But at length, it ſeems, (as if they miſtruſted) the People's Charity grew cooler. For, becauſe Men ſhould be more liberal and willing to give, he, and the reſt of the Biſhops, granted many Days Pardon to them that would freely give Money to the Building of that Croſs again; Canterbury granted 40 Days; LONDON, Ely, Bath, Chicheſter, Carliſle, Landaff, Bangor, every one 40 Days; the Number in all 320 Days; but not one Dodkin of Money (ſays the Dean) came out of their Purſes.

UPON this great Diſaſter, Queen Elizabeth gave Order for its ſpeedy Reparation; and as an Example to animate and incline others to contribute freely, out of her own Purſe gave 1000 Marks in Gold; ſhe alſo gave 1000 Loads of Timber, to be taken out of her Woods, or elſewhere.

THE Citizens alſo firſt gave a great Benevolence, and after that three Fifteens to be ſpeedily paid.

THE Clergy of England likewiſe, within the Province of Canterbury, granted the 40th Part of the Value of their Benefices, charged with Firſt-Fruits; the 30th Part of ſuch as were not ſo charged. But the Clergy of LONDON Dioceſs, granted the 30th Part of all that were in Payment of their Firſt-Fruits, and the 20th Part of ſuch as had paid their Fruits.

SIX Citizens of LONDON, and two Petty Canons of St. Paul's Church, (by Order of the Privy Council) had Charge to further and overſee the Work; wherein ſuch Expedition was uſed, that within one Month next following the Burning thereof, the Church was covered with Boards and Lead, in Manner of a falſe Roof, againſt the Weather; and before the End of the ſame Year, all the Iſles of the Church were framed out of new Timber, covered with Lead and fully finiſhed.

THE ſame Year alſo, the great Roofs of the Weſt and Eaſt Ends were framed out of great Timber, in Yorkſhire, brought thence to LONDON by Sea, and ſet up, and covered with Lead; the North and South Ends were framed of Timber, and covered with Lead, before April, 1566.

BUT concerning the Steeple, divers Models were deviſed and made, but little was done, through whoſe Default GOD knows. It was ſaid, that the Money appointed for the new Building of the Steeple, was collected and brought to the Hands of Edmond Grindal, then Biſhop of LONDON.

IN this Time alſo, by Reaſon of the Queen's Majeſty's Letters, directed to the Lord Mayor and his Brethren, about the Burning of St. Paul's, there were certain Aldermen and Commoners of the City, named and called together, by the Authority of the ſaid Lord Mayor, to deviſe ſome good Order and ſpeedy Remedy for the Relief and Comfort of the ſaid City, whenever any Chance of Fire hereafter ſhould happen, within the ſaid City or Liberties thereof. The Perſons ſo called, after ſundry Meetings, and with good Adviſement and Deliberation, agreed, and penned a certain Order for the ſpeedy Remedy thereof; as well for the ready Knowledge of the Place, whereſoever the ſame Fire ſhould happen to be, and for the ſudden Extinguiſhing and Suppreſſing of the ſame; as alſo for the ſafe-keeping of the Goods of ſuch Perſon, in whoſe Houſes any ſuch Fire ſhould chance. Which Orders and Rules were ſo proper and good for the ſaid Purpoſes, that they were judged to tend to the great Comfort and Safety of the City and Citizens, had they been publiſhed and made known in Time, and executed accordingly. But theſe, as many other ſuch painful and profitable Labours, taken for the good Government of the City, were ſoon laid aſide. And when the talking thereof was done, and the Books framed and delivered, it ſoon paſt into Oblivion, and nothing thought on, until an Hour after the Miſchief be paſt; as a Writer in thoſe Times complained. But to return to this dreadful Damage by Fire done to St. Paul's, and the Cares for the getting Supply for the Reparation thereof.

THE Particulars of the aforeſaid Contribution from the Clergy of each Dioceſe, in the Province of Canterbury, ſtood as follow:

BUT however, with theſe Monies the Church was repaired, the Steeple was neglected, and left in its Ruins, during the Life of Queen Elizabeth, until the 18th Year of King James I. in which Year, upon the 26th of March, being Sunday, the King, attended by ſeveral Noblemen, rode to St. Paul's in great State, on Horſeback, where he was met by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen in their Formalities, at the Weſt Door of St. Paul's. Here the King alighting, went to the Brazen Pillar, where he kneeled down, and prayed for good Succeſs to his pious Intention. Afterwards he went to the Choir, and there heard an Anthem; and from thence went to the Croſs, where the Biſhop of LONDON, Dr. John King, preached a Sermon upon a Text given him by the King, which was Pſalm cii. 13, 14. Thou ſhalt ariſe and have Mercy upon Zion, for the Time to favour her, yea, the ſet Time is come. For thy Servants take Pleaſure in her Stones, &c. And when Sermon was ended, he repaired to the Biſhop's Palace, where Conſultations were taken what was moſt fit to be done, in order to the Beginning and Carrying on of ſo pious a Work. At length the King iſſued out his Royal Commiſſion, dated the 16th of November following, directed to the Nobility and Citizens of LONDON, &c. and the Commiſſioners, at ſeveral Meetings, inquiring into the Matter, at length, upon a ſerious Deliberation, they concluded, that as antiently it had been, ſo now a general Benevolence throughout the whole Kingdom, ſhould be attempted. Whereupon, the King, to give Example, began the Subſcription, and others of the Nobility followed.

THE then Biſhop of LONDON gave 100 l. and ſubſcribed for ſo much annually, as long as he ſhould continue in the See.

BUT the Collection of Monies went ſo ſlowly forward, as, that though a good Proportion of Stone was brought in by the Biſhop, yet the Proſecution of the Work became quite neglected.

NEITHER was there any Thing more done until Dr. Laud became Biſhop of this See, which was in the Year 1628.

THIS Biſhop, being of a Publick Spirit, cordially undertook the Promoting of this good Work; and, within a few Years after, procured another Commiſſion from King Charles I. for that Purpoſe.

WHICH Commiſſion bearing Date April the 10th, 1631, was directed to Sir Robert Ducie, Bart. then Lord Mayor of LONDON, to George Archbiſhop of Canterbury, to the Lord Keeper, to the Lord Treaſurer, &c.

BY which Commiſſion, the King took Notice of this Cathedral, as the goodlieſt Monument, and moſt eminent Church in his whole Dominions; as alſo, that it was the principal Ornament of this City, the Imperial Seat of his Realm: And moreover, taking Notice of the Proceedings in a Commiſſion iſſued out by his Royal Father, to the ſame Purpoſe, reſolved to go on therewith effectually, declaring as follows:

Firſt, That all Money brought in for the Repair thereof, ſhould be paid into the Chamber of LONDON.

Secondly, That Laud, then Biſhop of LONDON, offered to allow 100 l. per Ann. out of the Revenue of his Biſhoprick, during his Continuance therein.

Thirdly, That a Regiſter-Book of all Subſcriptions for Contributions thereunto ſhould be made, as in King James's Time.

Fourthly, That the Judges of the Prerogative Court, and all Officials throughout the ſeveral Biſhopricks, and Wales, upon the Deceaſe of any Perſon inteſtate, ſhould be excited to remember this Church, out of what was proper to be given to pious Uſes.

Laſtly, That there ſhould be Letters Patents iſſued out for the receiving of Publick Contributions from all People throughout the Kingdom.

AFTER

After which, it was not long but that Monies were brought into the Chamber of LONDON accordingly.

The Biſhop of Norwich, (at that Time Almoner to the King) giving 400 l. the 17th of May next following; Multitudes of others, for 11 Years following, brought in their Monies very plentifully.

On the 16th of December, 1632, the Commiſſioners began their Meetings, and concluded of certain Orders for Regulation of all Things touching the ſaid Repair. And in April next enſuing, the Work was begun; there being in ready Money then brought in 5416 l. 13 s. 6 d. And on the 26th of June, was iſſued out 2000 l. of the ſaid Money, unto Michael Grigg, Eſq; Paymaſter of the ſaid Work. And ſoon after, the ſaid Biſhop Laud laid the firſt Stone, at the Eaſt End thereof. The ſecond Stone was laid by Sir Francis Windebank, one of his Majeſty's Secretaries of State. The third, by Sir Henry Martin, Judge of the Prerogative Court. And the fourth, by Inigo Jones, Surveyor-General of this Work. Neither did this worthy Biſhop ceaſe from the carrying on of this Work, after he was tranſlated to Canterbury, which was in September following; but in all Things ſhewed himſelf a pious and powerful Furtherer thereof.

Nor was the King himſelf without an high Senſe of the Honour done unto the Chriſtian Religion, and the Fame which would redound to this Nation, by thus reſtoring ſo ſignal a Monument of his renowned Anceſtors Piety, (King Æthelbert, and the other Saxon Kings.)

A magnificent and ſtately Portico, with Corinthian Pillars, he erected at his own Charge, at the Weſt End of this Church; a Draught of which we have given our Readers in a foregoing Sheet, at the Head of the Account of this Cathedral: In the Frieze of the Entablature of this Portico was the following Inſciption:

CAROLUS D. G. MAG. BRIT. FRANC. ET HIB. REX TEMP. D. PAULI VET. CONSUMP. RESTIT. PORTICUM ADJECIT.

And over it he placed the Statues of his Father and himſelf.

In this Manner it was carried on for the Space of above nine Years, many Perſons contributing very largely unto it. Amongſt which, Sir Paul Pinder, Knt. King James I. his Ambaſſador, Reſident at Conſtantinople many Years, is in an eſpecial Manner to be remembred; who having at his own Charge, firſt repaired the Decays in the Stone-Work of that goodly Partition made at the Weſt End of the Choir; adorning the Front thereof, outward, with fair poliſhed Pillars of black Marble; and the curious carved Statues of the Saxon Kings and Biſhops, which had been the firſt Founders and Benefactors to the Church, graced the Inſide thereof with Figures of Angels, and other Ornaments: Likewiſe mended and repaired all the Decays and Defects of the Wainſcot Work of the Choir; and beautified the ſame with a fair Rail of Wainſcot, and a great Number of Cherubims artificially carved; all which were ſumptuoſly gilded, and painted with rich Colours in Oil. He magnificently clothed the whole Choir, and the Upper Part of the Presbytery, with fair Tapeſtry Hangings; and afterwards beſtowed 4000 l. in the Repairing of the South Croſs.

The Steeple was intended wholly to be taken down, and by ſtronger Pillars to be ſupported and built, in Proportion to the Church, with a Spire of Stone ſuitable thereunto, being ready ſcaffolded to that End; and the reſt of the Repairs were finiſhed, as to the Walls and Cover of Lead.

And that Poſterity may ſee what open Hearts and Hands our Engliſh Nation then had for the Recovery of this ruinous Building to its priſtine Splendor, here is added a Briet of the Receiver's Account, as it was caſt up the 25th of October, 1639, in the 15th of King Charles I. together with a Scheme of the ſeveral Sums of Money, as they were brought into the Chamber of LONDON, for each particular Year.

October the 29th, 1639.

BUT more than the Sum of 35551 l. 2 s. 4 d. ob. doth not appear by the Books to have been laid out upon this Repair, ſince the 25th of October, 1639, that the Accounts were ſo audited: For in October, 1642, the Flames of our Civil Diſſenſions broke violently out; ſo that there was not only an unhappy Period put to this good and Praiſe-worthy Work, but by the Votes of Parliament, made September the 10th, Anno 1642, for the aboliſhing of Biſhops, Deans and Chapters (which Votes were confirmed by an Ordinance of that ſame Parliament, in January following;) the very Foundation of this famous Cathedral was utterly ſhaken in Pieces. Which conſiſted of the Biſhop, the Dean, Chanter, Chancellor, Treaſurer, the five Archdeacons, the 30 Prebendaries, and the ſix Vicars Choral. So that the next following Years (Iſaac Pennington being Lord Mayor) the famous Croſs in the Church-Yard, which had been for many Ages the moſt ſolemn Place in this Nation for the greateſt Divines, and moſt eminent Scholars to preach at, was (with the reſt of the Croſſes about LONDON and Weſtminſter) by further Order of the ſaid Parliament, pulled down to the Ground. And in the Month of March enſuing, the Houſes and Revenues belonging to the Dean and Chapter of this Cathedral, were ſeized on by Order likewiſe of the ſaid Parliament; together with all Money, Goods, or Materials, bought, or given, for Repairing or Finiſhing of this Church, in whoſe Hands ſoever they were, were ſeized on, and diſpoſed of, by Order of the ſaid Parliament. One Part of it went for Soldiers Pay; 400 l. per Ann. to Cornelius Burges, one of the Aſſembly of Divines, (who afterwards ſtiled himſelf Miniſter of LONDON) to preach a weekly Lecture in Part of the Choir. In other Parts of the Church, Saw-Pits were digged, for the ſawing out of the Scaffolding Timber, by them ſold and given. Several Places, (even where ſome Reverend Biſhops, and other Perſons of Quality lay interred) and afterwards the Body of the Church was converted to a Horſe-Guard for Troopers to quarter in.

AND in this deplorable Condition did this near finiſhed ſumptuous Structure continue, until the Year 1660, which was the Year of his Majeſty, King Charles II's moſt happy Reſtauration; who had a pious Intent to ſet upon the Repairs thereof again; but before ſuch a Work could be brought to Form and Order for Reparation, it was all ruined by the dreadful Conflagration in LONDON, Anno 1666; which yet did not diſcourage his Majeſty, who by an Act of Parliament, appointed a certain Duty upon every Chaldron of Coals, for carrying on and perfecting the Work of St. Paul's. And in the Year 1673, the thick Walls, with vaſt Charges being pulled down, that were ſo ſhaken by the Fire, and the Foundations cleared, a new Foundation was begun to be laid, of ſuch a Fabrick, as for Amplitude, Splendor, Solidity, Figure, and curious Architecture, the World hath ſcarce ſeen the like. The Model whereof was deſigned by Sir Chriſtopher Wren, Knt. an approved Architect; according to which Model, with ſome Alterations, it has been ſince erected.

IN the Year 1678, King Charles gave out his Letters Patents, in Favour of the great and expenſive Work. This was backed by Henry, the careful Lord Biſhop of LONDON, who by cauſing an Addreſs to be printed, excited all Perſons throughout the Kingdom, to extend their Liberality towards the Building; endeavouring to take off certain Objections that might ſtick in ſome Mens Minds againſt it. And then ſhewing how far they had proceeded, and what Receipts and Diſburſements had hitherto been made. It was to this Tener:

THE Biſhop of LONDON's Letter, recommending a Contribution.

YOU perceive by his Majeſty's Letters Patents for Rebuilding the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's, how zealouſly his Majeſty is concerned to have this ſo pious and charitable a Work effectually carried on. And to that End, how earneſtly, both in his Royal Grant and Example, he recommends it to all Cities, Towns, and Pariſhes, throughout his Kingdom of England and Dominion of Wales.

In Purſuance of this his Majeſty's pious Intention, and that it may have its deſired Effect, it will be requiſite not only to vindicate the Piety of this Deſign, but alſo the Neceſſity and Reaſonableneſs of ſo general a Contribution towards the Accompliſhing of it. For, beſides the Objections againſt ſo good a Work, proceeding from Diſaffection to Religion in ſome, and from a covetous and ſordid Diſpoſition of Mind in others, there are likewiſe two great Prejudices againſt it, which have too far poſſeſſed the Minds of even better diſpoſed Perſons.

1. That the Sumptuouſneſs and Magnificence of Churches, is not at all ſuitable to the Times of the Goſpel, nor according to the Simplicity of the primitive Chriſtian Worſhip.

2. That the Church of St. Paul's, belonging only to the City and Dioceſs of LONDON, ought to be rebuilt ſolely at their Charge, without having Recourſe to ſo extraordinary a Way of Supply and Contribution, from others who are no Way concerned in it.

Firſt. It is objected againſt the Work itſelf, That the Sumptuouſneſs and Magnificence of Temples, and ſo much Splendor in the outward Circumſtances of GOD's Worſhip, is Jewiſh and Ceremonial, and not ſo ſuitable to the ſpiritual Nature and Deſign of the Goſpel, and the Worſhip thereby required, which conſiſts in the inward Purity of our Hearts, and the Devotion of our Minds and Spirits, nor ſo agreeable to the

Simplicity

Simplicity of the primitive Chriſtianity, which in Things of this Nature, contained itſelf within the Bounds of Neceſſity and Convenience; and therefore whatever is beyond theſe, may juſtly be deemed ſuperfluous, and might much better be imployed in Alms, and Works of Charity.

For the Removal of this Prejudice, we may pleaſe to conſider:

1. That the publick Worſhip of GOD, is a moral Duty founded in the Light of Nature, and the common Reaſon of Mankind.

2. That the publick Worſhip of GOD, though it doth ſuppoſe and require inward and ſpiritual Devotion, yet as publick is neceſſarily external; and as ſuch, ought to expreſs, in the beſt Manner we are able, that inward Honour and Reverence which we pay to the Divine Majeſty: And therefore, that the Circumſtances of it ſhould not only be decent, but very ſolemn and magnificent, and the Light of Nature ſeems plainly to require, and the Goſpel doth no where gainſay. And the Reſolution of David, that he would not offer to the Lord his God of that which coſt him nothing; and the Declaration which he afterwards made concerning the Building of the Temple, that the Houſe which is to be built to the Lord, muſt be exceeding magnificent, was not a Piece of ceremonial Piety, but grounded upon a moral and eternal Reaſon, of equal Force in all Ages and Times; namely, that which Solomon, his Son, gave to King Hiram, why he deſigned ſo magnificent a Temple, that it might be, in ſome Meaſure, ſuitable to Greatneſs and Majeſty of that GOD who was to be worſhipped in it: The Houſe (ſays he) which I build is great, for great is our God above all Gods. Chriſtians, indeed, are not tied to one Place of Worſhip, as the Jews were; but they are obliged to Honour GOD as much as they, and to declare their high Regard and Eſteem of ſo glorious a Majeſty, by all outward fitting Teſtimonies of Reſpect and Reverence.

3. That the mean Eſtate and Circumſtances of GOD's publick Worſhip in the Beginning of Chriſtianity, was not the Effect of Choice, but of Neceſſity; and enforced upon Chriſtians by their Poverty and Perſecution. By Reaſon whereof, their Worſhip was not only without Splendor and Magnificence, but without ordinary Decency, and the common Conveniencies of Time and Place, being uſually performed in the Night, in Chambers and Grots, and ſecret Places; not becauſe they thought this beſt, but becauſe they could then do no better; as they ſufficiently teſtified ſo ſoon as they were free from Perſecution; when every where, with great Zeal, they raiſed ſtately Structures for the publick Worſhip of GOD, and ſpared no Coſt for that Purpoſe; believing it to be highly for the Honour of Chriſt and his Religion, that Men ſhould declare their Regard to Almighty GOD, and Solemnity of his Worſhip in this Way. And ſurely they, who from the Obſcurity and Meanneſs of the Places of publick Worſhip in the primitive Times, would draw a Pattern for Churches in ſucceeding Ages, may do well to conſider, whether they would be willing that the Poverty of the firſt Chriſtians ſhould be made the Meaſure and Standard of Mens Eſtates in all Ages: Becauſe the Force of the Argument from bare primitive Example, is the very ſame in both Caſes. GOD is pleaſed to accept of that in Caſe of Neceſſity, which he will diſdain where Men have the Ability and Opportunity to ſerve him after a better Manner. While the People of Iſrael were in a perſecuted and unſettled Condition, GOD was content that the Ark ſhould be placed in a Tabernacle; but when he had given them Reſt on every Side, then David, from the natural Reaſon and Congruity of the Thing, concluded it fit to build a Houſe of Reſt for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, and that exceedingly magnificent. And GOD approved of his Intention, telling him, that he did well that it was in his Heart to build ſuch an Houſe to the Name of the Lord.

4. To warn us for ever againſt grudging at any extraordinary Expence for the Honour of Religion, as needleſs and ſuperfluous; and eſpecially from cloaking our Covetouſneſs, with a Pretence of Charity to the Poor; we may do well to conſider how ſeverely our Saviour reprehends his own Diſciples for murmuring at that Coſt which the devout Woman beſtowed upon the Temple of his Body, in pouring upon it an Ointment of ſo great Price. To what Purpoſe (ſaid they) is this Waſte? This Ointment might have been ſold for much, and given to the Poor. But our Saviour ſharply reproved this ſordid Diſpoſition of theirs; and what they called Waſte, he called a good Work, ſuch as in its proper Seaſon is no leſs pleaſing to GOD, than Charity to the Poor: And to teſtify his high Eſteem and Acceptance of it, he took particular Care to have it recorded in the Hiſtory of his own Life; that together with his Doctrine and Miracles, the Memorial of it might be celebrated in all Ages to the End of the World. Hereby teaching us, that we ought, under the Goſpel, to honour GOD with our Subſtance, as well as to relieve the Poor; and that magnificent Acts of Piety have their Place no leſs in the Chriſtian Religion, than the moſt liberal Deeds of Charity.

Secondly, It is objected againſt the general Extent of this Contribution, That the Church of St. Paul's, belonging only to the City and Dioceſe of LONDON, ought to be rebuilt ſolely at their Charge, without having Recourſe to ſo extraordinary a Way of Supply from others who are no Ways concerned in it.

In anſwer to this Objection, be pleaſed to conſider,

1. That the Inhabitants of LONDON were not only exceeding great Sufferers by the late dreadful Fire, but have ſince been at a vaſt and incredible Charge in Rebuilding of their own Houſes and Pariſh-Churches, their Hoſpitals, Hall, and Royal-Exchange; and in ſeveral other publick Works, to the great Honour and Advantage of this City, and to the Wonder and Aſtoniſhment of the World, that in ſo ſhort a Space, ſo great a City ſhould riſe ſo beautiful, and out of ſuch vaſt and diſmal Ruins.

2. That the City of LONDON, and Counties adjoining, having done for ſeveral Years, and ſtill do, towards this Work, pay a particular Tax upon all the Coals brought into the Port of LONDON. Beſides which, it is not doubted but they will be very exemplary in their voluntary Contributions thereto.

3. That the City of LONDON hath ever been found very charitable and bountiful upon all Occaſions, towards the Rebuilding of Churches and Towns in the Country, and the Repairing of the Fortunes of particular Perſons, that have been ruined by the like Calamity of Fire. For which Cauſe, they hope it will not be thought unreaſonable in them, for once, to crave and expect the Aſſiſtance of the Country, upon ſo preſſing and extraordinary an Occaſion; when they are utterly unable, alone, to ſupport the Burden, and to defray the mighty Charge of ſo great a Work.

4. That the Rebuilding of this Church is of very publick Concernment, and the whole Nation, in ſome Sort, intereſted in it. Our Kings have uſed, upon extraordinary Occaſions, to reſort to it, there to pay their ſolemn Acknowledgments to Almighty GOD for publick Bleſ-ſings and Deliverances granted to this Nation. And the Preachers there have always been particularly appointed and choſen from both the Univerſities of this Realm, and from all Parts of the Kingdom. And the Glory of the Work will alſo redound to the whole Nation; to which it will not only be a ſingular Ornament, but likewiſe a ſtanding Monument of the publick Affection and Zeal of this Proteſtant Kingdom to Piety and good Works.

Which laſt Conſideration ought to have the greater Force with us; becauſe, at this Time, as much as ever, the Proteſtant Religion ſtands upon its Reputation, and ſtands in Need of it too. And therefore every one ought, with more than ordinary Zeal, to be concerned for the carrying on of this Work; not only for the Honour of our Nation, and the Credit of our common Chriſtianity, but alſo of our Reformed Religion. That there may be no Pretence to upbraid us, that Error and Superſtition could make Men more zealous of good Works, than the Doctrine of the true Religion; and that our Adverſaries of Rome may be convinced, that our Piety is as as generous and charitable as theirs, but would not be ſo arrogant and preſumptuous; and that whilſt we diſclaim the Merit, yet we do moſt ſtedfaſtly believe the Obligation and Neceſſity of good Works.

The preſent Building of St. Paul's.

THE old Church being taken down, the firſt Stone of this preſent moſt noble Pile, was laid by Mr. Strong, a Maſon; the ſecond by Mr. Longland, June the 21ſt, 1675, ſo that it was above 30 Years in Erecting, though upwards of 500 Men have ſometimes been at Work at a Time; and the great Sir Chriſtopher Wren, who firſt prepared the Model, lived to ſee it finiſhed, and many Years after.

FOR the Building, Finiſhing, and Adorning the ſame, there was given by Act of Parliament an Impoſition charged on Sea-Coal, imported at the Port of LONDON, viz. of 2 s. per Chaldron, or Ton, from the 1ſt of May, 1670, to the 24th of June, 1677; and 3 s. per Chaldron, from the 24th of June, 1677, to the 29th of Sept. 1687, and three 4ths of the Money raiſed by the former, and one half of the Money raiſed by the latter Act, was to be employed towards the Rebuilding of 52 Pariſh-Churches. One 4th of the Sum appropriated for the Pariſh-Churches was to be applied towards the Rebuilding of St. Paul's.

AGAIN, by another Act of Parliament, 1 James II. Chap. 15. an Impoſition on Coals of 18 d. per Chaldron was granted to continue from the 29th of Sept. 1687, to the 29th of Sept. 1700; two 3ds whereof was applied towards the carrying on the Building of this Church.

AGAIN, by another Statute, 8 William III. an Impoſition of 12 d. per Chaldron, or Ton, was laid on Coals imported at LONDON, to continue from Michaelmas, 1700, to Michaelmas, 1708, and two 3ds of the Money raiſed thereby has been applied towards the Finiſhing of this Structure.

LASTLY, by an Act of Parliament made the 1ſt of Queen Anne, Seſſ. 2. 2 s. per Chaldron more for all Coals imported, as aforeſaid, was given to commence at Michaelmas, 1708, and to continue for eight Years, for the Finiſhing, Adorning, and Securing of this Building. And the Archbiſhop, Biſhop of LONDON, and the Lord Mayor, for the Time being, might appropriate Money ariſing by this Act, for the Purchaſing and Demoliſhing (at ſuch Time as they ſhall appoint) all the Houſes and Buildings between the North Side of the Cathedral, and the Alleys called New Jewry and Piſſing-alley, and the Ground never to be built on for the future; and alſo may agree with the Veſtry of St. Gregory and Faith, for exchanging their Place of Burial in the Church-yard, and in the Vault, for other Ground. And, as in the others, there are Clauſes impowering the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Biſhop of LONDON, and the Lord Mayor of LONDON, to borrow Money on the Credit of the ſaid Acts, and to ſign Indentures accordingly.

HERE we muſt relate another Accident by Fire in this Church, which had like to have been very diſmal: For on the 27th Day of February, 1698-9, a Fire broke out at the Weſt End of the North Iſle of the Choir, in a little Room prepared for the Organ-builder to work in, when the Choir was newly finiſhed; and had not the Communication between the ſaid Work-room and Organ Gallery been broke down, the Conſequence would probably have been moſt fatal, but that being done, and all imaginable Means uſed by thoſe employed to extinguiſh Fires and others, the Flames were happily got under, doing no Damage but to two Pillars and an Arch with Enrichments, which were very artificially repaired, and no Sign of the Fire left, except that the Luſtre of the Gilding was thereby a little abated.

The Outſide deſcribed.

WE come next to deſcribe the Nature and Ornament of this moſt ſtately Fabrick: The Walls are very well built of fine Portland Stone, Ruſtick Work: There are two Ranges of Pilaſters that adorn the Outſide, one above another; the lower conſiſts of about 120 Pilaſters, with their Entablature of the Corinthian Order, and the Upper of as many, with Entablature of the Compoſite Order, beſides twenty Columns at the Weſt, and four at the Eaſt End, and thoſe of the Portico's, and Spaces between the Arches of the Windows, and the Architrave of the Lower Order, &c. are filled with great Variety of curious Enrichments, conſiſting of Cherubims, Feſtoons, Voluta's, Fruit, Leaves, Cartouches, Enſigns of Fame, as Swords and Trumpets in Saltier Croſſes, with Chaplets of Laurel; alſo Books diſplay'd, Biſhops Caps, the Dean's Arms, and at the Eaſt End the Cypher of W. R. within a Garter, on which is its Motto, Hony Soit qui Mal y Penſe; and this within a fine Compartment of Palm-Branches, and placed under an Imperial Crown, &c. all finely carved in Stone.

THE Intercolumns of the lower Range of Pilaſters, are 33 ornamental Windows, and ſix Niches, and of the upper Range 37 Windows, and about 30 Niches, many whereof are adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediments: And at the Eaſt End is a Sweep, or circular Space, adorned with Columns and Pilaſters, and enriched with Feſtoons, Fruit, Incenſe-Pots, &c. and at the upper Part, is a Window between four Pied-droits, and a ſingle Cornice, and theſe between two large Cartouches.

Of the Portico's, Portals, and Pediments.

1. THE Aſcent to the North Portico is by 17 Steps of black Marble; the Dome of the Portico is ſupported and adorned with ſix very ſpacious Columns (48 Inches Diameter) of the Corinthian Order; above the Door-caſe is a large Urn with Feſtoons, &c. Over this, belonging to the upper Range of Pilaſters, is a ſpacious Pediment, where are the King's Arms, with the Regalia, ſupported by two Angels, with each a Palm-branch in their Hands; under whoſe Feet appear the Figures of the Lion and Unicorn.

YOU aſcend to the South Portico (the Ground here being lower) by 25 Steps. It is in all other Reſpects like the North, and above this a Pediment (as the other) belonging to the upper Order, where is a proper Emblem of this incomparable parable Structure, raiſed (as it were) out of the Ruins of the old Church, viz. a Phœnix with her Wings expanded in Flames, under which is the Word RESURGAM, inſculped in Capital Characters.

THE Weſt Portico is adorned and ſupported with 12 Columns below, and eight above, fluted of the reſpective Orders as the two Ranges; the 12 lower adorned with Architrave, Marble Frieſe, and a Cornice; and the eight upper with Entablature, and a ſpacious Triangular Pediment, where the Hiſtory of St. Paul's Converſion is repreſented, with the Rays of a Glory, and the Figures of ſeveral Men and Horſes boldly carved in Relievo, by the ingenious Hand of Mr. Bird, The Door-caſe is white Marble, and over the Entrance is cut in Relievo, the Hiſtory of St. Paul's Preaching to the Bereans (as in Acts xvii. 2.) it conſiſts of a Gruppa of nine Figures (beſides that of St. Paul) with Books, &c. lively repreſented, by the ſame Hand as the Converſion.

ON the South Side of the Church, near the Weſt End, is a Forum, or Portal, the Door-caſe being enriched with Cartouches, Voluta's, and Fruit, very exquiſitely carved, under a Pediment; and oppoſite to this, on the North Side, is the like Door-caſe. And in brief, all the Apertures are not only judiciouſly diſpoſed for Commodiouſneſs, Illumination of the Fabrick, &c. but are very Ornamental.

AT the Weſt End is an Acroteria of the Figures of the Twelve Apoſtles, each about Eleven Feet high, with that of St. Paul on the Angle of the Pediment; and thoſe of the four Evangeliſts cumbant; a circular Pediment over the Dial of the Clock; alſo an Entablature and Circles of Enrichment, where twelve Stones compoſe the Aperture, anſwering the twelve Hours.

THE two Towers, each adorned with circular Ranges of Columns, of the Corinthian Order, with Domes on the upper Part, and at the Vertex of each a gilded Pine Apple.

The Inſide of the Church.

THE Choir has its Roof ſupported with ſix ſpacious Pillars, and the Church with ſix more; beſides which, there are eight that ſupport the Cupola, and two very ſpacious ones at the Weſt End; all which Pillars are adorned with Pilaſters of the Corinthian and Compoſite Orders; and alſo with Columns fronting the Croſs Iſle or Ambulatory, between the Conſiſtory and Morning-Prayer Chapel, which have each a very beautiful Screen of curious Wainſcot, and adorned each with 12 Columns, their Entablatures, arched Pediments, and the King's Arms enriched with Cherubims, and each Pediment between four Vaſes, all curiouſly carved; and theſe Screens are fenced with Iron-work; as is alſo the Cornice at the Weſt End of the Church, and ſo Eaſtward beyond the firſt Arch.

THE Pillars of the Church that ſupport the Roof, are two Ranges, with their Entablature and beautiful Arches, whereby the Body of the Church and Choir are divided into three Parts, or Iſles; the Roof of each is adorned with Arches, and ſpacious Peripheries of Enrichments; as, Shields, Leaves, Chaplets, &c. (the Spaces included being ſomewhat concave) admirably carved in Stone; and there is a large Croſs Iſle between the North and South Portico's, and two Ambulatories, the one a little Eaſtward, the other Weſtward from the ſaid Croſs Iſle, and running parallel therewith: The Floor of the Choir and Church is paved with Marble, but within the Rail of the Altar, with fine Porphyry, poliſh'd, and laid in ſeveral Geometrical Figures; the Anabathrum, whereon the Communion-Table is placed, is five Steps higher than that of the Choir's Iſles.

THE Altar-piece is adorned with four noble fluted Pilaſters, finely painted and veined with Gold, in Imitation of Lapis Lazuli, with their Entablature; where the Enrichments, and alſo the Capitals of the Pilaſters are double gilt with Gold: Theſe Intercolumns are 9 Pannels of white Marble border'd with grey, and above them ſix Windows, viz. in each Intercolumn three Pannels, and two Windows one above the other; at the greateſt Altitude above all which, is a Glory finely done. The Aperture Northward and Southward into the Choir, are (aſcending up three Steps of black Marble) by two Iron folding Doors, being (as that under the Organ Gallery, &c.) exquiſitely wrought into divers Figures, ſpiral Branches, and other Flouriſhes; and there are two others at the Weſt End of the Choir, the one opening into the South Iſle, the other into the North; done by the celebrated Artiſt in this Way, Monſieur Tijau.

IN this Choir are the Galleries, the Biſhops Throne, Lord Mayor's Seat, with the Stalls, all which being contiguous, compoſe one vaſt Body of curious carved Work of the fineſt Wainſcot, conſtituting three Sides of a Quadrangle.

THE Organ Gallery (with four Stalls, two Northward, and two Southward therefrom) compoſe the Weſt End. The Organ-Caſe is magnificent and very ornamental, enrich'd with the carved Figures of Cupids (under Mantling) Terms, and eight Fames ſtanding at the Top of this Caſe, four looking Eaſtward, and as many Weſtward, each appearing near ſix Foot high: It is alſo enrich'd with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, &c. very lively repreſented, by that excellent Artiſt Mr. Gibon; all which is elevated on eight beautiful fluted Columns of the Corinthian Order, of poliſh'd Marble, white, vein'd with blue, and the Organ-Pipes are very ſpacious and gilt with Gold, preſerved from Duſt, &c. with fine Saſhes. The North and South Sides of this Choir have each 30 Stalls, beſides the Biſhops Throne and Seat on the South Side, and the Lord Mayors on the North.

THE Stalls, &c. are in the following Order, beginning at the Weſt End, and proceeding Eaſtward, and thus diſtinguiſhed; the Prebendaries by the Titles of the Prebend; the reſt by their Dignity and Office; under the Title of the Prebend, is that of a Pſalm, which every Prebendary is in Duty bound to repeat daily in private to the Glory of GOD, and for the more fully anſwering the Intent of the Founders and Benefactors hereunto.

THE next here is the Biſhop's Throne, adorned with two Columns finely carved, of the Corinthian Order, and various Enrichments.

THE Biſhops Seat is adorned with a Nich, and above that, Doves, Palm-branches, two Cupids ſuſtaining a Mitre, &c. and the Lord Mayor's with a Nich, and above that are Flowers, and other Leaves, Palm-branches, and a Mace ſuſtained by two Cupids; and the Dean's with a Book diſplayed between three Cherubims, &c.

BACKWARD from theſe Stalls, and a little higher, is a Gallery where Ladies are commonly ſeated, particularly the Lord Mayor's and Aldermen's Ladies, on the North Side; above this Gallery the Front is curiouſly enriched with Terms, Helix Cartouſes, two Arches thereof over every Stall, and between them a Cherub; above which is the upper Gallery, and the Whole is adorned with 12 Columns, fronting Northward, 12 Southward, and 12 Pilaſters Weſtward, ward, with Enrichments of Chaplets, Cherubims, and innumerable Fruit, Leaves, &c. the three latter Species is, for the moſt Part, curiouſly carved out of the Lime-Tree, the reſt Wainſcot. Between the inner Roof of the Church and the outer, which is covered with Lead, is a conſiderable Space, wherein at the Eaſt End, round the Circular Sweep, is a whiſpering Place, where Words ſpoken auricularly, or the Motion of a Watch, &c. may be heard at 110 Feet Diſtance; this happened not by Deſign, but accidentally; and to this Church are eight Stair-Caſes. This noble Choir was finiſhed and opened on the 2d Day of December, 1697, being that remarkable Day of Thankſgiving for the Peace at Ryſwick, after nine Years War with France.

Of the DOME.

THE Cupola within the Church appears erected and elevated on eight Pillars of a large Magnitude, adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature, Circular Pediments, and Arches of the Corinthian Order, and each Pillar enriched with a ſpacious Feſtoon. Here are alſo as many Alcoves fronted with curious Iron-Work; and over the Arches at a great Height from the Ground, is an Entablature, and on the Cornice an Ambulatory fronted, or fenced in with handſome Iron-Work, extending round the Inſide of the Cupola, above which is a Range of 32 Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order; the Intercolumns are Paintings in Freſco, repreſenting the Hiſtory of St. Paul, done by the maſterly Hand of Sir James Thornhill, and finiſhed in the Year 1720. It is ſaid, that in every Foot of Altitude the Diameter decreaſes one Inch.

AND on the Outſide of the Dome, at about 20 Feet above the outer Roof of the Church, is a Range of 32 Columns, with Niches of the ſame Altitude, and directly counter to thoſe aforeſaid within the Cupola: To theſe Columns there is an Entablament, and above that a Gallery with Acroteria, where are placed very ſpacious and ornamental Vaſes, all round the Cupola. At 12 Feet above the Tops of theſe Vaſes (which Space is adorned with Pilaſters and Entablament, and the Intercolumns are Windows,) the Diameter is taken in (as appears outwardly) five Feet, and two Feet higher it decreaſes five Feet, and two Feet above, that it is ſtill five Feet leſs, where the Dome outwardly begins to arch, which Arches meet about 52 Feet higher, in perpendicular Altitude; on the Vertex of which Dome is a great Balcony, which is gilt at the Expence of a particular Nobleman, (the Lord Landsborough) who having a Proſpect of this Church from his Houſe near Hide-Park, reſolved to add this Ornament to it; and above this is a large and beautiful Lanthern, adorned with Columns of the Corinthian Order, with a Ball and a Croſs at the Top, whoſe Dimenſions are ſhewn in the next Page:

THIS Dome conſiſts of a Crown, or Cap, which is the Segment of a Globe; and what you behold from the Center of the Area under it, this being the Interior Part.

THE Arch of the Dome, extending from the Baſe of the aforeſaid Part, in a Hyperbolick Curve, to the Baſe of the Lanthern; theſe two inner Parts are Brick.

THE Roof of the Dome being Eliptical, extends from the Steps (which is a little above the Rail and Balliſter) to the Lanthern, a little above the Arch of the Dome; this being the outward Part, and is Timber: So that within there is a vaſt void Space between the Crown, or Cap, and the Arch (or Middle Wall) and alſo between the Arch and the Roof of this noble Dome. The Roof is covered with Lead.

We ſhall conclude our Account of this Building with a Quotation from a late Author, whom we have taken the Liberty to mention two or three Times already, as a Perſon of Taſte and Judgment.

" The Grand Cathedral of St. Paul's, ſays " he, is undoubtedly one of the moſt magnifi- " cent modern Buildings in Europe; all the " Parts of which it is compoſed, are ſuperla- " tively beautiful and noble; the North and " South Fronts, in particular, are very perfect " Pieces of Architecture, neither ought the Eaſt " to go without due Applauſe. The two Spires " at the Weſt End are in a finiſhed Taſte, and " the Portico with the Aſcent, and the Dome " that riſes in the Centre of the Whole, afford " a very auguſt and ſurprizing Proſpect; but " ſtill, with all theſe Beauties, it has certainly " yet more Defects; and the Pleaſure we re- " ceive from the firſt is ſo much qualified and " tamed by the laſt, that we rather wonder how " we can be pleaſed ſo much, than why we are " diſpleaſed at all. But, not to condemn in the " Groſs, I'll take the Liberty to touch upon " a few Particulars, and lay myſelf juſtly open " to Cenſure, in Caſe I miſtake, or blame in the " wrong Place.

" In the firſt Place, therefore, there is a moſt " notorious Deficience in Point of View; ſuch " a huge Fabrick as St. Paul's ought, at leaſt, " to be ſurveyed at the Diſtance of Temple-Bar, " and the Vista ought to be conſiderably wider " than the Front of the Building. But this is " ſo far from the Caſe here, that we cannot ſee " it 'till we are upon it, and this Defect is made " ſtill worſe, by turning the Edifice from the " Eye, even where it can be viewed, for the " Sake of that ridiculous Superſtition of erecting " it due Eaſt and Weſt. In the next Place, the " dividing the Portico, and indeed the whole " Structure into two Stories on the Out-ſide " certainly indicates at firſt Sight a like Divi- " ſion within. A Circumſtance abounding with " Abſurdities, and defeating even the very End " of erecting it at all. If indeed the Archi- " tect had been embarraſſed to reconcile the " Diſtance and Height of his Columns, I am " humbly of Opinion, that a light and proper " Attick Story had anſwered all Ends, both of " Uſe and Beauty, and left him Room to have " enlarged his Imagination, and have given an " Air of Majeſty to the Whole: Let me add, " that I apprehend the Portico ſhould have been " farther projected on the Eye, inſtead of re- " treating from it, in order to have given a grand " Contraſte to the whole Front, and aided the " Perſpective within.

" I ſhall ſay no more on the Out-ſide than " this, that, according to my beſt Notions of " Regularity and Order, the Dome ſhould have " been raiſed exactly in the Centre of the " Whole, and that there ſhould have been two " correſponding Steeples at the Eaſt, as well " as at the Weſt End, with all other ſuitable " Decorations: If a View of the whole Length " of the Building too could have been opened " down to the Water-Side, it would have added " greatly to its Grandeur and Magnificence, and " have afforded a moſt noble Proſpect from off " the River into the Bargain. However odd or " new the firſt of theſe Poſitions may ſeem, let " any Body take a View of St. Paul's from " any of the neighbouring Hills, and they " will inſtantly diſcern, that the Building is de- " fective, and that the Form of a Croſs is more " favourable to Superſtition, than Beauty: In a " Word, they will eaſily ſee, at leaſt, that the " Dome, in its preſent Circumſtance, is abun- " dantly too big for the reſt of the Pile, and " that the Weſt End has no rational Pretence " to finer and more ſplendid Decorations than " the Eaſt.

The Statutes and Cuſtoms of this Church of St. Paul having laid ſcatteringly in many old Books and Monuments, in the Archives of the ſaid Church, and continued in them confuſedly, without any certain Order, Radulph de Baldock, ſome Time Dean of the Church, with the Chapter, did reduce them methodically into a Regiſter; together with certain Injunctions and Declarations afterwards following.

After that, Thomas Lyſeaux, Dean of the ſaid Church, Anno Dom. 1450, in the ninth of his Deanery, and in the firſt of the Conſecration of Biſhop Kemp, cauſed a Book of Statutes, (called Liber Statutorum) of the Cathedral Church of LONDON, to be written; wherein was contained, among other Things, the abovesaid Regiſter of the Statutes by Dean Baldock.

Also in that Book was tranſcribed the Charta Libertatum, i. e. the Charter of the Liberties of that Church, being the Confirmation of them by King Henry VI. An. Regn. 20. It conſiſts of ſeveral Inſpeximus's, and mentions the Giſts to the Church by ſeveral Kings.

This Book ſets down alſo the Order and Prayers for a new Biſhop, which was after this Manner: They received him at the Weſt-Door, and there ſprinkled him with Holy Water; and being incenſed, he was brought with Proceſſion to the Great Altar: and being there proſtrate, the Major of the Church ſaid, Salvum fac Servum tuum Epiſcopum noſtrum, &c. i. e. Save thy Servant our Biſhop. Send him Help from thy Holy Place. Lord hear my Prayer. The Lord be with you. Let us pray:

Grant, we pray thee, O Lord, to thy Servant M. our Biſhop, that by Preaching and Exerciſing thoſe Things which are right, by the Example of good Works, he may ſave the Souls of thoſe that are ſet under him; and that he may receive the Reward of eternal Recompence, by, &c. as it is written in the Manual of the Church.

There is alſo ſet down in the ſaid Book of Statutes, the Churches antiently belonging to the Patronage of the Dean and Chapter, with this Title, viz.

THERE was an Eleemoſynarius Sancti Pauli LONDON. (i. e. an Almoner of St. Paul's) tum ad ſuſtentationem puerorum, cum ad Eleemoſynam faciend. (i. e. both for the maintaining of Children, and doing of Alms.) This Almoner had particular Rents appropriated for theſe Uſes.

THERE were alſo many Payments from divers Churches and Perſons, to pray for the Souls of ſeveral. All theſe Rents and Payments are particularly ſet down in the aforeſaid Book of Statutes.

THE Dean and Chapter had an antient Privilege granted them by King Edward II, which was to enjoy the Temporalities of the Biſhoprick of LONDON, paying after the Rate of 1000 l. a Year, while it remains thus vacant in their Hands. In the Year 1594, Biſhop Elmer dying, Noel the Dean, and the reſt of the Chapter, made Suit to the Lord Treaſurer Burghley, That they might have and enjoy the Temporalities according to the Chapter made to their Predeceſſors in that Behalf, as aforeſaid. The Treaſurer, upon this, order'd Sir Thomas Fanſhaw, Clerk of the Crown, to ſee the Grant, and what Allowance it had received in Times paſt, and thereof to make a Certificate; which accordingly he did, and gave this Account thereof.

" I have ſeen the Charter, and find it to be " of the Effect aboveſaid. And I have ſeen a- " mong the Records of the Exchequer, by the " Inrollment of Letters Patents of K. Hen. VIII, " made in the 24th Year of his Reign, enter'd " upon Record in the Treaſurer's Remembran- " cer's Office, Term. Paſchæ, Anno predict. " Regis xxiiij, and of a Writ of Allocate there- " upon made and enrolled in the King's Re- " membrancer's Office, Inter Bria. dirca. Ba- " ronibus de Term. Michiſ. Anno xxvto. By " which the King did recite not only the Grant " above-mention'd, but alſo that the Dean and " Chapter then had in their Hands, by the ſaid " Charter, the Cuſtody of the ſaid Biſhoprick, " and the Temporalities of the ſame, being void " by the Tranſlation of Cuthbert, late Biſhop: " And thereupon the King did grant unto his " Counſellor John Stokeſley, Clerk, the Biſhop " elect, all the Right and Intereſt he then had " in the ſaid Temporalities and Rents, to be " had and taken, as well by the Hands of the " Dean and Chapter, as of the Farmers, Bailiffs, " &c. and did diſcharge the Dean and Chap- " ter, &c.

" Wherefore, in my Opinion, the Dean and " Chapter ought to have the Cuſtody of the ſaid " Biſhoprick, during the preſent Vacation, by " Virtue of their Charter, unleſs ſome Altera- " tion hath been made ſince viceſimo quinto Reg. " Henrici octavi.

Dated the 7th of June, 1594. Tho. Fenſhaw.

ACCORDINGLY the Dean and Chapter did enjoy the Temporalities, till Fletcher, the next Biſhop, was placed, which was from June the 5th, to January the 24th following, which was 134 Days; and paid into the Treaſury, for the Time, after the Rate of 1000 l. per Annum, 320 l. 11 s.

Hee continued Biſhop twenty Yeeres, and dyed in the Yeere after Chriſt's Nativity, 1070.

Theſe Marble Monuments to Thee
Thy Citizens aſſigne
Rewards (O Father) far unfit
To thoſe Deſerts of thine.
Thee unto them a faithful Friend
Thy LONDON People found;
And to this Towne, of no ſmall Weight,
A Stay both ſure and ſound.
Their Liberties reſtored to them,
by meanes of Thee have beene,
Their Publicke Weale by meanes of Thee,
Large Gifts have felt and found.
Thy Riches, Stocke, and Beauty brave,
One Houre hath them ſuppreſt;
Yet theſe thy Vertues and good Deeds, with us (for ever) reſt.

The Lord Mayor of LONDON, and the Aldermen his Brethren, upon thoſe ſolemn Days of their Reſort to St. Paul's, uſed for a long Time to walk to the Grave-ſtone, where this Biſhop lay buried, in Remembrance of their former Privileges by him obtained.

Walkers, whoſoere ye be,
If it prove you chance to ſee
Upon a ſolemn Scarlet Day,
The Citie Senate paſs this Way,
Their grateful Memory for to ſhow
Which they the Reverend Aſhes owe
Of Biſhop Norman, here inhum'd,
By whom this Citie hath aſſum'd

IN the new Works of St. Dunſtan's Chapel:

Robert Brewer, Dean of St. Paul's, 1366.

Robert Breybrooke, Canon of Litchfield, Biſhop of LONDON, and made Lord Chancellor in the 6th Year of King Rich. II. He ſat Biſhop 20 Years, and deceaſed An. 1404.

SOME have noted, ſays Munday, that in digging the Foundation of this new Work of St. Paul's, namely, of a Chapel on the South Side, there were found more than 100 Scalps of Oxen, or Kine, in the Year 1316.

BUT here Mr. Strype, ſays Anthony Munday, makes a double Miſtake; for neither was it of a Chapel only, but rather of the whole Church. Neither were theſe Scalps found in the Year 1316, ſince (as Stow here aſſerts) they were found in digging the Foundation of this new Work, which was 200 Years before. For Erkenwald's Body was removed into the new Work, 1140.

WHICH Thing, (ſay they) confirms greatly the Opinion of thoſe which have reported, that (of old Time) there had been a Temple of Jupiter, and that there was daily Sacrifice of Beaſts.

AND of this Judgment was Biſhop Stillingfleet, ſome Time Dean of this Church, who ſuppoſed that here ſtood a Capitol, rather than Diana's Temple. Becauſe moſt of the Colonies had Capitols erected in them, in Imitation of Rome. And that the Situation of the Place made it probable, being the higheſt Place in the City. And Vitruvius's Rule was, Capitols were to be erected in the higheſt and moſt conſpicuous Place of the City. And the Sacrifice of Oxen was moſt proper for the Worſhip performed in the Capitol, being accounted the moſt noble Sacrifices. And Servius obſerved, thoſe that went up to the Capitol in Triumph, ſacrificed white Oxen: So that it ſeemed to him rather to have been a Temple to Jupiter.

OTHERS, both wiſe and learned, have thought that the Buck's Head, formerly born before the Proceſſion of St. Paul, on St. Paul's Day, did ſignify the like. But of this Stow gives the following Account from an antient Deed he had read to this Effect, viz.

SIR William Baud, Knt. the 3d of Edward I. in the Year 1274, on Candlemas-day, granted to Harvy de Borham, Dean of St. Paul's, and to the Chapter there, that in Conſideration of 22 Acres of Ground, or Land, by them granted, within their Manor of Weſtley in Eſſex, to be incloſed into his Park at Curingham; he would (for ever) upon the Feaſt-Day of the Converſion of St. Paul, in Winter, give to them a good Doe, ſeaſonable and ſweet: And upon the Feaſt of the Commemoration of St. Paul, in Summer, a good Buck, and offer the ſame at the high Altar; the ſame to be ſpent amongſt the Canons Reſidents. The Doe to be brought by one Man, at the Hour of Proceſſion, and through the Proceſſion to the high Altar; and the Bringer to have nothing. The Buck to be brought by all his Meyney in like manner, and they to have paid unto them by the Church, 12 d. only, and no more to be required.

THIS Grant he made, and for Performance bound the Lands of him and his Heirs to be diſtrained on; and if the Lands ſhould be evicted, that yet he and his Heirs ſhould accompliſh the Gift. Witneſſes, Richard Tilbery, William de Wockendon, Richard de Harlowe, Knt. Peter of Stanford, Thomas of Waldon, and ſome others.

Sir Walter Baude, Son to William, confirmed this Gift in the 30th of the ſaid King; and the Witneſſes thereunto were Nicholas de Wockendon, Rich. de Rokeley, Thomas de Mandevile, John de Rochford, Knights, Richard de Broniford, William de Markes, William de Fulham, and others. Thus much for the Grant.

Now, what follows, Stow had heard by Report, and partly ſeen:

On the Feaſt Day of the Commemoration of St. Paul, the Buck being brought up to the Steps of the High Altar in St. Paul's Church, at the Hour of Poceſſion, the Dean and Chapter apparelled in Coaps and Veſtments, with Garlands of Roſes on their Heads, they ſent the Body of the Buck to baking, and had the Head fixed on a Pole, before the Croſs in their Proceſſion, until they iſſued out of the Weſt-Door; where the Keeper that brought it blowed the Death of the Buck, and then the Horners that were about the City, preſently anſwered him in like Manner: For which Pains, they had each Man of the Dean and Chapter 4*d.* in Money, and their Dinner; and the Keeper that brought it, during his Abode there (for that Service) Meat, Drink, and Lodging, at the Dean and Chapter's Charges, and 5 s. in Money at his going away; together with a Loaf of Bread, having the Picture of St. Paul upon it, &c.

There was belonging to the Church of St. Paul, for both the Days, two ſpecial Suits of Veſtments, the one embroidered with Bucks, the other with Does, both given by the ſaid Baudes. Thus much for that Matter.

Mr. Stype ſays, the finding of Scalps of Oxen and Kine near this Church of St. Paul, mentioned before, may move a Queſtion, Whether it denoted not a Religious Place of the Heathen Saxons? Since they, at their Feſtivals, ſacrificed Oxen, and perhaps, after they became Chriſtians too. Which appears from the Direction that Pope Gregory gave to St. Auſtin, the Monk, for propagating Chriſtian Religion among them: Where he ſpeaks of their ſacrificing abundance of Oxen to Devils. But he (Auſtin) ſhould not aboliſh that Cuſtom, but appointed new Feſtivals, either in Honour of the Saints to whom their Churches were dedicated, or whoſe Relicks were depoſited therein; and that making Arbours with Branches of Trees, round their Churches, (according as thoſe Pagan Saxons uſed in their Religious Worſhip) they ſhould be allowed to kill their Oxen, and feaſt and enjoy themſelves as they did before in their former Pagan State, only they ſhould offer their Thanks and Praiſes unto God.

But the late very Learned Prelate, Biſhop Stillingfleet, (in a Tract he wrote of the true Antiquity of LONDON, and its State in the Roman Times) confutes the Aſſertion, that any Temple of Diana ſtood here, from the Conſideration by whom ſhe ſhould be worſhipped: Since neither Britons, Romans, nor Saxons did; or if either of them did, Would they have worſhipped her in that Manner? Britons and Saxons had no ſuch Deity. Cæſar mentioning the Gods that were worſhipped both by the Gauls, and the Germans, made no Mention of Diana; or if they had worſhipped her, How came a Temple to be built her, when the Druids, their Prieſts, performed all their Superſtitious Worſhip in Groves; which were all the Temples in uſe among them? That it is true among the Romans Diana was in great Requeſt: But Stags were proper Sacrifices to her, or Sheep were allowed; but not Oxen. And whereas Cambden ſaid Tauropolia were kept in Honour to Diana, theſe had no Relation to Oxen, (as the Word ſeems to ſignify) but to the Worſhip of Diana, who was called Taurica, as Mr. Selden has learnedly obſerved: And that ſhe was a Scythian Deity, and worſhipped with Human Sacrifices: So that learned Man. Yet others ſay, it is very certain ſhe was worſhipped in Britain, as appears by an Image of her, digged out of the Ground in Monmouthſhire, An. 1602, girt about, and ſhort truſſed, bearing a Quiver.

Now to the Reſidue of Monuments which were beneath the Stairs, in the Sides and Body of the Church:

Richard Newport, Biſhop, 1318.

Sir John Beauchamp, Conſtable of Dover, Warden of the Ports, Knight of the Garter, the Son of Sir Guy Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and Brother to Thomas Earl of Warwick, lies buried in the Body of the Church, on the South Side, 1358, within a proper Chapel purpoſely made for him.

Some ignorant Perſons miſtook this for the Tomb of Humphry, Duke of Glouceſter, who lay buried at St. Alban's, and uſed to hold ſolemn Meetings here, on St. Andrew's Day in the Morning, and concluded on a Breakfaſt or Dinner, as being his Servants, and holding ſeveral Offices under him.

Likewise on May Day, Tankard-Bearers, Watermen, and ſome other of like Quality beſide, would uſe to come to the ſame Tomb early in the Morning, and (according as the other) have delivered ſerviceable Preſentation at the ſame Monument, by ſtrewing Herbs, and ſprinkling fair Water on it; as in the Duty of Servants, and according to their Degrees and Charges in Office. But Stow diſcreetly adviſed ſuch as were ſo merrily diſpoſed, or ſimply profeſſed themſelves to ſerve Duke Humphry in St. Paul's; if Puniſhment of loſing their Dinners daily there, were not ſufficient for them, they ſhould be ſent to St. Alban's, to anſwer there for their Diſobedience, and long Abſence from their ſo highly well-deſerving Lord and Maſter, becauſe in their merry Diſpoſition they pleaſed ſo to call him.

Margaret, Counteſs of Shrewsbury, in the Crowds, or Jeſus Chapel, as appears by an Inſcription on a Pillar there:

Here, before the Image of Jesus, lyeth the Worſhipfull and Right Noble Counteſs of Shrewsbury, late Wife of the true and victorious Knight, and redoubtable Warriour, J. Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury; which Worſhipfull Man dyed in Guien, for the Right of this Land. Shee was the firſt Daughter, and one of the Heyres of the right famous and renowned Knight, Richard Beauchamp, late Earl of Warwicke, (which dyed in Roane) and of Dame Elizabeth, his Wife: The which Elizabeth was Daughter and Heyre to Thomas, late Lord Berkly, on his Side; and on her Mother's Side, Lady Liſle and Tyes: Which Counteſſe paſſed from this World the 14th Day of June, in the Yeere of our Lord 1468; on whoſe Soul Jesus have Mercy. Amen.

Wenlocke, by his laſt Will, dated 1477, appointed that there ſhould be expended upon a Monument over the Lady of Shrewsbury, where ſhe is buried, before Jeſus, 100 l. He left Sir Humphry Talbot his Superviſor. This Sir Humphry Talbot, Knt. Lord Marſhal of the Town of Calais, made his Will the Year 1492. He was the younger Son of John Earl of Shrewsbury, and Margaret, his Wife. He appointed a Stone to be put into a Pillar before the Grave of his Lady Mother in St. Paul's, of his Portraiture and Arms, according to the Will of John Wenlock. But for want of Room and Lightſomneſs in that Place, it was concluded, that the Image of Jeſus ſhould be curiouſly painted on the Wall in St. Paul's Church, over the Door that enters into the ſaid Chapel of Jeſus, and the Portraiture alſo of the ſaid Lady Margaret, Counteſs of Shrewsbury, kneeling in her Mantle of Arms, with other of her Progeny: All which was ſo performed accordingly.

In the Chapel of Jeſus, Thomas Dowroy, William Lambe, 1578, and many others have been interred.

John Lovell, Clerk.

John Romane.

Sir Allen Boxhul, Knight of the Garter, Conſtable of the Tower, Cuſtos of the Foreſt and Park of Clarendon, the Foreſt of Brokholt, Grovel, and Melchet, buried beſide St. Erkenwald's Shrine.

Salutis, 1609.

Gulielmus Harington, Juriſconſultus, Protonotarius Apoſtolicus, D. Pauli Canonicus, ex illis quos Reſidentiarios dicunt: Patria Eboracenſis natus in pago qui Eſtrynton vocitatur, Patre Gulielmo Haringtono, viro claro, genere orto in pago Commerlandiæ non ignobili, qui Neubyging nuncupatur; & Matre Joanna, Filia Gulielmi Haskæ, aliter Balivi dicti, viri Generoſi in eodem pago Eſtryngton nata: memor exitus vitæ, qui omnibus horis impendet, hoc ſibi ſepulchrum poſuit. Anno Salutis humanæ, 1523.

ON a Table hanging on a Pillar, in the South Iſle:

Six Lines this Image
ſhall delineate, Hight Croft high born, in Spirit and Virtue high; Approv'd, beloved, a Knight,
ſtout Mars his Mate, Loves Fire, Warres Flame,
in Heart, Head, Hand, and Eie: Which Flame, Warres Comet,
Grace now ſo reſignes,
That fixt in Heaven, in Heaven and Earth it ſhines.

PROSOPOPEIA.

The Wombe and Tombe
in Name be not ſo neere,
As Life to Death and Birth is to the Beere.
Oh! then how ſoon to Beere are Captaines brought,
That now doe live, and dye
now with a Thought.
Then, Captaines, ſtay and reade, ſtill think on me,
For with a Thought,
what I am, you may be.

As Mars neere Mors doth found,
So Mors neere Mars is found.

In this Cathedral Church, beſides theſe Monuments erected to eminent Men, deceaſed, were, in former Times, Sculptures, Statues, and Images of worthy Men, ſet up in Tables. Among ſuch, was that of Thomas Earl of Lancaſter, a Plantagenet, Grandſon of K. Henry III. He was one of the Chief of the Barons and Nobility that oppoſed King Edward II. in his Miſgovernment, by Reaſon of Gaveſton, and the Spencers. But afterwards he was overthrown by the King's Party, and Beheaded at Pomfret. But ſo beloved he was of the Citizens, that they had his Effigies ſet up in St. Paul's; which they offered Prayers and Oblations to, and ſuppoſed that he did Miracles:

And

And this, notwithſtanding the King's Hatred of him, who hearing of this, was exceeding angry, and wrote a Letter from York, to Stephen Biſhop of LONDON, declaring his Reſentment of it, and commanding him to reſtrain the People from doing this any more; conſidering, not only that he was his Rebel, but that it was done without Authority of the Church of Rome. The King's Letter, which is among the Records of the Tower, has ſeveral Things in it worth noting.

REX venerabil. patri Stephano, &c. The King, &c. to the venerable Father Stephen, by the ſame Grace Biſhop of LONDON, Greeting. It hath come to our Ears, which we learn heavily, that very many of the People committed to your Charge, by a diabolical Fraud deceived, fooliſhly repairing to a certain Table being in the Church of St. Paul, LONDON, in which are painted the Statues, Sculptures, or Reſemblances of divers Perſons, and among the reſt, the Effigies of Thomas, ſome Time Earl of Lancaſter, our Enemy and Rebel; and do worſhip and adore it as ſome ſanctified Thing, without the Authority of the Church of Rome, aſſerting Miracles to be done there; to the Diſgrace of the whole Church, the Diſhonour of Us and You, and the manifeſt Danger of the Souls of the People beforeſaid, and the pernicious Example of others, which you knowing ſuch Abuſes to prevail in the People to you committed, by winking at them, have permitted to be done; or rather for Profit and filthy Lucre ſake, have diſſembled; about which we are not a little troubled.

Therefore We command you, firmly enjoyning, that the Premiſſes, with a provident Deliberation weighed; and conſidering that the ſaid Church is of our Patronage, and that you, on Account of the Fealty to us given, are bound to conſult for the preſerving our Honour, and to decline our Diſgrace, by all Means reſtrain the ſaid People, that they do not preſume to come to the ſaid Table, and there to make Prayers, Offerings, or other Things tending to Divine Worſhip, without the Authority of the Church of Rome; as ye know, by Vertue of your Duty, belongeth to you, according to Canonical Sanctions. And that ye ſo carry yourſelf in this Behalf, that ye may avoid God's and our Indignation. And that the People beforeſaid, being by the Prudence of your Doctrine wholeſomely inſtructed, may wholly deſiſt from the ſaid Abuſes; and that the ſetting forth of your Praiſe may ſpread among the ſame People; and that we may deſervedly continue our Benevolence conceived towards you, and the Church aforeſaid. And what ye reſolve to do upon theſe Things, write back to us by your Letter, without Loſs of Time. Witneſs, the King at York, the 28th Day of June.

Auguſt the 1ſt, Anno the 1ſt and 2d of Philip and Mary, the following Act of Common-Council was made, For the preventing of Prophanation and Abuſes offered to St. Paul's:

FOraſmuch as the material Temples of God were firſt ordained for the lawful and devout Aſſembly of People, there to lift up their Hearts, and to laud and praiſe Almighty God; and to hear his Divine Service, and moſt Holy Word and Goſpel, ſincerely ſaid, ſung, and taught; and not to be uſed as Markets, or other prophane Places or Thorow-fares, with Carriage of Things: And for that (now of late Years) many of the Inhabitants of the City of LONDON, and other People repairing thither, have (and yet do) commonly uſe and accuſtom themſelves very unſeemly and unreverently (the more the Pity) to make their common Carriage of great Veſſels full of Ale and Beer, great Baskets full of Bread, Fiſh, Fleſh, and Fruit, and ſuch other Things; Fardels of Stuff, and other groſs Wares and Things, thorow the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's. And ſome, in leading Moyles, Horſes, and other Beaſts through the ſame unreverently; to the great Diſhonour and Diſpleaſure of Almighty God, and the great Grief alſo and Offence of all good People: Be it therefore, for Remedy and Reformation thereof, ordained, enacted, and eſtabliſhed, &c. That no Perſon, either Free or Foreign, of what Eſtate or Condition ſoever, do at any Time, from henceforth, carry or convey, or cauſe to be carried through the ſaid Cathedral, any Manner of great Veſſel, or Basket, with Bread, Ale, Beer, Fiſh, Fleſh, &c. or any other like Thing, or Things, upon Pain of Forfeiture, or loſing for every ſuch his or their firſt Offence, 3 s. 4 d. for the ſecond, 6 s. 8 d. for the third, 10 s. and for every other Offence, after ſuch third Time, to forfeit 10 s. and to ſuffer two Days and two Nights Impriſonment, without Bail or Mainprize. The one Moiety of all which Pains and Penalties, ſhall be to Chriſt's Hoſpital within Newgate, and the other Half to him that will ſue for the ſame in any Court of Record within the City; by Bill, original Plaint, or Information, to be commenced, or ſued, in the Name of the Chamberlain of the ſaid City, for the Time being; wherein none Eſſoine, or Wager of Law for the Defendant, ſhall be admitted, or allowed.

THE Great Bell in this Cathedral is ſaid to weigh four Ton, four C. and 4 lb. Round the Cemitery is a moſt magnificent and expenſive Iron Balluſtrade; and, in the Middle of that Part fronting the Weſt Entrance, is a Marble Statue of the late Queen Anne, with four Figures round the Pedeſtal, which ſeem to be much better executed than the principal Figure, the Habit and Altitude of which are very ſtiff and formal.

UPON a like Occaſion of Solemn Thankſgiving, viz. for the mighty Victory gain'd over the French and Bavarians, in the Battle of Blenheim, under the Conduct of the Great Duke of Marlborough, Queen Anne came triumphantly to St. Paul's, September 7, 1704. The Cavalcade was in the Order following:

All the Lords and Privy Counſellors that were in and about the Town, met about Eight in the Morning in the Council-Chamber at St. James's; the Knights of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter, wearing the Collars of the ſaid Order: And having been marſhalled by the Officers of Arms, proceeded about Ten o'Clock, in their Coaches with Six Horſes each, towards St. Paul's Church.

Her Majeſty came afterwards, attended in the following Manner:

Firſt, The Knight Marſhal, with his Men on Horſeback.

Then the Equerries, and Gentlemen-Uſhers to his Royal Highneſs Prince George of Denmark, in his Leading Coach.

One Equerry, two Pages of Honour, and the Gentlemen-Uſhers in waiting, in her Majeſty's Leading Coach.

Then the Women of the Bed-Chamber to her Majeſty, in another of her Majeſty's Coaches.

The Lords of his Royal Highneſs's Bed-Chamber, in his Body Coach.

Four Ladies of her Majeſty's Bed-chamber, viz. the Dutcheſs of Somerſet, the Marchioneſs of Hartington, the Lady Henrietta Godolphin, and the Counteſs of Abingdon, in the travelling Body Coach.

Then her MAJESTY, with his Royal Highneſs, the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, Groom of the Stole, and the Lady Fretcheville, being the Lady of the Bed-chamber in waiting, in the Coach of State, drawn by Eight Horſes.

Her Majeſty's Firſt Troop of Horſe Guards cloſed the Proceſſion.

THE Streets, thro' which her Majeſty paſſed, were lined from St. James's as far as Temple-Bar, by the Militia of Weſtminſter. From thence to St. Paul's, they were railed and hung with Blue Cloth, the City Trained Bands lining both Sides. And upon Scaffolds, erected for that Purpoſe, were placed the ſeveral Companies in their Gowns, with their reſpective Flags, Streamers, and Muſick. A Battalion of each of her Majeſty's Regiments of Foot Guards made a Lane from the Weſt Entrance into the Church to the Door of the Choir. The Balconies, and the Windows of the Houſes, were hung with Carpets, and rich Tapeſtry, and crowded with great Numbers of Spectators.

AT Temple-Bar her Majeſty was met by the Lord Mayor, in a Gown of Crimſon Velvet, and the Aldermen and Sheriffs in their Scarlet Gowns, being all on Horſeback. The Lord Mayor alighted, made a ſhort Speech to her Majeſty, and ſurrender'd to her the City Sword. Which ſhe was pleaſed to return to him again. And he carry'd it before her Majeſty to the Church, the Aldermen and Sheriffs riding before him.

HER Majeſty being come to St. Paul's, was met at the Weſt Door, at her alighting out of the Coach, by the great Officers of State, the Nobility and Privy Counſellors: Who from thence proceeded to the Choir in the following Order:

Firſt, Two Officers at Arms.

Then the Privy Counſellors who were not Peers; two and two.

The Duke of Richmond, with the Sword of State.

Her Majeſty, led by his Royal Highneſs; and follow'd by the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, and the Lady Fretcheville.

The Earl of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of her Majeſty's Houſhold, and the Right Honourable the Vice Chamberlain, attending near her Majeſty's Perſon.

The Duke of Ormond, Captain of the Guard, and the Duke of St. Albans, at the Head of the Band of Gentlemen-Penſioners, cloſed the Proceſſion.

Her Majeſty and his Royal Highneſs being enter'd into the Choir, ſeated themſelves in two Armed Chairs, on a Throne, without a Canopy, erected at the Weſt End thereof, oppoſite to the Altar.

Behind her Majeſty, were Stools for two of the Ladies of the Bed-chamber, and the great Officers in waiting, attending her Majeſty and his Royal Highneſs.

The Peers and Privy Counſellors were placed on the North Side of the Choir.

The Ladies of the Bed-chamber, in the Stalls on the South Side.

The Peereſſes were placed at the Weſt End of the middle Gallery.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen, at the Eaſt End of the South Side.

The Members of the Honourable Houſe of Commons that were in Town, filled the Upper Gallery on the North Side.

The Ladies and other Perſons of Quality, that attended at this Solemnity, filled the reſt of the Galleries.

The Dean and Prebendaries ſat within the Rails of the Altar, except ſuch as officiated in reading of Prayers.

The Reverend Dr. Sherlock, Dean of the Church, preached.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen, underſtanding ſome Days before that they were not to ſit in the Places where they were accuſtomed to ſit, were diſguſted, till they were informed, that whatſoever Church the Queen reſorted to, it was her Chapel; and her Great Officers were firſt to be provided of convenient Places, proper to their Quality and Dignity, before all others.

IN the like Manner her Majeſty went to St. Paul's on the 23d of Auguſt 1705, being a Day of Publick Thankſgiving for the Succeſs of her Arms under the Duke of Marlborough, in forcing the French Lines in Flanders, and afterwards fighting and beating them within thoſe Lines.

ON the 26th of June 1706, the ſaid Queen came again in State to St. Paul's, on the Publick Thankſgiving for a third great Victory obtained over the French at Ramellies in Brabant, and the Succeſſes in Spain.

ON Thurſday May the 1ſt, 1707, being a Day of Publick Thankſgiving, appointed for the UNION of the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland, the Queen came to St. Paul's, attended by a great Number of Engliſh and Scottiſh Nobility.

AND in the Year 1708, two Publick Mercies brought her hither again, the firſt ſolemnly to ſing Te Deum for the Deliverance from the French King's intended Invaſion of the North Part of Great Britain; and the other for the Victory obtain'd in the Battle of Audenard in Flanders.

The PARISH of St. FAITH.

UNDER St. Paul's was antiently the Church of St. Faith. Of which it was uſed to be ſaid:

This Church needs no Repair at all;
For Faith's defended by St. Paul.

AFTER the Fire of LONDON, this Pariſh was united, by Act of Parliament, to that of St. Auguſtine.

UPON a Braſs Plate fixed on a Pillar by the Tomb in the open Church, beneath:

William Lambe,
ſo ſometime was my Name,

Whiles I alive
And run my mortall Race;
Serving a Prince of moſt immortal Fame, Henry the Eighth,
who of his Princely Grace,
In his Chappell allowed me a Place.
By whoſe Favour,
from Gentleman t'Eſquire,
I was prefer'd,
with Worſhip for my Hire.
With Wives three
I joyned Wedlocke Band,
Which (all alive)
true Lovers were to me:
Joane, Alice, and Joane, for ſo they came to hand,
What needeth Praiſe, regarding their Degrees?
In Wively Truth
none ſtedfaſt more could be.
Who though in Earth
Death's Force did once diſſever, Heaven yet (I truſt)
ſhall joyne us all together.
O Lambe of God,
which Sinne didſt take away,
And (as a Lambe)
was offered up for Sinne;
Where I (poor Lambe) went from thy Flocke aſtray, Yet thou (good Lord)
vouchſafe thy Lambe to winne Home to thy Fold, and holde thy Lambe therein:
That at the Day, when Lambes and Goats ſhall ſever,
Of thy choice Lambes,
Lambe may be one for ever.

UNDER which Remembrance there are two Verſes more added, containing both a Petition, and an Injunction of Duty to the Poor, who Weekly receive their Allowance at the Hands or Appointment of the Worſhipful Company of Stationers. To whom he bearing great Affection, and having alſo no ſmall Affiance in them, made them his Diſpoſers and Stewards in that Behalf. The Verſes are theſe:

I pray you all that receive Bread and Pence, To ſay the Lord's Prayer before you go hence.

As for the Verſes engraven upon the upper Stone of the Tomb, they are theſe:

As I was, ſo are ye,
As I am, you ſhall be.
That I had, that I gave,
That I gave, that I have.
Thus I end all my Coſt,
That I left, that I loſt.

Here lieth buried the Body of Catharine, (third Daughter of Edward Lord Nevil, Baron of Abergaveny) Wife of Sir Stephen Leſſieur, of Chiſwicke in the County of Middleſex, Knight. She was brought from her ſaid Houſe to this Pariſh, in Hope to recover her bodily Health, by the Help of God and Phyſicians. But the ſame God knowing, and having ordained that which was beſt for her pious Soul, hath been pleaſed to take her from the Miſeries of this vain World, and to receive her Soul with his Saints in Heaven. As ſhe did profeſs in all the Time that ſhe lived in the State of a Maid, and of a Wife, to be a true and obedient Child of God; even ſo ſhe did behave herſelf in her Sickneſs, bearing her Affliction with a true Chriſtian Patience; much delighting to read, or to hear the Word of God read unto her, hoping and truſting to be ſaved by the only Merits and Paſſion of Jeſus Chriſt. And recommending her Spirit into the Hands of Almighty God, ſhe exchanged her mortal Life for the immortal, the 4th of Auguſt, 1630.

IN Caſtle Baynard Ward.

PART of Warwick-lane, and White Hart-ſtreet.

NUMBER of Houſes 118.

THE Street on the North Side of St. Paul's Church-yard was originally called Pater-noſter-row, becauſe of Stationers or Text-writers, that dwelled there; who wrote and ſold all Sorts of Books then in uſe, namely, A, B, C, or Abſies, with the Pater noſter, Ave, Creed, Graces, &c.

THERE dwelled alſo Turners of Beads, and they were called Pater-noſter-makers; as one Robert Nikke and others are called in an antient Record, Paſter-noſter-makers, in the Reign of Henry IV.

AT the End of this Pater-noſter-row, is Ave-mary-lane, ſo called upon the like Occaſion of Text-writers and Bead-makers then dwelling there.

AT the End of that Lane is likewiſe Creed-lane, ſome Time called Spurrier-row, of Spurriers dwelling there. And Amen-lane was added thereunto, betwixt the South End of Warwick-lane, and the North End of Ave-mary-lane, where was one great Houſe, built of Stone and Timber, of old Time appertaining to John, Duke of Britain, Earl of Richmond, as appeareth by the Records of Edward II. Since that, it was called Pembrook's Inn, near unto Ludgate, as belonging to the Earls of Pembrook, in the Time of Richard II, the 18th Year; and of Henry VI, in the 14th Year. It was after called Burgaveny-houſe, and belonged to Henry late Lord of Burgaveny.

BUT the worſhipful Company of Stationers afterwards purchaſed it, and made it their Hall.

The PARISH of St. MARTIN LUDGATE.

ON the North Side of Ludgate-ſtreet is the Church of St. Martin.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated was born in Sabaria, a Town in Hungary. His firſt Education was at Ticinum, or Pavie, in Italy, under his Parents, who were Pagans. From his Infancy he affected the Chriſtian Religion, which his Father, being a Soldier, perceiving, ſent him into the Wars, firſt under Conſtantius, and then into France under Julian; following this Courſe about three Years, on a Time, he met at the Gate of the City of Amiens, a poor naked Man, and Martin having nothing about him but his Cloak, which he wore (for he had beſtowed the reſt to like Uſes) he cut off one half of it with his Sword, and gave it to the poor Man, keeping the other half to himſelf. He was afterwards baptized, and going to St. Hillary, Biſhop of Poictiers, he abode a while with him, being firſt made an Exorciſt, or, as others ſay, a Reader. He publickly oppoſed the Arians, whereupon he was openly ſcourged, and driven out of the City in Illyricum. He returned again into France, and was afterwards made Biſhop of Tours, Anno Chriſti 376, where he had terrible Conflicts with the Arians, not without Peril of his Life and Fortune; when he had governed the Church of Tours 26 Years (others ſay 36) in the 81ſt Year of his Age, Arcadius and Honorius being Emperors, he fell ſick of a Fever, whereof he died Anno Chriſti 399, or as others write, 404.

HIS Feſtival was inſtituted by Pope Martin I. about the Year 650, and is yearly celebrated on the 11th of November.

THE old Church in this Place was built about the Year 1437, when Sir John Michaell, Fiſhmonger, Lord Mayor, and the Commonalty, granted to Mr. Down, then Rector, a Parcel of Ground, containing in Length 28, and in Breadth 24 Feet, to build their Steeple on. It was repaired and beautified at the Pariſh Charge (ſays Mr. Stow) in the Year 1623; and having had its unfortunate Share of the Calamitous Conflagration in 1666, was again rebuilt, and finiſhed, with the Steeple, in Anno 1684.

As

As to the Nature and Order of the Building, the Roof is camerated, and (being not much expoſed to view) is only covered with Tile; but the Walls and Pillars, that ſupport the Roof, are Stone, of the Compoſite Order; the Floor of the Church is raiſed about three Feet above the Street, and the Plat of Ground within the Church is broader than long. The Steeple conſiſts of a handſome Tower, Cupola, and Spire, of the Tuſcan Order; above which Cupola is a Balcony.

The Church is adorned with four Columns, near the four Angles of the Church, and an Entablament conſtituting four Quadrangles, where the Roof is lower than in the Middle of the Church; alſo ſeveral Pilaſters.

It has a Gallery of Wainſcot, with Boleſtion-Work front on the South Side of the Church, and the Organ-Gallery at the Weſt End. It is alſo well pewed, and wainſcotted with Oak about nine Feet high.

Here are on the South Side two fine Wainſcot Inner Door-caſes; the more Eaſtwardly is of the Ionick Order, adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediment, with Enrichments of two Cupids holding a Chaplet and Crown; alſo Fruit, Leaves, &c. and the Weſtwardly Door-caſe is of the Corinthian Order, with Pilaſters and Enrichments of Feſtoons, Cherubims, &c. curiouſly carved.

The Altar-piece is ornamental and ſpacious, with two Pilaſters of Blue veined with Gold, in Imitation of Lapis Lazula, between theſe are the Commandments, Lord's Prayer, and Creed, done in Black Letters upon Gold, over which is this Motto, Lift up your Hearts, and above that a Shield with the Name of God in Hebrew, Greek and Latin; and here are other Enrichments of Cartouches, Palm-Branches, &c. The Foot-pace under the Communion-Table is Black and White Marble, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

The Pulpit is finniered and enriched with Cherubims, Cupids, Book diſplayed, &c. And the Steeple is adorn'd with Cartouches, Pine-Apples, Feſtoons, &c.

Dimensions of this Church, are Length 57 Feet, Breadth 66, Height 59 Feet, and the Altitude of the Steeple, to the Top of the Spire, which is exceeding beautiful, is 168 Feet,

In the Old Church were theſe Monuments.

LUDGATE PRISON.

IN this Pariſh ſtands the Priſon of Ludgate; between which Priſon, and the Miniſter of St. Martin's formerly happened a Conteſt concerning Payment of Tithes; which was adjudged by the Common-Council, March the 21ſt in the 2d Year of Queen Elizabeth; namely, that Ludgate Priſon ſhould pay Tithes, Clerks Wages, and Church Duties, to St. Martin's Church within Ludgate.

FORMERLY Debtors that were not able to ſatisfy their Debts, put themſelves into this Priſon of Ludgate, for Shelter from their Creditors; and theſe were Merchants and Tradeſmen that had been driven to Want by Loſſes at Sea. When King Philip, in the Month of Auguſt, 1554, came firſt through LONDON, theſe Priſoners were 30 in Number; and owed 10000 l. but compounded for 2000 l. who preſented a well penned Latin Speech to that Prince, to redreſs their Miſeries, and by his Royal Generoſity to free them; "And the rather, for that that Place "was not Sceleratorum Carcer, ſed miſerorum "Cuſtodia, i. e. a Jail for Villains, but a Place "of Reſtraint for poor unfortunate Men: And "that they were put in there, not by others, "but themſelves fled thither, and that not out "of Fear of Puniſhment, but in Hope of bet-"ter Fortune." The whole Letter was drawn by the curious Pen of Roger Aſcham, and is extant among his Epiſtles, Lib. 3.

If a Freeman, or a Freewoman of LONDON be committed to Ludgate, they are to be excuſed from the Ignominy of Irons, if they can find Sureties to be true Priſoners, and if the Sum be not above 100 l. There is another Cuſtom for the liberal and mild Impriſonment of the Citizens in Ludgate, whereby they have Indulgence and Favour to go abroad into any Place, by Baſton, as they term it, under the Guard and Superintendency of the Keeper; with whom they muſt return again to the Priſon at Night.

THIS Cuſtom is not to hinder and delay Juſtice, nor to defraud Men of their Debts and Executions, (as it is quarrelled againſt by ſome) but ſerves for a Mitigation of their Puniſhment, and tends rather for the Expedition of their Diſcharge, and ſpeedy Satisfaction of their Creditors.

The PARISH of St. ANNE BLACK-FRYARS.

ON the South Side of Ludgate-street is the Turning into Black-fryars; which Order some Time had their House in Holbourn, or Old-borne, as it was then called, where they remained for the Space of 45 Years; and then, in the Year 1276, Gregory Rocksley, Mayor, and the Barons of this City, granted and gave to Robert Kilwarby, Archbishop of Canterbury, two Lanes or Ways next the Street of Baynard's Castle, and also the Tower of Mount-fitchit, to be destroyed: In Place of which the said Robert built the Church of the Black-fryars, and placed them therein. King Edward I. and Eleanor his Wife, were great Benefactors thereunto. This was a large Church, and richly furnished with Ornaments; wherein divers Parliaments, and other great Meetings, have been holden. Namely, in the Year 1450, the 28th of Henry VI. a Parliament was begun at Westminster, and adjourned to Black-fryars in LONDON, and from thence to Leicester.

IN the Year 1522, the Emperor Charles V. was lodged there.

IN the Year 1524, the 15th of April, a Parliament was begun at the Black-fryars, wherein was demanded a Subsidy of 800,000 l. to be raised of Goods and Lands, 4 s. in every Pound; and in the End was granted 2 s. of the Pound, of their Goods and Lands, that were worth 20 l. or might expend 20 l. by the Year; and so upwards, to be paid in two Years.

THIS Parliament was adjourned to Westminster, amongst the Black Monks, and ended in the King's Palace there the 14th of August, at nine o'Clock in the Night; and was therefore called the Black Parliament.

IN the Year 1529, Cardinal Campeius, the Legate, with Cardinal Wolsey, sate at the said Black-fryars; where, before them, as Legates and Judges, was brought in question the King's Marriage with Queen Katharine.

THE same Year, in the Month of October, began a Parliament in the Black-fryars, in which Cardinal Wolsey was condemned in the Premunire.

THIS House, valued at 104 l. 15 s. 5 d. was surrendered the 12th of November, the 30th of Henry VIII.

KING Edward VI. in the 4th of his Reign, of his special Favour, granted to Sir Thomas Cawarden, Knt. the whole House, Scite or Circuit, Compass and Precinct, of the late Fryar-Preachers within the City of LONDON; and divers other Lands and Tenements in LONDON. The Patent dated March the 12th, the yearly Value being reckoned at 19 l. But the Hall, and the Scite of the Prior's Lodgings, within the Precinct of Black-fryars, were sold in the 1st of King Edward VI. to Sir Francis Brian, Knt. being valued at 40 s. per Ann.

IN this House of the Friar-Preachers of LONDON, the antient Kings of this Land had their Records and Charter kept, as well as at the Tower of LONDON, and other Castles in England.

IN Queen Elizabeth's Time, this Black-fryars was much inhabited by Noblemen and Gentlemen, as before: For the Spaciousness of it, Parliaments often sat there, and Noble Personages were there harboured.

IN the Year 1586, the City and the Owners of Black and White-fryars in LONDON, had a great Contest: The Cause was tried before the Lords Chief Juſtices. The City claimed the Liberties of both theſe Fryars, upon ſuch Arguments as theſe, which their Coubſel urged: That the Precinct of the ſaid Fryars were in LONDON, and therefore claimed the like Liberty in them as in the reſt of the City. And that divers Felons, for Felonies within the two Precincts, were in the Fryars Times indicted, arraigned and tried in LONDON. They claimed now to have from her Majeſty all Waifes, Strays, Felons Goods, Amerciaments, Eſcheats, &c. the Execution of all Proceſſes; the Expulſion of all the Foreigners; the Aſſize of Bread, Beer, Ale, and Wine; the Wardmote Queſt, and ſuch other Juriſdictions as they had within the reſt of the City. But the Counſel againſt the City anſwered theſe Allegations, and produced ſome other Proofs for the better Confirmation of the ſaid Liberties. They denied not the Fryars to be in LONDON, but they affirmed them not to be of LONDON, no more than St. Martin's le Grand, Creechurch, St. Bartholomew, &c.

THE Citizens ſtruggled long with Black-fryars, moved by the many Inconveniences they ſuffer'd by the pretended Freedom of the Place, injuring ſuch as had ſerved their Times to Trades, by being under-ſold by theſe Tradeſmen that here inhabited, and injuring Buyers by ſelling bad Commodities; whereof there was no Remedy, no City-Searchers, whether the Commodities made and ſold here were good, being admitted within the Liberties of the Fryars. Here alſo, oftentimes, Harbour was given to Felons, and Malefactors took Shelter here. So that an Order was moved and began, Purchaſe being Mayor, about the Year 1497, for Remedy of this. And no Good coming of it, the Commons, in a Common-Council, petitioned the Mayor, Sir John Percival, the next Year, for incouraging the ſaid Order, and calling into Queſtion ſuch as oppoſed it.

WHICH Petition ran in theſe Words:

" Alſo, for the Reformacyon of the Myſchef
" growyng to the Cyte, by going to Fryars, " pleaſe that my Lord Mayr, Aldirmen, and " Common Counſayle to provyde, that the " Ordre moved and begonne before M. Pur-
" chaſe, late Mayr, and other of his predeceſ-" ſours, may be put in effecte. That ſuch Per-
" ſones which were dyffyculte againſt the ſaid
" Ordere, be callyd afore my Lorde Mayr and " Aldyrmen, to be reformed by theyr wyſe Ex-
" hortacyons; under ſuch Fourme, as ſuch ob-
" ſtynate Perſones be not noted above al other,
" as Brokers and Deſtroyers of the Common " Wele. And yf the ſayd Perſones wyl not be " conformable in thys Partye to leve the Fryars, " that then that may pleaſe my Lorde Mayr and " Aldyrmen to cal a Common Counſale; and
" by their Autorite, to appoynte certayne Per" ſones, with the Counſayle, to ſue to the " Kyngys Grace for a Dyſpenſacyon of the Act
" of Parliament, lately made to the contrarye.

AMONG other Privileges, Black-fryars, and the other exempt Places claimed, one, among the reſt was, That they would not contribute to the Muſters, when the Militia was raiſed in the City, as it was in the Year 1585, Sir Thomas Pulliſon, Mayor. Who was therefore fain to make a Complaint to the Court thereof, praying, That by their Authority, Black-fryars, and the other privileged Places, might alſo bear their Burthen in Muſters, as well as other Inhabitants of the City. Advertiſing the Lord Treaſurer,
" That where the Black-fryars, St. Martin's
" White-fryars, and other exempt Places, were " appointed to be contributory to this Charge,
" they refuſed to be taxed, and would not yield
" to pay any Thing, unleſs they had Direction
" from the Lord Treaſurer, or other the Lords
" of her Majeſty's Privy Council, for the doing " thereof. Wherefore, and for that the Service " fell out to be of ſo far greater Charge than was " expected, we humbly beſought his Lordſhip's " Order and Commandment to thoſe exempt
" Places, for Contribution.

THE antient Church belonging to the Black-fryars, LONDON, was (before the Diſſolution of Religious Houſes by King Henry VIII,) one of the moſt ſpacious and faireſt Churches in LONDON. But the Fryars being put out, the Church (together with other Buildings) was utterly demoliſhed. Therefore the Inhabitants of the ſaid Black-fryars, LONDON, fitted an upper Room, of fifty Feet in Length, and thirty Feet in Breadth, for a publick Place of Divine Worſhip. The Charges of purchaſing and fitting the ſaid Room for a Church, appeareth not in any Record that we can find. Black-fryars Church.

Anno 1597, when the Church was empty, and no Body in it, a great Part of the Roof thereof fell down; whereupon, the then Inhabitants being about to repair their ſaid Church, obtained of Sir George Moore, Kt. ſo much Ground as inlarged their Church with an Iſle on the Weſt, fifty Feet in Length, and fifteen Feet in Breadth. For which Ground, they built at their own Coſt, a Warehouſe under the ſaid Iſle, for the Uſe of Sir Jerome Bows, Kt. who then had the ſaid Ground in Leaſe; and alſo gave him 133 l. The new building of their ſaid Church and Iſle (beſide the foreſaid 133 l. given to Sir Jerome Bows) coſt 300 l. 18 s.

This Pariſh-Church of St. Anne, within the Precinct of the Black-fryars, was pulled down with the Fryars Church, by Sir Thomas Cardin, alias Carden. But in the Reign of Queen Mary, he being forced to find a Church to the Inhabitants, allowed them a Lodging-Chamber above Stairs, which ſince that Time, to wit, in the Year 1597, fell down, (as was ſhewn before,) and was again (by Collection thereof made) new built and enlarged in the ſame Year; and was dedicated on the 11th of December.

In this Place Anthony Munday, in his Edition of Stow, inſerts the Copy of an antient Record, concerning the Privileges and Liberties granted to the Black-fryars, which is as follows:

Notes and Articles for Maintenance of the antient Liberties and Privileges of the late diſſolved Black-Fryars, near Ludgate, in LONDON.

First, It appeareth, that on the 25th Day of November, 1484, John Alforde, Shoemaker, dwelling within the Black-Fryars, in LONDON, was apprehended and put to Death at Tyburn, for Felony; Thomas Newland, alias Norland, and William Martin, then being Sheriffs of LONDON, who ſought to have had the Goods of the ſaid Felon; but the Prior of the ſaid Black-Fryars withſtood them, and poſſeſſed the ſame Goods, to the Uſe of the Lord of St John's, of whom the ſame Fryars was then holden.

II. Item, The Lord of St. John's hath uſually made the Bridge at the Thames, adjoining to the ſaid Fryars, and not the City of LONDON, &c.

III. Item, The Prior and Convent were incorporated by Act of Parliament, in the Time of Henry VI. whereby they might preſcribe, and did always uſe and keep the Liberty inviolately, and clearly exempted from the Citizens.

IV. Item, The Precinct hath always been of ſuch Liberties, as that no Man hath been arreſted within the ſame, by any of the Sheriffs Officers. And if at any Time any Officer of the City hath taken upon him to execute within the four Gates, he was reſcued by the Fryars and Inhabitants of Antiquity.

V. Item, At all Times there hath dwelt within the Precinct, divers, and many Perſons, not free; and yet they have uſed their Occupations there, without Comptrollment of the City and Citizens.

VI. Item, Always at ſundry Times (of long Continuance) divers and many Carpenters, Maſons, and ſuch like, have been ſent out of the Country, and have wrought within the Precinct aforeſaid; which is not ſufferable within the Liberties of the City, by their own Cuſtoms and Ordinances.

VII. Item, Upon the View of any Perſon ſlain, the Coroner of the Verge did always make Enquiry thereof; and the Deodand is due to the Lord of St. John's, and not to the City. But now the Queen's Highneſs due by Law, Equity and good Conſcience, whoſe right and lawful Title, the Owners and Inhabitants of the ſaid exempted Place and Precinct, do ſeek with their Bodies and Goods to defend and maintain, againſt all pretended Title and Claim of the Citizens, notwithſtanding divers of the Precinct and Liberty, have been greatly vexed and troubled with often Impriſonments within the Compters of the City.

VIII. Item, The Inhabitants within the ſaid Precinct, were never charged to watch or ward, or to be within the Compaſs of any Impoſition, ſuch as the Citizens are uſed and accuſtomed by their Laws.

IX. Item, In the Time of King Edward VI, Sir Andrew Jude, then being Mayor, there was a Riot committed in the Black-Fryars, in the Houſe of one Maſter Lucas, by one Crouchman, of the City, and other Perſons with him. The Force whereof was ſoon overſwayed by Sir Tho. Saunders, and Sir Henry Jermingham, Knights. William Moore, Eſq; with other Gentlemen inhabiting in the ſaid Fryars; and the Parties, by Purſuit, were twice indicted in the Marſhalſea Court, holden in Southwark, Sir Nicholas Hare, then being Steward, and ſitting at the Doing thereof. After which Time, the ſaid Crouchman (with other Confederates with him) ſought to indict the ſaid Gentlemen, by an eſpecial Seſſions in the ſaid City; for Stay whereof, the Lords of the King's Privy Council, underſtanding the lewd Practices of the ſaid Crouchman, and others, and that the Lord Mayor had nothing to do within the Precinct, wrote their Letters unto the ſaid Andrew Jude, then Mayor, willing him not to diſturb the ſaid Gentlemen for the ſaid Fact, to the infringing of the Liberties of the ſaid Fryars. The ſaid Sir Thomas Saunders, and Maſter

Maſter William Moore, being Bearers of the ſaid Letters to the ſaid Lord Mayor: Who upon Deliberation, made Anſwer to the ſaid Bearers by Word of Mouth: "That for as much as there "was a Complaint made to him, of a Riot com- "mitted within the City, he muſt needs (within "one Month after) inquire by Seſſions of the "ſame; which, he ſaid, could not be prejudicial "to them, being out of the Juriſdiction of the "City: For that the ſame ſhould be non coram "judice; and yet they diſcharged of the Peril "of the Statute." And ſo they proceeded with the ſaid Letters. Whereupon, the ſaid Thomas, and Maſter William Moore, making Report of their Succeſs with the Mayor, to the Lords of the Council, they wrote eſtſoones, other Letters to the ſaid Mayor, but of ſuch Force touching the Premiſes, which were alſo carried by the ſaid Sir Thomas, and Mr. Moore. Whereupon, the ſaid Mayor ſtayed from any further Proceeding therein, or any other, &c.

X. Item, IN Queen Mary's Time, the Counſel of the City put a Bill into the Parliament-Houſe, ſeeking by the ſame to have the Liberties of the ſaid Fryars: Which Bill, with all the Surmiſes, were ſo utterly rejected, that their Bill never came to the Queſtion; but was ſo ſuppreſſed, by Argument openly in the ſame Houſe.

XI. Item, THE Liberties granted to Maſter Cawarden, by Letters Patent of King Edw. VI, the Goods of Felons therein not granted, and ſo due to the Queen's Majeſty. Whoſe Right and Title the City hath not had, nor can be ſuffered to enjoy, according to their ſeeking; by the only Reſiſtance of the ſaid Owners and Inhabitants within the Liberty and Precinct, clearly exempted from the City, by Metes and Bounds on every Side.

XII. Item, THE ſaid Precinct hath always been ſhut up and kept by Walls and Gates: So as there was no Egreſs that Way, but by Licence of the Porters, who were maintained and placed by the Owners of the ſaid Fryars, and Liberties of the ſame, by eſpecial and general Words, granted by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of England, to divers Owners and Freeholders there of the Queen's Majeſty. And eſpecially, above all other, to Sir Thomas Cawarden, Kt. deceaſed, in his Letters Patent dated the 12th Day of May, in the fourth Year of King Edward VI, in as large, ample and full Manner, and with as many pithy and effectual Words, as ever was read or ſeen in any Patent, made for Grant of Liberties of any Place exempted, as by the ſame Patent more largely appears. The true Copy whereof is annexed to theſe Articles, by the Delivery of Maſter Moore, true Owner of the moſt Part of the ſaid Liberties.

XIII. Item, THAT James Norrice, Curate of St. Peter's in Cornhill, being ſome Time one of the Fryars, and Brethren of the Black-Fryars aforeſaid, near Ludgate, LONDON, ſaith and affirmeth, That one Robert Struddell, late Prior of the ſaid Fryars, was, by Order of Law, conſtrained to pave the High Street adjoining round about the Channel-Walls, from the Fleur de Liz, towards the Hill at Creed-lane End. And a Cage at that Time ſtanding on that Side the Street, adjoining to the aforeſaid Wall, within the Pariſh of St. Andrew; which Cage was pulled down by the ſaid Prior, and not ſince ſet up again, the Prior aforeſaid ſaying: "Seeing they "of the City cauſe me to pave all this Side of "the Street next my Wall, they ſhall have no "Cage of others ſtanding on my Ground, againſt "mine own Wall." And ſo the City never builded a Cage on that Side after.

XIV. Item, MOREOVER, the ſaid Maſter Norrice ſaith, That the Liberties of the Black-Fryars in the ſaid Prior's Days, were ſuch, that the Lord Mayor of the City of LONDON, nor the Sheriffs, did arreſt any Man within the ſaid Liberty for any Thing, as free, as he well remembers, in all his Time.

XV. Item, HE remembers, that four Gates were ſhut in, during the Fryars Time, by the Commandment of the Prior. And one Father Seagar being then Porter, appointed by the ſaid late Prior, Robert Struddell, with others after him, at the Appointment of other Priors then ſucceeding; and not by the Mayor of LONDON, nor any other.

The Saying of Thomas Ulverſton, alias Wolverſton, of Garlick Hithe, Officer to the Vintners of LONDON, and ſome Time a Fryar of the Black-Fryars. Taken before me Sir Thomas Saunders, Kt. the 30*th Day of* May, Anno Domini 1562.

XVI. Item, HE ſaith, He hath heard ſay many Times among the Fryars and others, that Maſter Peacocke of LONDON, and his Predeceſſors, had never a Door into the Black-Fryars out of his Houſe; but by Fine and Agreement made for the ſame, long before his Time of Remembrance.

XVII. Item, He ſaith, That the Porters of the Fryars always kept their four Gates, Time out of Mind, by the Appointment of the Prior and Convent, clear exempted from the City. And when the Porters perceived any ſuſpected Perſons or Malefactors, within the Limits of the Fryars, they declared it to the Prior, who forthwith commanded them to take the Aid of the honeſt Inhabitants within the Fryars, to make Search and Watch for the Apprehenſion of ſuch lewd Perſons. Which ſo found, were always examined by Sir William Kingſton, Kt. and other good Men there inhabiting within the Fryars, at the Porter's Deſire, and not otherwiſe.

XVIII. Item, HE never heard, nor did know in all his Time, any Search or Watch to be made within the Precinct of the Fryars, by any Watchman or Conſtable of the City, who could never come within any of the Fryars Gates, but by the Porter's Licence of the ſame Fryars.

XIX. Item, He ſaith, That the Prior and Convent did once pave the Streets (by his Time) from the Fryars Turngate, unto the Flower de liz, along by the Wall, to the Channel of the ſame Street.

XX. Item, He ſaith, If any Vagabond, or any Drunkard, or miſordered Perſon, were taken culpable within the Precinct of the Fryars, they were always puniſhed in the Fryars Stocks againſt the Church Door, by the Prior's Commandment, and not by the Lord Mayor's, or Sheriffs of LONDON.

XXI. Item, Sir John Portenary, Kt. inhabiting within the late Black-fryars, near Ludgate, LONDON, about thirty Years paſt, doth well remember, that after the Suppreſſion of the ſaid Black-fryars, the Lord Mayor of LONDON would have enter'd into the ſaid Black-fryars, and claimed the Liberties of the ſame. For which, the Lord Cobham, the Lord Zanche, Sir Thomas Cheiney, Sir William Kingſton, Sir Francis Brian, Knights, with many other Worſhipful Gentlemen, then being Inhabitants within the Liberties and Precinct of the ſaid late Black-fryars, denied the Lord Mayor and Citizens Entrance, and would not permit, nor ſuffer them, or any of them, to enter within the ſame. And ſhortly after, Sir Francis Brian, and Sir Thomas Cheiney, moved the King's Majeſty, then being King Henry VIII, how the ſaid Mayor and Citizens would have enter'd into the ſaid Fryars. And then the King's Majeſty ſaid unto them theſe Words following: Are not We as able to keep our Privileges and Liberties, as the Fryars did keep their Privileges always before time, free from the City? Whereupon, they all (by one Conſent and Agreement) ſent the ſaid Lord Mayor Word of the King's Majeſty's Anſwer and Pleaſure therein. Whereupon the Lord Mayor and Aldermen were ſatisfied, and would no further proceed upon the King's Right and Title of Liberties; as then they promiſed and affirmed by the Mouth of the Recorder, being ſent by the Mayor to the Worſhipful of the ſaid Fryars. And the ſaid Sir John Portenary further ſaith, That after the ſaid Fryars were ſuppreſs'd, the Lord Cromwell, Vicar-General, cauſed to be delivered unto the ſaid Sir John Portenary, the Keys of all the ſaid Fryars, ſafely to keep them from the ſaid City; and to provide, that all within the ſaid Liberty, ſhould be in Safety and Safeguard. The which Keys were afterwards delivered by the ſaid Sir John Portenary, to the Hands of Dr. Layton, and Dr. Wendic, they being Viſitors there. For the which, the ſaid Sir John Portenary had a certain Reward paid unto him by the Lord North, then being Chancellor of the Augmentation Court. All which Matter, the ſaid Sir John Portenary will depoſe to be moſt certain and true, as he will anſwer at the dreadful Day of Judgment upon his Soul.

XXII. Be it in Remembrance perpetual, for infallible Truth, that one Alexander Avenon, being Sheriff of LONDON, and one other, being Alderman of the Ward of Farindon infra, came and entered very ſtoutly into the Liberty of the Black-fryars near Ludgate, the 15th Day of May 1562, to carry away all the Hoſiers and Taylors, to come to the Guildhall in LONDON, according to the Queen's new Proclamation: Which Hoſiers and Taylors denied to go with the ſaid Sheriff, affirming and ſaying, That they had put in Bonds (before their coming) to the Lord Cobham, and to Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. two of the Queen's Juſtices of the Peace within the ſaid Liberty (being within the Verge, and exempted from the City of LONDON) according to the Queen's Proclamation. And thereupon, one John Bradford, being Conſtable of the ſame exempted Place, and within the Liberty of the ſaid Queen's Verge, cauſed the four Porters of the ſaid Fryars to ſhut all the Gates; which being perceived by the ſaid Sheriff and Aldermen, the ſaid Sheriff commanded the Gates to be opened; whereunto the ſaid Conſtable of the Fryars ſaid, That they ſhould not be opened, before the Juſtices Pleaſure of the Fryars were known. And then the Sheriff of LONDON ſaid, That he was of greater Authority than the Juſtices were. The Conſtable affirming him ſo to be within the City of LONDON, but not within the Precinct of the Liberty of the Black-fryars. For the Conſtable ſaid, that he had greater Power and Authority there than the Sheriff had. Which being heard, and ſcant well digeſted by them; fearing further Inconvenience to ariſe thereupon (as by ſudden changing of their grieved Countenance was plainly declared) the ſaid Sheriff and Alderman (with gentle Language) deſired the Conſtable to open the Gates quietly, and ſuffer them to paſs thence, which he did at their gentle Requeſt and Intreaty. And ſo they departed out of the Liberty of the Black-fryars, by the Porters Commandment, and gave to the Porters for opening the Gates, Money.

People of St. Martin's, as well Strangers as others, (in the open high Street) marvelling and wondering at the ſaid Sheriff's and Alderman's Incloſure within the ſaid Fryars Gates: On the Morrow after, being the 16th Day of May, 1562, one Harford being Conſtable of St. Martin's Pariſh within Ludgate, in the High Street there, took one (Gilbert) Trethern, a Hoſier and Taylor, dwelling in the ſaid Fryars, and carried him to the Lord Mayor of LONDON; who by and by (without Delay, or any further Speech) commanded the ſaid Gilbert to the Compter in LONDON. Whereupon, the ſaid Sir Thomas Saunders, as one of the Juſtices of the ſaid Liberty, went to the Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward to the Queen's moſt Honourable Houſehold, declaring the whole Circumſtance of the ſaid Sheriff and Alderman's Enterprize. And obtained a Token to the Lord Mayor, no further to enter the ſaid Liberty within the Verge; until, by Law, or the Privy Council's Judgment, the Queſtion moved were determined, concerning the infringing of the ſaid antient Liberty. All this was ſpoken in the Preſence of Peter Baugh, Lewes Rawbone, and divers other Strangers. In Witneſs and Probation whereof, the ſaid Sir Thomas hath ſubſcribed his Name, with divers others hereunder written, which were preſent.

XXIII. Be it had in perpetual Memory, for a continual perfect Declaration or the Truth, whereunto all Matters of Variance and Controverſy ſhould be referred and advanced; and not the Sparks of Truth to be hidden (as a Candle bearing perfect Light, under a Buſhel) and ſo waſhed away in the flowing Waters of unmindful Oblivion; which (amongſt all good Chriſtian Men) is at all Times, and in all Ages, to be rejected, and not to be embraced; but rather to be buried in the Bottom of the Earth, never to riſe again.

In Conſideration whereof, by theſe Preſents, it is for an infallible Truth, to be holden with all Men, which ſhall hear or ſee this preſent Writing, That Robert Flower, Taylor and Hoſier, dwelling within the Precinct and Liberties of the late Black-fryars, near Ludgate, in LONDON, was by Commandment of the whole Bench of Aldermen, committed into one of the Compters of LONDON, the 20th Day of May, 1582. For that the ſame Robert Flower refuſed to be bound (according to Order taken) from the making of monſtrous great Hoſen, according to the Queen's Proclamation in that Behalf. Becauſe the ſaid Robert Flower had (amongſt other Perſons) put in Bonds before the Honourable Warden of the five Ports, and Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. Juſtices within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. After which revealed and known to the Honourable Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward of the Queen's moſt Honourable Houſhold; who cauſed the Knight Marſhal to go to the ſaid Lord Mayor, requiring the Deliverance of the ſaid Priſoner. The Lord Mayor (being ſickly) made Anſwer, That he knew nothing thereof; but deſired him to ſpeak with Mr. Recorder. Who made Anſwer, That the ſaid Impriſonment was done by the whole Bench of Aldermen, and he (as one particular Perſon) could not deliver the Priſoner until the next Court-Day, which could not be till two Days after, to the great Charges and Hindrance of the ſaid Priſoner.

Whereupon the Lord Steward ſent to Maſter Cholmely, he being Recorder of LONDON, and commanded him to deliver the Priſoner; or elſe he would impriſon the Mayor of LONDON, and the ſaid Recorder, and the fatteſt Alderman in the City, which he could get within the Verge. And declared, that the Queen's Liberties and Franchiſes ſhould not be overcome by the Lord Mayor and Bench of Aldermen, ſo long as he was Officer; with many other Words againſt the Citizens, which were too long to write. Adding further, that the Mayor did not meddle with St. Martin's, being within the City, and a Parcel of Weſtminſter Deanary: Much leſs ſhould he meddle with the ſaid Liberty of the Fryars, bounded out by Walls and Gates from the City; being being in the County of Middleſex, and not within the City. And ſo commanded the Recorder to ſend home the Priſoner into the Liberty preſently; which was ſo done accordingly. Promiſing, that if the Lord Mayor could declare or ſhew any good Title, whereby to break the Liberty, the Queen's learned Counſel ſhould anſwer him and them therein. And then the Recorder ſaid, He never heard before that Time, that the Lord Steward did claim the Precinct of the Black-fryars, to be within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. Out of which Juriſdiction the City of LONDON is exempted by the Statute of 32 Henry VIII. Cap. 2. under Colour of which Statute, the Mayor would bring the ſaid Fryars to be in LONDON, which in all the Fryars Time was freely exempted.

ALL which Matter was debated in the Preſence of Sir Thomas Saunders, Knt. Maſter Robert Hopton, one of the Knight Marſhals, and Mr. Bromeley, Under Steward of the Marſhalſea, the Day and Year abovewritten.

XXIV. Item, That in Queen Mary's Time, or King Edward's Time, her Brother, there was a Man ſlain within the ſaid Precinct of the Black-fryars. And the Goods of him that was ſuppoſed to do the Deed, were ſtayed within the ſaid Fryars, and an Inventory taken by the next Juſtice of Peace within the Verge, Roger Cholmeley, Kt. by the Commandment of Sir Thomas Cheney, Kt. And afterwards one Maſter Garrard, and the Recorder of LONDON, came unto the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheney's Houſe, within the ſame Precinct, and would have made an Inventory of the Goods of the Party Offender aforeſaid, now deceaſed. But the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheney would not permit nor ſuffer them ſo to do; for that he had made Stay of the ſame Goods for the Queen before, if it were lawfully found that the ſaid Party had ſlain the Man dead. Which afterwards was otherwiſe found by a Queſt of Twelve Men, ſitting ſuper viſum corporis of the Dead, by the Coroner of the Verge, within the ſaid Liberty; where the Mayor of LONDON and Bench of Aldermen have not to do, nor intermit with the Inhabitants thereof. Becauſe the whole Fryars Liberties, and Franchiſes of the ſame, were freely given unto King Henry VIII. by Act of Parliament. Whereby the Lord Mayor of LONDON, and Bench of Aldermen, are clearly barred and ſecluded from the Fryars Liberties, and the Inhabitants thereof franchiſed, and clean exempted from all the Citizens, and their Impoſitions or other Taxations.

ADD to the reſt, this Teſtimony following.

The true Copy of the Vicar of Bromley's LETTER, in Kent, ſent to Maſter Thomas Walſingham, of Scadborough, in the ſaid County, Eſq; who ſent the ſame Letter to Sir Tho. Saunders, Kt. he being alſo one of the Queen's Juſtices of the Peace in the ſaid County; to examine the ſeveral Particulars therein, concerning the Liberties of the ſaid Fryars, &c.

RIGHT WORSHIPFUL, You ſhall underſtand that I have received your kind Letter; according whereunto, theſe are to ſatisfy your Mind, that I was dwelling in the Black-fryars four or five Years; and came thither from Oxford, where I had been a Student of Divinity. I was alſo Curate of the Pariſh within the Black-fryars, called St. Agnes. We had within us a Porter, who did ſhut all the Gates every Night; at nine o'Clock in the Winter, and at 10 o'Clock in the Summer. No Sheriff, Bailiff or Conſtable, nor yet the Mayor of LONDON, took Intereſt there at any Time; nor Foreign Porters had to do within our Privilege. And the Fryars did pave both within the Turn-gate and without, unto St. Andrew's Church, down by the Great Garden Wall: And without the Turn-gate there was a Cage, pulled down in my Time, which was ſet up by the Lord Mayor of LONDON. The Inhabitants within the Fryars never watched; neither the Conſtable of St. Martin's Pariſh warned any Watch there, neither came within the Gates after the Hour appointed, at any Time. The Sheriffs of LONDON had no Felons Goods there, neither did Arreſt any Perſon within the Precinct of the Houſe. As for Bakers and Brewers that belonged to the Houſe, they are dead.

THERE is one James Norrice, Curate, alive; who was brought up in the Houſe, and dwelling at St. Michael's in Cornhill, he can give you further Inſtructions. Whether there be any more living, I know not.

The following is the Relation of a diſmal Accident in Black-fryars, which happening at the Time of Evening Service was called afterwards, The Fatal Veſper.

The Fatal Veſper.

ON the Lord's Day, October 26, it went far and near, that one Drury, a Romiſh Prieſt (a Man of Parts, and eminent Gifts) would preach that Day in the Afternoon in a Houſe in Black-fryars, LONDON, whither all that would might freely come and hear him.

UPON this Report very many, Proteſtants as well as Papiſts, Scholars as well as others, aſſembled about Three o'Clock in the Afternoon. That Manſion-Houſe was inhabited by the French Ambaſſador; and the Sermon was to be in a Garret; into which there were two Paſſages: One out of the Ambaſſador's Withdrawing-Room, which was private, the other more common without the great Gate of the ſaid Manſion-Houſe.

UNDER this Garret was another large Chamber which one Rediate, another Romiſh Prieſt, had hired for himſelf: Unto whom Papiſts frequently repaired to hear Maſs, and make Confeſſions. Under this Room was the aforeſaid Withdrawing-Chamber of the Ambaſſador, ſupported with ſtrong Arches of Stone, being immediately over the Entrance into the great Houſe: And at the South-End of the Garret, and on the Weſt-Side thereof, there were Bed-Chambers, and Cloſets, which other Prieſts had hired for themſelves: The Bed-Chamber at the South-End, was ſevered from the Garret only by a Partition of Wainſcot which was taken down for the Sermon-time: The Length of the Garret from North to South was almoſt 40 Feet, the Breadth about 16 Feet: The two aforeſaid Paſſages met on one Pair of Stairs leading to the Garret which had only that one Door leading into it.

MORE came to this Place than poſſibly it could hold, ſo that many for Want of Room returned back again: Others went into the aforeſaid Rediate's Chamber, and tarried with him. The whole Garret, Rooms adjoining, Door, and Top of the Stairs were as full as they could hold. In the Garret were ſet Chairs and Stools for the better Sort: Moſt of the Women ſate on the Floor, but moſt of the Men ſtood thronged together: In all, about 200, were there aſſembled. In the midſt was a Table and a Chair for the Preacher.

ALL Things thus prepared, and the Multitude aſſembled, about Three o'Clock the expected Preacher, having on a Surplice girt about his Middle with a Linen Girdle, and a Tippet of Scarlet on both his Shoulders, came in, being attended by a Man that brought him his Book, and Hour-glaſs.

AS ſoon as he came to the Table, he kneeled down with a Shew of private Devotion for a little while:

while: Then riſing up, and turning himſelf to the People, he croſſed himſelf, took the Book (which was ſaid to be a Rhemiſt Teſtament) out of his Man's Hands, and the Hour-glaſs being ſet on the Table, he opened the Book, read the Goſpel appointed by the Romiſh Calendar for that Day, being the twenty firſt Sunday after Pentecoſt: The Goſpel was in Mat. xviii, 23, &c. The Text being read, he ſat down, put on a red Cap over a white Linen one turned up about the Brims: He made no audible Prayer, but having read his Text, which was the Parable of forgiving Debts, he ſpake ſomething of the Occaſion of it, and then propounded theſe three ſpecial Points to be handled.

1. The Debt we owe to God.
2. The Mercy of God in forgiving it.
3. Man's Unmercifulneſs to his Brother.

HAVING inſiſted ſome while on the Miſery of Man, by reaſon of the Debt wherein he ſtands bound to God, he paſſed on to declare the rich Mercy of God, and the Means which God hath afforded to his Church, for partaking thereof: Amongſt which he reckoned up the Sacraments, and eſpecially preſſed the Sacrament of Penance, as they call it.

WHEN he had diſcourſed on theſe Points about half an Hour, on a ſudden the Floor whereon the Preacher and the greateſt Part of his Auditory were, fell down with ſuch Violence, as therewith the Floor of the Chamber under it, where Rediate and his Company were, was broken down with it, ſo that both the Floors, with the Beams, Girders, Joiſts, Boards, and Cielings, with all the People on them, fell down together upon the third Floor, which was the Floor of the French Ambaſſador's withdrawing Chamber, ſupported with ſtrong Arches as aforeſaid.

THERE being a Partition on the South-Side of the Middle Chamber which reached up to the Floor of the Garret, which was at the North-Weſt Corner. Hereupon ſome through Amazement, would have leaped out of a Window almoſt forty Feet from the Ground; but the People without, telling them of the certain Danger if they leaped down, kept them from that deſperate Attempt: At length by breaking a Wall on the Weſt-Side they diſcerned Chambers adjoining thereto, and ſo by creeping through that Hole into the Chambers, they were ſaved: So were all they that ſtood on the Stair-Head at the Door leading into the Garret: For the Stairs were without the Room, and nothing fell but the Floors, neither Walls nor Roof.

ALSO amongſt thoſe that fell, many eſcaped; for ſome of the Timber reſted with one End on the Walls, and with the other on the third Floor that yielded not, and ſo both ſuch as abode on thoſe Pieces, and ſuch as were directly under them, were thereby preſerved. Amongſt the Multitude that fell, there was a Miniſter who (through God's Providence) fell ſo between two Pieces of Timber, as that the Timber kept his upper Parts from cruſhing; and helped him by his claſping about the Timber to pull out his Feet from amongſt the dead Corpſes.

AMONGST others, the preſent Preſervation and future Deſtruction of one Parker was very remarkable. This Parker was a Factor for the Engliſh Seminaries, and Nuns beyond Sea, eſpecially at Cambre; and he had ſo dealt with two of his Brothers here, that he had got from one of them a Son, and from the other a Daughter, to ſend them to religious Houſes (as they falſly call them) beyond Sea: This Parker at this Time took his Nephew, a Youth about ſixteen Years old, to the aforementioned fatal Conventicle where Drury preached; and both Parker and his Nephew fell with the reſt: The Youth there loſt his Life, but Parker himſelf eſcaped with a bruiſed Body, being a corpulent Man: But about ten Days after, as this Parker was ſhooting London Bridge, with his aforeſaid Niece, whom he was conveying beyond Sea, they were caſt away, and drowned in the Thames.

OTHERS there were that were pulled out alive, but ſo bruiſed, or ſo ſpent for want of Breath, that ſome lived not many Hours, others died not many Days after.

THE Floor of the Chamber immediately over this, where the Corpſes lay, being fallen, there was no Entrance into it but through the Ambaſſador's Bed-chamber, the Door whereof was cloſed up with the Timber of the Floors that fell down; and the Walls of this Room were of Stone, only there was one Window in it with extraordinary ſtrong croſs Bars of Iron, ſo that though Smiths and other Workmen were immediately ſent for, yet it was more than an Hour before Succour could be afforded to them that were fallen down.

PASSAGE at length being made, I had Acceſs into the Room (ſaith Doctor Gouge, the Relater of this Story) and viewing the Bodies, obſerved ſome (yet but few) to be mortally wounded, or cruſhed by the Timber: Others to be apparently ſtifled, partly with their thick lying one upon another, and partly with the Duſt that came from the Cieling which fell down.

ON the Lord's Day at Night, when they fell, they were numbered ninety one dead Bodies: But many of them were ſecretly conveyed away in the Night, there being a Pair of Water Stairs, leading from the Garden appertaining to the Houſe, into the Thames. On the Morrow the Coroner and his Inqueſt coming to view the Bodies, found remaining but ſixty three.

OF thoſe that were carried away ſome were buried in a Burying Place within the Spaniſh Ambaſſador's Houſe in Holborn, amongſt whom the Lady Web was one, the Lady Blackſtone's Daughter another, and one Miſtreſs Udal a third: Maſter Stoker, and Maſter Bartholomew Bavin were buried in Brides Pariſh. Robert Sutton, John Loccham, and Abigail Holford in Andrews Holborn. Captain Summer's Wife in the Vault under Black-fryars Church, and her Woman in the Church-yard. For the Corpſes remaining, two great Pits were digged, one in the fore Court of the ſaid French Ambaſſador's Houſe, eighteen Feet long, and 12 Feet broad: The other, in the Garden behind his Houſe, twelve Feet long, and eight Feet broad. In the former Pit were laid forty four Corpſes, whereof the Bodies of the aforeſaid Drury and Rediate were two. Theſe two wound up in Sheets, were firſt laid into the Pit, with a Partition of looſe Earth to ſever them from the reſt. Then were others brought, ſome in ſomewhat a decent Manner wound up in Sheets, but the moſt in a lamentable Plight, the Shirts only of the Men tied under the Twiſts, and ſome Linen tied about the Middle of the Women, the reſt of their Bodies naked, and one poor Man, or Woman, taking a Corpſe by the Head, another by the Feet, tumbled them in, and ſo piled them up almoſt to the Top of the Pit. The reſt were put into the other Pit in the Garden.

THEIR Manner of Burial ſeemed almoſt as diſmal, as the Heap of them, when they lay upon the Floor where they laſt fell. No Obſequies of Funeral Rites were uſed at their Burial. Only the Day after, a black Croſs of Wood was ſet upon each Grave, but was ſoon by Authority commanded to be taken down.

WHEN they were thus interred, thorough Search was made about the Cauſe of the falling of the Timber: The Timber of each Floor was laid together, and the Meaſure of the Summers that brake was taken. The main Summer which croſſed the Garret was ten Inches ſquare: Two Girders were by Tenents, and Mortaiſes let into the midſt of it, one juſt againſt another: The Summer was knotty where the Mortaiſes were made, whereupon being over-burdened, it ſnapped ſuddenly aſunder in the midſt.

The main Summer of the other Floor that fell was much ſtronger, being thirteen Inches ſquare, ſtrong and ſound every where, neither did the Girders meet ſo juſt one againſt another; yet that alſo failed, not in the midſt as the Uppermoſt, but within five Feet of one End, and that more ſhiveringly, and with a longer Rent in the Timber than the other; for this Chamber was almoſt full with ſuch Perſons as coming too late, went into Rediate's Chamber: Beſides, it did not only bear the Weight which lay on the upper Floor, but received it with a ſudden Knock, and ſo the maſſy Timber ſhivered in two, and the People were irrecoverably, before they could fear any ſuch Thing, beaten down into the third Floor, which was above twenty Feet from the firſt.

DOCTOR Gouge, who relates this Story in his Extent of God's Providence, thus writeth.

" I do the more confidently publiſh this Hiſ-" tory, becauſe I was an Eye-Witneſs of many " of the Things therein related, and heard from
" the Mouths of ſuch as were preſent at the Ser" mon the reſt. For upon the firſt hearing of " the Deſtruction of ſo many Perſons as by that " Downfal loſt their Lives, our Conſtable pre-" ſently cauſed the Gates of our Precinct (it be" ing ſurrounded with Walls and Gates) to be
" ſhut, and raiſed a ſtrong Guard from amongſt
" the Inhabitants, to keep the Houſe where this " Accident fell out, and to prevent Tumults
" about it. Thus through the Favour of the " Conſtables, and Watch, who were all my " Neighbours, I had the more free and quiet
" Acceſs to view the dead Bodies, and to inform " myſelf of all the material Circumſtances about " that Accident: Which I did the rather be" cauſe the Biſhop of LONDON that then
" was, ſent to me to inform myſelf throughly of " all the Buſineſs, and to ſend him a Narration " thereof under my Hand; whereupon I did not " only view Matters myſelf, but cauſed Carpen" ters to ſearch the Timber, to take the Mea-" ſures both of the Timber and Rooms. I was
" alſo preſent with the Coroner and his Inqueſt
" at their examining of all Circumſtances about
" the Buſineſs. And the Archbiſhop of Canter- " bury ſending to me to come to him, and to " bring with me the beſt Evidence I could, I got
" the Foreman of the Jury, and four Perſons
" that were preſent at the Sermon, and fell down
" with the reſt, but by God's Providence eſcaped
" Death, and one that ſtood without the Door,
" within hearing, but fell not, all theſe I got to " go along with me to Lambeth, where I heard
" the Witneſs which they gave to the Arch" biſhop about this Matter: One that fell with
" the reſt, and eſcaped Death, was Maſter Gee,
" a Preacher in Lancaſhire: Two others were a " Son and Servant to a Citizen in Pater-noſter-
" row: The reſt were Men of good Underſtand-
" ing, able to apprehend what they ſaw and
" heard, and to relate what they conceived.

IN King Edward III. his Reign, a Houſe being newly built in the Black-fryars, near the Wall of the City, to the Annoyance of the ſaid Fryars and the City, and built without Licence, in a Perambulation was ſolemnly viewed by the Lord Mayor, with many of the Aldermen his Brethren; and was ordered to be pulled down within forty Days: otherwiſe the Sheriff was appointed to do it, and to Fine the Builder beſides forty Shillings. For which an antient Record of the City ran to this Tenor.

BEFORE we take our Leave of Black-fryars, ſaith Mr. Strype, I muſt mention a memorable Paſſage that happened after the Fire of LONDON. " Some Workmen digging in a Place
" there where the Convent was, to clear it from " the Rubbiſh, by the Appointment of Mr.
" William Bradford, in order to build, they " came to an old Wall in a Cellar, of great
" Thickneſs; where appeared a kind of Cup" board, which being opened, there were found " in it four Pots or Caſes of fine Pewter, thick,
" with Covers of the ſame; and Rings faſtened
" on the Top, to take up or put down at Plea-
" ſure. The Caſes were flat before, and round" ing behind. And in them were repoſited four " human Heads, unconſumed, reſerved, as it
" ſeems, by Art; with their Teeth and Hair,
" the Fleſh of a tawny Colour, wrapped up in " black Silk, almoſt conſumed. And a certain
" Subſtance, of a blackiſh Colour, crumbled
" into Duſt, lying at the Bottom of the Pots.
" One of theſe Pots, with the Head in it, I
" ſaw in October, 1703, being in the Cuſtody of " Mr. Presbury, Soap-maker in Smithfield:
" Which Pot had inſcribed in the Inſide of the " Cover, in a ſcrawling Character, (which might " be uſed in the Times of King Henry VIII.)
" T. CORNELIUS. This Head was with" out any Neck, having ſhort red Hair upon it,
" thick, and that would not be pulled off; and " yellow Hair upon the Temples; a little bald on " the Top, (perhaps a Tonſure) the Fore-part " of the Noſe ſunk, the Mouth gaping, ten
" ſound Teeth, others had been plucked out;
" the Skin like tanned Leather, the Features of " the Face viſible. There was one Body found " near it buried, and without an Head; but no
" other Bodies found. The other three Heads
" had ſome of the Necks joined to them, and " had a broader and plainer Razure; which " ſhewed them Prieſts. Theſe three Heads are " now diſperſed. One was given to an Apothe" cary: Another was intruſted with the Pariſh
" Clerk; who it is thought got Money by " ſhewing of it. It is probable they were at
" laſt privately procured, and conveyed abroad,
" and now become Holy Relicks.

Who

Who theſe were, there is no Record of, nor had any the Name inſcribed but one; they ſeem to have been ſome zealous Prieſts or Fryars, executed for Treaſon; whereof there were many in the Rebellion in Lincolnſhire, An. 1538, or for denying the King's Supremacy; and here privately depoſited by theſe Black Fryars.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL the QUERN.

NOW to turn again out of the Black-fryars, through Bowyer-row, Ave-mary-lane, and Pater-noſter-row, to the Church of St. Michael ad Bladum, or at the Corn, (corruptly called the Quern) ſo called, becauſe in Place thereof was ſometime a Corn-Market, ſtretching up Weſt to the Shambles. It ſeemeth that this Church was firſt built about the Reign of Edward III. Thomas Newton, firſt Parſon there, was buried in the Choir, in the Year 1361, which was the 35th of Edward III. At the Eaſt-End of this Church ſtood a Croſs, called the Old Croſs in Weſt-Cheap, which was taken down in the Year 1390, the 13th of Richard II. Since the which Time, the ſaid Pariſh Church was alſo taken down; but new built and inlarged in the Year 1430. The 8th of Henry VI. William Eaſtfield, Mayor, and the Commonalty, granted of the common Soil of the City, three Feet and an half in Breadth on the North Part, and four Feet in Breadth toward the Eaſt, for the inlarging thereof.

This Church was repaired, and with all Things, either for Uſe or Beauty, richly ſupplied and furniſhed, at the ſole Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1617.

This Church was burnt down in the great Fire, and not rebuilt;

But the Pariſh is united to St. Vedaſt Foſter-Lane.

There was a Parſonage-Houſe but demoliſhed by the Fire; and the Ground now lies in the open Street. And no Satisfaction ever received for the Loſs of the Ground. No Glebe belongs to this Pariſh.

There are ſeveral Bequeſts given to the Poor for Gowns and Bread; which are Yearly and Weekly diſpoſed of.

But as for Legacies or Gifts given to the Church (i. e. for the Repairing or Adorning thereof) there were none.

NUMBER of Houſes 76.

AT the Weſt End of this Pariſh-Church, was a ſmall Paſſage for People on Foot, through the ſame Church; and Weſt from the ſaid Church, ſome Diſtance, another Paſſage out of Pater-noſter-row, called Panyer-alley, which cometh out into the North over-againſt St. Martin's-lane.

UPON a Stone raiſed, about the Middle of this Panyer-alley; having the Figure of a Panier, with a Boy ſitting upon it, with a Bunch of Grapes, as it ſeems to be, held between his naked Foot and Hand, in Token, perhaps, of Plenty, is this Inſcription:

When you have ſought the City round
Yet ſtill this is the higheſt Ground.

Auguſt 26, 1688.

NEXT is Ivy-lane, ſo called from Ivy growing on the Walls of the Prebend-Houſes; but now the Lane is repleniſhed on both the Sides with good Houſes; divers Offices have been formerly there kept by Regiſters; namely, for the Prerogative Court of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the probate of Wills, and for the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrance of the Exchequer, &c.

THIS Lane runs North, to the Weſt End of St. Nicholas Shambles. Of old Time here was one great Houſe, ſome Time belonging to the Earls of Britain; ſince that, to the Lovels, and was called Lovel's-Inn. For Mathild, Wife to John Lovel, held it in the firſt of Henry VI.

THEN is Eldeneſe-lane, which ſtretches North to the High-Street of Newgate-market; the ſame is now called Warwick-lane, of an antient Houſe there built by an Earl of Warwick, and was ſince called Warwick-Inn. It is on Record called a Meſſuage in Eldeneſe-lane, in the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre, the 28th of Hen. VI. Cicile, the Dutcheſs of Warwick, poſſeſſed it.

IN this Lane is the College of Phyſicians, already mention'd in Book I. Chap. XII.

Now again, from where the Conduit by Paul's Gate ſtood, on the North Side, is a large Street running Weſt to Newgate, the firſt Part whereof, from the Conduit to the Shambles, was from felling Bladders there called Bladder-ſtreet. Then behind the Butchers Shops, were divers Slaughter-Houſes inward, and Tipling-Houſes outward. This was called Mount Goddard-ſtreet, by all likelihood of the Tipling-Houſes there, and the Goddards or Pots mounting from the Tap to the Table, from the Table to the Mouth, and ſometimes over the Head.

ALSO this Street goeth up to the North End of Ivy-lane. Before this Mount Goddard-ſtreet, Stall Boards were of old Time ſet up by the Butchers, to ſhew and to ſell their Fleſh-Meat upon; over which Stall-Boards, they firſt built Sheds, to keep off the Weather. But, ſince that incroaching by little, they made theſe Stall Boards and Sheds fair Houſes, fit for the principal Shambles.

NEXT is Newgate-Market, firſt of Corn and Meal, and then of other Victuals; which ſtretcheth almoſt to Eldeneſe-lane. A fair, new and ſtrong Frame of Timber, covered with Lead, was therefore ſet up at the Charges of the City, near to the Weſt Corner of St. Nicholas Shambles, for the Meal to be weighed, in 1 Edward VI. Sir John Greſham then Mayor.

The PARISH of St. EWIN.

ON this Side the North Corner of Eldeneſe-lane, was ſome Time a proper Pariſh-Church of St. Ewin.

WHICH

Which Church had not its Name from Edwin, the firſt Chriſtian King of Northumberland, (as Mr. Richard Smith ſuppoſed) but is the ſame Saint Owen, or Audown: And this Church in old Writing is called Sti. Audeoni juxta Fratres minores LONDON, and ſome Time infra Newgate.

In this Church was founded a Fraternity of St. Anne, the Mother of Mary, from the Alms of the Pariſhioners; as it is expreſs'd in a Certificate in the Tower, given in about it, by the then three Maſters of it, viz. John Shepye, Taylor, Nicholas Minet, Fletcher, and another, who certified, that in the ſame Church, every Year ſeven Wax Candles quadrate, (i.e. Square) were to be burnt before the Image of St. Anne, all the ſolemn Days, in which a Light burnt before the Crucifix; and yearly to be renewed the ſaid Light, as long as the ſaid Fraternity could ſuſtain it. And that every Brother ſhould offer at the High Maſs of the ſaid Day, in the Church, one Half-penny; and four Torches of ten Pounds of Wax, to be burnt upon the Obſequies of any Brother of the Fraternity, &c.

This Church (as is before ſaid) was given by King Henry VIII, towards the erecting of Chriſt-Church. It was taken down, and in Place thereof, a fair ſtrong Frame of Timber was erected; wherein dwell Men of divers Trades: And from this Frame to Newgate, is all of this Ward, and ſo an End thereof.

And now for the modern State of this large Ward.

As to the Deſcription of the Places in this Ward, we ſhall begin with Ludgate-ſtreet; then proceed to Black-fryars, and the Places in the Precinct. Next to Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and Warwick-lane, taking in the Places of Note and Name on each Side. Then to Newgate-ſtreet, with the Places on each Side, as Chriſt-Church, and the Hoſpital of the ſame Name; Newgate-market, Butcher-hall-lane: After that, to Paternoſter-row, Cheapſide, the Old Change, and conclude with St. Paul's, and the Places about it.

Ludgate-ſtreet. This is a Street of a very great Reſort, for Coaches, Carts, Horſe, and Foot, through Ludgate towards Fleet-ſtreet, and other Weſtern Parts of the City; and from thence into the City. For which Reaſon it enjoys a very great Trade, being taken up by conſiderable Dealers: And ſince the late Fire of LONDON, the Buildings are very lofty and uniform. For the Deſcription of Ludgate, ſee the Chapter in the firſt Book which treats of the Gates of the City. This Street towards the Eaſt fronts the Weſt End of St. Paul. Adjoining to Ludgate, on the North Side of the Street, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Martin's Ludgate; which ſince the Rebuilding, occaſioned by the dreadful Fire of LONDON, is very comely, and aſcended up by Stone Steps, well finiſhed within; and hath a moſt curious ſpire Steeple of excellent Workmanſhip, pleaſant to behold.

On the South Side of this Street, over-againſt St. Martin's Church is the Entrance into Black-fryars. The ample Privileges, that the Inhabitants of this Precinct enjoy'd, have been for many Years loſt, ſo that now the Sheriffs Officers can arreſt there.

Black-fryars hath but a narrow Paſſage out of Ludgate-ſtreet, and turning by the back Side of Ludgate Priſon, falleth into an open Place with very good Buildings, well inhabited by Tradeſmen. Which ſaid Street runneth down Southwards to the Thames; but that Part by Apothecaries-Hall, and ſo downwards, is called Water-ſtreet; and hath a handſome Pair of Stairs to take Water at, where Plenty of Watermen ply: And in its Paſſage to the Water-ſide takes in ſeveral Courts and Yards.

As Baniſter's-court, which is but ordinary; oppoſite to which, is a large handſome Houſe, with a graceful Front to the Thames: It is now occupied by a Timber Merchant, but was formerly the Dwelling of Sir Thomas Fitch, Knt. and Bart. and afterwards of Dr. Salmon, an eminent Phyſician.

Hughs's-court, hath a Paſſage into Duke Humfrey's, which falls into Puddle-dock: And out of Duke Humfrey's, is a Paſſage into Cloyſter-court, and ſo into Ireland-yard, which comes into Puddle-dock-hill: And in this Paſſage receives Jackſon's-court, Canterbury-court, and Ireland-court; all Places of ſmall Account. And out of Ireland-yard is Fryars-court and New-ſtreet, both which are but ordinary, and fall into Shoemakers-row, which comes out of Black-fryars in the broad Place, and falls into Creed-lane, againſt Carter-lane End. This Shoemakers-row is a Place of ſome Trade, and pretty well inhabited: And here are ſome ſmall Courts, as Cob's-court, &c. And out of this Row is Church-entry, but narrow and ordinary; and falls into Glaſs-houſe-yard, by where St. Anne's Church ſtood.

The King's Printing-houſe-yard, ſo called from the King's Printing-houſe there ſeated; a good convenient and large Building, for that Uſe: The King's Printer there printing Bibles in all Volumes, alſo Proclamations, and what concerns the publick Uſe.

The Scotch-hall, a large Houſe, ſeated as well in Water-ſtreet, as on the Ditch-ſide; made uſe of by Scotchmen for ſome Meeting. Apothecaries-hall, ſeated almoſt oppoſite to the Paved-alley that leadeth to the Ditch-ſide, down Steps againſt Bridewel-bridge. This Hall is a good Building with a Pair of Gates that leads into an open Court handſomely paved with broad Stones; at the upper End of which is the Hall, which is a good Building, adorned with Columns of the Tuſcan Order. It is built of Brick and Stone, finiſhed Anno 1670. The Cieling of the Court-Room and Hall is adorned with Fret-work, and the latter wainſcotted 14 Feet high. In the Hall is the Portraiture of King James I. the Buſto of Dr. Gideon Delaun (the ſaid King's Apothecary, and a good Benefactor to this Fraternity). Here are two large Elaboratories, one for Chimical, the other for Galenical Preparations. Over the former is this Inſcription: Apothecaries Hall.

Hanc Ædem Medicinæ Hermeticæ ſacram voluit Societas Pharm. Lond. Quæ ut Artem a ſubdolis Pſeudo-Chimicorum Technis vindicaret Medicamenta Chimica quæcunque in Uſum veniunt hic ſumma Fide & Induſtria ſumptibus propriis præparanda curavit.

At this Hall are prepared vaſt Quantities of Medicines for the Apothecaries and others, and particularly the Surgeons of the Fleet do here make up their Cheſts.

In the Corner of Black-fryars, by London-wall, is Worley-court, which is but ſmall; and this hath a Paſſage into the Ditch-ſide; the Eaſt Side of which, all along to the Water-ſide, is in this Pariſh; and for the generality built with good Houſes, and well inhabited. And thus much for the Precinct of Black-fryars.

Creed-lane, formerly called Spurrier-row. It is a Lane peſtered with Carts and Carrs to Puddle-dock, and other Wharfs on the Water-ſide, which makes it to be not over well inhabited. The Weſt Side is in this Ward, the Eaſt in Caſtle-Baynard's. Out of this Lane are two Paſſages into Holiday-yard, or Court, which is a large Place, but of no great Account: And here are are two Courts into it, and both bearing the ſame Name. This Lane comes out of Ludgate-ſtreet, againſt Ave-mary-lane, and falleth into Puddle-dock-hill. On the Eaſt Side of this Lane is Scallop-court, indifferent good, with a Free-ſtone Paſſage into Carter-lane, againſt Puddle-dock-hill.

Ave-mary-lane hath good Houſes, many of which are inhabited by noted Tradeſmen. On the Weſt-Side is an open ſquare Court, with good Houſes, called Stationers Rents. Out of which Court is a Paſſage into Amen-Corner, and another into Stationers-Hall; a very good Building, having a handſome large Hall, with a Court Room; and other Apartments ſeparate from the Hall, which are made Uſe of for the Stock Books of the Company. Out of this Hall is a Paſſage through Cock-Alley into Ludgate-ſtreet; which Alley is but narrow at the Entrance, but againſt the Hall it is good and airy, fronting the Hall.

Amen-Corner, ſhort, but indifferent well built and inhabited, fronting Pater-noſter-row. At the Upper End was ſeated the College of Phyſicians, burnt by the general Fire of London. Since which, in that Place, is erected a fair Houſe, now the Seat of a Reſidentiary of St. Paul's.

Warwick-lane runneth Northwards into Newgate-ſtreet; the Weſt-Side being in this Ward, and the Eaſt in Caſtle-Baynard. On the Weſt Side are theſe Places, Oxford-arms-Inn, very conſiderable, and well accuſtomed; the Inn ſtands backwards, and the Paſſage to it hath ſmall Houſes on both Sides. Warwick-Court, a very handſome, ſpacious and airy Court, with an open Paſſage for Coaches into it; and is graced with very good large Buildings, well inhabited by Perſons of Repute. The Phyſicians College, a very curious Structure: Of which ſee more in the firſt Book.

THEN on the Eaſt-Side of this Lane, is White-hart-ſtreet, which gives a Paſſage into Newgate-market, inhabited by Poulterers, and ſuch Trades whoſe Dependance is on the Market. Bell-inn, but ſmall, only for Stabling for the Market-People's Horſes; and this Inn hath a Paſſage into the Market. Crown-inn, alſo for that Purpoſe, and but ſmall.

Newgate-ſtreet, well inhabited by good Tradeſmen; it comes out of Cheapſide, and Blowbladder-ſtreet, and runs to Newgate, the City Jail for Malefactors; as alſo for the County of Middleſex for the like Criminals, and likewiſe for Debtors. It is a large Priſon, and made very ſtrong, the better to ſecure ſuch Sort of Criminals, which too much fill it: Inſomuch that the Debtors are crowded amongſt them, except they have large Purſes to be in the Preſs-yard; which is a Place for the better Sort, or ſuch as can well gratify the Keepers extravagant Demands.

ADJOINING to this Priſon, on the North-Side, is Swan-yard, a pretty long Court, but ordinary. Phenix-court, adjoining to Newgate on the South-Side, a good handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement, and good Houſes. Oxford-arms-inn and Crown-inn by Warwick-lane, both ordinary, and only for the Market-Peoples Horſes.

THE Part of Newgate-ſtreet, from the End of Cheapſide, a little above St. Martin's le grand, unto the Shambles, was called Blowbladder-ſtreet, from the Bladders there ſold in former Times.

THE Butchers inhabiting in this Street, had their Slaughter-Houſes in Butcher-hall-lane, formerly called Stinking-lane, from the Naſtineſs of the Place; but now it is kept pretty clean. This Lane cometh out of Newgate-ſtreet, and paſſing by Chriſt-church, into which it hath an Entrance, falls into Bull-and-mouth-ſtreet, which leadeth to St. Martin's le grand, but this is in Alderſgate Ward.

OUT of this Lane is another Paſſage into Angel-ſtreet, an indifferent Place, and is but Part in this Ward. Over-againſt Chriſt-church is Crow-court, which is but ſmall. Near this Lane is the Bagnio, a neat contrived Building after the Turkiſh Mode, for that Purpoſe; ſeated in a large handſome Yard, and at the Upper End of Pincock-lane, which is indifferent well built and inhabited.

ON the North-Side of the Shambles was Pentecoſt-lane: Here was antiently a Church and Church-yard, afterwards a large Square; and is now called Bull-head-court, which is pretty well inhabited and built.

Chriſt's-church was conſumed in the Conflagration of the City; and that Part called The New Church, which was made Uſe of before, is rebuilt very handſome, at the Charges of the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, and St. Leonard Foſter-lane, which is united to it.

ADJOINING to this Church and Hoſpital, is a Court, which tetaineth the Name of the Grey-fryars-court, a pretty large Place, having a Paſſage into the ſaid Hoſpital, and another out of Newgate-ſtreet, through the Cloyſters and Long-walk, into St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, and ſo into Smithfield; being a great Thorough-fare.

Newgate-market, before the late dreadful Fire of London, was kept in Newgate-ſtreet; where there was a Market-Houſe only for Meal, and a middle Row of Sheds, which afterwards were converted into Houſes, and inhabited by Butchers, Tripe-ſellers, &c. And the Country People which brought Proviſions to the City, were forced to ſtand with their Stalls in the open Street, to the Damage of their Goods, and Danger of their Perſons, by the Coaches, Carts, Horſes, and Cattle, that paſs'd through the Street. But ſince the nominating of convenient Places in the City for Publick Markets, by Act of Parliament, which appoints the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commoners, to appoint proper Places, they have found out a moſt convenient Place for this Market, and near adjoining; being ſituate between Newgate-ſtreet on the North, and Pater-noſter-row on the South; and between Warwick-lane on the Weſt, and Ivy-lane on the Eaſt. The greateſt Part of which Market is in this Ward, and the other Part in Caſtle-Baynard Ward. Newgate-Market.

THE Market-Place is a ſquare Piece of Ground, which is incompaſſed with fair Houſes, built according to the ſecond Rate of Building. In the Middle of the Market-Place, which is 148 Feet broad from North to South, and 194 Feet long from Eaſt to Weſt, there is erected a Market-Houſe, in Form of a Croſs, ſtanding upon twenty four Pillars or Columns, and aſcended up into the Market-Houſe, by two or three broad Stone Steps at all the Entrances. Under this Market-Houſe are Vaults or Cellars; and over it ſeveral Rooms, for the Stowage of the Fruiterers, and other Goods, in the Night; and over all a Cupola, or Bell Tower. This Market-Houſe is made Uſe of for Fruit, Herbs, &c. And round about it, at a convenient Diſtance, are Stalls for Butchers; as are Stalls alſo by the Sides of the Houſes, for Butchers and Poulterers. This Market is very well ſerved with all Sorts of Butcher's Meat, and Poulterer's Ware; alſo with Fruit, Herbs, Butter, Eggs, &c. The Paſſages into this Market, are out of Newgate-ſtreet through Roſe-ſtreet, which is broad, but ſhort; well built, and inhabited by Butchers and Fiſhmongers. Another out of Warwick-lane, through White-hart-ſtreet, but ſhort alſo; inhabited by the like Tradeſmen. Another out of Pater-noſter-row, through a ſhort Alley: And two others out of Ivy-lane. As to the Laws for the well ordering of this, and the reſt of the Markets kets in LONDON, they are treated of in the Chapter of the Civil and Temporal Government of this City.

More Eaſtward from this Market, and in Newgate-ſtreet, is Swan-alley, which is but ordinary. Three-cup-court, pretty ſmall; and King's-head-court, very ſmall and ordinary.

Pater-noſter-row. This Street, before the Fire of LONDON, was taken up by eminent Mercers, Silkmen, and Lacemen; and their Shops were ſo reſorted to by the Nobility and Gentry, in their Coaches, that oft-times the Street was ſo ſtopped up, that there was no Paſſage for Foot-paſſengers. But ſince the ſaid Fire, thoſe eminent Tradeſmen have ſettled themſelves in ſeveral other Parts, eſpecially in Covent-garden, in Bedford-ſtreet, Henrietta-ſtreet, and King-ſtreet. And the Inhabitants in this Street are now a Mixture of Trades-People, but there are more of the Bookſellers Trade than any other.

This Street begins Eaſt at Cheapſide, and runeth up to Amen-corner; from which it is ſevered by Warwick-lane, and Ave-mary-lane. It hath a Paſſage into theſe Parts: On the South Side, a ſmall Alley which leads to the Weſt End of St. Paul's through London-houſe-yard; where formerly the Biſhops of LONDON had their Houſe or Palace. Paul's-alley, a Place of ſmall Trade, and very narrow, and falleth on the North Side of St. Paul's, and about the Middle divideth itſelf into two Parts, the one running ſtrait South, and the other Eaſtwards; at the End of which was a Paſſage into Petty-canons, indifferent large, and now converted into Buildings; having at the upper Part or End, a Paſſage into Paul's-churchyard, near Petty-canons-alley, which is an open Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement leading into Pater-noſter-row.

Then on the North Side of this Pater-noſter-row, next to Warwick-lane, is Mermaid-court, a handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Next is the Paſſage into Newgate-market.

Ivy-lane, is well built and inhabited, and falleth into Newgate-ſtreet; having two Paſſages into Newgate-market, as aforeſaid. And on the Eaſt Side is Sun-court, which is but ſmall.

In Pater-noſter-row, is Lovel's-court, being a handſome Place, with good Buildings, well inhabited. Queen's-head-alley, ſo called from the Queen's-head Tavern, there ſeated in an open ſquare Court, from which it hath a long Paſſage into Newgate-ſtreet. Panyer-alley, near unto Cheapſide.

This Alley leadeth into Blowbladder-ſtreet, over-againſt St. Martin's le Grand. It is a great Thoroughfare, and a Place of good Trade. On the Weſt Side of this Alley, is Eagle-and-Child-court, which is but ſmall. Betwixt this and Lovel's-alley is the Caſtle Tavern, which is large, and famous for a fine Conſort of Muſick, ſupported there by a Supſcription of Gentlemen, during the Winter Seaſon.

A little Eaſtward from Panyer-alley and Newgate-ſtreet, like two Rivulets joining into one, they fall into Cheapſide; and juſt here, fronting Cheapſide, ſtood the Pariſh-Church of St. Michael's Quern, which, in the late Fire of LONDON, was conſumed, and is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Vedaſt, alias Foſter: And where that Church ſtood, againſt which is the Paſſage into St. Paul's Church-yard, was a Conduit, which was taken down but a few Years ſince.

This Street of Cheapſide, is ſpacious and large, graced with very lofty Buildings; which are well inhabited by Goldſmiths, Linnen-Drapers, Haberdaſhers, Druggiſts, and other noted Tradeſmen; being one of the chief high Streets in the City, and of a very great Reſort, as leading to and from the Royal-Exchange: But it is partly in many Wards.

Foſter-lane, for the Generality inhabited by working Goldſmiths; and is of chief Note for Goldſmiths Hall here ſeated. There is but a very ſmall Part of this Lane in this Ward, not above two Houſes beyond the Church. And to this Ward belongs the Weſt Side of Noble-ſtreet, in part, and Mugwel-ſtreet, and the North Side of Hart-ſtreet unto Cripplegate; which is a narrow ſlip of Ground, and apart from the reſt of the Ward. The other Sides being in Cripplegate Ward, and joining to the ſaid Ward.

This Church of St. Foſter, ſince its burning down in the great Fire of LONDON, is now rebuilt very decently; and beautified within, by the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, and of St. Michael's Quern, which is united unto it.

Near this Lane, but in Cheapſide, is Sadlers Hall, a good Building, adorned with Fret-work and well wainſcotted; it is ſeated at the Upper End of a handſome Alley, at the Entrance of which, is an ornamental Stone Door-caſe with an Iron Gate, and the Arms of the Company, well carved in Stone over it. Near this is Half-moon-alley, which is but ſmall; at the Upper End of which is a Tavern, which gives a Paſſage into Foſter-lane, and another into Gutter-lane. Sadlers Hall.

Gutter-lane, but narrow, and none of the beſt; here dwell ſeveral Joiners that make Chimney-Pieces, for which it is of ſome Note. Here the Company of Embroiderers have their Hall. In this Lane are theſe Places. Day's-court, on the Eaſt Side, indifferent. Goldſmiths-ſtreet leadeth to Wood-ſtreet, againſt the Compter, indifferent: But of this Street, the greateſt Part is in Cripplegate Ward. Dove-court, but ſmall and ordinary, ſeated on the Weſt Side againſt Goldſmiths-ſtreet. Innholders Hall a handſome Building. King's-head-court, a ſquare Place, ſeated againſt Innholders Hall. Near unto this is Stone-court, but ſmall. More Northwards, and on the Weſt Side, is Kerry-lane, a handſome Place, and of ſome Trade, having a Paſſage into Foſter-lane; but little or no Part is in this Ward, but in Alderſgate Ward. Huggin-alley, comes out of Gutter-lane, and falls into Woodſtreet, but no Part in this Ward.

Wood-ſtreet, hath but a ſmall Part in this Ward; only the Weſt Side taking in the Church-yard of St. Peter's Cheap, the Church not being rebuilt ſince the late Fire; and the Pariſh united to that of St. Matthew Friday-ſtreet.

Friday-ſtreet, as far as the Church of St. Matthew Friday-ſtreet, is in this Ward; the reſt in Bread-ſtreet Ward.

This Church is ſeated near the North Weſt Corner of Friday-ſtreet, next unto Cheapſide. Since its burning in the late Conflagration of LONDON, it is rebuilt, and that of St. Peter's Cheap united unto it. The Church is not very large, and built of Brick, except the Front towards the Street, which is all Free-ſtone. By this Church is a Free-ſtone Paſſage, which leads to the Back Door of the Fountain Tavern in Cheapſide. In this Church are Prayers every Morning and Evening, about ſeven of the Clock.

Betwixt Friday-ſtreet and the Old Change, is Star-court, a large Place. Then Shepherd's-court, handſome, well built and inhabited. At the Upper End of which is the Fountain Tavern, of good Account as moſt in Cheapſide.

The Old Change. This Street begins in Cheapſide, and falls into Old-fiſh-ſtreet; but the Part in this Ward goeth but to St. Auſtin's Church, and then the Weſt Side, unto Old-fiſh-ſtreet, is in Caſtle-Baynard Ward; and on the Eaſt Side, in Bread-ſtreet Ward.

This

THIS Street, taken from Cheapſide to Old-fiſhſtreet, is of a pretty good Trade, well built and inhabited. The Courts and Alleys, beginning next Cheapſide, and ſo to the Old-change, are, Swan-court, but ſmall, hath a Paſſage through a Publick Houſe, called the Swan, into Paul's Church-yard. Green-dragon-court, indifferent good. Three-dagger-court, but ſmall. Purſe-court, a very handſome ſquare Place, with good Buildings, and Inhabitants anſwerable; with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Lamb-alley, long and ordinary. Crane-court, a good handſome Place. Crown-court, very good, ſeated oppoſite to Diſtaff-lane. Black-horſe-court, narrow and ordinary. King's-head-inn, of pretty good Reſort. Phenix-court, and Gingerbread-court, both ſmall and ordinary.

St. Auſtin's Church. It was wholly conſumed in the great Fire of LONDON, and is now beautifully rebuilt, with a moſt neat Spire, of curious Workmanſhip. To this Pariſh, is that of St. Faith under St. Paul's united.

PASSING out of this Street, through St. Auſtin's Gate, (which Name it retaineth, although the Gate, ſince the Fire of LONDON, is not built, but lieth open) you enter into St. Paul's Churchyard; a ſpacious Place, and on all Sides begirt with very good Buildings, inhabited by great Traders. The Eaſt and South Sides generally by Woollen-Drapers and Cane-Chair-Sellers. Part of the Eaſt Side is taken up by St. Paul's School.

THE North Side, which is the moſt Spacious, eſpecially from the North Door to the Eaſt, is taken up by Bookſellers chiefly. On this Side is a fair Houſe called the Chapter-houſe belonging to St. Paul's. And here the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury uſeth to ſit, to conſult about Eccleſiaſtical Matters, and to frame Canons, for the better and more orderly Government and Peace of the Church. The Clergy whereof conſiſting of an Upper and Lower Houſe, are called by the King's Writ, whenſoever the Parliament ſits; and are prorogued and diſmiſſed by his Authority. Thus Anno 1718, after a Prorogation of this Synod, by Authority of the King's Writ and Licence, "Full, free "and lawful Power, was given to the Archbiſhop "of Canterbury, and the reſt of the Biſhops of "the Province, or the greater Number of them; "and the reſt of the Clergy of this preſent Con-"vocation, (that is the Lower Houſe) or the "greater Number of them, from Time to "Time, during this preſent Parliament, to "propoſe, confer, treat, debate, conſult, and "agree of, and upon ſuch Canons, &c. as they "ſhall think neceſſary, fit and convenient, for "the Honour and Service of God, the Good and "Quiet of the Church, and the Government "thereof, as by Law eſtabliſhed. And farther, "they are authorized, to ſet down in Writing, "and exhibit to the King, all ſuch Canons and "Things, ſo by them, from Time to Time, "agreed upon. Provided always, that they be "not contrary, nor tend to make any Alteration "in the Doctrine, Diſcipline, or Government of "the Church of England, as eſtabliſhed by any "Act of Parliament now in Force.

THE Weſt Side fronteth Ludgate-ſtreet, where it is very ſpacious.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, one Conſtable, a Beadle, and forty Watchmen.

THE Jury returned by the Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts holden in the Guild-hall, in the Month of September.

IT hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, fifteen Common-Council Men. Seventeen Conſtables. Eighteen Scavengers. Eighteen Wardmote Inqueſt Men; and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON 50*l.* And in the Exchequer, at 53*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

THE Alderman is Sir Richard Brocas, Knt.

CHAP. IX.

BREAD-STREET WARD.

BREAD-STREET Ward begins in the High Street, called Cheapſide, and runs on the South Side, from where the Standard to where the great Croſs formerly ſtood. Then is alſo a Part of Watheling-ſtreet of this Ward; up almoſt to St. Paul's Gate: For it lacketh but one Houſe of St. Auguſtin's Church. And on the South Side, up to the Old-change. And down the ſame on the Eaſt Side, by the Weſt End of Maiden-lane, or Diſtar-lane, to Knightriders-ſtreet; or as they call that Part thereof, Old-fiſh-ſtreet. And all the North Side of the ſaid Old-fiſh-ſtreet, till over-againſt the Trinity-church, and Trinity-lane.

THEN is Bread-ſtreet itſelf, ſo called, of Bread in old Time there ſold. For it appeareth by Records, that in the Year 1302, which was the 30th of Edward I. the Bakers of LONDON, were bounden to ſell no Bread in their Shops or Houſes, but in the Market. And that they ſhould have four Hall-motes in the Year, at four ſeveral Terms, to determine Enormities belonging to the ſaid Company.

THIS Street, giving the Name to the whole Ward, beginneth in Weſt-cheap, almoſt by where the Standard ſtood; and runneth down South, through or croſs Watheling-ſtreet, to Knightriders-ſtreet aforeſaid, where it endeth. This Bread-ſtreet is wholly on both Sides of this Ward. Out of which Street, on the Eaſt Side, is Baſing-lane; a Piece whereof is of this Bread-ſtreet Ward.

THEN there is another Street, which is called Friday-ſtreet, and begins alſo in Weſt-cheap, and runneth down South through Watheling-Street to Knightriders-ſtreet, or Old-fiſh-ſtreet. This Friday-ſtreet is of Bread-ſtreet Ward, on the Eaſt Side, from over-againſt the North Eaſt Corner of St. Matthew's Church; and on the Weſt Side, from the South Corner of the ſaid Church, down as aforeſaid.

IN this Friday-ſtreet, on the Weſt-Side thereof, is a Lane, commonly called Maiden-lane, or Diſtaff-lane, corruptly for Diſtar-lane, which runneth Weſt into the Old-change: And in this Lane is alſo one other Lane, on the South Side thereof, likewiſe called Diſtar-lane, which runneth down to Knightriders-ſtreet, or Old-fiſh-ſtreet. Theſe are the Bounds of the whole Ward.

THE

The Monuments to be noted here, are, firſt, at Bread-ſtreet Corner, the North East End, 1595, one Thomas Toinlinſon, cauſing in the High-ſtreet of Cheap a Vault to be digged and made, there was found at fifteen Feet deep, a fair Pavement, like that above Ground. And at the further End, at the Channel, was found a Tree, ſawed into five Steps, which was to ſtep over ſome Brook, running out of the Weſt, towards Walbrook. And upon the Edge of the ſaid Brook, as it ſeemeth, there were found lying along, the Bodies of two great Trees, the Ends whereof were then ſawed off; and firm Timber, as at the firſt when they fell: Part of the ſaid Trees remain yet in the Ground undigged. It was all forced Ground, until they went paſt the Trees aforeſaid; which was about ſeventeen Feet deep, or better. Thus much hath the Ground of this City (in that Place) been raiſed from the Main.

And here it may be obſerved, that within fourſcore Years, and leſs, Cheapſide was raiſed divers Feet higher. For it was found to be twenty eight Feet higher than it was when St. Paul's was firſt built; as appear'd by ſeveral eminent Marks, diſcovered in the late laying of the Foundation of that Church.

The next Thing to be noted, Stow ſaith in his Time, was the moſt beautiful Frame and Front of fair Houſes and Shops, that were within the Walls of LONDON, or elſewhere in England; commonly called Goldſmiths-row, betwixt Bread-ſtreet End and the Croſs in Cheap; but within this Bread-ſtreet Ward. The ſame was built by Thomas Wood, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs of London, in the Year 1491. It contained in Number ten Dwelling-Houſes, and fourteen Shops, all in one Frame, uniformly built four Stories high, beautified towards the Street with the Goldſmiths-Arms; and the Likeneſs of Woodmen, in Memory of his Name, riding on monſtrous Beaſts. All which were caſt in Lead, richly painted over, and gilt. Theſe he gave to the Goldſmiths, with Stocks of Money to be lent to young Men having thoſe Shops, &c. This ſaid Front was again new painted and gilt over, in the Year 1594, Sir Richard Martin being then Mayor, and keeping his Mayoralty in one of them; and ſerving out the Time of Cuthbert Buckle, in that Office, from the 2d of July, till the 28th of October.

The Goldſmiths kept their Shops and Trade in Weſt-cheap, from antient Times, even before the Days of King Edward III, unto our Times. And the Exchange for the King's Coin was not far off; the Place yet called the Old-change; as appears by this Record, ſhewing not only the Place of the Goldſmiths Habitation, but their Occupation and Buſineſs about the Coin and Plate.

Upon the Goldſmiths Petition, exhibited to King Edward III, and his Council in Parliament, holden at Weſtminſter in the firſt of his Reign; ſhewing, "That no private Merchant nor Stranger heretofore were wont to bring into this Land any Money coined, but Plate of Silver to exchange for our Coin. And that it had been alſo ordained, that all who were of the Goldſmiths Trade, were to ſit in their Shops in the High-ſtreet of Cheap: And that no Silver in Plate, nor Veſſel of Gold or Silver, ought to be ſold in the City of LONDON, except at or in the Exchange, or in Cheapſide, among the Goldſmiths, and that publickly: To the End, that the People of the ſaid Trade might inform themſelves, whether the Seller came lawfully by ſuch Veſſel, or not. But that now of late the ſaid Merchants, as well Private as Strangers, brought from foreign Countries into this Nation, counterfeit Sterling: Whereof the Pound was not worth above ſixteen Sols of the right Sterling. And of this Money, none could know the true Value, but by melting it down. And alſo that many of the ſaid Trade of Goldſmiths kept Shops in obſcure Turnings, and By-lanes and Streets; and did buy Veſſels of Gold and Silver ſecretly, without inquiring, whether ſuch Veſſel were ſtolen, or lawfully come by. And immediately melting it down, did make it into Plate, and ſell it to Merchants trading beyond Sea, that it might be exported. And ſo they made falſe Work of Gold and Silver; as, Bracelets, Lockets, Rings, and other Jewels. In which they ſet Glaſs of divers Colours, counterfeiting right Stones; and put more Allay in the Silver than they ought. Which they ſold to ſuch as had no Skill in ſuch Things.

"And that the Cutlers, in their Workhouſes, covered Tin with Silver, ſo ſubtilly, and with ſuch Slight, that the ſame could not be diſcerned and ſevered from the Tin. And by that Means they ſold the Tin, ſo covered, for fine Silver, to the great Damage and Deceit of the King and his People.

"Whereupon the ſaid Goldſmiths petitioned the King, That he would be pleaſed to apply convenient Remedy therein. And he being willing to prevent the ſaid Evil (as the Letters Patent ran) did, by and with the Aſſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons of the Realm, for the common Profit, will and grant for him and his Heirs, That henceforth no Merchant, either Private or Stranger, ſhould bring into this Land any Sort of Money, but only Plate of fine Silver. Nor that any Gold or Silver wrought by Goldſmiths, or any Plate of Silver, ſhould be ſold to the Merchant to ſell again, and to be carried out of the Kingdom; but ſhould be ſold at the King's ſaid Exchange, or openly among the ſaid Goldſmiths, for private Uſe only; and that none that pretended to be of the ſame Trade ſhould keep any Shop, but in Cheapſide, that it might be ſeen that their Works were good and right.

"And that thoſe of the ſame Trade might, by Virtue of theſe Preſents, elect honeſt, lawful, and ſufficient Men, beſt skilled in the ſaid Trade, to inquire of the Matters aforeſaid: And that they ſo choſen might, upon due Conſideration of the ſaid Craft, reform what Defects they ſhould find therein; and thereupon inflict due Puniſhment upon the Offenders; and that, by the Help and Aſſiſtance of the Mayor and Sheriffs, if Occaſion be. And that in all Trading Cities and Towns in England, where Goldſmiths reſided, the ſame Ordinance be obſerved, as in LONDON. And that one or two of every ſuch City or Town, for the reſt of that Trade, ſhould come to LONDON, to be aſcertained of their Touch of Gold, and there to have a Stamp of a Punchion with a Leopard's Head marked upon their Work, as of antient Time it hath been ordained.' Theſe Letters Patent bore Date at Weſtminſter the 30th of March, in the firſt Year of the King.

Then for Watling-ſtreet, which Leyland calls Atheling or Noble-ſtreet; but ſince he ſheweth no Reaſon why it was ſo called, it may be ſuppoſed to be from the High-way of that Name.

The Old Exchange here has been already taken Notice of in Faringdon Ward. We paſs next to Knightriders-ſtreet, in a Part of which was a Fiſh-market kept, and therefore called Old-Fiſh-ſtreet, for a Difference from New-Fiſh-ſtreet. In the Midſt of this Knightriders-ſtreet, was a Row of ſmall Houſes, which were poſſeſſed by Fiſhmongers, but were at firſt only moveable Boards or Stalls, ſet out on Market-Days; but, a Licence being obtained to ſet up Sheds, they grew to Shops, and, by little and little, to tall Houſes, of three or four Stories in Height, and are now called Fiſh-ſtreet. Walter Turke, Fiſh-monger, Mayor, in 1349, had two Shops in Old Fiſh-ſtreet, over-againſt St. Nicholas Church.

Bread-ſtreet is now inhabited by many Merchants and wealthy Traders, and hath in it one very good Inn, [the Sign of the Three Cups] for Carriers and other Travellers to the City.

IT appears in the Will of Edward Stafford, Earl of Wiltſhire, dated the 22d of March 1498, and 14 Henry VII, that he lived in a Houſe in Bread-ſtreet in LONDON, which belonged to the Family of Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, afterwards, he bequeathing all the Stuff in that Houſe to the Lord Buckingham; for he died without Iſſue.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS in BREAD-STEET.

Alhallows in Bread-ſtreet.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Street, at the Corner of Watling-ſtreet, is the Church of Alhallows in Bread-ſtreet. There being many Churches in LONDON called Alhallows, we have given an Account of the Riſe of that Name and Feſtival in Book II, Chap. II, in treating of Alhallows Barking.

THE Prior and Chapter, and Chapter of Chriſt-Church Canterbury, were the original Patrons of this Church; but, by an Inſtrument under their Chapter Seal, dated April 24, 1365, they granted to Simon (Iſlip) Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and to his Succeſſors for ever, the Advowſon of this Church of Alhallows in Bread-ſtreet; ſtreet, and alſo of the Churches of St. Pancras, and St. Dunſtan in LONDON, in Conſideration of the many Benefits he had beſtowed upon them; and more eſpecially, for that he had reſtored to them, and their Succeſſors, by Licence from the King, the Advowſons of the Churches of Eaſtry and Munſton.

THE King granted Licence to John de Hurley, Walter de Tiffeld, and Matthew le Barbour, to give to Nicholas de Rothwell, Parſon of this Church of Alhallows, and his Succeſſors for ever, one Piece of Ground in this Pariſh, containing 12 Feet in Length, next the King's Highway, and 27 in Breadth toward the South, contiguous to the Chancel of the ſaid Church, May 6, 1349.

AND on the 20th of the next February, granted Licence to William de Iſford, to give to Thomas, the Parſon of this Church, and to his Succeſſors for ever, a certain Piece of Ground with its Appurtenances, containing 11 Feet in Length, and 20 in Breadth, contiguous to this Church, to build a Chapel upon the ſame.

THIS Church was ſuſpended for a Month, in 23 Hen. VIII, upon the falling out of two Prieſts in it, and one drawing Blood of the other; they were both committed to Priſon, and on Oct. 15, being enjoyned Penance, went before a general Proceſſion bare-headed, and bare-footed, and bare-legg'd before the Children, with Beads, and Books in their Hands, from St. Paul's, thro' Cheapſide, Cornhill, &c.

THE Church here had ſome Time a fair ſpired Steeple of Stone, which on Sept. 5, 1559, about Noon, was ſtruck with a great Tempeſt of Lightning and Thunder about nine or ten Feet below the Top, and though but little damnified thereby, was ſhortly after taken down for ſparing the Charges of Reparation.

ON the South Side of the Chancel was a very fair Window, with the Portraiture or Figure of him that gave it, very curiouſly wrought upon it, with this Inſcription:

Thomas Beaumont, Salter, the Founder of this Chapel, and a worthy Benefactor to the Company of Salters, 1629. This Window being then erected.

THIS Church of Alhallows was burnt down in the late dreadful Fire, but rebuilt and made the Pariſh-Church for the Inhabitants of this Pariſh, and that of St. John Evangeliſt, which is annex'd unto it: The Church was finiſh'd in the Year 1684, and the Steeple in the Year 1697, at which Time the Whole was new beautified.

THIS Church is of the Tuſcan Order, the Length 72 Feet, the Breadth 35, and the Altitude 30.

THE Steeple, as the reſt of the Church, is of Stone, built Square, of the Dorick Order, and well adorned, the Key-ſtones over the Windows being carved Heads, and between each a large Feſtoon; its Height is about 86 Feet, without the Pinacles, and 100 Feet with them.

TWO new Bells were put up in this Steeple the laſt Summer [1733.]

THE Finiſhing and Ornaments of this Church are conſiderable; it is wainſcotted round with right Norway Oak eight Feet high, and in ſome Parts higher, and well pewed.

THE Pulpit is finely carved and enriched with Cherubims, and the Sound-Board finnier'd.

HERE is a handſome Gallery at the Weſt End, of fine Wainſcot; the Work of the Front is Bolection, ſwelling with raiſed Pannels.

THERE is a ſpacious Altar-piece, well carved; it is of the Corinthian Order, with Architrave, Frieſe, Cornice, and Pediments, the Columns fluted, and Frieſe carved; the Commandments are done in Gold Letters on Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed, Black Letters upon Gold, invironed with Fruit, Flowers, &c. Over the Commandments, under a Pediment, is a Feſtoon and Cherub: Under the large Pediment, above the Cornice, is a Glory, and at each End of the Cornice, a Lamp with flaming Tapers, all carved in right Wainſcot; over all which are (a little higher) the King's Arms done in Fret-work.

ON the South Side of the Church is a Table of Benefactors Japann'd Black, and the Letters Gold, at the Top of which ſtands a Shield with theſe Words:

DO THOU
LIKEWISE.

AT the Weſt End there is a very neat Wainſcot Gallery, ſaid to be given by Sir Nicholas Criſp, his Arms being depicted on the Front, which you will have blazoned hereafter; it is placed between two Shields gilt with Gold, having handſome Compartments. Over theſe Arms is the Dial of a Clock, wherein is placed the Figure of Time, and theſe Words under it: Ex Dono Benjamin Williams.

AT the Weſt End is a Wainſcot Door-caſe, ſhewing when the Church was finiſhed; and alſo the Words of Matthew v. 5. And another ſuch Door-caſe on the South Side, near the Weſt Angle, with the Words of Eccleſ. v. 1. and of Matt. xxi. 13. It is well pewed with Oak, of which the Pulpit is alſo made, with Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Feſtoons, and Fruit; and the Sound-Board is finniered, having ſeven Stars circumſcribed within as many Circles, and a large Crown gilt at the Top of it.

THE Altar-piece is adorned with two Pilaſters between as many Columns, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, between the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron. Over the Decalogue, and under a ſpacious compaſs Pediment, within a Circle, is a Glory proceeding out of an equilateral Triangle, at each of which Angles, in the Rays, is a Cherub well painted all within Clouds. Over the Glory is a Cherub, with a Feſtoon carved and gilt as the other Enrichments are; over each Column is a Lamp; and without the Columns are the Creed and Pater-noſter done in Black on Gold, each under a Dove expanded within a Circle of Palm-branches; and the Foot-pace of the Communion-Table is black and white Marble, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

IN a carved and gilt Frame, cloſe by the Font, at the Weſt End of the Church, are the Words in Mark x. 14. done in Gold Letters.

LENGTH of the Church 62 Feet, Breadth 36, Altitude 40, and to the Top of the Dome about 52 Feet, and that of the Steeple, to the Top of the Spire, is about 140 Feet, where is one Bell.

NUMBER of Houſes are 54.

OUT of this Bread-ſtreet, on the ſame Eaſt Side is Baſing-lane, a Part whereof, as is aforeſhewn, is of this Ward; but how it took its Name is uncertain. In the Time of Richard II. it was called the Bakehouſe, perhaps from the King's Bakehouſe being there, or from other Bakers of Bread, to ſerve the Market in Bread-ſtreet.

ON the South Side of this Lane is a great Houſe, built of old Time upon arched Vaults of Stone, and with arched Gates, brought from Caen in Normandy.

Stow ſays, in his Time this was a common Hoſtery, corruptly called Gerard's-hall, from a Giant ſaid to have dwelled there.

IN the high rooffed Hall of this Houſe ſome Time ſtood a large Fir-Pole, which reached to the Roof thereof; and was ſaid to be one of the Staves that Gerard the Giant uſed in the Wars to run withal. There ſtood alſo a Ladder of the ſame Length, which (as they ſaid) ſerved to aſcend to the Top of the Staff; but Stow takes all this to be a Fable, as undoubtedly it was; nor does he believe that any one of the Name of Gerard lived there. "I read, "ſays he, that John Giſors, Mayor of LON-"DON, in the Year 1245, was Owner thereof, "and that Sir John Giſors, Knt. Mayor of "LONDON, and Conſtable of the Tower, "1311, and divers others of that Name and "Family, ſince that Time, owned it. For I "read that William Giſors was one of the She-"riffs 1329. More, that John Giſors had Iſſue "Henry and John, which John had Iſſue "Thomas. Which Thomas deceaſing in the "Year 1358, left unto his Son Thomas his "Meſſuage called Giſor's-hall, in the Pariſh of "St. Mildred in Bread-ſtreet. John Giſors made "a Feofment thereof 1386, &c. So that it ap-"peareth, that this Giſor's-hall, of late Time "(by Corruption) hath been called Gerard's-"hall, for Giſor's-hall; as Boſoms Inn for Bloſ-"ſoms Inn, Bevis Marks for Buries Marks, "Mark-lane for Mart-lane, Beliter-lane for Bel-"ſetters-lane, Gutter-lane for Guthurons-lane, "Cry [or Cre] Church for Chriſt's Church, St. "Mihel in the Quern, for St. Mihel at Corn, "and ſuch others. Out of this Giſor's-hall, at "the firſt Building thereof, were made divers "arched Doors, yet to be ſeen, which ſeem "not ſufficient for any great Monſter, or other "than Men of common Stature to paſs through. "The Pole in the Hall might be uſed in old "Time, as then the Cuſtom was in every "Pariſh, to be ſet up in the Street, in the Sum-"mer, as a May-Pole, before the principal Hall, "or Houſe, in the Pariſh, or Street; and to "ſtand in the Hall before the Scrine, decked "with Holly and Ivy, at the Feaſt of Chriſt-"mas. The Ladder ſerved for the decking "of the May-Pole and Roof of the Hall. Thus "much for Giſor's-hall, and for that Side of "Bread-ſtreet, may ſuffice.

NOW on the Weſt Side of Bread-ſtreet, amongſt divers fair and large Houſes for Merchants, and Inns for Paſſengers, was a Priſon-Houſe pertaining to the Sheriffs of LONDON, called the Compter in Bread-ſtreet. But in the Year 1555, the Priſoners were removed from thence to another new Compter in Wood-ſtreet, provided by the City's Purchaſe, and built for that Purpoſe. The Cauſe of which Remove was this; Richard Husband, Paſtelar, Keeper of this Compter in Bread-ſtreet, being a willful and head-ſtrong Man, dealt (for his own Advantage) hard with the Priſoners under his Charge; having alſo Servants, ſuch as himſelf liked beſt for their bad Uſage, and would not for any Complaint be reformed. Whereupon, in the Year 1550, Sir Rowland Hill being Mayor, by the Aſſent of a Court of Aldermen, he was ſent to the Jail of Newgate, for the cruel handling of his Priſoners; and it was commanded to the Keeper, to ſet thoſe Irons on his Legs which are called the Widows Alms. Theſe he wore from Thurſday 'till Sunday in the Afternoon; and, being, by a Court of Aldermen, releaſed on the Tueſday, was bound in 100 Marks, to obſerve from thenceforth an Act made by the Common-Council, for the ordering of Priſoners in the Compters. All which, notwithſtanding, he continued as afore, whereof myſelf, ſaith Stow, am partly a Witneſs. For being on a Jury, to enquire againſt a Seſſions of Jail-Delivery, in the Year 1552, we found the Priſoners hardly dealt withal for their Achates and otherwiſe; as alſo that Thieves and Strumpets were there lodged for 4*d*. the Night, whereby they might be ſafe from Searches that were made abroad. For which Enormities, and others not needful to be recited, he was indicted at the Seſſions; but did rub it out, and could not be reformed, till this Remove of the Priſoners: For the Houſe in Bread-ſtreet was his own by Leaſe, or otherwiſe, ſo that he could not be put from it; ſuch Jailors, buying their Offices, will deal hardly with pitiful Priſoners.

An ABSTRACT of an Act of Common-Council, held September 19, in the 3*d and* 4*th Years of* Philip and Mary, for the removing of the Compter Priſon out of Bread-ſtreet into Great Wood-ſtreet.

BY Reaſon of divers Hindrances, Injuries, Extremities, and Diſpleaſures, done unto the Priſoners in Bread-ſtreet-compter, by the Keepers of the ſame; who hiring the Houſe of the Goldſmiths Company, would not many Times ſuffer the Sheriffs of LONDON, who ſtand charged with the Priſoners, to uſe them ſo well as they had propoſed; whereby the City hath been ſlandered, Law and good Orders broken, and poor Priſoners too much abuſed: Therefore was the Priſon removed to a Houſe belonging to the City, ſituate in Great Wood-ſtreet, where the Sheriff and his Officers were to keep their Courts, &c. as they had before uſed in Bread-ſtreet. At which Time it was alſo enacted, that the ſaid Compter in Wood-ſtreet ſhould never hereafter, for any Cauſe whatſoever, be let out to any other Uſe or Perſon, &c.

The PARISH of St. JOHN EVANGELIST.

NOW in Friday-ſtreet, ſo called from Fiſhmongers dwelling there, and ſerving Friday's Market, on the Eaſt Side was a ſmall Pariſh called St. John Evangeliſt.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the ſole Coſt of the Pariſhioners in the Year of our Lord 1626.

IN the ſame Year a Gallery was new built and beautified at the only Coſt of Thomas Goodyeare, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, and there a Pariſhioner.

THERE is a Parſonage-Houſe belonging to St. John Evangeliſt, which is now leaſed out at a low Rent. Likewiſe the Houſe adjoining and going over the Gateway of Star-court in Bread-ſtreet, belongs Part to the Rector, and Part to the Pariſh of Alhallows, and the other Part to Richard Winn, Eſq; but for want of a right Underſtanding it has been empty ſome Years.

The PARISH of St. MARGARET MOSES.

LOWER down was the Pariſh Church of St. Margaret Moſes, which ſtood on the Eaſt Side of Friday-ſtreet, over-againſt Diſtaff-lane End, and is called St. Margaret Moſes, from one Moſes or Moyſes (as it ſeems) that was the Founder or new Builder thereof. It is likewiſe written, ſometimes, St. Margaret in Friday-ſtreet. It is a Rectory, and ſubject to the Archdeacon.

THIS Church was repaired in the Year 1627, but being conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, the Pariſh was annexed to St. Mildred in Bread-ſtreet.

MONUMENTS in this Church were for,

Sir Richard Dobbes, Skinner, Mayor, 1551.

Here was alſo buried Mr. Buſs (or Briſs) Skinner, one of the Maſters of the Hoſpital. There attended all the Maſters of the Hoſpital, with green Staves in their Hands; and all the Company in their Liveries, with twenty Clerks ſinging before. The Sermon was preached by Mr. Juel, afterwards Biſhop of Salisbury: And therein he plainly affirmed there was no Purgatory. Thence the Company retired to his Houſe to Dinner. This Burial was Anno 1559, January 30.

NUMBER of Houſes 46.

THE Church of St. Margaret Moſes came out as far as where the Channel now runs ; for in the Year 1717, a Man riding along, his Horſe ſlipt into a Hole near the Channel, the Crown of a Vault being broke, in which were two Coffins, with Tops ridged like the Roof a Houſe, both being ſound, and the Vault very dry, they were ſuppoſed, by their Situation, to be the Coffins of Sir John Allot, before-mentioned, who was Lord Mayor, and died in his Mayoralty Anno 1591, and of his Lady.

ON the Weſt Side of Friday-ſtreet is Maiden-lane, ſo named from ſuch a Sign ; or Diſtaff-lane, for Diſtar-lane, as Stow ſays he read it in a Record of a Brewhouſe, called the Lamb in Diſtar-lane, the 16th of Henry VI.

IN this Diſtar-lane, on the North Side thereof, is Cordwainers, or Shoemakers Hall ; it is built of Brick, having ſeveral handſome Rooms in it. The Hall is adorned with the Pictures of King William and Queen Mary, given by one of the Members. Cordwainers Hall.

OF theſe Cordwainers Stow has read, that ſince the 5th of Richard II. (when he took to Wife Anne, Daughter to Wenceſlaus, King of Bohemia) by her Example the Engliſh People had uſed piked Shoes, tied to their Knees with ſilken Laces, or Chains of Silver and gilt. Wherefore, in the 4th of Edward IV. it was ordained and proclaimed, that Beaks of Shoon and Boots, ſhould not paſs the Length of two Inches, upon Pain of Curſing by the Clergy, and by Parliament to pay 20 s. for every Pair. And every Cordwainer that ſhod any Man or Woman on the Sunday, to pay 30 s.

ON the South Side of this Diſtar-lane is alſo another Lane, called Diſtar, or Diſtaff-lane, which runs down to Knightriders, or Old Fiſh-ſtreet.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward :

THE principal Streets and Places in this Ward are, Watling-ſtreet, Bread-ſtreet, Friday-ſtreet, Diſtaff-lane, Baſing-lane, with the Eaſt Side of the Old-change, from the Corner of St. Auſtin's Gate to Old Fiſh-ſtreet ; and the North Side of Old Fiſh-ſtreet and Trinity-lane, with Part of the South Side of Cheapſide, betwixt Friday-ſtreet and St. Mary le Bow Church.

Watheling-ſtreet is a great Thorough-fare, and has good Buildings in it, which are very well inhabited by great Dealers, chiefly by Wholeſale. This Street begins two or three Houſes beyond St. Auſtin's Church on the Weſt, and runs Eaſtward through the Heart of this and Cordwainer Ward, almoſt to St. Anthonine's Church, where Budge-row begins, and runs into Canon-ſtreet, in Walbrook Ward. In the Part of this Street belonging to this Ward, are theſe Places, beginning by St. Auſtin's Church, viz. St. John Evangeliſt Church-Yard, ſeated in the Eaſt Side Corner of Friday-ſtreet, the Church not being rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Alhallows Bread-ſtreet ; and the Ground on which this Church ſtood, being incloſed, ſerves as a Burying Place for the Inhabitants, and has a handſome Pair of Iron Gates before it.

Bread-ſtreet is a good open Street, well built, and inhabited by great Dealers, both by Wholeſale and Retale, Hop-Merchants, Grocers, and others. It begins at Cheapſide, and runs Southwards to Old Fiſh-ſtreet, next to Trinity-lane, croſſing Watheling-ſtreet. The Courts in this Street, beginning next Cheapſide, are Black-ſpread-eagle-court, but ſmall, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has a very good Houſe at the Upper End. Planners-court, indifferent large, but ordinary.

Star-

Star-court, very large, with an open Paſſage for a Cart, is well built and inhabited.

St. Alhallows Bread-ſtreet Church, large, and well built of Free-Stone, the Front being in this Street, but the Side in Watheling-ſtreet.

It was conſumed in the great Fire, but rebuilt; and the Pariſh of St. John Evangeliſt, not built, is united to it.

Three Cups Inn, large, well built, and of a great Trade for Country Waggons and Carriers. White-cock-court, a handſome ſquare Place, well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers.

St. Mildred Bread-ſtreet Church, deſtroyed by the general Conflagration, but now rebuilt of Free-Stone, with a Spire Steeple covered with Lead, very comely. To which Church is united that of St. Margaret Moſes, not rebuilt. It is ſeated on the Eaſt Side of Bread-ſtreet.

Baſing-lane, a handſome open Street, with good Buildings; of this Lane, about half is in this Ward; the Eaſt Part, towards Bow-lane, being in Cordwainers Ward.

In this Lane is Gerard's Hall, now made uſe of for an Inn.

Red-lion-court has a Paſſage into Watheling-ſtreet, already taken Notice of; and near the aforeſaid Inn is Horn-alley, which is but ſmall and ordinaty.

Friday-ſtreet comes out of Cheapſide, and runs South into Old Fiſh-ſtreet, and in its Paſſage croſſes Watheling-ſtreet: This Street is well built, and inhabited chiefly by Haberdaſhers, and other Wholeſale Dealers. In this Street are theſe Places, White-horſe-inn, large, and of a good Reſort. Bell-inn, of good Reſort and Trade. Blue-boar-court, an open Place, alſo inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. Angel-court, but ordinary, with an open Paſſage for Carts. Saracen's-head-inn, large, and of a great Reſort and Trade.

St. Margaret Moſes Church was ſeated on the Eaſt Side of this Street, towards Old Fiſh-ſtreet, burnt in the Fire of LONDON, not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Mildred Bread-ſtreet; and the Place where this Church ſtood, is incloſed for a Burial-Place for the Inhabitants.

Great Diſtaff, or Diſtar-lane, comes out of the Old-change, and runs up to Bread-ſtreet, againſt Baſing-lane, croſſing Friday-ſtreet on the South Side.

Places of Name in this Lane; Buck's-head-court, a ſmall Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Cordwainers, or Shoemakers Hall, a handſome Building, ſeated oppoſite to Little Diſtaff-lane, of no great Account, and runs into Old-Fiſh-ſtreet. And in this Lane is Dolphin-court, as alſo Suger-loaf-court, both ſmall and ordinary.

Old-Fiſh-ſtreet has the North Side in this Ward; the other Side in Queen-hithe Ward.

Trinity-lane has alſo the North Part in this Ward, the other in Queen-hithe Ward.

The Old-change has but a ſmall Part in this Ward, viz. the Eaſt Side from Watheling-ſtreet Corner to Old Fiſh-ſtreet; the other Part in the Ward of Faringdon Within, and Caſtle-Baynard.

Cheapſide has been deſcribed in the other Wards; the Part in this Ward, as alſo in that of Cordwainers, begin on the South Side, ſomething Eaſtward of Friday-ſtreet, and runs almoſt to St. Mary le Bow Church, ſo that there is nothing of Courts to be here taken Notice of.

This Ward and Cordwainers join together in ſupporting two Charity Schools; the one for 50 Boys, and the other for 30 Girls, who are taught, cloathed, and put out Apprentices, or to Service, when fit for it. The Charge of this is defrayed by Subſcribers, and Collections made at the Churches of St. Mary le Bow, Alhallows in Bread-ſtreet, St. Anthonine's, St. Mildred Bread-ſtreet, and St. Mary Aldermary. Theſe Schools are under the Government and Direction of 24 Gentlemen, who are moſt of them Inhabitants of this Ward, and are liberal Contributors themſelves. The Schools are in Well-court, in Queen-ſtreet.

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle and 30 Watchmen.

The Jury returned by the Inqueſt for the Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts at Guildhall, in the Month of April.

The Alderman is Sir Robert Baylis, Knt.

CHAP. X.

QUEEN-HITHE WARD.

NEXT to Bread-ſtreet Ward, on the South Side thereof, is Queen-hithe Ward, ſo called from a Water-Gate, or Harbour for Boats, Lighters and Barges; and was, of old Time, for Ships, when the Timber Bridge of LONDON uſed to be drawn up, for their Paſſage to the ſaid Hithe; as to a principal Strand for landing and unlading againſt the Middle and Heart of the City. This Ward begins in the Eaſt in Knightriders-ſtreet on the South Side thereof, where the Eaſt End of the Pariſh-Church, called the Holy Trinity, ſtood, and runs Weſt on the South Side, to a Lane called Lambart-hill, which is the Length of the Ward in Knightriders-ſtreet. Out of which Street are divers Lanes, running South to Thames-ſtreet, and are of this Ward. The firſt is Trinity-lane, which runs down by the Weſt End of Trinity Church. Then is Spuren-lane, or Spooner's-lane, now called Huggen-lane. Then Bread-ſtreet-hill. Then St. Mary Mounthaut. Out of which Lane, on the Eaſt Side thereof, is another Lane, turning Eaſt through St. Nicholas Olave's Church-Yard to Bread-ſtreet-hill. This Lane is called Finimore-lane, or Five-foot-lane, becauſe it is but five Feet in Breadth at the Weſt End. In the Middle of this Lane runs down another Lane, broader, South to Thames-ſtreet.

Stow believes this Lane was antiently called Desborne-lane; for he had read, he ſays, of ſuch a Lane in the Pariſh of St. Mary Somerſet, in the 22d of Edward III.

LAST of all is Lambart-hill, ſo called from one Lambart, an Owner thereof; and this is the fartheſt Weſt Part of this Ward.

The HOLY TRINITY.

THIS Church, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and called Trinity the Leſs, or in Knightriders, is ſituate on the South Side of the ſaid Street, in the Eaſtern Part thereof. It is ſubject to the Archdeacon, and a Rectory.

IT was a ſmall Church, and very old, and in Danger of falling down, inſomuch, that in the Year 1606, they were conſtrained to pull it down to the Ground, and from thence with what Speed they could, with much Care and Coſt, to rebuild it; which in the Years 1607 and 1608, was finiſhed, with Contributions, partly of the Pariſhioners, and partly of other Benefactors in and about the City.

IT was, of Old, in the Gift of the Prior and Convent of St. Mary Overy's, in Southwark, 'till the general Suppreſſion in Henry's VIII's Time. After which, by Grant, or by way of Exchange, as may be ſuppoſed, it came from the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, in which it hath continued ever ſince.

TO the pious Work of Rebuilding this Church, the Worſhipful Companies of Merchant-Taylors and Vintners, were very bounteous Benefactors.

AS alſo theſe Aldermen, Sir Thomas Cambel, Sir John Swinnerton, Sir John Gore, Sir William Craven, and Sir Thomas Middleton, who had their Names and Arms ſtanding in a fair Window at the Upper End of the Chancel.

THIS Church was alſo repaired and beautified at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1629.

THIS Church conſumed in the great Deva-ſtation by Fire, is indeed rebuilt, but is become a Church for Lutherans to ſerve GOD in, by the Procurement chiefly of Theodore Jacobſon, and the Pariſh united to Queen-hith.

THERE have been no Legacies, or charitable Gifts belonging to this Pariſh, as the Church-Wardens, 1693, knew of, given or left, either for Sermons or Reparations.

BUT 15 s. per Ann. for the Poor, payable to this Trinity Pariſh; to which a Stop was put about 20 Years ago, or more, 'till a Difference depending was decided.

THERE is a Piece of Glebe built, and leaſed out for 20 Years reſerved Rent, 3 l. But Anno 1636, the Glebe was 10 l. per Ann. and a Parſonage-Houſe 8 l. per Ann.

INTERMENTS.

John Brian, Alderman, in the Reign of Henry V. was a great Benefactor. John Chamber had a Chantry there. Thomas Riſhby, Eſq; and Alice his Wife, buried within the Chantry. John Mirfin, Auditor of the Exchequer, 1471. Sir Richard Fowlar, of Rickes in Oxfordſhire, 1528. George Cope, ſecond Son to Sir John Cope, of Copes-Aſhby in Northamptonſhire.

NUMBER of Houſes 78.

THE converting of the Trinity Church into a Church for Proteſtant Foreigners, called Lutherans, is founded upon the King's Letters Patents, dated the 13th of September, 24 Car. II. to Theodore Jacobſon, and five other Gentlemen more, named in the Patent, and to their Heirs and Aſſigns, by the Conſent and Approbation of the then Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Biſhop of LONDON, and Lord Mayor, free Liberty granted them to cauſe a Temple to be erected on Ruins where the Church of the Holy Trinity, before the Fire of LONDON, ſtood. Which Ground they had purchaſed of the City of LONDON, for the free Exerciſe of the Auguſtine Confeſſion in the German Tongue; with divers other Powers and Authorities mentioned in the ſaid Letters Patents. And according to thoſe Powers granted to the Patentees, they made ſeveral Orders, or Laws, for the better regulating of themſelves, and for the Good of the ſaid Congregation.

Theodore Jacobſon, being antient, by Indenture dated the 27th January, 1702-3, by Advice of able Counſel, conveyed all the ſaid Rights and Powers, unto 14 Perſons more, of known Honeſty and Ability, and of the ſame Congregation, and their Heirs; upon the Truſt, and to the Intents and Purpoſes in the Letters Patents mentioned. Theſe, for the Good of the Church, as they pretended, altered ſome of the former Laws and Orders, and made others in their Room: Whereat the Miniſter, and four or five more of the Congregation, were diſpleaſed; and they cauſed a Meeting to be held at the ſaid Temple, the 5th of May, 1703. And there, without Authority from the Truſtees, but rather in Oppoſition to them, elected 12 Perſons, under the Denomination of Deacons; and with theſe pretended Deacons, the ſaid Miniſter thwarted the intended good Deſigns of the Truſtees. Upon this, they of this Church entered into a Suit of Chancery.

The PARISH of

St. NICHOLAS COLD-ABBEY.

St. Nicholas Cold-Abbey.

SITUATE on the South Side of Old Fiſh-ſtreet, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Nicholas Cold-Abbey.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated was born at Patara, a City of Lycia. His Study in Piety was ſuch, that when others were at their Sport, he was always at Church, hearing Sermons, and repeating them. He was at firſt a private and honeſt Houſholder.

THE Biſhop of Myræa, or Myra, in Lycia, being dead, the other Biſhops and Prieſts agreed among themſelves, that whoſoever ſhould the next Day firſt enter into the Church, ſhould be created Biſhop. When, therefore, Nicholas came firſt into it, to make his Prayers, with every one's Gratulation and Acclamation, he was ſaluted Biſhop: And altho' he took upon him this Office unwillingly, in that he was a Citizen and a Layman (as at this Day they call him) yet he obeyed this lawful Call, and honeſtly and diligently he performed his Duty. He lived temperately and ſoberly, and uſed great Liberality to the Poor.

THERE is a notable Story reported of him, how by his Liberality he preſerved three Siſters from being proſtituted; but it is too long to inſert here, as are many other his pious Deeds and Miracles.

St. Nicholas at laſt falling ſick, religiouſly ended his Life, 8 Id. Decemb. Anno Chriſti 343, and was buried at Myræa; from whence his Body was afterwards tranſlated to Bari, in Apulia, wherein is a ſtately Temple dedicated to him, where his Reliques remain.

IT is ſaid, that he aſſiſted at the general Council of Nice, where he ſtrongly oppoſed Arius.

IT ſeems, that in former Times many fooliſh and ſuperſtitious Ceremonies were uſually obſerved upon the Feaſt of St. Nicholas, as alſo of St. Katharine, St. Clement, &c. which being diſtaſted by King Henry VIII. were by him, with Advice of his Council, required to be no more uſed in his Realm, as by his Proclamation of July 22, in the 33d of his Reign, appears.

Stow ſays, the Word Cole-abbey (which was added to diſtinguiſh this from other Churches of St. Nicholas) is corruptly ſo called, being more properly Cold-bay (as a Place expoſed to the Weather) as Cold-harbour, &c.

THIS Church was an antient Foundation; for Stow ſays, the Steeple and South Iſle (which were not ſo old as the reſt of the Church) were new built in the 1ſt of Richard II. viz. Anno 1377, and the Church was then old; of which one ——— Buckland, Eſq; (as appeared by his Arms in ſeveral Places) was the Builder of the Steeple, and Repairer of the Reſidue. Thomas Fer, Fiſhmonger, gave a large Cœmetery. Anno 1397, the Church was repaired at the Charge of Thomas Barnard, and others; and again, at the Charge of the Pariſh, Anno 1626, 1628, and 1630; but being conſumed by the terrible Flame, Anno 1666, was re-edified 1677.

THE Walls are well built with Stone, the Steeple is a Tower, and a Fruſtum of a Pyramid covered with Lead, and a Balcony at the Upper End; the Roof within is flat; the Floor paved with Stone, where that of the Chancel is one Step higher than the reſt. There are three Iſles, and the Structure is of the Corinthian Order.

IT is adorned in its Roof with Pannels of Crocket-Work, the Walls with Pilaſters of the ſaid Order; the Pews and Pulpit are Oak, and it is wainſcotted therewith ſeven Feet high. At the Weſt End there is a handſome Gallery and Partition, adorned with Pilaſters, Entablament, and three arched Apertures right againſt the ſaid Iſles, enriched with Fruit, Leaves, &c. of the ſame Species of Timber; as is alſo the Altar-Piece, which is adorned with two Columns, and their Entablament of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue under a Glory, and three Cherubims between the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, done in Gold Letters on Black; and here are Enrichments of Shields, Cherubims, Fruits, Leaves, and Palm-Branches. Above the Cornice are the King's-Arms under a Pediment, between Vaſes or Lamps, all well carved. The Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is Black and White Marble, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

THE Dimenſions are, Length within 63 Feet, Breadth 43, Altitude 36 Feet; and that of the Steeple about 135 Feet, wherein is only one Bell.

THERE was ſome Time a fair Houſe in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Mary Mounthaut, belonging to Robert Belkenape, one of the King's Juſtices; but the ſaid Belkenape being baniſhed this Realm, King Richard II, in the 12th of his Reign, gave it to William Wickham, Biſhop of Wincheſter.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Old-fiſh-ſtreet-hill, is a great Houſe, which ſome Time was one of the Halls pertaining to the Company of Fiſhmongers, at ſuch Time as they had ſix Hall-motes or Meeting-places; namely, two in Bridge-ſtreet, or New-fiſh-ſtreet; two in Old-fiſh-ſtreet; whereof this was one; and two in Stock-fiſh-monger-row, or Thames-ſtreet; as appears by a Record the 22d of Richard II.

NEXT Weſtward is another Lane, called Lambart-Hill, the Eaſt Side whereof is wholly of this Ward, and but half the Weſt Side; to wit, from the North end of the Blackſmiths-Hall.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL QUEENHITHE.

THEN in Thames-ſtreet, of this Ward, and on the North Side, over-againſt Queenhithe, is the Pariſh of St. Michael; for an Account of the Saint, to whom this Church is dedicated, See Book II, Chap. VII.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified, great Coſt beſtowed on the Roof, the Eaſt and Weſt Windows new built and glazed, with other Repairs about it, at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1615; but being burnt down in the great Fire, was built again, and Trinity Pariſh laid to it. The Communion-Table was given by Mr. John Oliver, 1682. Two Damask Table-Cloths, a long Time ſince given; the Donors unknown.

THE Roof of the Structure is ſquare and flat; covered with Tile; the Walls, Stone, with which alſo the Church is paved, but the Chancel with Marble and Purbeck; and there are three Iſles.

THE Ornament of the Roof is a Quadrangle bound with Fret-work, the Walls (near the Roof) have Overtures, Arches, Impoſts and Drops, and handſome five Light and circular Windows. There is a pretty Gallery at the Weſt End, having an Oak Boleſtion-work Front; the Pulpit and Pews are of the ſame Species of Timber. The Altar-piece is painted in perſpective, in the Gothick Manner; the Intercolumns are the Commandments, ſupported with the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron in their Habits between the Creed and Pater-Noſter, ſuſtained by two Angels. Over the Decalogue are two Attick Pilaſters and an Arch; under which is a Glory, and below that the Words, Surſum Corda, and enriched with Feſtoons, Vaſes, &c.

AND was repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord 1624.

Dominus Petra mea & Arx mea, & Liberator meus, Adjutor meus, ſperabo in eum, Pſal. xviii. 2.

That is,
The Saying of Thomas Burton, Rector of the Church in the Time of the Reparation and Beautifying of this Building.

The Lord is my Rock, and my Fortreſs, my Deliverer, my Helper, I will hope in him, Pſal. xviii. 2.

THIS Church was burnt down by the great Fire, and was rebuilt and finiſhed Feb. 16, 1695.

THE Church and Tower are built of Stone, where the former is alſo paved, having two Iſles; the Roof within is flat, adorned with a Cornice; and between the Windows are Fret-Work of Cherubims, &c. It is finely wainſcotted with Oak about 10 Feet high, and a neat Wainſcot Gallery is at the Weſt End, ſupported with four Stone Columns of the Tuſcan Order. And here are two ſpacious inner Door-Caſes, and handſome Pews of the ſaid Species of Timber; as is alſo the Pulpit, which is inriched with Cherubims, and the Sound-Board finniered.

THE Altar-Piece is adorned with four Pilaſters, Entablature, and Compaſs Pediment, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, curiouſly done in Gold Letters on Black, placed under five Cherubims and Palm-branches, &c. gilt with Gold. Above the Cornice, and under the Pediment, is a Glory in Form of an Equilateral Triangle, ſurrounded with painted Cherubims. Without the Columns are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Gold Letters on Blue; and on the Eaſt Window is painted the King's Arms; and the Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is black and white Marble; at the Weſt End is a neat Marble Font, which was given by John Tooly, Deputy of this Ward 1699. He alſo wainſcotted the Veſtry, where his Coat of Arms is ſet up.

THE Dimenſions of this Church are, Length 83 Feet, Breadth 36, Altitude 30, and that of the Tower, to the Top of the higheſt Pinacles, about 120.

He was by Freedom a Pewterer, by Trade a Brewer, and one of the Governors of Chriſt's Hoſpital. He departed this Life the 7th Day of June, An. Domini 1616, being aged 75 Years.

No cauſe to mourne, though here he lye,
That gave to many Cauſe to cry.

His Soul doth live among the Juſt.

The PARISH of St. PETER near PAUL's WHARF.

This Church of St. Peter, of Old called St. Peter's Parva, or Little, becauſe it was but a ſmall Church, but of latter Times called St. Peter near Paul's Wharf, becauſe ſituate near to that Place, ſtood on the North Side of Thames-ſtreet, at the South Eaſt Corner of St. Peter's-hill.

In this Church were two perpetual Chantries founded; one for the Souls of William Barnard, and Iſabel his Wife, endowed with 4 l. 6 s. 8 d. per Ann. and the other was founded by Walter Kent, and endowed with 4 l. 13 s. 4 d. per Ann. of both which the Rector, Church-Wardens, and Pariſhioners, were Patrons.

This Church was repaired and beautified in 1625.

Tho' this Church was but ſmall and inconſiderable, yet Newcourt, in his Repertorium, adds ſomething of his own Knowledge to the Honour of it, which is this, That it was very famous ſome Years before the Reſtauration of King Charles II. by Reaſon of the Common-Prayer, which was much uſed therein, and the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper duly adminiſtred, according to the Liturgy of the Church of England, which brought a great Concourſe and Reſort to it, both of the Nobility and Gentry; and the Galleries, where, they ſat were richly hung with Turky Work Carpets, and the like.

But being burnt down in the dreadful Fire, it was ſince annexed to that of St. Bennet at Paul's Wharf.

To this Church belongs no Parſonage-Houſe, as they knew of; accordingly to the Preſentment of the Church-Wardens in the Parochial-Viſitation, Anno 1693. But, according to the Parochial-Viſitation, 1636, there was a Parſonage-Houſe and Glebe, valued at 4 l. 8 s. per Ann.

THEN is Town's-end-lane, turning down to the Thames.

Queen-hithe. THEN is Queen-hithe, a large Receptacle for Corn-Barges, and other Weſtern Veſſels. Touching the Antiquity and Uſe of this Gate and Hithe: Of old Time the ſame belonged to one named Edred, and was then called Edred's Hithe. Which ſince falling to the Hands of King Stephen, it was by his Charter confirmed to William de Ypre. The Farm thereof in Fee and in Heritage, William de Ypre gave it unto the Prior and Convent of the Holy Trinity within Aldgate, as appears by this Charter:

TO Theobald, by the Grace of God Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Primate of England, and Legate Apoſtolike. To the Biſhop of London, and to all faithfull People, Clerkes and Laymen, William de Ypre ſendeth greeting. Know ye me to have given and granted to God, and to the Church of the Holy Trinity of London, to the Prior and Canons there, ſerving God, in perpetual Alms, Edred's Hith, with the Appurtenances. With ſuch Devotion, that they ſhall ſend every Yeere Twenty Pounds, unto the Maintenance of the Hoſpitall of Katharines; which Hoſpital they have in their Hands; and One Hundred Shillings to the Monkes of Berdmonſey, and Sixty Shillings to the Brethren of the Hoſpitall of Saint Giles. And that which remaineth, the ſaid Prior and Canons ſhall enjoy to themſelves. Witneſſes, Richard de Lucia, Raphe Bigot, or Picot, &c.

THIS Edred's Hithe, after the aforeſaid Grants, came again into the King's Hands.

AND, in the 6th Year of Henry III, being then called Ripa Reginæ, he granted it to Richard de Ripary, i. e. Rivers. And in the 10th of his Reign, he granted it Thomæ Cirenceſtriæ ad placitum Regis, i. e. To Thomas Cirenceſter at the King's Pleaſure.

BUT it pertained unto the Queen, and therefore it was called Ripa Reginæ, the Queen's Bank, or Queen's Hithe; and great Profit was made to her Uſe, as will appear by this which followeth:

KING Henry III, in the 9th of his Reign, commanded the Conſtable of the Tower of LONDON, to arreſt the Ships of the Cinque Ports, on the River of Thames, and to compel them to bring their Corn to no other Place, but to the Queen's Hithe only.

THE ſame Year, viz. 9 Hen. III, the ſaid Conſtable was required to arreſt the ſaid Ships in the Thames, to carry their Corn only to the Ports of the Realm. The Words are, De blado non cariando niſi ad portus Regni.

IN the 11th of his Reign, he charged the ſaid Conſtable to diſtrain any Fiſh offered to be ſold in any Place of this City, but at the Queen's Hithe.

THE Words of the Record are, Diſtringat eos, qui ducunt piſcem venalem in Navibus uſq; London. & remanent trans Pontem London. ex parte Turris, ad ducendum dict. piſcem uſq; Hitham. The Conſtable was to compel or force them who brought Fiſh in Boats to LONDON, to ſell, not to remain on this Side the Bridge near the Tower, but to ſee them conveyed to Queen-hithe. And again, in the 10th of that King, Ducet [Conſtabularius Turris] piſcem venalem venientem ap. London. ad Ripam Reginæ.

MOREOVER, in the 28th of the ſaid King's Reign, an Inquiſition was made before William of York, Provoſt of Beverly, Henry of Bath, and Hierome of Caxton, Juſtices Itinerants, ſitting in the Tower of LONDON, touching the Cuſtoms of Queen-hithe, obſerved in the Year laſt before the Wars between the King his Father, and the Barons of England; and of old Cuſtoms of other Times. And what Cuſtoms had been changed; at what Time the Tax and Payment of all Things coming thither; and between Wooreparth, and Anede-hith, were found and ſeized, according to the old Order; as well Corn and Fiſh, as of other Things. All which Cuſtoms were as well to be obſerved in the Part of Downgate, as in Queen-hithe, for the King's Uſe: When alſo it was found, that the Corn arriving between the Gate of Guild-hall of the Merchants of Coleyne, and the Soke of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury (for he had a Houſe near unto the Black-fryars) was not to be meaſured by any other Quarter, than by that of the Queen's Soke.

AFTER this, the Bailiffs of the ſaid Hithe complained, that ſince the Recognition, fourteen foreign Ships, laden with Fiſh, arrived at Bilingsgate; which Ships ſhould have arrived at the ſaid Hithe. And therefore it was order'd, That if any foreign Ship, laden with Fiſh, ſhould, in the Form aforeſaid, arrive elſewhere than at this Hithe, it ſhould be at the King's Pleaſure to amerce them at 40 s. Notwithſtanding, the Ships of the Citizens of LONDON were at Liberty to arrive where the Owners would appoint them.

ALL this Inquiſition before the King's Juſtices Itinerants, 28 Hen. III, concerning Queen-hithe, being ſet down very imperfectly and obſcurely, Mr. Strype relates it more fully and exactly, as it ſtands in the Books of the Chamber of LONDON.

DOminus Rex mandavit, &c. i. e. Our Lord the King (Henry III) commanded Lord William de Eboraco, Provoſt of Beverly, and Henry of Bath, and Jeremiah de Caxton, his Fellow Juſtices Itinerants at the Tower of LONDON, in the 28th Year of the Reign of the ſaid Henry, Son of King John, That with all Diligence, and by all the Ways they could, cauſe Inquiry to be made, what Cuſtoms belonged to the Queen's Heth, LONDON, the Year next before the War moved between the Lord John, his Father, and his Barons of England. And when it ſhall appear to them concerning thoſe Cuſtoms, and others, which belonged to the aforeſaid Heth, and which were afterwards changed and alienated, they labour with all Solicitude and Carefulneſs they can, to reform the ſaid Heth to its due State. And that the Cuſtoms in the ſame be held, which was wont to be held in the Time aforeſaid.

BEFORE which Provoſt and Juſtices, it was convicted by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, that in the Time aforeſaid were three Cuſtoms belonging to the foreſaid Heth; to wit,

OF every Sieve (that is, a Meaſure containing five Quarters) of Salt, that ſhall belong to a Man that is a Foreigner, or to any one of the five Ports, and ſhall land and come, whereſoever it be within Woreparth and Anede-hethe, or beyond; 2dly, at the Farm of the ſaid Heth.

ALSO, if any Citizen of LONDON have Part in the ſame Sieve of Salt, he ſhall give nothing of his Portion: But the Reſidue that belongs longs to the Strangers, ſhall give Cuſtom according to the Quantity of his Ware.

Also, if any bring from Abroad Herrings, Corn, or ſuch like, together with Salt, in one Ship, it hath been lawful for the Queen's Bailiff to take a ——— Part of the aforeſaid Catals.

Also, if any from Abroad, and alſo from the five Ports, come with Salmon, if he ſhall bring 100, or more, he ſhall give two Salmons to the Queen's Farm.

And if any ſhall land them in the Queen's Soke, he ſhall give one of the beſt, and one of the middling Sort.

And if he ſhall bring leſs than 100, he ſhall give according to the Quantity of the Thing, to the fourth Part.

And if he ſhall bring leſs than the fourth Part, he ſhall give nothing but Standage.

Also, of Salt Mulvil (a Kind of Fiſh) the ſame Cuſtom is to be taken at the Queen's Farm in the ſame Soke, which the Sheriff takes for the King's Uſe at Billingſgate.

Also, if a Stranger, and alſo any for the Five Ports, ſhall bring in his Ship White Herrings ſalted, in the Queen's Soke, 100 is to be taken out of the Ship. And if any of the Citizens have a Part with him, nothing to be taken from his Portion.

Also, whatſoever Stranger brings the firſt Red Herring, not frailed, he ſhall give 100 Herrings. And others, who ſhall come with the ſame Kind of Herrings, whether they are frailed or not, ſhall give nothing through the whole Year, beſides the Standage of the Ship.

Also, if any Foreigner ſhall buy Salmon, or Mulvil, ſalted in the Ship, and ſhall put it into another Ship; for every 1000 he ſhall give an Half-penny.

Also, concerning Salmon and Mulvil bought in Shops, ſituate in the ſame Soke, of every 100 is to be taken 2 d. as was before ſaid, concerning the Ships.

Also, of Herrings bought in Shops, of every 1000 is to be taken an Half-penny.

Also, if every Kind of freſh Fiſh, coming in the Queen's Soke, the ſame Cuſtom is to be taken, which is taken of the ſame Kind of Fiſh, at the Queen's Farm at London-bridge.

Also, of every Ship that ſaileth within Orlokes, is to be taken 2 d. at the Queen's Farm; unleſs it be of LONDON, or of the Five Ports.

Also, of a Ship which ſaileth with Toll, is to be taken an Half-penny.

Also, of every Shout coming down in the Queen's Soke with Corn, to be taken 1 d. ob. but if with Wood, without Corn, 1 d.

All Cuſtoms before written, are to be kept and held, as well in the Port of Dovegate as Queen-hithe, for the Lord the King's Uſe.

Also, Corn which landeth between the Gutter of the Guildhall of the Men of Colen, and the Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Soke, (i. e. near Black-fryars) is not wont to be meaſured by another Quartern, than by the Quartern of the Queen's Soke.

Also, it belongeth to the Queen's Bailiff, to take Scawyng in Selba Wynton, for the Queen's Uſe, under the ſame Form as the Sheriff of LONDON takes Scawynge elſewhere in LONDON for the King's Uſe.

Also, if any withdraw his Cuſtom, and depart from the City with the ſame Cuſtom, he falls into the Mercy of the Bailiff.

Also, if any offer to pay his Cuſtom to the Bailiff, or his Servant, and they will not take it, although he depart from the City, he is not to be amerced.

Also, all Aſſizes of the City, in the Huſtings, provided and ordained for the Amendment of the City, are to be ordained and obſerved in the Queen's Soke; and therefore it is a Cuſtom, that the Lord the King have his Seizin of all the aforeſaid Cuſtoms, according as it is acknowledged by the ſame Mayor and Citizens.

Afterwards came the Bailiffs of the ſame Heth, and complained, that after the foreſaid Acklowledgment, 14 Foreign Ships landed with Fiſh at Billingſgate, which ought to have landed at the foreſaid Heth. And therefore the Cuſtom is, that if any Foreign Ship with Fiſh, land elſewhere in the Form aforeſaid, than at the foreſaid Heth, it is in the King's Mercy, to wit, at 40 s. Forfeiture. Let this Puniſhment have Place, until one Month after the Feaſt of St. Michael, this Year. And, in the mean Time, according to the Tranſgreſſion, Proviſion is made for inflicting an heavier Pain, if they will not obſerve the foreſaid Form.

Afterwards came the Mayor and Citizens, and ſay, that ſix Ships of Strangers, with all Salt Fiſh, in Foreign Spindler Boats, landed at the foreſaid Heth, in the foreſaid Time. But Ships which were the Citizens of LONDON, landed elſewhere, where they would; and therefore let the King have his Seizin.

After this the ſaid Henry III. confirmed the Grant of Richard Earl of Cornwall, for the Farm of Queen-hithe to John Giſors, then Mayor, and to the Commonalty of LONDON, and their Succeſſors for ever, as appears by the following Charter:

HENRY, by the Grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Guien, and Earl of Anjou, to all Archbiſhops, &c. Be it knowne, that wee have ſeene the Covenant betweene our Brother Richard, Earle of Cornwall, of the one Party, and the Maior and Communalty of LONDON, on the other Party; which is in this Sort: In the 30th Yeere of Henry, the Sonne of King John, upon the Feaſt of the Tranſlation of St. Edward at Weſtminſter, this Covenant was made betweene the Honourable Lord Richard, Earle of Cornwall, and John Giſors, then Maior of LONDON, and the Commons thereof, concerning certain Exactions and Demands pertaining to the Queene-hith of LONDON, to wit, That the ſaid Earle granted for himſelf and his Heyres, that the ſaid Maior, and all Maiors enſuing, and all the Commons of the City, ſhould have and hold the Queene-hith, with all the Liberties and Cuſtomes, and other Appurtenances in Fee Ferme; rendring thence yeerely to the ſaid Earle, his Heires and Aſſignes, 50 l. at Clerkenwell at two ſeveral Termes, to wit, at the Cloſe of Eaſter 25 l. and in the Octaves of Michaelmas, 25 l. And for more Surety hereof, the ſaid Earle hath ſet thereunto his Seale, and left it with the Maior; and the Maior and Communalty have ſet to their Seale, and left it with the Earle: Where we confirme and eſtabliſh the ſaid Covenant, for us and our Heires. Witneſſes, Ralph Fitz-Nichol, Richard Gray, John and Will. Brithem, Paulin Paynter, Ralph Wancia, John Cumband, and others. At Windſor, the 26th of February, the 31ſt of our Reign.

It ſeems Queen-hithe was in the Hands of the Earl of Cornwall, at the Death of K. Henry III. and the Citizens ſuppoſed was wrongfully detained from them. For upon an Inquiſition appointed by the Juſtices the 3d of Edw. I. they make this Preſentment, "That the Queen-hithe "was ſome Time belonging to the City of "LONDON; and how it came to the Earl "of Cornwall, and his Heirs, they knew not, "nor

" not by what Warrant. And that it was worth " per Ann. 52 l. And moreover, they ſay, " That King John, Father of Lord King Henry, " gave Queen-hithe to Alianore, then Queen of " England, and was had of the King's De- " meſne all his Time. But from that Time " 'till now, the Earl of Cornwall, and his Heirs " held it, and ſtill did hold it againſt the " Crown, and Diſenheirſen of the King, as it " ſeemed to them; but by what Warrant they " knew not.

THE Charge of this Queen-hithe was then committed to the Sheriffs, and ſo long continued.

Now for the Cuſtoms of this Queen-hithe: In the Year 1302, the 30th of Edward I. it was found by the Oath of divers Men, that Bakers, Brewers, and others, buying their Corn at Queen-hithe, ſhould pay for Meaſuring, Portage, and Carriage, for every Quarter of Corn whatſoever; from thence to Weſtcheap, to St. Antholine's Church, to Horſe-ſhoe-bridge, and to Woolſey-ſtreet, in the Pariſh of Alhallows the Leſs, and ſuch like Diſtances, one ob. q. To Fleet-bridge, to Newgate, Cripplegate, to Birchovers-lane, to Eaſtcheap, and Billingſgate, 1 d. Alſo, that the Meaſurer, or the Meeter, ought to have eight chief Maſter-Porters; every Maſter to have three Porters under him, and every one of them to find one Horſe, and ſeven Sacks; and he that ſo did not, to loſe his Office.

THIS Hithe was then ſo frequented with Veſſels, bringing thither Corn, (beſides Fiſh, Salt, Fuel, and other Merchandizes) that all theſe Men, to wit, the Meeter and Porters, 37 in Number, for all their Charge of Horſes and Sacks, and ſmall Stipend, lived well of their Labours. But now that Caſe is altered; the Bakers of LONDON, and other Citizens, travel into the Countries, and buy their Corn of the Farmers, after the Farmers Price.

KING Edward II. in the firſt Year of his Reign, gave to Margaret, Wife to Peter Gaveſtone, 43 l. 12 s. 9 d. Half-penny Farthing, out of the Rents in LONDON, to be received of Queen-hithe.

CERTAIN Impoſitions were ſet upon Ships, and other Veſſels coming thither; as upon Corn, Salt, and other Things, towards the Charge of cleanſing Roomland there, the 41ſt of Edw. III.

THESE were the Impoſitions, and the Occaſion of them. This Roomland being annoyed with Dung, Filth, &c. ſo as the Sellers of Corn and Victuals there could not ſtand to ſell their Commodities, as formerly they had done, it was ordered by a Common-Council, An. 41. of King Edward III. that the Place ſhould forthwith be made clean and paved: And that from thenceforth, towards the perpetual Cleanſing and Reparation thereof, there ſhould be taken for every Quarter of Corn, of what Kind ſoever, there ſold or coming, a Farthing; for every Quarter of Salt, a Farthing; for every Veſſel, called a Battel, bringing Ruſhes, 4 d. for every Veſſel called a Shout, bringing Corn, or Malt, 2 d. for every Ship bringing other Victuals, 2 d. and of every Perſon laying Soil there, 2 s. and the Seller of the Ruſhes, to pay for every Boat of Ruſhes, 4 d.

THE 3 d. of Edward IV. the Market at Queen-hithe being hindered by the Slackneſs of drawing up London-bridge, it was ordained, That all Manner of Veſſels, Ships, or Boats, great or ſmall, reſorting to the City with Victuals, ſhould be ſold by Retale; and that if there came but one Veſſel at a Time, were it Salt, Wheat, Rye, or other Corn from beyond the Seas; or other Grains, Garlick, Onions, Herrings, Sprats, Eels, Whitings, Plaiſe, Cods, Mackarel, &c. then that one Veſſel ſhould come to Queen-hithe, and there to make ſale. But if two Veſſels came, the one ſhould come to Queen-hithe, the other to Billingſgate. If three, two of them ſhould come to Queen-hithe, the third to Billingſgate, &c. always the more to Queen-hithe. If the Veſſel, being great coming with Salt from the Bay, and could not come to theſe Keys, then the ſame to be conveyed by Lighters, as before is meant.

ONE large Houſe for Stowage of Corn, craned out of Lighters and Barges, was there built. Sir John Lion, Grocer, Mayor, 1554, by his Teſtament, gave 100 l. towards it, and this was afterwards made larger, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1565.

AGAINST this Queen-hithe, on the River of Thames, of late Years, ſaith Stow, was placed a Corn-Mill, upon, or betwixt two Barges, or Lighters, and there ground Corn, as Water-Mills in other Places; to the Wonder of many that had not ſeen the like; but this laſted not long without Decay. The like had been in former Times, for in the Year 1525, the 16th of Henry VIII. Sir William Bayley being Mayor, John Cooke of Gloceſter, Mercer, gave to the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, and theirs for ever, one great Barge, in which two great Corn-Mills were made and placed; which Barge and Mills were ſet in and upon the Stream of the River of Thames, within the Juriſdiction and Liberty of the ſaid City of LONDON. And alſo he gave to the ſaid City, all ſuch Timber, Boards, Stones, Iron, &c. provided for making, mending, and repairing of the ſaid Barge and Mills. In Reward whereof, the Mayor gave him 50 l. preſently, and 50 l. yearly, during his Life. And if the ſaid Cooke deceaſed before Joan his Wife, then ſhe to have 40 Marks the Year during her Life.

THIS Queen-hithe is now a noble Market for Malt and Meal brought from the Weſtern Counties, (as Bear-key is for Corn.) Market-Days are every Day, but chiefly Mondays, Wedneſdays and Fridays.

NEXT adjoining to this Queen-hithe, on the Weſt Side thereof, is Salt-wharf, named of Salt taken up, meaſured and ſold there.

THE next is Stew-lane, of a Stew, or Hot-Houſe there kept.

AFTER that is Timber-hithe, or Timber-ſtreet, ſo called, of Timber and Boards, there taken up and wharfed. It is in the Pariſh of St. Mary Somers-hithe, as Stow ſays he read it named in the 56th of Henry III. and in the 9th of Edward II.

THEN is Brooks's-wharf and Broken-wharf, a Water-Gate, or Key, ſo called, of being broken and falling down into the Thames.

AT a Common-Council, July 23, the 2d of Queen Elizabeth, Order was taken, that out of a certain void Space of Ground at Broken-wharf, there ſhould 33 Feet be incloſed and laid to the City's Brewhouſe; which was to have a ſubſtantial Pale about it, to keep the City's Fuel, and other Goods, &c.

BY this Broken-wharf was one large old Building of Stone, with arched Gates; which Meſſuage, in the Reign of Henry III. the 43d Year, pertained to Hugh de Bygot; and in the 11th of Edward II. to Thomas Brotherton, the King's Brother, Earl of Norfolk, Marſhal of England. In the 11th of Henry VI. to John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, &c.

WITHIN the Gate of this Houſe, then belonging to the City of LONDON, was built, in the Years 1594 and 1595, a large Houſe, of great Heighth, called an Engine, made by Bevis Bulmer, Gent. for the conveying and forcing of Thames Water, to ſerve in the Middle and Weſt Parts of the City. The antient great Hall of this Meſſuage belongs now to a Brewhouſe; and the Water-Works are purchaſed by the New-River Company.

WEST from this is Trigg-lane, going down to the Thames. Next is called Boſs-lane, of a Boſs of Water, like unto that of Billingſgate, there placed by the Executors of Richard Whittington.

THEN was a great Meſſuage, ſome Time belonging to the Abbots of Chertſey in Surrey, and was their Inn, wherein they were lodged when they repaired to the City. It was afterwards called Sandie-Houſe, the Lord Sands has been lodged there.

AND this is an End of this Queen-hithe Ward.

THE preſent State of this Ward ſtands thus:

THE chief Streets, Lanes, and Hills, in this Ward, are Thames-ſtreet, Queen-hithe, with the ſeveral Lanes which run down to the Thames, Lambart-hill, Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, Five-foot-lane, Bread-ſtreet-hill, Huggin-lane, Little Trinity-lane, with the South Side of Great Trinity-lane, Old Fiſh-ſtreet, Thames-ſtreet, runs through the Heart of this Ward, as it does that of the Vintry; and the Lanes, Alleys, Hills, and Courts, as they lie on each Side, ſhall be ſpecified, beginning at the Weſt End, and on the South Side.

THIS Street enjoys a good Trade, and hath a great Reſort, occaſioned by the ſeveral Wharfs on the Water Side; and therefore much peſtered with Carts. Black-boy-alley, long and narrow, having a great Dier's at the lower End. Boſs-alley, alſo long and narrow, with a Dier's by the Thames Side. Betwixt this Place and Black-boy-alley, is a large Paſſage to a Wood-Wharf. Robin-hood-court, but very ordinary. Trig-ſtairs, ſo called from the Stairs on the Water Side, which is indifferently well ſupplied by Watermen. The Lane is open, reaſonably well built and inhabited. Caſtle-lane, pretty broad for Carts, having a Wood-Wharf at the lower End; the Buildings are but ordinary. George-yard, being good and large, and taken up by Timber-Merchants and Wood-Wharfs at the lower End. Broken-wharf; by this is a Water-Houſe to convey the Thames Water in Pipes, before-mentioned.

Brookes's-wharf leads alſo to the River Thames, having a large Wharf, with Keys therein, for the landing of Corn, Malt, and other Goods, thither brought in conſiderable Quantities. For which it is of great Reſort.

EASTWARDS from the Water-Houſe, is High-timber-ſtreet, or Hithe, ſo called from the Timber or Boards there taken up and wharfed. The Place is but ordinary, and ſerves as a Paſſage to other Places which lead to the Wharfs; as Dunghill-lane, Broker's-wharf, and Hamond's-lane, formerly called Stew-lane, from a Stew, or Hot-Houſe there kept; all Places of ordinary Account. And from this Lane is a Paſſage to Queen-hithe, called the Dark-lane: And here is Boydens's-Wharf.

Queen-hithe, a great Receptacle for Weſtern Barges, Lighters, and Boats, which brings a conſiderable Reſort and Trade to the Place. Here is a great Meal-Market, having the Conveniency for Stowage of the Goods thither brought to be ſold by the ſaid Veſſels. The Market-Houſe is commodiouſly ſeated by the Water-ſide, and before it an open Yard for Carts to carry off the Goods there ſold; and round about the Yard, except the South Side next the Thames, are Rows of Houſes, well inhabited, beſides good Store of Publick Houſes, for the Reception of People that reſort thither about Buſineſs, next the Stairs.

Eaſtward of Queen-hithe, is Pump-court, or Yard, a ſmall Place, which comes out of Queen-hithe, and falls into Townſend-lane, an open Place for Carts to the Wharf; and this is the Eaſtern Limits of this Ward.

THEN on the North Side are theſe Places. Bowling-alley, a ſmall Place, which falls into Sugar-loaf-court, now taken up for a Brewhouſe.

St. Michael Queen-hithe Church, rebuilt ſince the great Fire, a handſome well built Church, of Free-ſtone, having on the Top of the Steeple a ſmall Free-ſtone Spire, with a Ship upon a Ball all gilt with Gold. To this Church and Pariſh is that of Trinity united.

Little Trinity-lane comes out of Great Trinity-lane, and falls into Thames-ſtreet, by St. Michael Queen-hithe Church. This Lane is well built and inhabited. Here is ſeated the Painter-Stainers-Hall; it is adorned with a handſome Screen, Arches, Pillars and Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order, painted in Imitation of Porphyry, with gilt Capitals. The Pannels of Wainſcot, and the Ceilings are embelliſh'd with great Variety of Hiſtory and other Paintings, exquiſitely perform'd; as, 1. The Portraitures of King Charles II, and his Queen Catharine, by Howſman. 2. The Fire of LONDON. 3. Endymeon and Luna, by Palmaitier. 4. Orpheus fleaing Pan, by Brull. 5. A Piece of Architecture of the Corinthian Order, by Trevit. 6. Another of the Ionick Order, given by Mr. Thompſon the City-Painter. 7. Heraclitus and Democritus, by Penn. 8. A Landskip, by Aggas. 9. Fiſh and Fowl, by Robinſon. 10. Art and Envy, by Hungis. 11. A Piece of Birds, by Barlow. 12. A Piece of Fruit and Flowers, by Everbrook. 13. A Ruin, by Griſſier. 14. Camden's Portrait. 15. A Piece of Birds. 16. The Ceiling is finely painted with Pallas triumphant, with Arts and Fame, attended by Mercury, ſuppreſſing their Enemies; Sloth, Envy, Pride, &c. done by Fuller. 17. A fine Piece of Shipping, by Mr. Peter Monumea; and there are ſeveral other Pieces in the Parlour. Painter Stainers-Hall.

IN the Court-Room are ſeveral fine Pictures, moſt of them Members of this Company.

THERE is in the Front of the ſaid Room a fine Buſto of Mr. Thomas Evans, who left five Houſes in Baſinghall-ſtreet to the Company, and under it this Inſcription:

P. M.
THOMÆ EVANS HUJUS SOCIETATIS TAM SENIORITATE QUAM BENIGNITATE, VERE PATRIS, VIVENS ENIM QUOTIDIANUM AUXILIUM NOBIS PRÆBUIT MORIENS NOS HÆREDES SUOS CONSTITUIT.

Mr. Camden, the famous Antiquarian, whoſe Father was a Painter in the Old Baily, gave to the Painter-Stainers Company a Silver Cup and Cover, which they uſe every St. Luke's Day at their Eleƈtion, the old Maſter drinking to the new one, then eleƈted, out of it. Upon this Cup is the following Inſcription:

GUL. CAMDENUS CLARENCEUX FILIUS SAMPSONIS PICTORIS LODINENSIS DONO DEDIT.

THIS Company are ſtill called the Painter-Stainers; but the Art of Staining Glaſs is ſo much much out of Uſe, that there are but three Perſons of any Note, at this Time, who can do it to Perfection, viz.

Mr. Price in Holbourn, who has done many Things for ſeveral of the Colleges of the Univerſity of Oxford; for his own Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew, in the Year 1719 and 1732; at Weſtminſter-Abbey, St. Martin's in the Fields, and elſewhere.

Mr. Rowel of Chipping-Wicombe, in the County of Bucks, who found out the Art himſelf, and after 20 Years Study, brought it to Perfection.

AND another Perſon at Winnocke in Lancaſhire.

OPPOSITE to this Hall, is Trinity-court, a handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. And adjoining to the ſaid Hall, is Huggin-alley, but ſmall, which hath a Paſſage into Huggin-lane. Cowden's Rents, very ordinary.

Trinity Church, ſeated at the North Eaſt Corner of Little Trinity-lane. This Church was deſtroyed in the Fire of LONDON, and ſince rebuilt, and made uſe of by Lutherans, for Divine Worſhip; as the French and Dutch have certain Churches in and about this City. But the Pariſh is united unto St. Michael's Queen-hithe: And the Church is now, not called Trinity Church, but the Lutheran, or Swedes Church; tho' it is uſed only by Germans, and ſupported by Hamburgh Merchants.

Huggin-lane, formerly called Spooner's-lane, comes out of Great Trinity-lane, and falls into Thames-ſtreet, a Lane of good Account. On the Eaſt Side is Fair-cloth-court, very ſmall, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Star-yard, very ordinary, hath a Paſſage into Bread-ſtreet-hill.

Bread-ſtreet-hill, a Place well built, and inhabited by good Tradeſmen, moſtly Wholeſale.

ON the Weſt Side of this Hill, was the Pariſh Church of St. Nicholas Olave; the Church was deſtroyed in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt; but the Pariſh is united unto St. Nicholas Cold-abbey.

MORE Southward, is a very handſome ſquare Court, with three large Houſes, now called Migley's-court, from one of that Name inhabiting there.

Five-foot-lane, ſo called, for that the Weſt End was but five Foot broad. It hath its chief Entrance out of Thames-ſtreet, and with a turning Paſſage leads into Fiſh-ſtreet-hill. It hath another Paſſage out of Bread-ſtreet-hill, by St. Nicholas Olave's Church-yard; and another into Old-fiſh-ſtreet, through Star-court, which is but ſmall.

Mr. Edward Gilbert, a worthy Inhabitant of the Pariſh of St. Nicholas Olave's, in the Year 1726, ſunk a Well, between the Church-yard Wall and the Channel, about 20 Feet deep, and then had it bored, but could find no Water; afterwards he ſunk another in the Paſſage called the Church-yard, leading from Bread-ſtreet-hill to Five-foot-lane, over-againſt the Rector's Gate, and there found a good Spring, where he erected a handſome Pump at his own Charge, amounting to upwards of 80 Pounds; he ſubſcribed, about the ſame Time, 20 Guineas to the Iron Gates and Palliſado's ſet up round the Church-yard.

Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, a well inhabited Place, comes out of Old-fiſh-ſtreet, and runs down into Thames Street. On the Eaſt Side is Five-foot-lane, as aforeſaid.

MORE Southward was the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Mounthaw, or Mounthaut. It was deſtroyed in the Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt, the Pariſh being united to St. Mary Somerſet; and the Ground on which it ſtood being incloſed for a Burial-Place for the Inhabitants, as moſt of the Churches, not rebuilt, are.

Labour-in-vain-yard, a large Place, having at the upper End, on the North Side, a handſome Court, with private Houſes, the Southern Part being taken up with Stabling, where it hath a Paſſage into Lambeth, or Lambart-hill. Dove Court, a handſome Place, adjoining to Labour-in-vain-yard. Bell-alley, long and ordinary, adjoining to Fiſh-ſtreet-hill.

BUT in Thames-ſtreet, over-againſt Broken-wharf, is ſeated the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Somerſet, a good Free-ſtone Building, having a very graceful Steeple, built with eight Pinnacles on the Battlements, the four Corners differing from the reſt, which makes it graceful to the Eye of the Beholder.

IT was deſtroyed in the general Fire of LONDON, and rebuilt as aforeſaid. To this Church and Pariſh, that of St. Mary Mounthaut is united.

Lambart-hill, a Place well built and inhabited by private Houſe-keepers. Of this Hill, the Weſt Side, about half Way, viz. unto Green-dragon-court, is in Caſtle-Baynard's Ward, and all the reſt is in this Ward. In which is Green-dragon-court, being now a Timber-yard, and has a Paſſage into Thames-ſtreet. On this Hill is Blackſmiths Hall, a good handſome Building, and the Alms-Houſes are in Caſtle Baynard's Ward, and there ſpoken of.

St. Peter's-hill, ſpoken of in Caſtle-Baynard's Ward. In this there is but two Houſes and the Church, which, before the Fire of LONDON, (and deſtroyed by it) was but ſmall, and is not rebuilt; but the Pariſh is united to St. Bennet Paul's Wharf near adjoining.

Old-fiſh-ſtreet, a good open broad Street, well built, and inhabited chiefly by Fiſhmongers, from whom it took its Name. The North Side is in Bread-ſtreet Ward, and the South in this. It was formerly a Street of greater Requeſt than at preſent, and much reſorted unto for Fiſh-Dinners.

HERE is ſeated the Pariſh-Church of St. Nicholas Cold-abbey, a very handſome Free-ſtone Building, with a neat Spire-Steeple; and is better built than it was before the Fire. This Pariſh is united to St. Nicholas Olave's.

NEAR St. Nicholas Cold-abbey, is Moor's-yard, indifferent. And beyond Fiſh-ſtreet-hill is Star-court, which is but ſmall, and hath a Paſſage into Five-foot-lane.

Great Trinity-lane comes out of St. Thomas Apoſtle's, and runs Weſtward to Old-fiſh-ſtreet, a Place indifferently well built and inhabited; the South Side is only in this Ward, the North Side in Bread-ſtreet Ward.

ADJOINING to the Lutheran Church, is a ſmall Place called Swediſh-court. And now more Eaſtward, is Jack's-alley, narrow and mean; but this is in Vintry Ward.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and Forty Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts at Guild-hall, in the Month of October.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, Six Common-Council-Men, Nine Conſtables, Eight Scavengers, Thirteen Inqueſt-Men, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in London, 20 l. and in the Exchequer, at 19 l. 6 s. 2 d.

THE Alderman is Robert Alſop, Eſq;

CHAP. XI.

CASTLE-BAYNARD WARD.

THE next is Caſtle-Baynard Ward, ſo called from an old Caſtle that antiently ſtood there. This Ward begins in the Eaſt on the Thames Side, by where, of old Time, was a Houſe called Huntington Houſe, and runs by St. Paul's-wharf, by where old Baynard's-Caſtle ſtood; Puddle-wharf, and by the South Side of Black-fryars. Then turning by the Eaſt Wall of the ſaid Fryars, to the South Weſt End of Creed-lane. Then on the North Side of Thames-ſtreet, by where St. Peter's Church ſtood, and the Lane called St. Peter's-hill, along 'till over-againſt Puddle-wharf; and then North up by the Great Wardrobe to the Weſt End of Carter-lane. Then up Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and a Piece of Pater-noſter-row; and back again up Warwick-lane, all the Eaſt Side thereof, to the Sign of the Crown by Newgate-market: And this is the fartheſt North Part of this Ward.

THEN out of Thames-ſtreet, are Lanes aſcending North to Knightriders-ſtreet. The firſt is Peter-hill-lane, all of that Ward, (two Houſes excepted.) The next is Paul's-wharf-hill, which croſſing Knightrider's-ſtreet and Carter-lane, goes up to the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard.

THEN is Addle-ſtreet, over-againſt the Weſt Part of Baynard's-Caſtle, going up the Weſt End of Knightriders-ſtreet, and to Carter-lane.

THUS much for Lanes out of Thames-ſtreet. The one half of the Weſt Side of Lambart-hill-lane being of this Ward, at the North Weſt End thereof, on the South Side, and at the Weſt End of St. Mary Magdalen's Church. On the North Side begins Knightriders-ſtreet to be of this Ward, and runs Weſt, on both Sides, to the Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew by the Wardrobe.

THEN at the ſaid Eaſt End of St. Mary Magdalen's Church, goes up the Old-exchange; all the Weſt Side whereof, up to the South Eaſt Gate of St. Paul's Church-Yard, and by St. Auſtin's Church, is of this Ward.

ABOUT the Middle of this Old-exchange, on the Weſt Side thereof, is Carter-lane, which runs Weſt to the Eaſt Entry of the Black-Fryars, and the South End of Creed-lane. Out of which Carter-lane, deſcends a Lane, called Do-little-lane, and comes into Knightriders-ſtreet. And more Weſt is Sermon-lane. Then out of Carter-lane, on the North Side thereof, the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard, and the Church-Yard itſelf, on that South Side of St. Paul's Church, and Dean's-court, are all of this Ward; and theſe are the Bounds thereof.

THE Ornaments in this Ward were, of old Time, four Pariſh-Churches, a Caſtle, divers Noblemens Houſes, two Halls of Companies, &c.

IN Thames-ſtreet, at the South End, was an old Meſſuage, antiently called Beaumont's-Inn, as belonging to that noble Family in the 4th of Edward III. Edward IV. in the 5th of his Reign, gave it to W. Haſtings, Lord Chamberlain, Maſter of his Mints. It was afterwards called Huntington Houſe, appertaining to the Earls of Huntington.

NEXT is St. Paul's-wharf, a large landing Place, with common Stairs upon the River of Thames, at the End of a Street called St. Paul's-wharf-hill, which runs down from St. Paul's-chain.

NEXT is a great Meſſuage called Scroop's-Inn, ſome Time belonging to the Scroops, in the 31ſt of Henry VI.

THEN was another great Meſſuage, ſome Time belonging to the Abbey of Fiſcampe, beyond the Sea. And by Reaſon of the Wars, it coming to the Hands of King Edward III. the ſame was given to Sir Simon Burley, Knight of the Garter, and therefore called Burley Houſe in Thames-ſtreet, between Baynard's-Caſtle and St. Paul's-wharf.

THEN was Baynard's-Caſtle, whereof this whole Ward takes Name. This Caſtle banked on the River Thames, and was called Baynard's-Caſtle, of Baynard, a Nobleman that came in with William the Conqueror: Of which Caſtle, and of Baynard himſelf, ſee what is already ſaid in Book I. Chap. VIII. treating of antient Towers and Caſtles.

THERE was antiently a publick Layſtall near this Caſtle, the Stink of which could not but be an Annoyance to it; which in the Reign of Queen Mary I. was removed, the Earl of Pembroke then living there. And at a Common-Council, Auguſt the 7th, in the 3d and 4th of Philip and Mary, it was agreed, at the Requeſt of the Earl of Pembroke, that the City's Layſtall adjoining to his Lordſhip's Houſe, and being noiſome to the ſame, ſhould be removed; upon Condition, that he ſhould give the City, toward the making of a new Layſtall in another Place, 2000 Feet of hard Stone, to make the Vault and Wharf thereof; or elſe 40 Marks in ready Money, to buy the ſame Stone withal.

THERE was alſo another Tower by Baynard's-Caſtle, built by King Edward II. Edward III. in the 2d of his Reign, gave it to William Duke of Hamelake, in the County of York, and his Heirs, for one Roſe yearly to be paid for all Service. The ſame Place was afterwards called Legates-Inn, in the 7th of Edw. IV. where now divers Wood-Wharfs are.

THEN was there a great Brewhouſe, and Puddle-wharf, a Water-Gate into the Thames, where Horſes uſe to be watered; and therefore being defiled with their Trampling, and made Puddle like; as alſo from one Puddle dwelling there, it was called Puddle-wharf.

THEN there is a Lane between the Black-fryars and the Thames, called in the 26th of Edward III. Caſtle-lane.

IN this Lane alſo, was one great Meſſuage, of Old Time, belonging to the Priory of Okeborn in Wiltſhire, and was the Prior's Lodging when he repaired to LONDON. This Priory being of the French Order, was ſuppreſſed by Henry V. and with other Lands and Tenements pertaining to the ſaid Priory, was by Henry VI. given to his College in Cambridge, called now the King's College.

ABOUT this Caſtle-lane was ſome Time a Mill, or Mills, belonging to the Templers of the New Temple, as appears on Record. For King John, in the firſt Year of his Reign, granted a Place in the Fleet, near to Baynard's-Caſtle, to make a Mill; and the whole Courſe of Water of the Fleet, to ſerve the ſaid Mill.

ALSO in the Year 1274, the 2d of Edward I. Richard Raiſon, and Atheline his Wife, did give to Nicho. de Muſely, Clerk, 10 s. yearly, Free and Quit-Rent, out of all his Tenements, with the Houſes thereunto built, and their Appurtenances, which they had of the Demiſe of the Maſter and Brethren of Knights Templers in England, next to their Mill of Fleet, over-againſt the Houſes of Laurence de Brooke, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew, next to Baynard's-Caſtle; which Tenements lie between the Way leading to the ſaid Mill on the Weſt Part. Alſo in the Rights belonging to Robert Fitzwater, and to his Heirs, in the City of LONDON, in the Time of Peace, it was declared in the Year 1303, that the ſaid Robert Caſtillion, of LONDON, and Banner-Bearer, had a Soke (or Ward) in the City, that was by the Wall of St. Paul, as you go down the Street before the Brewhouſe of St. Paul to the Thames; and ſo to the Side of the Mill, which is in the Water that comes down from Fleet-bridge, and goes ſo by London-wall, betwixt the Fryars-Preachers Church and Ludgate; and ſo that Ward turned back by the Houſe of the ſaid Fryars, to the ſaid common Wall of the Canonry of St. Paul's: That is all of the Pariſh of St. Andrew, which is the Gift of his Anceſtors by Seniority.

NOW here it is to be noted, that the Wall of LONDON, at that Time, went ſtrait South from Ludgate down to the River Thames. But for Building of the Black-fryars Church, the ſaid Wall was, by Commandment, taken down, and a new Wall was then made, ſtrait Weſt from Ludgate to Fleet-bridge, and then by the Water of Fleet to the River Thames, &c.

IN the Year 1307, the 35th of Eward I. in a Parliament at Carliſle, Henry Lacie, Earl of Lincoln, complained of Annoyances done to the Water of the Fleet: Whereupon it was granted that the ſaid Mill ſhould be removed and deſtroyed.

AND not only this noble Earl, but the Commoners of LONDON, and eſpecially the Inhabitants of Holborn, were Complainants and Petitioners to the ſaid Parliament. And the Annoyances they complained of were theſe: That the Courſe of the Water was ſtopp'd that ran under the Bridges of Holborn and the Fleet into the Thames: So that the Veſſels that uſed to come up to that Part of the City, with Goods and Commodities, under Fleet-bridge, as far as Holborn-bridge, could not paſs. The Cauſe of which Stoppage, was not only the Key belonging to the ſaid Mills, but Filth thrown in it, &c.

THIS may more at large be underſtood by repeating the Record of the ſame, viz. "The "Petition of the Commonalty of LONDON, "complaining, That whereas the Courſe of the "Water, which runs at LONDON, under "the Bridge at Holborn, and the Bridge of the "Fleet into the Thames, was wont to be ſo "large and broad, and deep, that 10 or 12 "Ships uſed to come up to the ſaid Fleet-bridge, "with divers Things and Merchandizes; and "ſome of thoſe Ships went under the aforeſaid "Holborn-bridge. Now that Courſe was ob"ſtructed by Filth and Inundation of Tanners, "and by various other Stoppages made in the "ſaid Water; and chiefly by raiſing of the "Key, and by diverting of the Water, which "they of the New Temple had made for their "Mills, without Baynard-Caſtle: So that the "ſame Ships cannot come in as they were wont, "and ought to do. Whereupon the Commons "pray, that the Mayor taking with him the "Sheriffs, and the diſcreeter Aldermen, view "the Courſe of the Water; that by the View "and Oath of honeſt and lawful Men, he cauſe "to remove all the Annoyances of the ſaid "Water which he ſhall find, and to repair "the aforeſaid Courſe, and to maintain it in "ſuch a State wherein it was wont to be an"tiently.

To this it was anſwered thus: "Let Roger "le Brabazon, and the Conſtable of the Tower "of LONDON, the Mayor and Sheriffs of "LONDON, be aſſigned, that they, taking "with them certain diſcreeter Aldermen of "LONDON, inquire by Oath, &c. how it "hath been wont to be, and what Courſe; and "let them remove the Annoyances which they "find, and cauſe it to be maintained in the "ſame State wherein it was accuſtomed to be "of Old.

AND this is further explained by King Edw. I. his Patent, An. 35. to Roger de Brabanſon, Ralph de Sandewye, and John le Bland, Mayor of the City, to this Tenor: "Whereas by a Complaint "of ſome, we have heard, that the Courſe of "the Water of Fleet under the Bridge of Hol"born, running down to the Thames, as well by "Dung and manifold Filth caſt into the ſaid "Water, as by the Exaltation of a certain "Key, by the Maſter and Brethren of the New "Temple, LONDON, for their Mills upon "the Thames, near Caſtel-Baignard, new made, "is ſo ſtopp'd up and ſtreightned, that Boats "with Corn, Wine, Faggots, and other Neceſ"ſaries, cannot paſs as they were wont, by "the Paſſage of the Courſe of Water, from the "Thames to the ſaid Bridge; to the no little "Grievance and Annoyance of the Men that "inhabit near the Fleet, and the neighbouring "Parts, &c.

Mr. Prinn moved, about the Year 1668, ſoon after the Fire of LONDON, Whether ſuch a Commiſſion and Inquiry, to make this River navigable to Holborn-bridge, or Clerkenwel, would not now be ſeaſonable; and a Work worthy to be undertaken for the publick Benefit, Trade, and Health of the City and Suburbs?

THIS Ward aſcends up by the Eaſt Wall of Black-fryars, to the South Weſt End of Creed-lane, where it ends on that Side.

The PARISH of St. BENNET at PAUL'S-WHARF.

ON the North Side of Thames-ſtreet, at the Weſt Side of St. Peter's-hill, and over-againſt where Huntington Houſe ſtood, is ſeated the Pariſh-Church of St. Bennet at Paul's-wharf; it has ſometimes been written in old Records St. Bennet Huda, or at the Hyth, and ſometimes St. Bennet Wood-wharf. St. Bennet at Paul's Whart.

THIS Church is dedicated to St. Benedict, of whom ſee the Account given in Book II. Chap. VI. ſpeaking of Bennet Fink Church. Stow gives no Account of the firſt Building of this Church; but Munday ſays, it was going to be repaired 1632. It was one of thoſe unhappily conſumed by the Fire in 1666; and was again re-edified and finiſhed in the Year 1683; being well built of Brick and Stone, the Outſides having the Ornament of ſeveral Feſtoons carved in Stone round the Church.

It is of the Corinthian Order; the Roof within (which is Quadrangular) being ſupported by four Pillars and ſeven Pilaſters of that Order, with their Architrave, Frieſe and Cantaliver Cornice.

It is enriched within with Fret-Work, well wainſcotted round eight Feet high; and on the North and Weſt Sides are Galleries, very handſome Bolection Work, with Enrichments carved; and the Pews are alſo good Oak.

The Altar-Piece is lofty, of right Wainſcot, having the Commandments done in Gold, upon Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Black, on Gold; over the firſt of which are theſe Words: The Law was given by Moſes. And over the other theſe: But Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ. Between the Upper Part of the Commandments is a Seraph; and on each Side a Cherub: Over the Seraph, on a Facio-Piece is the Word Jehova, done in Hebrew Characters in a Glory, and above that, upon the Cornice, a Shield gilt with Gold, having a fine Compartment and Feſtoon; the Frieſe is alſo well carved: And over the Arching Pediment, upon Acroters are four ſpacious Lamps, between which are the King's Arms carved in Relievo; and over them another (though leſs) Arching Pediment; all neatly carved.

The Length of the Body of the Church within, including the Choir, is 54 Feet, Breadth 50, Heighth 36; and the Steeple, which is of Brick and Stone, as the Church is, conſiſts of a Tower, Dome and Turret, and whoſe Altitude is about 118 Feet.

NUMBER of Houſes are 121.

To this Pariſh Mr. Edmund Arnold gave three Houſes, which ſtand in Knightriders-ſtreet, two of them are the firſt and ſecond of eight Tenements, called Erkenwald's Tenements; and the third is called Stone-houſe, with a Toft of Ground near adjoining; this held by Leaſe from Merton College, Oxon; the two former from the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's; which together, beſides the Rents and neceſſary Taxes, are now worth 50 l. a Year to the ſaid Pariſh.

Arnold gave theſe three Houſes, by his laſt Will, dated May the 6th, 1675, to the End that the Common-Council-Men, Church-Wardens, and Overſeers of the Poor, with ſix or eight others of the more ſubſtantial Pariſhioners, do yearly, out of the Profits, diſtribute 10 l. per Ann. to and among the Poor of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Bennet's; 5 l. yearly, to the Poor of St. Mary Magdalen Old-fiſh-ſtreet; and with the remaining Profits yearly to put out poor Children of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Bennet's, Apprentices, and for the ſetting them up when they come out of their Time; reſerving 5 l. per Ann. for ever, to be paid to the Hoſpital of Bridewell, to the Uſe of the poor Boys, or other Children there.

THIS Gift was almoſt loſt by ſome unjuſt Truſtees, who refuſed to give Account of the Rents and Receipts, and Diſburſements, of and about the ſaid Premiſſes, to the Officers of the Pariſh. But at length, by Pains and Induſtry of ſome, and chiefly Mr. Evan Pugh, one of the Inhabitants, they were recovered to the Pariſh, by a Decree in a Commiſſion of charitable Uſes. To which, when Exceptions were taken by the ſaid Truſtees in the Chancery, after three Years, and the Expence of 200 l. the ſaid Decree was confirmed in the ſaid Chancery.

IN this Pariſh of St. Bennet's, in Thames-ſtreet, ſtood Le Neve Inn, belonging formerly to John de Montagu, Earl of Salisbury; and after to John de Beauchamp, Knt. granted to Sir Thomas Erpingham, Knt. of Erpingham in Norfolk, and Warden of the Cinque Ports, Knight of the Garter.

WEST from this Church, by the South End of Addle-ſtreet, almoſt againſt Puddle-wharf, there was an antient Building of Stone and Timber, built by the Lords of Berkley, and therefore called Berkley's Inn. This Houſe, in Stow's Time, was all in Ruin, and let out in ſeveral Tenements; yet the Arms of the Lord Berkley remained in the Stone Work of an arched Gate; and is between a Chevron, Croſſes ten, three, three, and four.

Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, was lodged in this Houſe, then called Berkley's Inn, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew, in the Reign of Henry VI.

The PARISH of St. ANDREW WARDROBE.

THE Pariſh-Church here is ſituated on the Eaſt Side of Puddle-dock-hill; it was ſome Time called St. Andrew Juxta Baynard's-Caſtle, and ſtanding near that Houſe which was the King's great Wardrobe, was from thence likewiſe called St. Andrew Wardrobe.

How long it is ſince a Church was firſt erected here, is uncertain, but it was repaired at the Charge of the Pariſh in the Year 1627; and had a fair Window on the South Side, with this Inſcription:

This Window was glazed at the Charge of Peter Leonarts, the Elder, of Eaſt-ſmithfield, Brewer, Anno Dom. 1627.

BUT this Church being conſumed by the Conflagration in 1666, it was again re-edified and finiſhed in February, 1692.

AND as it was dedicated to one of the 12 Apoſtles, who were the Builders of the Chriſtian Church; ſo this is ſupported by 12 Pillars of the Tuſcan Order.

IT is not only pleaſant by its Model and the Contrivance of the Structure, but its Ornament does very much add to its Perfection. The Roof has five large Quadrangles, and in each there is a Circle, near as big as can be inſcribed, of rich Fret-Work of Flowers, Fruit, &c. And over each Column is a Cherub, and each Arch, Branches of Palm, &c.

IT is very well pew'd and wainſcotted round ſeven Feet and an half high, the Pillars being caſed almoſt to the Roof; tho' this laſt, and alſo the lower Part of the Galleries are Deal, but good Work, and painted Wainſcot Colour.

THERE are two handſome Galleries, one on the North, the other on the South Sides of the Church, with very good Wainſcot Fronts; that on the South is for the Pariſhioners (as alſo below) of St. Andrew's, and the North Side the Church for thoſe of St. Ann's Black-fryars.

THE Pulpit is of right Wainſcot carved, and the Sounding-Board finniered.

THE Altar-Piece is alſo of Wainſcot, conſiſting of four Pilaſters, with their Entablament of the Tuſcan Order. The Intercolumns the Decalogue between the Pater-noſter and Creed, well done in Gold Letters, upon Black; and between the Arch of the Pediment, and the Cornice is painted a Glory, with the ſacred Word GOD in large Characters, Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

AND on Acroters over each of the inner Pilaſters is a Lamp with a gilded Taper; which Altar-Piece is incloſed with ſtrong Wainſcot, Rail and Balliſter, and the Ground within paved with fine Black and White Marble.

HERE are alſo two ſpacious Wainſcot inner Door-Caſes on the North and South Sides of the Church, near the Weſt End, and the Gates adorned with Vaſes.

ALSO two Tables of the Fees of each Pariſh, printed in a fair Character in black Frames; which ſhews the Dues payable (by all Pariſhioners particularly) for Marriages, to the Rector, Pariſh-Clerks, and Sexton; and alſo thoſe for burying in the Church, Church-Yard and Vaults; and likewiſe for the Funeral Service in the Desk, the Charge of the Bell, Bearers, and Maſon; and that all Strangers pay double: Which Rates are agreed on by the Rector and Church-Wardens, at a Veſtry in April 1704, and entered in the Epiſcopal Regiſtry of LONDON, ſigned

THE Church outwardly is very handſome, being built of Brick, but finiſhed, or rendered over in Imitation of Stone. The Facio's and Corners are Stone, and very good Ruſtick Quions, and the Roof is covered with Lead.

THE Length of this Church is about 77 Feet, Breadth 60, and Altitude 42; and that of the ſquare Tower about 84.

MONUMENTS.

THIS Church never had but few Monuments; among which we may venture to place that of John Wenlock, who, by his laſt Will, dated 1477, the 17th of Edward IV. bequeathed his Body to be buried in the Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew, by Baynard's-Caſtle, where he had ordained his Tomb and Epitaph, and a Chantry in that Church, to pray for the Soul of the Earl of Shrewsbury, and the Lady his Wife; for the Soul of John Wenlock, and Iſabel his Wife, &c. He willed there ſhould be expended upon a Tomb, near the Lady Shrewsbury, where ſhe is buried before J. H. S. 100 l. if the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's would give Licence thereunto.

John Parut founded a Chantry there.

ON a plated Stone under the Communion-Table was this Inſcription:

Hic jacet Joannes Ley, Armiger, de Comitatu Wiltz. Qui obiit 7 die Junii, Anno Domini 1604. Ætat. ſuæ 54.

ON the like Stone, by the other:

Hic jacet Joannes Barnard, nuper Civis & Sciſſor LOND. ac Alionora & Alicia, uxores ejus. Qui quidem Joannes obiit 21 die Novemb. An. Dom. 1503.

ON a fair engraven Plate, with Arms on a Pillar, in the Chancel:

Lord Maior of LONDON, An. Dom. 1580. And Benjamin, who deceaſed at Bramley in the County of Surrey; where he hath alſo left Iſſue two Sons, Robert and George. The ſaid William Nicholſon departed this Life in September, Anno Dom. 1531, being a Benefactor to this Church, and to other charitable Uſes; whoſe Soule (we doubt not) reſteth with the Lord.

NUMBER of Houſes 193.

THE next Place was the King's great Wardrobe. Stow ſays, he has not read by whom it was firſt built, neither when, or for what Cauſe; but only that Sir John Beauchamp, Knight of the Garter, Conſtable of Dover, Warden of the Cinque Ports, Son to Guido de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, built this Houſe, and was lodged there; the Houſe then bearing the Name of the King's Wardrobe, in the 5th of Edw. III. The ſaid Sir John Beauchamp deceaſed in the Year 1359, and was buried on the South Side of the Middle Iſle of St. Paul's Church. His Executors ſold the Houſe to King Edward III. to whom the Parſon of St. Andrew's complaining, that the ſaid Beauchamp had pulled down divers Houſes, in their Places to build the ſame Houſe, whereby he was hindered of his accuſtomed Tithes, paid by the Tenants of old Time; granted him 40 s. by the Year out of that Houſe, for ever. King Richard III. was lodged there in the 2d of his Reign.

IN this Houſe was lodged Sir John Forteſcue, Knt. Maſter of the Wardrobe, Chancellor and Under-Treaſurer of the Exchequer, and one of the Privy-Council to Queen Elizabeth. The ſecret Letters and Writings, touching the Eſtate of the Realm, were wont to be inrolled in the King's Wardrobe, and not in the Chancery, as appears by the Records, Clauſ. 18. E. 4. 1 Memb. 13. Clauſ. 33. E. 1. Memb. 3. Et liberat. 1. E. 2. Memb. 4. &c.

FROM this Wardrobe, by the Weſt End of Carter-lane, then up Creed-lane, Ave-Mary-lane, and a Piece of Pater-noſter-row, up Warwick-lane, moſt of the Eaſt Side is of this Ward.

TOUCHING Lanes aſcending out of Thames-ſtreet, to Knightriders-ſtreet, the firſt is Peter's-hill; wherein is no Matter of Note, more than certain Alms-Houſes, founded on the Weſt Side thereof, by David Smith, Embroiderer, for ſix poor Widows, whereof each to have 20 s. by the Year.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Lane, ſtood a large Houſe of antient Building, ſome Time belonging to the Abbot of St. Mary in York, and was his Dwelling-Houſe when he came to LONDON.

THIS Houſe came afterwards to the Poſſeſſion of Sir Michael Hicks, Knt. Secretary to the Lord Treaſurer Burghley; but ſince the great Fire, it was built into two fair Tenements, by Sir Will. Hicks, Bart. one whereof was lately poſſeſſed and inhabited by Sir Michael Hicks, Knt. deceaſed; and the other belonging to Sir Harry Hicks, Bart. after the Death of his Mother, the Lady Hicks, Widow of Sir Will. Hicks, Knt. and Bart. Son of Sir William aboveſaid.

AT the Upper End of this Lane, towards the North, the Corner Houſes there are called Peterkey.

THEN is Paul's-wharf-hill, on the Eaſt Side whereof was Woodmongers-hall.

AND next adjoining was (Garter-houſe, ſo called of the Office there kept by Garter King of Heralds, and other Heralds. Called alſo) Darby-houſe, ſome Time belonging to the Stanleys; for Thomas Stanley, firſt Earl of Darby of that Name, who married the Lady Margaret, Counteſs of Richmond, Mother to Henry VII. in his Time built it.

QUEEN Mary gave it to Gilbert Dethick, then Garter, Principal King of Arms of Engliſhmen; Thomas Hauley, Clarencieux, King of Arms of the South Part; William Harvy, alias Norroy, King of Arms of the North Parts; and the other Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, and to their Succeſſors, all the Capital Meſſuage or Houſe, called Darby-houſe, with the Appurtenances ſituate in the Pariſh of St. Bennet and St. Peter; then being in the Tenure of Sir Richard Sackvile, Knt. and lately Parcel of the Lands of Edward Earl of Darby, &c. To the End that the ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, and their Succeſſors might (at their Liking) dwell together; and at meet Times to congregate, ſpeak, confer and agree among themſelves, for the good Government of their Faculty, and their Records might be more ſafely kept, &c. Dated the 18th Day of July, 1555. Philip and Mary the firſt and third Year.

THEN higher up, near the South Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard was the Paul's-head Tavern. Which Houſe, with the Appurtenances, was of old Time called Paul's Brewhouſe, for that the ſame was ſo imployed; but ſince left off, and let out.

IN the 38th of Henry III. one Will. Hilary watched the going out of John de Codington, Clerk, being then in Bracina Sti. Pauli in Ward a Barnard Caſtle. When the ſaid John was gone out, preſently the ſaid William made an Inſult upon him. And, as a Clerk Convict, he was delivered to the Biſhop. This Clerk was fled thither, it ſeems, for Sanctuary. The very Brewhouſe belonging to St. Paul's Church was a Sanctuary.

ON the Weſt Side of this Street is another great Houſe, which did belong to St. Paul's Church, and was ſometime let to the Blunts, Lords Mountjoy, but afterwards to the Head of a College at Cambridge, and then to the Doctors of the Civil Law and Arches, who keep a Commons there, and many of them being lodged together, it is called Doctors Commons, of which ſee more Book I. Chap. XII. Doctors Commons.

ABOVE this, on the ſame Side, was another great Building over-againſt Paul's Brewhouſe; and this was called Paul's Bakehouſe, and was imployed in Baking of Bread for the Church of St. Paul.

UPON

UPON Paul's-wharf-hill, within a great Gate, and belonging to that Gate next to the Doctors Commons, were many fair Tenements; which in their Leaſes made from the Dean and Chapter, went by the Name of Camera DIANÆ, i. e. Diana's Chamber, ſo denominated from a ſpacious Building, that in the Time of Henry II. ſtood where they were. In this Camera, or arched and vaulted Structure, full of intricate Ways and Windings, this Henry II. (as ſometime he did at Woodſtock) kept, (or was ſuppoſed to have kept) that Jewel of his Heart, fair ROSAMUND: She whom there he called Roſamundi; and here by the Name of Diana. And from hence had this Houſe that Title.

FOR a long Time there remained ſome evident Teſtifications of tedious Turnings and Windings; as alſo of a Paſſage under Ground, from this Houſe to Caſtle-Baynard. Which was, no doubt, the King's Way from thence to his Camera Dianæ, or the Chamber of his brighteſt Diana.

IN Addle-ſtreet, or Lane, are no Monuments.

Blackſmiths-hall.

IN Lambart-hill-lane, on the Weſt Side thereof, is the Blackſmiths-hall; and adjoining to the North Side thereof, is one Plot of Ground, incloſed with a Brick Wall, for a Church-Yard, or burying Plot, for the Dead of St. Mary Magdalen's by Old-fiſh-ſtreet. Which was given to that Uſe by John Iwarby, an Officer in the Receipt of the Exchequer, in the 26th of Henry VI. as appeareth by Patent.

John Iwarby, &c. gave a Piece of Land lying void in the Pariſh of St. Mary Magdalen, nigh to Old-fiſh-ſtreet; between the Tenement of John Philpot, on the South, and the Tenement of Bartholomew Burwaſh, on the Weſt; and the Tenement pertaining to the Covent of the Holy Well on the North, and the Way upon Lambart's-hill, on the Eaſt, for a Church-Yard to the Parſon, Church-Wardens, &c.

The PARISH of St. MARY MAGDALEN in OLD FISH-STREET.

St. Mary Magdalen in Old-fiſh-ſtreet.

OVER againſt the North Weſt End of this Lambart-hill-lane, in Knightriders-ſtreet, is the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Magdalen, or Maudlin.

THE Saint to whom this Church is dedicated, was ſo named either from the Town of Magdala, wherein ſhe was born, or bred up, or from the Hebrew Word Magdal, ſignifying a Tower or Caſtle.

THERE is often Mention made of her in the Evangelical Hiſtory: As, how Chriſt caſt out of her ſeven Devils, and how ſhe followed Chriſt, miniſtring unto him out of her Means, Luke viii. 2. How with her Tears, ſhe ſtanding at his Feet behind him, waſhed his Feet, and with the Hair of her Head wiped them, and kiſſing them, anointed them with her Ointment, whereupon Chriſt ſeeing her Faith, told her, That her Sins were forgiven, and bade her go in Peace; at which Simon the Phariſee (in whoſe Houſe they were) was offended, becauſe ſhe was a Sinner, which Chriſt denied not, yet commended her Piety and Zeal towards him, Luke vii. 37. Matth. xxvi. 6.

SHE beheld Chriſt crucified, Matth. xxvii. 56. And after the Sabbath, ſhe was one of the Firſt, that with her Ointment, betimes in the Morning, haſtned to the Sepulchre, Matth. xxviii. 1. Mark xvi. 1. Luke xxi. 1, &c. Unto her, firſt of all, Chriſt after his Reſurrection manifeſted himſelf, Mark xvi. 9.

CONCERNING Mary Magdalen, there hath been much Debate among the learned Men, whether ſhe was the Siſter of Lazarus and Martha, called Mary, or not, ſome of the Greek Church denying it, and thoſe of the Latin Church affirming it; ſome pretend there were two, others three Mary Magdalens.

THE three ſeveral pretended Mary Magdalens are theſe; Firſt, The Woman called, a Sinner; who in the Phariſee's Houſe in Naim, waſhed Chriſt's Feet with her Tears, wiped them with her Hair, kiſſed and anointed them, Luke vii. 37. The Second, Mary Magdalen, out of whom Chriſt caſt ſeven Devils, Luke viii. 2. The Third, Mary, the Siſter of Lazarus and Martha, which Lazarus Chriſt raiſed from the Dead, and which Mary was the ſame Woman that anointed the Lord with Ointment, and wiped his Feet with her Hair, John xi. 2. This is the Opinion of Faber Stapulenſis, and others. But the greateſt Part of learned Writers affirm generally, That there was but one Mary Magdalen, and this is the general Tenet of the Church, and that was ſhe, who was Siſter to Lazarus and Martha, out of whom Chriſt caſt ſeven Devils.

VARIOUS are the Relations concerning this Holy Woman: Therefore the Advice of Cardinal Baronius is, To obſerve the Apoſtle's Precept herein, viz. Prove all Things, hold faſt that which is good.

As to the Time of her Death, ſome ſay ſhe died Anno Chriſti 62. Others 80, Aged 80 Years. And as to the Place of her Death and Burial, ſome ſay ſhe being dead, was buried in a City, in France, called Civitas Aquenſis (now Ays, or D'ax) in Gaſcoigne; which being afterwards deſtroyed by the Sarazens, her Body was then tranſlated by Gerard, Earl of Burgundy, to the Monaſtery of Vicolincum by him erected, and there interr'd. Others write, That her Body reſteth at Epheſus. But others report, That the Body of Lazarus and Mary Magdalen were tranſlated from Cyprus to Conſtantinople, and there interr'd in the Church of St. Lazarus, erected by the Emperor Leo, Son of Baſilius.

BUT her Legend runs thus, Mary Magdalen, with her Brother Lazarus, her Siſter, and many others after Chriſt's Aſcenſion, were put out to Sea in a Ship without Sail, which brought them to Marſeilles, in France, whereof Lazarus became Biſhop, and Magdalen retiring herſelf into a Wilderneſs, lived there privately and devoutly 30 Years, and then died in a Cave, where ſhe had ſeated herſelf from the Concourſe of People, her Soul being taken up into Heaven.

HER Feſtival is yearly celebrated on July 22.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified, at the Charge of the Pariſh, Anno Domini 1630, the Charge amounting to 140*l.* but being burnt in the Fire of LONDON in the Year 1666, it was rebuilt and finiſhed in 1685.

IT is moſtly built of Stone, with Rail and Balliſter round the Outſide in lieu of Battlements; the Roof is hipt and covered with Lead, and there is a handſome Stone Tower; but the Foundation thereof, is Brick, which is one Reaſon why they do not ſtore it with more Bells; the Inſide of the Roof is ſquare, the Floor is paved with Stone, and there are three Iſles; the ſmall Pillars that ſupport the Galleries are of the Compoſite Order.

THIS Ornament and Finiſhing: In the Roof within, is a Quadrangle of Cantaliever Cornice; alſo Arches and Eſcutcheons, Voluta's, and Leaves, of Fretwork; and the Windows outward are Stone, enrich'd with Cherubims, Cartouches, and Leaves cut in Relievo.

Two neat Wainſcot Galleries on the Weſt and North Sides, with Bolection Work, Fronts, enrich'd with Fruit and Leaves, over the North Gallery, are the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and painted, placed on a Pedeſtal, with a Cherubim and Feſtoon of Fruit.

The Church is ſubſtantially pewed and wainſcotted with Oak, about 12 Feet high; alſo two good wainſcotted Door-Caſes.

The Pulpit is curious Workmanſhip of right Oak, having Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Feſtoons, Fruit, Leaves, and Vaſes.

The Altar-Piece is of the ſame Species of Timber, adorned with two Columns of the Corinthian Order, fluted, with their Entablature and Compaſs Pediment: On the Cornice are two Lamps, and two more between them placed on Acroters over the Columns. The Intercolumns are the Decalogne, and the Extracolumns, the Creed, and Lord's Prayer, all finely done in Gold Letters and Flouriſhes, on Black, over which is a Cherubim; and above the Cornice, but under the large Pediment, is a Glory; the Whole being enrich'd with Variety of Fruit, Flowers, Leaves, Branches of Palm; and over the Lord's Prayer and Creed are two Shields, each under a ſmall arched Pediment; and the Communion-Table reſts on a Foot-Pace of Black and White Marble, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

The Font is placed directly Weſt from the Altar; it has Enrichments of Cherubims, a Crown, and theſe Arms:

NUMBER of Houſes 103.

ON the Weſt Side of this Church, by the Pariſh thereof, was placed a Conduit, or Ciſtern of Lead, caſtellated with Stone, for Receipt of Thames Water, conveyed at the Charge of the aforenamed Barnard Randolph, Eſq;

BY the Eaſt End of St. Mary Magdalen's Church runs up the Old-exchange-lane, by the Weſt End of Carter-lane, to the South Eaſt Gate, or Chain of St. Paul's Church-Yard, as is before ſhewed. And in this Part was the Exchange kept, and Bullion was received for Coinage; as is noted in Faringdon Ward Within.

IN this Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Magdalen out of Knightriders-ſtreet, up to Carter-lane, are two ſmall Lanes; one of them called Dolittle-lane, as a Place not inhabited by Artificers, or open Shop-keepers; but ſerving for a near Paſſage from Knightriders-ſtreet to Carter-lane.

THE other, corruptly called Sermon-lane, for Sheremoniers-lane; for it was ſo called in the 4th of Edward I. And in that Lane was a Place called the Black-loft, of melting Silver, with four Shops adjoining.

IT may therefore be well ſuppoſed, that Lane to take Name of Sheremoniers, ſuch as cut and rounded the Plates, to be coined or ſtamped into Sterling Pence: For the Place of Coining, was the Old Exchange, near unto the ſaid Sheremoniers-lane. In the 13th of Richard II, William de la Pole (whoſe Father or Anceſtor was the King's Merchant) had an Houſe there.

IN Knightriders-ſtreet was the College of Phyſicians, wherein was founded, in the Year 1582, a publick Lecture in Surgery, to be read twice every Week, &c. as is ſhewed elſewhere.

IN the South Church-yard of St. Paul's was the South Side and Weſt End of the ſaid Church, at which End were three ſtately Gates or Entries curiouſly wrought of Stone; in the Midſt of the middle Gate was placed a maſſive Pillar of Braſs, in which the Leaves of the ſaid great Gate cloſed, and were faſtened with Locks, Bolts, and Bars of Iron; notwithſtanding all which, on the 24th of December, in the Year 1565, by a Tempeſt of Wind, theſe Gates were blown open, and the Bars, Bolts, and Locks, broken aſunder, or greatly bent.

At each Corner of this Weſt End was a ſtrong Tower of Stone, made for Bell-Towers, one of them, viz. that next the Biſhop's Palace, was uſed by the Palace in Stow's Time; and the other, towards the South, was called the Lollards Tower, and uſed as the Biſhop's Priſon, for ſuch as were detected for Opinions in Religion contrary to the Faith of the Church.

The Lollards Tower.

It was in this Lollards Tower that Richard Hunne, a Citizen of LONDON, A. D. 1515, a Man of a fair Character, and well beloved, was made Priſoner, on Pretence of having Wickliffe's Bible; but, indeed, the Occaſion of his Ruin was a Diſpute he had with a Clerk about a Mortuary, which was made the Cauſe of the whole Clergy; he ſubmitted to the Biſhop's Correction, upon which he ought to have been enjoined Penance, and ſet at Liberty; but he was found hanged in his Chamber, and his Neck broken; which Murder, the Biſhop's Sumner, own'd that he, and the Chancellor, Dr. Horſey, and the Bell-Ringer, had committed: And when the Coroner's Inqueſt proceeded to Trial, the Biſhop began a new Proceſs againſt the dead Body for Hereſy, which, not contented to have murder'd, they afterwards burnt in Smithfield. See more of this Tower in Foxe's Martyrology.

The laſt Priſoner, whom Stow ſays he remember'd to be committed there, was, in the Year 1573, one Peter Burchet, a Gentleman of the Middle Temple, for having deſperately wounded, and deſigning to murder John Hawkings, Eſq; in the High Street, near the Strand; who being taken and examined, was found to hold certain erroneous Opinions, and therefore committed thither, and convicted: But in the End, by Permiſſion, he promiſed to abjure his Hereſies, and was, by Commandment of the Council, removed from thence to the Tower of LONDON.

The PARISH of St. GREGORY by St. PAUL's.

ADJOINING to the Lollards Tower, was the Pariſh-Church of St. Gregory, appointed to the Petty Canons of St. Paul's.

St. Gregory, ſirnamed the Great, to whom this Church was dedicated, was by Nation a Roman, by Art a Philoſopher, Son of Gordian, a Man of Quality, and the bleſſed Silura, or Silvia, his Wife. He was at firſt a Monk, and a Deacon under Pelagius II, his Predeceſſor. He, being a very learned and ſtudious Man, was created, (though unwillingly) the 66th Biſhop of Rome, Anno Chriſti 590, being the firſt Pope of that Name. He was of ſo meek a Spirit, as that he ordained, That both he himſelf, and his Succeſſors, Biſhops of Rome, ſhould from thence forward be ſtiled Servi Servorum Dei, which Title the Popes continue to this Day. He condemned the Stile of Univerſal Patriarch, (or Biſhop) which John, Biſhop of Conſtantinople, aſſumed to himſelf, as a proud, diabolical, and profane Title.

He erected ſix Monaſteries out of the Eſtate his Father left him, and dedicated his Houſe at Rome to a Religious Uſe. He was termed Magnus, both for the extraordinary Matters performed by him, as alſo for his Learning.

This holy Pope ſent Auguſtin the Monk, and other pious and learned Men, into this our Country, to convert the Engliſh or Saxon Nation to the Chriſtian Faith, which in ſome Meaſure they did; which Auguſtine was the firſt Archbiſhop of Canterbury, that Archiepiſcopal See being, by his Procurement, tranſlated thither from LONDON, where it had been all along before that Time.

This Pope Gregory was the Author of many Eccleſiaſtical Ceremonies and Rites of the Church. He inſtituted the Litanies in Time of great Mortality, reformed the Church, where Need was; ſuppreſſed Simony; ſtoutly reproved the Emperor Mauritius upon juſt Cauſe: Tho' afterwards he played the Politician with the ſaid Mauritius his Preſerver, and graced too much the Traitor Phocas, who ſlew him. He wrote divers pious and learned Works extant in Print. He is by ſome termed the laſt good and firſt bad Pope of Rome. He died 4 Id. Mar. An. Chr. 604, and the ſecond of Phocas the Emperor, having ſat 13 Years, ſix Months, and 10 Days. His Feſtival is obſerved March 12, and his Life is written at large by moſt, who have written the Lives of the Saints, or of the Biſhops and Popes of Rome.

Beſides this Gregory, there were others of that Name, antient Fathers of the Church, as Gregory Nazianzen, Gregory Niſſen, Gregory Thaumatergus, &c. But this Gregory the Great is reputed to be the Patron of the Churches dedicated to his Name.

This Pariſh-Church was very antient; for it is ſaid, that the Body of Edmund, King of the Eaſt Angles, who was martyr'd by the Danes about the Year 870, when it was cauſed by Alwyne, Biſhop of Helmeham, to be brought up to LONDON from St. Edmond's Bury, reſted for the Space of three Years in the Pariſh-Church of St. Gregory, near the Cathedral Church of St. Paul.

In this Church was a Chantry, and in the ſame Pariſh was a Meſſuage and Tenement, called Holmes College, given for the Maintenance of the ſaid Chantry. King Edward VI. alienated it to John Hulſon, and Will. Pendred, 2 Edward VI.

The Church was repaired within and without, and every Part of it richly and very worthily beautified, at the proper Coſt and Charges of the Pariſhioners, in the Years of our Lord God 1631, and 1632, at the Expence of 2000 l. and upwards; but being conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, was not rebuilt; but the Pariſh, by Act of Parliament, was annexed to St. Mary Magdalen in Old-fiſh-ſtreet.

NUMBER of Houſes 300.

THE reſt of that South Side of St. Paul's Church, with the Chapter-Houſe, (a beautiful Piece of Work, built about the Reign of Edward III.) was defaced, Stow ſays, in his Time, by Means of Licences granted to Cuttlers, Budget-makers, and others, firſt to build low Sheds, but now high Houſes, which hide that beautiful Side of the Church, ſave only the Top and South Gate.

ON the North Weſt Side of this Church-Yard was the Biſhop's Palace, a large Thing for Receipt, wherein divers Kings have been lodged, and great Houſhold hath been kept; as appears by the great Hall; which, after the Rebatement of Biſhops Livings, was not furniſhed, as was meant by the Builders thereof, and was of old Time uſed.

IN the Year 1546, the Admiral of France, the French Ambaſſador, lodged here; and before that, here Edward V. took up his Lodging when he was brought to LONDON to take Poſſeſſion of the Crown; and under King Edw. VI. the Scotch Queen was here entertained.

THE Dean's Lodging on the other Side, directly againſt the Palace, was a fair old Houſe; and alſo divers large Houſes were on the ſame Side built; which, of old Time, were the Lodgings of Prebendaries and Reſidentiaries, who kept great Houſholds, and liberal Hoſpitality, but now decayed, and otherwiſe converted.

THEN was Stationers Hall on the ſame Side, built for them in the Place of Peter College: Where, in the Year 1549, the 4th Day of January, ſix Men were ſlain by the Fall of Earth upon them, digging for a Well. Afterwards Stationers Hall was in Amen-lane, at the End of Pater-noſter-row,

THE preſent State of this Ward ſtands thus:

AS to the Places of Note in this Ward, we ſhall begin with the South Part next the Thames, and Thames-ſtreet, with the Lanes, Hills, and Courts that fall into the ſaid Street; as Lambeth, or Lambart-hill, St. Peter's-hill, St. Bennet's-hill, Addle-hill, and Puddle-dock-hill; then with Knightriders-ſtreet, Carter-lane, Creed-lane, Avemary-lane, and Warwick-lane.

ON the Banks of the River Thames, are the Wharfs of Puddle-dock, uſed for a Layſtall for the Soil of the Streets, and much frequented by Barges and Lighters, for taking the ſame away; as alſo for landing of Corn, and other Goods.

Paul's-wharf, or St. Bennet Paul's-wharf, a noted Stairs for Watermen; and on each Side of the Stairs is a very handſome Houſe, one made Uſe of by a Brewer, and the other for a Timber-Yard.

Baynard's-Caſtle, which gives Name to the Ward, was ſeated on the Bank of the River Thames, but had its Entrance out of Thames-ſtreet; which being all burnt down, except a little Tower next the Water-Side, in the Conflagration of LONDON, 1666, was converted into Buildings and Wharfs, as now it is. Hereabouts, where antiently ſtood divers Noblemens Houſes fronting the Thames, are now generally Wharfs, Dyehouſes, and Brewhouſes.

Caſtle-ſtreet, ſeated near to Paul's-wharf, a good broad Street, which falls down to the Thames, meanly inhabited, and of no great Account.

Weſtward from Caſtle-ſtreet are Common-lane, and Dunghill-lane, both which run down to the Thames; and beyond Puddle-dock is Queen's-college-yard, and Briſtol-ſtreet; both which fall into Duke Humphrey's; all Places of ordinary Account. It has a Paſſage into Puddle-dock, and another into Black-fryars.

Thames-ſtreet begins at Puddle-dock, and runs Eaſtward to the Tower, which is above a Mile in Length, but is in ſeveral Wards, as has been taken Notice of. It is a Street, eſpecially Eaſtward, of very good Trade, and inhabited by great Dealers; beſides the Dyers, Brewers, Woodmongers, and Timber-Yards, on the South Side, next the Thames: And by Reaſon thereof, and of the ſeveral Keys and Wharfs, it is much peſtered with Carts, for lading and unlading of Goods.

Great Rutland-court, indifferent large and good, has a Paſſage up Steps into Church-hill-alley.

Lambart-hill has but a ſmall Part in this Ward, viz. on the Weſt Side, from a little beyond Green-dragon-court to the Corner of Old-fiſh-ſtreet, over-againſt St. Mary Magdalen's Church; all the reſt is in Queen-hithe Ward: But in this Ward here is St. Mary Magdalen's Church-Yard, being the Place for the Burial of the Dead of that Pariſh. Here is Crane-court, which is long, and has a Paſſage into St. Peter's-hill, with a Free-Stone Pavement, but the Houſes are indifferent.

St. Peter's-hill, well built and inhabited, eſpecially the End next to Old-fiſh-ſtreet. On this Hill are Alms-Houſes for ſix poor Widows, built by David Smith, Embroiderer to Queen Elizabeth, and called Embroiderers Alm-Houſes, each having two Rooms, endowed with 3 l. per Ann. After the Fire of LONDON, theſe Alms-Houſes were rebuilt by Sir Tho. Fitch, Knt. and Bart. ſome Time a Bricklayer, deceaſed. On the Weſt Side is the Back-Part of the Heralds-Office, with a Door leading into it.

St. Bennet's-hill, or Paul's-wharf-hill, takes its Riſe out of Thames-ſtreet, and runs up to Paul's-chain into St. Paul's Church-Yard. It is a Place much peſtered with Carts to the Wharfs, which makes it not ſo well inhabited as otherwiſe it would.

THE Church of St. Bennet's is ſeated at the Bottom of the Hill; it was conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, and is now rebuilt better than before; and to this Pariſh is united St. Peter Paul's-wharf, which Church is not rebuilt.

THIS Place is of Note, and well reſorted to, by Reaſon of Doctors-commons, and the Heralds-Office there ſeated. The former on the Weſt Side, poſſeſſed by the Doctors, and others profeſſing the Civil Law, and practiſing it here.

IT is a large and well built Houſe, with ſeveral open Courts, where the Civilians have their Apartments, and where they keep their Courts for the Hearing of Cauſes, viz. in their Publick Hall, which is large for that Purpoſe. Of this Doctors-commons we have already ſpoken. Out of this Place is a Back-Door into Knightriders-ſtreet.

THE Heralds-Office, or College of Heralds, is ſeated on the Eaſt Side. This Office was burnt down in the Fire of LONDON, but now rebuilt, and far better than before, being now built into a fair, uniform, quadrangular Court, containing their Hall and Apartments for the ſeveral Members of this learned Society.

Addle-hill comes out of Carter-lane, and runs down to Thames-ſtreet, leaving Knightriders-ſtreet on the Eaſt Side, and Church-hill-alley on the Weſt; which ſaid Alley, with a turning Paſſage by St. Andrew's Wardrobe Church, falls into Puddle-dock. The Houſes are only on the South Side, the North lying open to the Church and Church-Yard; and in this Alley is Crown-court, which is indifferent good. Adjoining to this Church was the King's great Wardrobe, as being formerly imployed for that Uſe. The Garden is converted into a large and ſquare Court, with good Houſes, and called Wardrobe-court.

St. Andrew Wardrobe Church was deſtroyed in the Conflagration of LONDON, and ſince, it is very handſomely rebuilt, being a very fair Church; and to this the Pariſh of St. Anne Blackfryars is united, this Church ſerving for both Pariſhes.

ON the Weſt Side of Addle-hill, is White-bear-court, very large, containing two or three Courts all of that Name; but all very ordinary, and meanly built and inhabited. Out of this Place is a Paſſage up Steps into Church-hill-alley; and another down Steps into Great Rutland-court. Likewiſe on this Hill are three ſmall and ordinary Places, viz. Roſe-court, White-horſe-court, and Cock-and-hoop-court.

Knightriders-ſtreet, of which there is the Great and the Little, being ſevered from each other by St. Bennet's-hill and Paul's-chain: The Leſs running towards Old-fiſh-ſtreet, and the Greater towards St. Andrew Wardrobe Church. And this Street is wider, better built and inhabited than the Little, that is, by Proctors, and ſuch as have Dependance on Doctors-commons. Out of this Street is a Paſſage into Carter-lane, thro' Bell-yard, which is a very good open Court, with handſome Houſes, well inhabited.

Little Knightriders-ſtreet, but narrow, and not over well inhabited, eſpecially the End next to Paul's-chain.

OVER-againſt Lambart-hill, in the Paſſage to the Old-change, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Magdalen Old-fiſh-ſtreet.

A little Weſtward from this Church is Dolittle-court.

Sermon-lane; this Lane alſo falls into Carter-lane, and is of no great Account, either for Inhabitants or Buildings.

Carter-lane, of which there is the Great and the Little. The Little comes out of the Old-change, and falls into Great Carter-lane, but ſevered by Paul's-chain, and thence runs Weſtward to Puddle-dock and Creed-lane.

Great Carter-lane is the broadeſt, beſt built and inhabited; and in both theſe Lanes are theſe Court, viz. Scallop-court, which has a Paſſage of Free-Stone Pavement into Creed-lane. Dean's-court, which will be mentioned hereafter. Wardrobe-court and Bell-yard, already mentioned. Mermaid-Inn, large, and of a good Trade. King's-head-court, indifferent large, with a Paſſage into St. Paul's Church-Yard. And within this Court is another, bearing the Name of Red-lion-court, handſome, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Black-ſwan-court, indifferent good, alſo has a Paſſage into St. Paul's Church-Yard. Saracen's-head Inn, of a good Trade.

Old-change has only the Weſt Side from St. Mary Magdalen's Church to St. Auſtin's Gate, in this Ward; ſo that there is little to ſay of it, more than what is ſaid of it in Faringdon Ward Within.

Paul's-chain begins at the Corner of Knightriders-ſtreet, and runs up to St. Paul's Church-Yard. A Street large and open, well built, and inhabited by Proctors and Tradeſmen; and by Reaſon of its near Situation to Doctors-commons, is of great Reſort.

Paul's-bakehouſe, now a good ſquare Court, with four handſome large Houſes, eſpecially two, which are well inhabited. At the Eaſt Corner of this Street, next to Little Carter-lane, is kept the Faculty-Office, for the granting of Licences for Marriages, &c.

THE Part or Side of St. Paul's Church-Yard in this Ward, all lies open to St. Paul's; and is a ſpacious Street, graced with good Houſes, loftily built and uniform, well inhabited by Woollen-Drapers; with a Mixture of them that make and ſell Cane-Chairs, and ſome Cabinet and Looking-Glaſs-Sellers.

IN this Row of Building, which reaches from St. Auſtin's Gate to Ludgate-hill, are theſe Courts, beſides thoſe already taken Notice of. In Carter-lane, Dean's-court, by many called the Prerogative-court; for that the Prerogative Office is here kept. In which ſaid Court is a very large Houſe, built by Sir Joſeph Sheldon, and now the Seat of the Deans of St. Paul's ſucceſſively. This Court is open and airy, and has a Paſſage into Great Carter-lane. More towards Ludgate-hill, and almoſt in the South Weſt Corner, is a new Court called St. Paul's-college, made Uſe of for the Singing Men belonging to St. Paul's Cathedral.

St. Gregory's, ſeated by the South Weſt End of St. Paul's. It was deſtroyed by the great Fire, and is not rebuilt, that the Ground on which it ſtood might lie open to St. Paul's Church-Yard, and the Pariſh is united to St. Mary Magdalen Old-fiſh-ſtreet.

ON the North Weſt Side was the Biſhop of LONDON's Palace, long ſince converted into Tenements, now called The Biſhop of London's-Yard. The Ground-Rents are the Biſhop's.

Paul's-alley has a Free-Stone Pavement, and ſerves as a Paſſage into Pater-noſter-row.

Creed-lane and Warwick-lane, have the Eaſt Sides in this Ward; for the Account whereof, and for the Market, Part of which ſtands here, ſee Faringdon Ward Within. On this Side is the Bell-Inn, chiefly uſed by Market People. Over-againſt the College of Phyſicians, is Crown-court, which is but ſmall and ordinary.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, with the Beadle and 24 Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts at Guildhall, in the Month of September.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, 10 Common-Council-Men, 10 Conſtables, ſeven Scavengers, 14 Wardmote Inqueſt-Men, and a Beadle.

IT is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 12 l. in the Exchequer 11 l. 13 s.

FARINGDON WARD Without.

THE fartheſt Weſt Ward of this City, being the 25th Ward of LONDON, but without the Walls, is called Faringdon Without, and was of old Time Part of the other Faringdon Within, until the 17th of Richard II, in which it was divided, and made two; by the Names of Faringdou infra, and Faringdon extra, as is afore ſhewed.

THE Bounds of which Ward, without Newgate and Ludgate, are theſe:

Firſt, On the Eaſt Part thereof, is the whole Precinct of the late Priory of St. Bartholomew; and a Part of Long-lane, on the North, towards Alderſgate-ſtreet; and all Smithfield, to the Bars in St. John-ſtreet.

THEN out of Smithfield, Chicken-lane, towards Turnmill-ſtreet. Then back again by the Pens or Folds in Smithfield to Cow-lane, which turns towards Holbourn; and then Hoſier-lane out of Smithfield; alſo toward Holbourn, till it meets with a Part of Cow-lane.

THEN Cock-lane, out of Smithfield, over-againſt Pie-corner. Then alſo is Giltſpur-ſtreet, out of Smithfield to Newgate. Then from Newgate, Weſt by St. Sepulchre's Church, to Turn-again-lane. Then to Holbourn Conduit, on Snow-hill, to Holbourn-bridge, up Holbourn-hill, to the Bars, on both Sides.

ON the Right Hand, or North Side, at the Bottom of Holbourn-hill, is Gold-lane, ſome Time a filthy Paſſage into the Fields; now both Sides built with ſmall Tenements.

THEN higher is Lither-lane, turning alſo to the Fields, and ſo to the Bar.

NOW, on the Left Hand, or South Side from Newgate, lieth a Street called the Old Baily; this ſtretches down by the Wall of the City to Ludgate. On the Weſt Side of which Street, breaks out another Lane, called St. George's-lane, till you come unto the South End of Seacoal-lane; and then, turning towards Fleet-ſtreet, it is called Fleet-lane.

THE next out of the High Street from Newgate, turning down South, is called the Little Baily, and runs down to the Eaſt of St. George's-lane.

THEN is Seacoal-lane, which turns down into Fleet-lane.

NEAR unto this Seacoal-lane, in the Turning towards Holbourn Conduit, is another Lane, called in Record, Wind-again-lane, for that it turned down to Turnmill-brook, and from thence back again, for there was no Way over.

THEN beyond Holbourn-bridge, to Shoe-lane, which runs out of Holbourn, unto the Conduit in Fleet-ſtreet.

THEN alſo is Fewtars, now called Fetter-lane, which likewiſe ſtretches South into Fleet-ſtreet, by the Eaſt End of St. Dunſtan's Church; and from this Lane to the Bars, are the Bounds without Newgate.

NOW, without Ludgate, this Ward runs up from the ſaid Gate to Temple-bar, and hath on the Right Hand, or North Side, the South End of the Old Baily. Then down Ludgate-hill to Fleet-lane, over Fleet-bridge, and by Shoe-lane, and Fewtar's-lane, and ſo to New-ſtreet or Chancery-lane, and up that Lane to the Houſe of the Rolls. Which Houſe is alſo of this Ward. And on the other Side, to a Lane over-againſt the Rolls, which formerly enter'd Ficquete's Field.

THEN hard by the Bar, is another Lane, called Shire-lane, becauſe it divides the City from the Shire; and this turn'd into Ficquete's Field.

FROM Ludgate again, on the Left Hand, or South Side, to Fleet-bridge, to Bride-lane, which runs South by Bridewell; then to Water-lane, which runs down to the Thames.

THEN by the White-fryars, and by the Temple, even to the Bar aforeſaid, are the Bounds of this Faringdon-Ward Without.

IN theſe Parts from Ludgate, and ſo Weſtward, the City, in the Saxon Times, was chiefly ſituate, and more thinly built, where now the City eſpecially ſtands. This appears from what Fabian found in a very old Record, called Doomſday, belonging to the City: Who writes in his Chronicle, that in King Egelred's, or Ethelred's Reign, which began in the Year 981, (or 978, according to Stow) LONDON had moſt Houſes or Buildings from Ludgate towards Weſtminſter, and little or none where the Chief or Heart of the City now is, except in divers Places, but they ſtood without Order; ſo that many Towns and Cities, as Canterbury, York, and others, paſſed LONDON in Building in thoſe Days, as he ſaith, he had ſeen and known by an old Book in the Guild-hall of LONDON, named Doomſday. But after the Conqueſt it increas'd, and ſhortly ſurpaſs'd and excelled all the others.

TOUCHING Ornaments and Antiquities in this Ward: Firſt, betwixt the ſaid Newgate, and the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre's, is a Way towards Smithfield, called Giltſpur, or Knightriders-ſtreet, of the Knights, and others, riding that Way into Smithfield; repleniſhed with Buildings on both Sides, up to Pie-corner, a Place ſo called of ſuch a Sign, ſome Time a fair Inn for the Receipt of Travellers, but now divided into Tenements. And over-againſt the ſaid Pie-corner, lieth Cock-lane, which runs down to Holbourn Conduit.

BEYOND this Pie-corner, lies Weſt Smithfield, compaſſed about with Buildings. As, firſt, on the South Side, on the Right Hand, ſtands the Pariſh-Church, and large Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew, founded by Rayhere, the firſt Prior of St. Bartholomew's, thereto near adjoining, in the Year 1102. Of this Hoſpital ſee more, Book I, Chap. XIV.

The PARISH of St. BARTHOLOMEW the Leſs.

THIS Church, (which was the Chapel of the Hoſpital) upon the Suppreſſion, remained a Pariſh-Church for the Tenants, dwelling within the Precincts of the ſaid Hoſpital, and is now called Little St. Bartholomew's: It is a Vicarage, Vicarage, ſubject to the Archdeacon in Subordination to the Biſhop; and the Patrons are the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the City of LONDON, Governors of the Hoſpital for the Poor, called Little St. Bartholomew's, near to Weſt Smithfield, of the Foundation of King Henry VIII.

Jan. 13, 38 Hen. VIII, there was an Agreement made between that King, and the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, dated December 27, by which (inter alia) the Vicar of this Church was to have 13 l. 6 s. 8 d.

THIS Church is an old Gothick Building of Brick and Boulder, render'd over with Finiſhing, but it is handſomely pewed with Oak; and there is a ſpacious Door-caſe at the Weſt End, with Pilaſters of the Ionick Order, adorned with Cherubims, &c.

THE Altar-piece has the Commandments, Lord's Prayer, and Creed, in Carved Frames, done in Gold Letters upon Black, adorned with a Seraphim, two Cherubims, Cornice and two Lamps carved, as the King's Arms are above that, and the ſame is painted in the Glaſs a little higher in the Window, on the North Side, whereof are the Arms of LONDON, under which is this Date, 1619; and on the South Side thereof this Coat (the Arms of the Houſe.)

Party per Pale Argent, and Sable, a Chevron counterchanged.

ALL which Altar-piece is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, the Floor paved with black and white Marble, and the Communion-Table is of Cedar.

THE Length of the Church is 99 Feet, Breadth 42, (except in the Chancel, which is more than anſwer'd by the Chapel on the North Side of this Church where the poor lame People ſit) greateſt Altitude about 34 Feet, and of the Tower 70 Feet, wherein are three Bells.

The

The PRIORY of

St. BARTHOLOMEW.

ON the East Side of this Duck-lane, and also of Smithfield, lay the Priory of St. Bartholomew, founded also by Rayhere, a witty Gentleman, and therefore in his Time the King's Minstrel, about A. D. 1102. He founded it in a Part of the Moorish Ground, which has been spoken of before, and which was a common Laystall of all Filth that was to be voided out of the City. He placed Canons there, and became himself their first Prior, and so continued till his dying Day, and was there buried in a handsome Monument, which Stow says, in his Time, was lately renewed by Prior Bolton.

By a great Gate in the said Duck-lane, we enter into a spacious Court, inhabited, belonging to the said Hospital, called Bartholomew-close. On the East Part thereof, is a late built Court, with fair Brick Buildings, called Queen's-court: At the Upper End thereof, East, is a Picture of the late Queen ANNE, in full Proportion. This Court was built Anno 1708. There are also two or three narrow Passages from this Close into Aldersgate-street.

AMONGST other memorable Matters touching this Priory, one is an Archbishop's Visitation, which Matthew Paris has thus:

" Boniface (saith he) Archbishop of Can- " terbury, in his Visitation, came to this
" Priory, where, being received with Proces" sion in the most solemn wise, he said, That " he passed not upon the Honour, but came to " visit them. To whom the Canons answered, " That they having a learned Bishop, ought " not, in Contempt of him, to be visited by " any other. Which Answer so much offended
" the Archbishop, that he forthwith fell on the " Sub-Prior, and smote him on the Face, say" ing, Indeed, indeed, Doth it become you
" English Traitors so to answer me? Thus raging,
" with Oaths not to be recited, he rent in " Pieces the rich Cope of the Sub-Prior, and
" trod it under his Feet, and thrust him
" against a Pillar of the Chancel with such spi" ritual Violence, that he had almost killed
" him: But the Canons seeing their Sub-Prior " thus almost slain, came and plucked off the " Archbishop with such Force, that they over-
" threw him backwards, whereby they might see " that he was armed, and prepared to fight.
" The Archbishop's Men seeing their Master
" down, being all Strangers, and their Master's " Countrymen, born at Provence, fell upon the " Canons, beat them, tore them, and trod them
" under Foot. At length, the Canons getting " away as well as they could, ran bloody and
" miry, rent and torn, to the Bishop of LON-" DON, to complain; who bade them go to the " King at Westminster, and tell him thereof.
" Whereupon, four of them went thither, the " rest were not able, they were so sore hurt.
" But when they came to Westminster, the King
" would neither hear nor see them; so they re" turned without Redress. In the mean Season,
" the whole City was in an Uproar, and rea" dy to have rung the common Bell, and to have
" hewed the Archbishop into small Pieces, who " was secretly crept to Lambhith, where they " sought him; and not knowing him by Sight,
" said to themselves, Where is this Ruffian, that " cruel Smiter? He is no Winner of Souls,
" but an Extracter of Money, whom neither
" God, nor any lawful or free Election did bring " to this Promotion. But the King did un" lawfully intrude him, being unlearned, a " Stranger born, and having a Wife, &c. But " the Archbishop conveighed himself over, and " went to the King with a great Complaint " against the Canons, whereas himself was " guilty.

THIS Priory of St. Bartholomew was again new built in the Year 1410.

Bolton was the last Prior of this House, a great Builder there; for he repaired the Priory Church, with the Parish-Church adjoining; the Offices and Lodgings to the said Priory belonging, and near adjoining. Part of this old Priory-House is now standing, in the Walls of which, in many Places, is a Rebus, on his Name, viz. a Bolt and a Ton; it was not long since inhabited by Mr. Palmer, a Printer, deceased, and Mr. James, a Letter-Founder, still living there. He likewise new built the Manor of Canonbury, at Islington, which belonged to the Canons of this House, and is situate in a low Ground, somewhat North from the Parish Church there. But he built no House at Harrow-on-the-hill, as Edward Hall has written, following a Fable then on Foot.

THE People (says he) being scared by Prognostications, which declared, that in the Year of CHRIST 1524, there should be such Eclipses in watery Signs, and such Conjunctions, that by Waters and Floods many People should perish; People victualled themselves, and went to high Grounds for fear of drowning; and especially one Bolton, which was a Prior of St. Bartholomew's in Smithfield, built him an House upon Harrow-on-the-hill, only for Fear of this Flood. Thither he went, and made Provision of all Things necessary within him, for the Space of two Months, &c.

BUT this was not so indeed, as Stow says he had been credibly informed. True it is, that this Bolton was also Parson of Harrow, and therefore bestowed some small Reparations on the Parsonage-House, and built nothing there more than a Dovehouse, to serve him when he had foregone his Priory.

To this Priory King Henry II. granted the Privilege of a Fair to be kept yearly at Bartholomew-tide, for three Days, viz. the Eve, the Day, and the Morrow; to which the Clothiers of England, and Drapers of LONDON repaired, and had their Booths and Standings within the Church-Yard of this Priory, closed in with Walls and Gates, locked every Night, and watched, for the Safety of Mens Goods and Wares. A Court of Piepowders was daily, during the Fair, holden for Debts and Contracts. But now (notwithstanding all Proclamations of the Prince, and also the Act of Parliament) in Place of Booths within this Church-Yard (only let out in the Fair-time, and closed up all the Year after) are many large Houses built; and on the North Wall, towards Long-lane, being taken down, a Number of Tenements are there erected for such as will give great Rents.

THE Custos of the City, Ralph Sandwich, An. 1295, had a Contest with the Prior of St. Bartholomew's, about the Customs and Benefits of this Fair, claiming all the Customs, the Morrow after St. Bartholomew's Day, and half of them on the Eve before the said Day. Of this King Edward took Notice, and the Customs being his Benefit at this Time, when the City Privileges were forfeited, and in the King's Hand; he sent this Brief, a little before the Fair, to the said Custos and the Sheriffs, to have the Business decided by his Treasurer and Barons. The said Brief was as follows:

" Dominus,

" Dominus Rex, &c. The Lord the King " hath commanded the Cuſtos and Sheriffs in " theſe Words: Edward, by the Grace of God, " to the Cuſtos and Sheriffs of LONDON, " Greeting. And Hindrance being made to the ſaid " Prior, by you the ſaid Cuſtos, as the ſame " Prior aſſerteth, to wit, concerning a Moyety " of the Eve, and of the whole Morrow, be- " foreſaid. Concerning which, we will, as well " for us, as for the foreſaid Prior, that Juſtice " be done as it is fit, before our Treaſurer and " Barons of the Exchequer, from the Day of " St. Michael next, for one Month. We com- " mand you, that ſufficient Security be taken " of the ſaid Prior, of reſtoring to us the ſaid " Day the Iſſues of the foreſaid Fair, coming " from the Moyety of the foreſaid Eve, and of " the whole Morrow, if the ſaid Prior cannot " then ſhew ſomething for himſelf, why the " ſaid Iſſues ought not to belong to us. We " command you, that ye permit the ſame Prior, " in the mean Time, to receive the foreſaid " Iſſues, in Form aforeſaid; and you may have " there this Brief. Witneſs my ſelf at Dune- " len, the 9th Day of Auguſt, in the 20th Year " of our Reign.

The PARISH of St. BARTHOLOMEW the Great.

THIS Church, which belonged to the old Priory, and in which is the afore-mentioned Monument of Rayhere, is a ſpacious Building, partly Gothick, and partly of the Tuſcan Order, with a ſtrong Timber Roof; the Walls of the Church are of Boulder, Stone, and Brick, and the Steeple of Brick, with Battlements.

It had the good Fortune to eſcape the terrible Fire in 1666, and was new beautified in the Year 1696.

It is handſomely enough pewed, tho' moſtly old, and the Pulpit is a Piece of fine old Carving, after the Gothick Manner.

The Altar-Piece is a very ſpacious Piece of Architecture, painted of Stone Colour in Perſpective: It conſiſts of four Columns and two Pilaſters, with their Entablament of the Dorick Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments, and lower are the Lord's Prayer and Creed, all done in Gold Letters, upon Black. Over the Commandments, and under an arching Pediment is a Glory, with the Word Jehovah done in Hebrew Characters.

Above the ſaid Pediment are the King's Arms, done in their Colours, between two Columns of the Ionick Order; over which is another Circular Pediment, and the Whole is adorned with Pyramidal Figures, Shields, &c. and is about 32 Feet high.

There are two Galleries, one at the Weſt End, and the other at the South Weſt Angle of the Church; and the Font is directly Weſtward from the Communion-Table, which is encloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

The Length of the Church is 132 Feet, Breadth 57, and Altitude 47; the Height of the Steeple is about 75 Feet, wherein are five Bells, and the Roof of the Church is covered with Lead.

Here are two Tables of Benefactors, japanned Black, and the Letters of Gold, one againſt the North Wall, and the other under the Organ, ſet up in the Years 1729, and 1731.

This Court conſiſts of a Steward, two Judges; one for the Lord of the Manor, and one for the Lord Mayor of LONDON; one Clerk of the Papers, two Attorneys, the Lord Mayor's eldeſt Carver and young Man, eldeſt Serjeant at Mace of Wood-ſtreet Compter, and his Yeoman; one Conſtable, one Jailor, and ſix Warders.

THE Pariſh of St. Bartholomew the Great was endowed with great Privileges, which having been diſuſed for many Years, the Officers of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, have now the Liberty of arreſting any Perſon within that Liberty; However, the Piepowder-court is held during the three Days of Bartholomew Fair, and if any Perſon commits an Offence within the Juriſdiction of that Court; and the Cauſe be not decided before the Expiration of the three Days before-mentioned, he will be ſent to Newgate, where he is to remain till the Court meets again. Note, That any Perſons, tho' not a Freeman of LONDON, may keep a Shop and exerciſe any Trade or Calling within the Pariſh of St. Bartholomew the Great.

THE Priory of St. Bartholomew's, at the Surrender made the 30th of King Henry VIII. was valued at 653 l. 15 s. by the Year.

HERE, in Great St. Bartholomew's, after the Diſſolution of the Priory, lived Sir Richard Rich, Lord Rich, and Lord Chancellor in the Beginning of King Edward VI. And hither the Earl of Warwick, and ſome other Noblemen repaired one Morning requiring him, from the King, to reſign the Great Seal. Here alſo dwelt another great Counſellor of Queen Elizabeth's, Sir Walter Mildmay, Chancellor of her Exchequer.

THIS Church, having in the Bell-Tower, ſix Bells in a Tune, was ſold to the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre's; and then the Church being pulled down to the Choir, the Choir was, by the King's Order annexed, for the inlarging of the old Pariſh-Church thereto adjoining, and ſo was uſed till the Reign of Queen Mary, who gave it to the Fryars Preachers, or Black-fryars, and was uſed as their Coventual Church, until the firſt of our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth. Thoſe Fryars were once more put out, and then all the ſaid Church, was wholly as it ſtood, in the laſt Year of Edward VI, given by Parliament, to remain for ever a Pariſh-Church to the Inhabitants within the Cloſe, called Great St. Bartholomew's.

ON the North Side of this Priory, is the Lane truly called Long, which reacheth from Smithfield towards Alderſgate-ſtreet. This Lane is built on both the Sides, with Tenements for Brokers, and ſuch like. The reſt of Smithfield, from Long-lane end to the Bars, is incloſed with Inns, and large Tenements. On the Weſt Side is Chicken-lane, down to Cowbridge. Then are the Pens or Folds, ſo called of Sheep there parted, and penned up, to be ſold on the Market-Days.

Then was Smithfield-pond, which of old Time, in Records, was called Horſe-pool; for that Men watered Horſes there, and was a great Water. In the 6th of Henry V. a new Building was made in the Weſt Part of Smithfield, betwixt the ſaid Pool, and the River of the Wells, or Turnmill-brook, in a Place then called The Elms; for that there grew many Elm Trees; and this had been the Place of Execution for Offenders. Since which Time, the Building there hath been ſo increaſed, that, ſaith Stow in his Time, now not one Tree remaineth growing.

The Elms in Smithfield, the common Place of Execution.

This Place was in Uſe for Executions, in the Year 1219, and, as it ſeems, long before; by a Clauſe Roll 4 Henry III. wherein mention is made of Furcæ factæ apud Ulmellos Com. Middleſex, ubi prius factæ fuerunt.

IN Cowbridge-ſtreet, or Cow-lane, was the Inn or LONDON Lodging of the Prior of Sempringham.

The reſt of that Weſt Side of Smithfield hath ſeveral large Inns, and other good Buildings up to Hoſier-lane, which turneth down towards Holbourn, till it meets with Cow-lane.

Stow ſaith, by theſe Incroachments, and this Incloſure of Smithfield, there remained but a ſmall Portion for the old Uſes, viz. for Markets of Horſes and Cattle; nor for Military Exerciſes, as Juſtings, Tournings, and great Triumphs, which had been there performed before the Princes and Nobility, both of this Realm and Foreign Countries.

FOR Example: In the Year 1357, 31 Edward III. Great and Royal Juſts were then holden in Smithfield; there being preſent the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, with many other Nobles, and great Eſtates of divers Lands.

IN the Year 1362, 36 Edward III. on the firſt five Days of May, in Smithfield were Juſts holden, the King and Queen being preſent; with the moſt Part of the Chivalry of England, and of France, and and of other Nations; to the which came Spaniards, Cyprians, and Armenians, Knightly requeſting Aid of the King of England, againſt the Pagans that invaded their Confines.

THE 48th of Edward III. Dame Alice Perrers, or Pierce, (the King's Concubine) as Lady of the Sun, rode from the Tower of LONDON, through Cheap, accompanied of many Lords and Ladies; every Lady leading a Lord by his Horſe's Bridle, till they came into Weſt Smithfield; and then began a great Juſt, which laſted for ſeven Days.

ALSO the 9th of Richard II. was the like great Riding from the Tower to Weſtminſter, and every Lord led a Lady's Horſe's Bridle; and in the Morning began the Juſts in Smithfield, which laſted three Days: Henry of Darby, the Duke of Lancaſter's Son, the Lord Beaumont, Sir Simon Burley, and Sir Paris Courtney, all behaved well.

IN the 14th of Rich. II. Royal Juſts and Tournaments were proclamed to be done in Smithfield; to begin on Sunday next after the Feaſt of St. Michael. Many Strangers came forth out of other Countries: Namely, Valerian, Earl of St. Paul, that had married King Richard's Siſter; the Lady Maud Courtney, and William the young Earl of Oſtarvant, Son to Albert of Baviere, Earl of Holland and Henault.

AT the Day appointed, there iſſued forth of the Tower, about the third Hour of the Day, ſixty Courſers, apparelled for the Juſts; and upon every one an Eſquire of Honour, riding a ſoft Pace. Then came forth ſixty Ladies of Honour, mounted upon Palfreys riding on the one Side, richly apparelled; and every Lady led a Knight with a Chain of Gold. Thoſe Knights being on the King's Party, had their Armour and Apparel garniſhed with White Harts and Crowns of Gold about the Harts Neck; and ſo they came riding through the Streets of LONDON, to Smithfield, with a great Number of Trumpets, and other Inſtruments of Muſick before them. The King and Queen, who were lodged in the Biſhop's Palace of LONDON, were come from thence, with many great Eſtates, and placed in Chambers to ſee the Juſts. The Ladies that led the Knights, were taken down from their Palfreys, and went up to Chambers prepared for them. Then alighted the Eſquires of Honour from their Courſers, and the Knights in good Order mounted upon them. And after the Helmets were ſet on their Heads, and being ready in all Points, Proclamation made by the Heralds, the Juſts began; and many commendable Courſes were run, to the great Pleaſure of the Beholders. Theſe Juſts continued many Days, with great Feaſting, as ye may read in Froiſard.

IN the Year 1393, the 17th of Richard II. certain Lords of Scotland came into England to get Worſhip, by Force of Arms; the Earl of Mar challenged the Earl of Nottingham to Juſt with him; and ſo they rode together certain Courſes, but not the full Challenge; for the Earl of Mar was caſt, both Horſe and Man, and two of his Ribs broken with the Fall; ſo that he was conveyed out of Smithfield, and ſo towards Scotland, but died by the Way, at York.

Sir William Darell, Knt. the King's Banner-Bearer of Scotland, challenged Sir Piercy Courtney, Knt. the King's Banner-Bearer of England; and when they had run certain Courſes, gave over without Concluſion of Victory. Then Cookborne, Eſq; of Scotland, challenged Sir Nicholas Hawberke, Knt. and rode five Courſes, but Cookborne was borne over Horſe and Man, &c.

IN the Year 1409, the 10th of Henry IV. a great Play was played at Skinner's-well, which laſted eight Days; where were to ſee the ſame, the moſt Part of the Nobles and Gentlemen of England. And forthwith began a Royal Juſting in Smithfield, between the Earl of Somerſet, and the Seneſchal of Henalt, Sir John Cornwall, Sir Rich. Arundel, and the Son of Sir John Cheyney, againſt certain Frenchmen. And the ſame Year a Battle was fought in Smithfield, the one called Glauceſter, Appellant, and the other Arthure, Defendant; they fought valiantly, but the King took up the Quarrel into his Hands, and pardoned them both.

IN the Beginning of Henry V. his Reign, another memorable Encounter happened here in Smithfield, between Rob. Carey, of the Weſt, Son of Sir John Carey, Knt. and a Foreign Knight called Aragoneſe, one of the Kingdom of Aragon; who having performed many Noble Atchievements in other Countries, at laſt viſited England, where he challenged many Perſons of his Rank and Quality, to make Trial of his Skill in Arms. The ſaid Robert Carey accepted his Challenge. Between them was waged a cruel Encounter, and a long and doubtful Combat; but at laſt he was vanquiſhed by the Engliſh Gentleman, who was therefore Knighted by the King, and reſtored to Part of his Father's Inheritance, having been Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer in King Rich. II's Time, and taking Part with him, had forfeited his Eſtate. And whereas by the Law of Heraldry (ſays my Author) whoſoever fairly in the Field conquered his Adverſary, might juſtify the Wearing and Bearing of his Arms whom he overcame; he accordingly took on him the Coat Armour of this Aragoneſe, being Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Roſes of the Firſt; which is ever ſince borne by the Name of Carey, whoſe antient Coat of Arms was, Gules, a Chevron, Argent, between three Swans proper; one whereof they ſtill retain in their Creſt.

IN the Year 1430, the 8th of Henry VI. the 14th of January, a Battle was done in Smithfield within the Liſts, before the King, between two Men of Feverſham in Kent, John Upton, Notary, Appellant, and John Downe, Gentleman, Defendant. John Upton put upon John Downe, that he and his Compeers ſhould imagine the King's Death, upon the Day of his Coronation. When theſe had fought long, the King took up the Matter, and forgave both Parties.

IN the Year 1442, the 20th of Henry VI. the 30th of January, a Challenge was done in Smithfield within the Liſts, before the King; there being Sir Philip la Beauſe, of Aragon, Knt. the other an Eſquire of the King's Houſe, called John Anſley, or Antſley. They came to the Field all armed; the Knight with his Sword drawn, and the Eſquire with his Spear, which Spear he caſt againſt the Knight, but the Knight avoided it with his Sword, and caſt it to the Ground. Then the Eſq; took his Axe, and ſmote many Blows on the Knight, and made him let fall his Axe, and brake up his Uniber three times, and would have ſmote him on the Face with his Dagger, to have ſlain him; but then the King cried, Hold, and ſo they parted. The King made John Anſley a Knight, and the Knight of Aragon offered his Harneſs at Windſor.

IN the Year 1446, the 24th of Henry VI. John David impeached his Maſter, William Cater, of Treaſon; and a Day being aſſigned them to fight in Smithfield, the Maſter being well beloved, was ſo cheriſhed by his Friends, and plied with Wine, that being therewith overcome, was alſo unluckily ſlain by his Servant; but that wicked Servant, for he falſly accuſed his Maſter, lived not long unpuniſhed; for he was afterwards hanged at Tyburn for Felony.

LET all ſuch falſe Accuſers, ſays Stow, note this for Example, and look for no better End, without without Repentance; and in this, it is thought, he had a View to his own Brother, who had falſly accuſed him in ſome Matters concerning Religion.

The ſame Year, Thomas Fitz-Thomas, Prior of Kilmaine, impeached Sir James Butler, Earl of Ormond, of Treaſon; which had a Day aſſigned them to fight in Smithfield. The Liſts were made, and the Field prepared; but when it came to the Point, the King commanded they ſhould not fight, and took the Quarrel into his Hands.

In the Year 1467, the 7th of Edward IV. the Baſtard of Burgoigne challenged the Lord Scales, Brother to the Queen, to fight with him, both on Horſeback and on Foot. The King therefore cauſed Liſts to be prepared in Smithfield, the Length of 120 Taylors Yards, and 10 Feet; and in Breadth 80 Yards, and 20 Feet; double barred, five Feet between the Bars, the Timber Work whereof coſt 200 Marks, beſides the fair and coſtly Galleries prepared for the Ladies, and others: At which Martial Exerciſe, the King and Nobility were preſent. The firſt Day they ran together with Spears, and departed with equal Honour.

The next Day they Turneyed on Horſeback; the Lord Scales's Horſe having on his Chafron a long Spear Pike of Steel, and as the two Champions coaped together, the ſame Horſe thruſt his Pike into the Noſtril of the Baſtard's Horſe; ſo that with much Pain he mounted ſo high, that he fell on one Side with his Maſter; and the Lord Scales rode about him with his Sword drawn, 'till the King commanded the Marſhal to help up the Baſtard; who ſaid, I cannot hold by the Clouds; for though my Horſe fail me, I will not fail an Incounter Companion. But the King would not ſuffer them to do any more that Day.

The next Morning they came into the Liſts on Foot, with two Pole-Axes, and fought valiantly; but at laſt the Point of the Pole-Axe of the Lord Scales entered into the Side of the Baſtard's Helm, and by Force might have placed him on his Knees. But the King caſt down his Warder, and the Marſhal parted them. The Baſtard required that he might perform his Enterprize; but the King gave Judgment, as the Baſtard relinquiſhed his Challenge, &c. And this may ſuffice for Juſts in Smithfield.

But yet we muſt not part with Smithfield ſo; for, as it has been a Place for ſuch honourable Juſts and Triumphs, by Reaſon it was a ſoft Ground, and unpaved; ſo was it a Market-Place for Cattle, Hay, Straw, and other neceſſary Proviſions. And likewiſe (once in the Year) at Bartholomew-tide, a general Fair, commonly called Bartholomew-Fair, has uſually been kept in that Place. But in Regard that it was continually ſubject to the Iniquity of Weather, and being a Place of good Extent, deſerved to be much better reſpected; it pleaſed the King's Majeſty (James I.) with the Advice of his honourable Lords of the Council, to write graciouſly to the Lord Mayor, and the Aldermen his Brethren, in the Year 1614, that Smithfield might be ſufficiently paved, which would be the only Means to have it kept in far cleaner Condition. And as no Motion (to any good End and Intent) can be made to the City, but they as gladly embrace, and willingly purſue it; even ſo this honourable Motion was found an acceptable Entertainment, and it was very ſpeedily proceeded withal. Some voluntary Contributions in the ſeveral Pariſhes (what each Man willingly would give) was beſtowed on the Work; but, indeed, hardly deſerving any Report. Notwithſtanding, on the 4th Day of February, An. 1614, the City began the intended Labour, and before Bartholomew-tide, then next enſuing, to the Credit and Honour of the City for ever, it was fully finiſhed, and Bartholomew-Fair there kept, without breaking any of the paved Ground, but the Booths diſcreetly ordered, to ſtand faſt upon the Pavement. The Citizens Charge thereupon amounting to near 1600 l.

Where, beſides the paving of this Place all over, and levelling it (which being in ſuch a rude foul Condition, it was before thought impoſſible to be done) it was greatly raiſed and mounted in the Middle, whereby it became a very fair, clean, and ſpacious Walk: And divers Conveyances were made for the Water, from the new Channels, made by the Reaſon of the Pavement. It was alſo ſtrongly railed on all Sides; and the Middle had alſo ſubſtantial Rails round about, for the better Safety of Paſſengers, and for the Security of ſuch as ſhould walk there, from the Danger of Coaches, Carts, Horſes, Oxen, and other Cattle, of which Smithfield is ſeldom empty. And that, if Occaſion were, it might ſerve for a Market-Place; becauſe Newgate-Market, Cheapſide, Leadenhall, and Grace-church-ſtreet (where the Markets in thoſe Times were kept) were unmeaſurably peſtered with Increaſe and Multitude of Market-Folks, Carts, and other Annoyances attending them; to the great Vexation of the Inhabitants, and Trouble of Paſſengers: So that the Magiſtrates of the City did ſeriouſly take it into their Conſideration, how to make ſome new convenient Market-Place, for the general Service of the City.

This Field, as it had antiently been (as was ſaid before) a Place of Honourable Exerciſes of Juſts and Tournaments, ſo looſe ſerving Men would commonly meet here, and make Uproars and Quarrels; inſomuch that it was many Years called Ruffians Hall, being the uſual Rendezvous of Ruffians and Quarrellers, during the Time that Swords and Bucklers were uſed: When every Serving-Man carried a Buckler at his Back, which hung by the Hilt or Pommel of his Sword, hanging before him.

And now for a long Time, the Fair kept here, inſtead of three Days, hath laſted a Fortnight; and became of little other Uſe than for idle Youth, and looſe People to reſort to, and to ſpend their Money in Vanity; and (that which was worſe) in Debaucheries and Drunkenneſs, Whoredom, and in ſeeing and hearing Things not fit for Chriſtian Eyes and Ears; many of the Houſes and Booths here ſerving only to allure Men and Women to ſuch Purpoſes of Impiety. Therefore the Magiſtracy often intending fully, at laſt, reſolved in the Year 1708, to reduce the Fair to that Space of Time only, according to which it was at firſt granted, that is, to three Days; and accordingly an Order was made. And at a Court of Common-Council, in June, the ſaid Year, when ſome Petitions were offered for revoking the former Order, upon certain Inconveniencies, as the great falling of the Rents of St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, and of the great Loſſes that many of the Inhabitants in and about Weſt-ſmithfield muſt ſuffer. Yet, upon the Conſideration of the great Miſchiefs and Diſorders that had ariſen by the long Continuance of the ſaid Fair, the Petitions for prolonging the Time were rejected, and the Order confirmed. Whereby the Fair was to be kept for three Days only, for ſelling of Merchandizes, according to the Original Grants from the Crown. But, by Degrees, it has again arrived at the ſame Length of Time as formerly, and was the laſt Year [1733] held a full Fortnight.

The PARISH of St. SEPULCHRES.

NOW to return through Gilt-ſpur-ſtreet by Newgate, here ſtands the Pariſh-Church of St. Sepulchres; this Church is dedicated to the Commemoration of the Holy Sepulchre, or Grave, of our Saviour CHRIST at Jeruſalem; of which there was ſuch Regard in former Times, that an Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre of Jeruſalem was inſtituted by Godfrey, of Bullen, (as ſome will have it) in the Year 1099; or (as others) by Baldwyn, ſecond King of Jeruſalem, Anno 1103. To this Order was committed the Keeping of the Holy Sepulchre, from whence they had their Name.

THEY follow the Rule of St. Auguſtin; and their antient Habit was a black Caſſock, a white Rochet over it, with a black Cloak: Upon which, on the Left Side were five black Croſſes, as ſome write. And that they wore alſo a long Beard and a Cap, after the Eaſtern Faſhion.

THIS Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre being ejected out of Syria, was at length, by Pope Innocent VIII. united to the Order of the Knights of Rhodes, Anno Dom. 1485, and thereby they ceaſed to be an Order by themſelves. And the Knights of the Order being expelled out of Jeruſalem, the Cuſtody of the Lord's Sepulchre was, at the Command of the Soldan, committed to the Monks of the Franciſcan Family, which was profitable to the Saracens and Turks. But Anno 1336, the Sepulchre, with the Leave of the Biſhop of Rome, was committed to eight Franciſcan Monks, who have the Overſight thereof to this Day.

THIS Church was called, of Old St. Sepulchres in the Baily, or by Chamberlain Gate. It was, in Stow's Time, in a fair Church-Yard, though not ſo large as before it had been, Part of it being let out for Buildings, and a Garden-Plat. It is ſubject to the Archdeacon, ſaving only as to Wills and Adminiſtrations, which belong to the Commiſſary.

THIS Church was re-edified, or new built, about the Reign of Henry VI. or Edward IV. One of the Popham's was a great Builder there; namely, of one fair Chapel on the South Side of the Choir, as appeared formerly by his Arms, and other Monuments in the Glaſs Windows thereof; and alſo of the fair Porch of the ſame Church, towards the South, over which Porch his Image, fairly graven in Stone, was fixed, but now defaced and beaten down. His Titles were theſe by Offices; Chancellor of Normandy, Captain of Vernoyle, Suſan and Bayon, and Treaſurer of the King's Houſhold. He died rich, leaving great Treaſure of ſtrange Coin, and was buried in the Charter-houſe, by Weſt-ſmithfield.

Roger, Biſhop of Salisbury (which was Roger that rich and mighty Biſhop of Salisbury, in the Reign of Henry I.) gave this Church of Sepulchre de Ballio, LONDON, cum pertinentiis ſuis infra Burgum & extra, to the Prior and Canons of St. Bartholomew in Weſtſmithfield: It was confirmed to them (inter alia) by the Charter of King Henry III. bearing Date at Winton, June 15, in the 37th of his Reign.

THUS this Church of St. Sepulchre became Part of the Poſſeſſions of the ſaid Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew; but when, or upon what Occaſion it was appropriated to them, is uncertain. However, it appears that there was a perpetual Vicarage ordained, Time out of Mind, of this Church; of which the ſaid Prior and Convent were, and continued Patrons 'till their Suppreſſion. Upon which it came to the Crown, and remained in it, 'till King James I. in the 7th of his Reign, granted the Rectory and its Appurtenances, and the Advowſon of this Vicarage to Fran. Philips, and others. After which the ſaid Rectory, and its Appurtenances, were purchaſed by the Pariſhioners, and held in Fee-Farm of the Crown. And the Advowſon of the Vicarage by the Preſident and Fellows of St. John Baptiſt College, in Oxford, who continue Patrons to this Day.

THERE having been formerly ſome Controverſies between the ſaid Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, the Patrons and Proprietors of this Church, and Robert Dycar, Vicar of the ſame, about the Tithes and Profits thereof, John Stokeſley, Biſhop of LONDON, did, on the 4th of April, 1531, by the Conſent of the Parties on both Sides, make an Agreement, or Compoſition between them, wherein he decreed, ordered, and awarded to the Effect following:

FIRST, That the ſaid Vicar, and his Succeſſors, ſhould have the third Part of all the Tithes, Oblations, and Profits that ſhall grow and come to the ſaid Church yearly, through all the Year, from thenceforth for ever, except the within excepted; and that all Tithes, Oblations, and Fruits (ſaving ſuch as ſhall be received at Feaſts of Eaſter, or within ſeven Days thereof, and ſuch as hereafter be excepted) ſhall, from Time to Time, be put into a Box in the Veſtry of the ſaid Church, and there ſhall remain, 'till it ſhall be indifferently divided at every Month's End, after the Rate aforeſaid, and as hath been accuſtomed in Times paſt. And if the ſaid Parties, at any Time hereafter, ſhall vary between themſelves in their Reckonings, that they cannot among themſelves, within eight Days next after the Terms before aſſigned, to reckon and part the ſame, agree upon the Sums by them received, and to be paid according to the ſaid Award; that then they ſhall, within eight Days next after that, exhibit their Account before ſuch an Auditor as the ſaid Biſhop and his Succeſſors ſhall aſſign; and upon his Judgment the ſaid Arrears ſhall be divided and parted forthwith, according to the Proportion aforeſaid.

THEN ſettling the Arrears that were then due, it goes on further thus, viz. and likewiſe if it ſhall happen at any Eaſter, or at any other Time hereafter in the Year, any Manner of Tithes, Oblations, or Profits of the ſaid Church to be behind unpaid; that then the ſame ſhall be gathered both by the ſaid Parties, or by both their Deputies, or by one to be deputed indifferently between them both, and ſo ſhall be divided after the Rate of the ſaid Decree and Order.

FURTHERMORE, That the ſaid Vicar, and his Succeſſors, ſhall yearly, from thenceforth for ever, have the third Part of all the Tithes, and Profits ſpiritual, of and by Reaſon of the Compoſition that is made between the Prior and Convent of the Charter-houſe, and the ſaid Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, and the Vicars of St. Sepulchres, for the Houſes within the Precinct, and the Inhabitants of the ſame Charter-houſe, without any Manner of Let or Interruption of the ſaid Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, their Succeſſors or Aſſigns; provided always and excepted, that the ſaid Vicar ſhall make no Claim, nor Title, neither ſhall have Tythes, Oblations, or other Profits coming or growing within the Precinct of the Monaſtery, or Cloſe of St. Bartholomew, or within the Precinct of the Hoſpital of the ſame. Neither of the Tithes of Clerkenwell Field, nor of any Tythes to be had by Reaſon of any Compoſition made in Times paſt between the

the Lord of St. John of Jeruſalem in England, and the Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew aforeſaid.

THIS is what is moſt material in this Compoſition as to our preſent Purpoſe; what elſe is contained in it, refers only to the Offerings of Candles, Wax, Legacies to the High Altar, &c. wholly caſt out of the Church upon the Reformation, and therefore of no Validity now; for which Reaſon we omit it, and come to the Concluſion of this Award, wherein it is provided, That this Decree, Order and Compoſition, ſhall be of full Strength and Effect for the whole Space of five Years, and five Weeks next following the Date thereof, viz. April 4, 1532. And if the Prior and the Convent of the ſaid Monaſtery of St. Bartholomew, or the Vicar of the ſaid Pariſh for the Time being, do, after the Expiration of the ſaid five Years and five Weeks, think themſelves aggrieved with this Award, and within two Months after do reclaim and proteſt againſt it before the Biſhop of the Dioceſe, or his Chancellor, that then this Degree, Order and Compoſition, ſhall be void, and of none Effect: But no ſuch Reclamation or Proteſt being made by any of the ſaid Parties, it may be concluded that this Compoſition is ſtill of Force and Effect.

IN the Year 1624, and from that Time till the Year 1633 incluſive, there were ſeveral Repairs every Year in and about this Church and Steeple, which coſt in all 1110*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*

THIS Church being almoſt demoliſhed, except Part of the Wall and Steeple, by the Fury of the Flames in 1666, it was again re-erected and finiſhed Anno 1670.

THE Building is in this Manner: The Walls are ſquare Stone Boulder, and ſome Brick, ſtrengthened with Buttreſſes; the Battlements, and Coping, appears much newer Work than the reſt; the Roof is covered with Lead; the Tower is alſo Stone, with four ſmall Spires, one at each Angle; the Windows are of the Modern Gothick; the Roof over the Naves is camerated, but is flat and lower about eight Feet over the Side Iſles, ſupported with 12 ſtrong Stone Columns of the Tuſcan Order. The Floor is paved with Tile, and many large Marble Graveſtones, eſpecially in the Chancel, which is one Step above that of the Church; and there appears to have been a Chapel on the North Side of the Church, the Breadth there being much more than the reſt.

THE Ornament and Finiſhing is thus: It is wainſcotted Six Feet and a half high, and hath Galleries on the North Weſt, and South Sides, and the Pews of Oak; the Fronts of the Galleries are enriched with Seraphims, Branches of Palm and Laurel, Feſtoons, Crowns over the Letters C. R. &c. The Pulpit is alſo Oak, and the Roof is adorned with Arches, Pannels and Roſes, and the Coving Cornice over the Pillars, with Leaves of Fret-work. Near the South Eaſt Angle is an inner Door-caſe of Wainſcot, adorned with two Pilaſters; their Entablature and Compaſs Pediment of the Corinthian Order.

THE Altar-piece conſiſts of two ſmall Marble Columns, with Entablature and Pediment of the Ionick Order; the Intercolumns are the Decalogue in two Tables, done in Gold Letters on Black Marble under the King's Arms, which are painted and placed in the Pediment, and far between the Pater Noſter and Creed, done in Black on Gold; and all theſe between the Pourtraits of Moſes and Aaron, placed in Frames richly carved and gilt; and here are Variety of gilded Enrichments, being Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, Feſtoons, Palm-branches, &c. and the Whole is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter; the Space within which has the Pavement of poliſh'd Marble, Black and White.

THE Dimenſions are as follow: (Length beſides the Paſſage or Ambulatory at the Weſt End) 126 Feet; Breadth (excluding the Chapel on the North Side) 58; Altitude of the Roof over the Middle Iſle, 35 Feet; and of the Tower and Spires, or Pinnacles, about 140 Feet; in which Tower there are Ten tuneable Bells, which make a pleaſant Harmony when rung in Peal; there are alſo Chimes, which go at the Hours of Four, Eight, and Twelve daily; and upon the ſaid Bells may be rung 3,628,800 Changes.

ON a Stone by the Communion-Table, richly adorned with Arms:

Here under lyes the Wonder of her Kinde,
The Quintessence
of Nature and of Grace, Wit, Beauty, Bounty, and (in Noble Race
The rarest Jewell)
a right humble Minde.
Here lyes her Body,
but her Soule refin'd Above th' Empyreall, hath Imperial Place,
In Blisse so boundlesse,
as no Words embrace,
Nor Art can feigne,
nor mortall Heart can find.
Her Fame remaines
a Monument of Honour, Built by her Vertue, gilt with purest Gold,
With Lilly-flowers, and Roses strewed upon her

HER EPITAPH:

Urania thus enroll'd:
Milde Child, chaste Mayden, and religious Wife;
The Even crownes the Day,
Joane Essex Death, her Life.

Pie obiit die Martis Martii 15. Ann. ætat. suæ 26. Salutis nostræ, 1607.

UNDER the Communion-Table, on a fair plated Stone:

A Dorcas milde,
a Mary full of Grace,
A Virgin chaste,
and of rare Education, Entombed lyeth here underneath this Place; Whose Life and Name deserved Commendation.
But in the blooming
Month of pleasant May, Untimely Death hath stolne her Life away.
Yet spight of Death,
her Virtue still remaineth;
And in the Heaven
a better Life she gaineth.
Upon whose Tome
I consecrate this Verse,
Instead of Flowers, to deck her Funeral Hearse.

Nemo ante obitum fœlix.

ON a handsome Monument in the Chancel was the following Inscription:

Joannes Brewster, Armiger. in obitum D. Elizabethæ Deane, uxoris ejus. Obiit 24 die Octob. 1609.

Made generous by Birth, and kept that Fount,
From Time's Pollution striving still to rise Above the Earth, high in the World's Account, For outward and for inbred Courtesies.
Her Actions, Almes, her Life, Faith, Hope, and Love,
A suffering Spirit, rendering Right for Wrong:
Her Heart a Spheare, where all good Thoughts did move, Whose Influence was dispersed by the Tongue.
Religion was her Compasse,
Truth her Starre,
In sundry Seas
of World's Prosperity; Wealth her bad Angel,
Flesh and Bloud her Warre, Yet Wisedome made this Discord Harmony.

Then

Then Marble keepe to all Poſterity,
Her Lives dear Memory
Upon whoſe Urne
And to her Obſequies
(O, obſequiouſly)
In Love's ſweet Odours
Hearts ſhall ever burne.
And let each Chriſtian Heart
Joyne with my Pen,
T' imbalme her Vertues
in the Hearts of Men.
Thou Bed of Reſt,
Reſerve for him a Roome,
Who lives a Man divorc't from his dear Wife:
And as they were one Heart,
ſo this one Tombe
May hold them neere in Death, as linckt in Life.
Shee's gone before,
and after comes her Head;
To ſleepe with her among the bleſſed Dead.

On a Monument on a Pillar in the Body of the Church:

Here is buried the Body of Henry Cotton, Gentleman, eldeſt Son of Thomas Cotton, of Connington, in the County of Huntingdon, Eſq; by Dorothy Tamworth, his ſecond Wife. Who in Requitall of his Kindneſſe to them, erected this Remembrance for him.

On a Grave-ſtone at the North Iſle entring into the Choir:

Barkly ſublatus, jacet hic

Qui pueros docuit multos, veluti bene ſciunt.
Quem rapuit Dominus,

Inter ſeculas quo obierunt

On the South Side of the Choir:

To the living Memory of his deceaſed Friend, Captain JOHN SMITH, ſome Time Governour of Virginia, and Admiral of New England. Who departed this Life the 21ſt of June, 1631.

Acordiamus, Vincere eſt Vivere.

Here lyes one conquered that hath conquered Kings, Subdu'd large Territories, and done Things Which to the World
impoſſible would ſeem,
But that the Truth is held in more Eſteem Shall I report his former Service done
In honour of his God and Chriſtendom
How that he did divide from Pagans three,
Their Heads and Lives,
Types of his Chivaldry.
For which great Service,
in that Climate done,
Brave Sigiſmundus,
King of Hungarion,
Did give him as a Coat of Armes to wear,
Theſe conquered Heads, got by his Sword and Spear.
Or ſhall I tell of his Adventures ſince, Done in Virginia,
that large Continent?
How that he ſubdued
Kings unto his Yoke,
And made thoſe Heathen flee,
as Wind doth ſmoke:
And made their Land,
being of ſo large a Station,
An Habitation for our Chriſtian Nation
Where God is glorifyed, their Wants ſupply'd;
Which elſe, for Neceſſaries
muſt have dy'd
But what avails his Conqueſts, now he lyes
Interred in Earth, a Prey to Worms and Flyes?
O! may his Soul in ſweet Elyſium ſleep, Until the Keeper, that all Souls doth keep,
Return to Judgment:
And that after thence,
With Angels he may have his Recompence.

THERE is a good Vicarage-Houſe, which the Miniſter now inhabits, and adjoins to the Church-Yard; with ſome other ſmall Glebe.

IN the Viſitation, An. 1636, the Glebe was given in by the Church-Wardens, to be in Value 17 l. 13 s. 4 d.

Dr. Bell, ſome Time Vicar of this Pariſh, in the Year 1681, under his own Hand, gave this Account of the Rights of the Vicar:

THE Pariſh lieth four Parts in LONDON, and the fifth in Middleſex.

THE College of St. John, Oxon. Patron of the Living: The Pariſh, Impropriators; both by Purchaſe of the Crown.

THE Vicar was formerly endowed with a Third of the Tithes and Eaſter Book, to be paid without Defalcation for Collecting. By the

the late Act, his Maintenance of Tithes is to be 200 l. a Year. Towards which, that Part of the Pariſh that lies within LONDON, pays 80 l. per Ann. by Quarterly Payments, by the Church-Wardens; and gives a Tithe-Book of 80 l. more; for which the Vicar pays the Collectors 2 s. per Pound.

Middleſex Part ſhould pay the other 40 l. and have a Tithe-Book of 107 l. per Ann. but gather yearly not above 60 l. whereof they pay, once a Year, 20 l. as a Third, and are not included in the Act for Augmentations. About 160 l. is gathered from the whole Pariſh, much being loſt by Toſts of Ground unbuilt, Houſes unlet, and poor Inhabitants.

The Eaſter Book, formerly 150 l. a Year to the Pariſh and Vicar, is reduced to leſs than 9 l. yet collected ſtill.

The Exchequer pays about 19 l. a Year, whereof 14 l. for daily Morning-Prayer. 1 s. in the Pound to the Pay-Maſter; and 5 s. for Debenture.

There is paid 1 l. 6 s. 8 d. for a Coalhouſe.

The Sexton, a Sugar-Loaf.

The Caſtle Tavern, for Parcels of Glebe, 1 l.

Every fourth Year, for the Wardmote-Sermon, preached ſucceſſively by the Miniſter of St. Sepulchres, St. Andrew's, St. Dunſtan's, and St. Bridget's, 1 l.

Six Sermons on Anniverſary-Days, viz. the 30th of January, the 29th of May, St. James's Day, the 5th of November, the 6th of December, and Mr. Shaw's Gift by the Shoemakers, 3 l.

For Prayers with the Queſt, 6 s. 8 d.

A new Houſe free to Dr. Bell's Succeſſors; with a Yard thereto. The Uſe of a Parlour, Kitchen, and Waſh-Houſe, under the Queſt-Houſe, that belonged to the Pariſh for the ſaid Bell's Time, he being at the Trouble to build it, and brought 200 l. towards it; the Uſe thereof reſerved to the Pariſh on Publick Occaſions of Queſt, or Burials.

Formerly no Lights in the lower Rooms, and high and narrow ones above, that overlooked the Vicar's-Yard, and no Doors below; but all made by him, for his Convenience.

There is a Watch-Houſe built by Conſent of the Dioceſan and Vicar, at the Inſtance of the Pariſh, at the South Eaſt Corner of the Church-Yard, on Snow-hill; for a daily Uſe of which, as a Shop, 5 l. is paid yearly to the Pariſh, but claimable by the Vicar, as built on his Glebe; which Dr. Bell had not demanded, as thinking himſelf compenſated by Uſe of the Queſt-Houſe, and Under Rooms.

A little Houſe of two Rooms, next the North Church-Door, let ſome Time for 40 s. a Year, with the firſt Incloſure in that Paſſage.

This above-written, Dr. Bell thought good, in Juſtice to the Church, and his Succeſſors, to deliver to the Regiſtry of LONDON, June the 24th, 1681.

In the Church of St. Sepulchres was a Fraternity of St. Katharine; which of the Devotion of ſome Poor of the Pariſh began, to the Honour of the Conception of St. Mary. They met on the Day of the Conception in the ſaid Church, and there had the Maſs of the Day, and offered to the ſame, and found a certain Chaplain daily to celebrate Divine Service for the Brethren and Siſters of the Fraternity, for the Living and the Dead; to meet four times a Year; to ſet up certain Wax-Lights before the Image of the Fraternity on all Feſtival-Days.

A Certificate of this Foundation, Government, and Continuation of this Guild was made in Chancery, in the Vigil of the Purification, the 12th of Rich. II. according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made thence by the King's Brief.

The Value of the Vicarage, by Act of Parliament, is 200 l. and is rated in the King's Books at 20 l. The preſent Vicar is the Reverend Dr. Knight, and the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Nicholſon.

This Conduit by Holbourn-croſs, was built 1498. Thomaſin, Widow to John Percival, Mayor, gave to the ſecond making thereof, 20 Marks; Richard Shore, 10 l. Thomas Kneſworth, and others, did alſo give towards it.

BUT afterwards a new Conduit was there built in the Place of the old, namely, in the Year 1577, by William Lambe, ſome Time a Gentleman of the Chapel to King Henry VIII. and afterwards a Citizen and Clothworker of LONDON. The Water thereof he cauſed to be conveyed in Lead, from divers Springs, to one Head, and from thence to the ſaid Conduit, and Waſte of one Cock at Holbourn-bridge, more than 2000 Yards in Length: All which was by him performed, at his own Charges, amounting to the Sum of 1500 l. and by him finiſhed.

FROM the Weſt Side of this Conduit is the Highway, there called Snow-hill, ſtretching out by Holbourn-bridge, over the oft-named Water of Turnmill-brook, and ſo up to Holbourn-hill; all repleniſhed with fair Buildings.

IN the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſter of Wills are theſe Places mentioned:

Tryllemy-ſtreet, Wendayns-lane, Secole-lane, Cokkys-lane, } In the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre.

Reuner-ſtreet, a Street antiently ſo called, that led from Newgate toward Weſt-ſmithfield.

WITHOUT Holbourn-bridge, on the Right Hand, was Gold-lane, as is before-ſhewed. Up higher, on the Hill, are certain Inns, and other fair Buildings; amongſt which, of old Time, was a Meſſuage, called Scroop's-Inn; for ſo is the ſame recorded in the 37th of Henry VI.

THIS Houſe was ſome Time let out to Serjeants at Law, as appears and was found by Inquiſition taken in the Guildhall of LONDON, before William Purchaſe, Mayor, and Eſcheator for King Henry VII. in the 14th of his Reign, after the Death of John Lord Scroope. That he died diſſeiſed in his Demeſne of Fee, by the Feoffment of Guy Fairfax, Knt. one of the King's Juſtices, made in the 9th of the ſame King, unto an Eſquire, the ſaid John Scroope, Knt. Lord Scroope of Bolton, and Robert Wingfield, of one Houſe, or Tenement, late called Serjeant's-Inn, ſituate againſt the Church of St. Andrew in Holbourn, in the City of LONDON, with two Gardens, and two Meſſuages to the ſame Tenement belonging, in the ſaid City, to hold in Burgage, valued by the Year in all Repriſes, 10 s.

THEN is the Biſhop of Ely's-Inn, commonly called Ely-Place, for that it pertaineth to the Biſhop of Ely. William de Luda, Biſhop of Ely, deceaſed 1297, and gave this Houſe, by the Name of his Manor, with the Appurtenances, in Holbourn, to his Succeſſors; with Condition, that his next Succeſſor ſhould pay 1000 Marks, towards the finding of three Chaplains in the Chapel there.

MORE, John Hotham, Biſhop of Ely, did give by the Name of ſix Meſſuages, two Cellars, and 40 Acres of Land, in the Suburbs of LONDON, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew in Holbourn, to the Prior and Convent of Ely, as appears by Patent of the 9th of Edward III. This Man was Biſhop of Ely 20 Years, and deceaſed An. 1336.

Thomas Arundal, Biſhop of Ely, beautifully built of new his Palace at Ely; and likewiſe his Manors in divers Places, eſpecially this in Holbourn; which he did not only repair, but rather new built and augmented it with a large Port, Gatehouſe, or Front, towards the Street, or Highway. His Arms are yet to be diſcerned in the Stone-Work thereof; he alſo ſat Biſhop of Ely 14 Years, and was tranſlated to York.

IN this Houſe, for the large and commodious Rooms thereof, divers great and ſolemn Feaſts have been kept, eſpecially by the Serjeants at Law, whereof two are to be noted for Poſterity.

THE firſt, in the Year 1464, the 4th of Edward IV. in Michaelmas Term, the Serjeants at Law held their Feaſt in this Houſe. To which, amongſt other Eſtates, Matthew Philip, Mayor of LONDON, with the Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Commons of divers Crafts, being invited, did repair. But when the Mayor looked to keep the State in the Hall, as it had been uſed in all Places within the City and Liberties, out of the King's Preſence, the Lord Gray of Ruthen, then Lord Treaſurer of England, unwitting the Serjeants, and againſt their Wills (as they ſaid) was firſt placed. Whereupon, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, departed home; and the Mayor made the Aldermen to dine with him. Howbeit, he and all the Citizens, were wonderfully diſpleaſed that he was ſo dealt with; and the new Serjeants, and others, were ſorry (as they ſaid) it had ſo happened.

ONE other Feaſt was likewiſe there kept in the Year 1531, the 23d of King Henry VIII. The Serjeants then made, were in Number 11, namely, Thomas Audeley, Walter Luke, J. Baldwine, J. Hinde, Chriſtopher Jenny, John Dowſell, Edward Mervine, Edmund Knightley, Roper Chomley, Edward Montague, and Robert Yorke.

THESE alſo held their Feaſt in this Ely-houſe for five Days, viz. Friday the 10th of November, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tueſday. On Monday (which was the principal Day) King Henry and Queen Katharine dined there (but in two Chambers) and the Foreign Ambaſſadors in a third Chamber.

IN the Hall, at the high Table, ſat Sir Nicholas Lambard, Mayor of LONDON, the Judges, the Barons of the Exchequer, with certain Aldermen of the City. At the Board on the South Side ſat the Maſter of the Rolls, the Maſter of the Chancery, and Worſhipful Citizens. On the North Side of the Hall, certain Aldermen began the Board, and then followed Merchants of the City. In the Cloſtry, Chapel and Gallery, Knights, Eſquires, and Gentlemen were placed.

placed. In the Halls, the Crafts of LONDON. The Serjeants at Law, and their Wives, kept in their own Chambers.

It would be tedious to ſet down the Preparation of Fiſh, Fleſh, and other Victuals ſpent in this Feaſt, and ſeem almoſt incredible; and (as it ſeems) wanted little of a Feaſt at a Coronation.

There were brought to the Slaughter-Houſe, 24 great Beefs, at 26 s. 8 d. each, from the Shambles; one Carcaſs of an Ox, at 24 s. an Hundred fat Muttons, 2 s. 10 d. each; 51 great Veals, at 4 s. 8 d. each; 34 Porks, 3 s. 8 d. each; 91 Pigs, 6 d. each; Capons of Greece, of one Poulterer, (for they had three) 10 Dozen, at 20 d. each; Capons of Kent, nine Dozen and ſix, at 12 d. each; Capons coarſe, 19 Dozen, at 6 d. each; Cocks of Groſe, ſeven Dozen and nine, at 8 d. each; Cocks coarſe, 14 Dozen and eight, at 3 d. each; Pullets the beſt, 2 d. ob. other Pullets, 2 d. Pidgeons, 37 Dozen, at 10 d. the Dozen; Swans, 14 Dozen; Larks, 340 Dozen, at 5 d. the Dozen, &c. Edward Nevill was Seneſhal, or Steward; Thomas Ratcliffe, Comptroller, and Thomas Wildon, Clerk of the Kitchen.

To this Ely-Place, in Queen Elizabeth's Time, belonged Grounds, conſiſting of an Orchard and a Paſture, all incloſed within a Wall. Cox, Biſhop of Ely, upon the Queen's Sollicitation, granted Mr. Chriſtopher Hatton (who was Vice-Chamberlain of the Houſhold, Knighted, and laſtly, Lord High Chancellor) a Part of this Houſe for 21 Years, upon which he laid out much Coſt; and upon that Pretence, afterward, he moved the Queen to require the ſaid Biſhop to alienate it to him, with the Garden; which to do, he made an humble Denial to the Queen, ſignifying to her, by a well penned Letter in Latin, not only the Inconveniency that would hereby come to him and his Succeſſors, viz. "That they ſhould want an Orchard and "Ground, and that they ſhould be too much "ſtreightened; but that in his Conſcience he "could not do it, being a Piece of Sacrilege. "That when he became Biſhop of Ely, he had "received certain Farms, Houſes, and other "Things, which former pious Princes had "judged neceſſary for that Place and Calling. "Theſe he received, by the Queen's Favour, "from his Predeceſſors; and that of theſe he "was to be a Steward, not a Scatterer. That "he could not bring his Mind to be ſo ill a "Truſtee for his Succeſſors, nor to violate the "pious Wills of Kings and Princes, and in "effect, reſcind their laſt Teſtaments. He put "the Queen in Mind of that Rule of Na-"ture, and of God, not to do that to ano-"ther, which one would not have done to one's "ſelf; and that the Profit of one, is not to be "increaſed by the Damage of another. Nay, "he told her, that he could ſcarcely juſtify "thoſe Princes which transferred Things ap-"pointed for pious Uſes, into Uſes leſs pious". But however, Hatton failed of obtaining his Deſire at preſent. After this good Biſhop's Death, the Temporalities coming into the Queen's Hands, theſe Lands were made over to him, and now go under the Name of Hatton-garden. Of which, by Buildings, vaſt Improvements have been made.

This Ely-houſe, with the Bounds of it, claimed a Privilege of expreſs Exemption from the Lord Mayor's Juriſdiction. About this was a Conteſt, Anno 1567, Sir Roger Martin being Lord Mayor, came with his Company into the Parts about Ely-houſe, called Ely-rents, and attempted to weigh Bread, and do his Office among the Biſhop's Tenants there. Which they refuſed to ſuffer him to do, as being exempt from the Rights and Franchiſes, and Liberties of the Mayor; and that they belonged to the Juriſdiction of the Church and Biſhoprick of Ely. This cauſed a great Diſpute, and at length the Biſhop and the Mayor choſe certain honourable Arbitrators to determine this Buſineſs, ſubmitting themſelves to the Order and Direction of the Right Honourable Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper, Robert Earl of Leiceſter, Sir Rob. Catlyne, Kt. Lord Chief Juſtice of England, Sir Walter Mildmay, Kt. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir James Dyer, Kt. Lord Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas. And both the ſaid Parties appeared at divers and ſundry Times, with their Learned Counſel, before the ſaid Lords and Arbitrators, and ſhewed divers and ſundry Writings and Records, for the Maintenance of their ſeveral Titles and Claims. And alſo, ſeverally, produced ſeveral Witneſſes, which had been examined in the Court of Chancery, and their Examinations publiſhed. And alſo produced ſeveral Witneſſes Viva Voce before the ſaid Arbitrators, for Proof of their ſeveral Allegations.

The Conſideration of all which Matters, after divers and ſundry Debates, was agreed, ſhould be referred to the two Chief Juſtices; and that they ſhould make their Report, and give their Opinions touching the ſaid Matter, and in whom the Right reſted.

And the Chief Juſtices having adviſedly weighed and conſidered the ſeveral Proofs, and afterwards being preſent in the Star-Chamber, together with the ſaid Sir Nicholas Bacon, and Sir Walter Mildmay, the 9th of June, in the 12th of Queen Elizabeth, Anno 1570, did make Report and Declaration of their Opinion, touching the ſaid Controverſy, viz.

That the Right of the Law, as far as they could yet diſcern, ſtood for the ſaid Mayor and Commonalty: And that the ſaid Tenements, called Ely-rents in Holbourn, were and be within the Liberties, Franchiſes, and Juriſdiction of the ſaid City, for and concerning the Matter in Controverſy.

It was therefore by the Arbitrators (except the ſaid Earl, who was then abſent, and the ſaid Biſhop and his Counſel being likewiſe abſent) order'd and decreed, the ſaid 9th of June, That the ſaid Mayor and Commonalty of the City of LONDON, and their Succeſſors, ſhould from thenceforth peaceably and quietly have, uſe, enjoy, and exerciſe, within the ſaid Tenements, all and every ſuch Liberties, Cuſtoms and Juriſdictions, as they may uſe within any other Place, within the Liberty and Freedom of LONDON, without any Trouble to their Servants, Tenants, and Officers, until ſuch Time as the ſaid Biſhop, or his Succeſſors, ſhew forth better Matter for their Parts and Defence in the Premiſſes.

Next beyond this Manor of Ely-houſe, is Lither-lane. Then is Furnival's Inn, now an Inn of Chancery, but ſome Time belonging to Sir William Furnival, Kt. and Thomaſin his Wife, who had in Oldbourn two Meſſuages, and thirteen Shops, as appears by Record of Richard II, in the 6th of his Reign.

Then was the Earl of Bath's Inn, afterwards called Bath Place, of late (for the moſt Part) new built, and ſo to the Bars.

Now again from Newgate, on the Left Hand, or South Side, lies the Old Bailey, which ran down by the Wall, upon the Ditch of the City, called Houndſditch, to Ludgate. It is uncertain how this Street took that Name; but it is like to have riſen of ſome Court of old Time there kept. In the Year 1356, the 34th of Edward III, the Tenement and Ground upon Houndſditch, between Ludgate on the South, and Newgate on the

the North, was appointed to John Cambridge, Fiſhmonger, Chamberlain of LONDON. Whereby it ſeems, that the Chamberlains of LONDON have there kept their Courts, as now they do in the Guild-Hall. And to this Day, the Mayor and Juſtices of this City keep their Seſſions in a Part thereof, now called the Seſſions Hall, both for the City of LONDON, and Shire of Middleſex. Over-againſt which Houſe, on the Right Hand, turns down St. George's-lane, toward Fleet-lane.

IN this St. George's-lane, on the North Side thereof, remains yet an old Wall of Stone, incloſing a Piece of Ground up Seacoal-lane, wherein, by Report, ſome Time ſtood an Inn of Chancery. Which Houſe being greatly decayed, and remote from other Houſes of that Profeſſion, the Company removed to a common Hoſtery, called of the Sign, Our Lady Inn, not far from Clement's Inn; which they procured from Sir John Fineox, Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench; and ſince have held it of the Owners, by the Name of the New Inn, paying therefore ſix Pounds Rent by the Year, as Tenants at their own Will.

BENEATH this St. George's-lane, the Lane called Fleet-lane, winds South by the Priſon of the Fleet, into Fleet-ſtreet, by Fleet-bridge.

LOWER down into the Old Bailey, was, in Stow's Time, a Standard of Timber, with a Cock, or Cocks, delivering fair Spring Water to the Inhabitants, and was the Waſte of the Water ſerving the Priſoners in Ludgate.

NEXT, out of the High Street, turns down a Lane, called the Little Bailey, which runs down to the Eaſt End of St. George's-lane.

THE next is Seacoal-lane, once called Limeburners-lane, of burning Lime there with Seacoal: For there is mention'd in Record ſuch a Lane to have been in the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre, and there yet remains in this Lane an Alley, called Limeburners-alley.

NEAR unto this Seacoal-lane, in the Turning towards Holbourn Conduit, is Turnagain-lane, or rather, as in a Record of the 5th of Edward III, Windagain-lane, for that it goes down Weſt to Fleet-ditch.

THEN the High Street turns down Snow-hill, to Holbourn Conduit, and from thence to Holbourn-bridge. Beyond which Bridge, on the Left Hand, is Shoe-lane, by which Men paſs from Holbourn to Fleet-ſtreet.

IN this Shoe-lane, on the Left Hand, was one old Houſe, called Oldbourn-hall; it was afterwards let out into divers Tenements.

IN this Shoe-lane was a Meſſuage called Bangor-houſe, ſituate in St. Andrew's Holbourn Pariſh, belonging formerly, it ſeems, to the Biſhops of that See, with a conſiderable Quantity of waſte Ground about it. Which Meſſuage, after a Term of Years then unexpired, Sir John Barkſted, Kt. did in the Year 1647, purchaſe of the Truſtees for Sale of Biſhops Lands, with the ſaid waſte Ground thereunto belonging, containing in Length 168 Feet of Aſſize, and in Breadth from Eaſt to Weſt, 164 of Aſſize, more or leſs, with a Purpoſe to build thereupon, at the Expiration of the Leaſe; the Building there being the chief Advantage he expected to make by the ſaid Purchaſe, as appeared in an Act of Parliament made Anno 1656, againſt new Buildings in and about the Suburbs. Wherein a Proviſo was made for him, in Reſpect of his Purchaſe, having given more than otherwiſe he would have done, but upon his Purpoſe of erecting Meſſuages and Tenements thereupon: And in Conſideration that the ſaid Place being at that preſent both dangerous and noiſome to the Paſſengers, and Inhabitants near adjoining.

The PARISH of St. ANDREW HOLBOURN.

ON the other Side ſtands the Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew Holbourn. The Apoſtle St. Andrew, to whom this Church and three more within the City are dedicated, was the Son of Jonas, or John, and Brother to Simon Peter the Apoſtle. He was born in Bethſaida, a City of Galilee, on the Lake of Geneſareth, by Profeſſion a Fiſherman, was one of the Diſciples of John Baptiſt, by whom being ſent to CHRIST, he follow'd our Saviour, taking along with him his Brother Simon, John i. 35, &c.

FROM his Fiſhing he was called by CHRIST, with his Brother Simon, who at firſt Call, caſting away their Nets, followed him, who told them, That he would make them Fiſhers of Men, Matth. iv. 19, &c.

AFTER our Lord's Aſcenſion, and the Deſcent of the Holy Ghoſt, it is generally affirmed by the Antients, that the Apoſtles agreed amongſt themſelves (by Lot, ſome ſay) what Parts of the World they ſhould ſeverally take to preach the Goſpel. In this Diviſion, St. Andrew had Scythia, and the neighbouring Countries primarily allotted him for his Province. He firſt travelled through Cappadocia, Galatia, and Bythynia, and inſtructed them in the Faith of CHRIST, paſſing all along the Euxine Sea. And after having preached the Goſpel at ſeveral Places, and wrought Miracles with good Succeſs, tho' not without meeting with great Difficulties and Diſencouragements, and barbarous Uſage, he purpoſed at laſt to return to Jeruſalem, whence, after ſome Time, he betook himſelf to his former Province, preaching ſucceſsfully at Sebaſtopolis, ſituate upon the Eaſtern Shore of the Euxine, and after that at Cherſoneſus, a great and populous City, within the Boſphorus; thence ſailing croſs to Sinope, to encourage and confirm the Churches which he had lately planted in thoſe Parts; he there ordained Philologus, formerly one of St. Paul's Diſciples, Biſhop of that Place.

HENCE he came to Byzantium, (ſince called Conſtantinople) where he inſtructed them in the Knowledge of the Chriſtian Religion, founded a Church for Divine Worſhip, and ordained Stachys, (whom St. Paul calls, his beloved Stachys, though Baronius aſcribes this Honour to St. Peter) firſt Biſhop of that Place: But being baniſhed out of that City, he fled to Argyropolis, where he preached the Goſpel for two Years together with good Succeſs. After this he travelled over Thrace, Macedonia, Theſſaly, &c. in all which Places, for many Years, he preached and propagated Chriſtianity, and confirm'd the Doctrine that he taught with great Signs and Miracles. At laſt he came to Patras, a City of Achaia; where by Ægeas the Proconſul, for refuſing to ſacrifice to the Gods, he was firſt committed to Priſon, then ſcourged by ſeven Lictors ſucceſſively on his naked Body, and laſt of all crucified; but, by the Proconſuls command, not faſtened to the Croſs (which was made of two Pieces of Timber croſſing each other in the Middle, in the Form of the Letter X, hence uſually known by the Name of St. Andrew's Croſs) with Nails, but Cords; whereon he hung two Days teaching and inſtructing the People all the Time: And when great Importunities in the mean Time were uſed to the Proconſul to ſpare his Life, he earneſtly begged of our LORD, that he might at that Time depart, and ſeal the Truth Truth of Religion with his Blood. God heard his Prayer, and he immediately expired on the laſt Day of November, tho' in what Year no certain Account can be recovered, but Moreri ſays, it was Anno 69.

His Body, taken down and embalmed, was decently and honourably interred by Maximilla, the Proconſul's Wife (whom, as alſo his Brother Straclocles, he had both cured and converted.) It was afterwards, by Conſtantine the Great, ſolemnly removed to Conſtantinople, and buried in the great Church, which he had built to the Honour of the Apoſtle, which being taken down ſome hundred Years after by Juſtinian the Emperor, in order to its Reparation, the Body was found in a wooden Coffin, and again repoſed in its proper Place. You may read more at large of this Apoſtle in the Learned Dr. Cave's Antiquitates Apoſtolicæ, Page 132, &c. Some write, that his Head was brought to Rome, and placed there in St. Peter's Church.

His Feſtival is celebrated yearly on the laſt Day of November.

He was reckoned a Titular Saint of Scotland, upon Occaſion of a great Victory obtained by Hungus, King of Picts, at Hadington, in 790, over Athelſtan, King of England; St. Andrew appearing to Hungus the Night before the Battle, in a Viſion, and promiſing him Victory, and his Croſs, in Form of an X, appearing the next Day in the Air, at the Beginning of the Battle; and the Scots having ſucceeded the Picts in thoſe Countries, thought they had alſo a Right to St. Andrew's Tutelage. Achaius, King of Scotland, inſtituted an Order of Knighthood in Honour of St. Andrew; and, after a long Diſuſe, it was again revived by King James VII. of Scotland, and II. of England.

In this Church, about 300 Years ago, were divers Altars, beſides the High Altar, as, the Altar of St. Mary, the Altar of St. John Baptiſt, St. Nicholas's Altar. There were alſo belonging to it divers Chaplains and Clerks, to ſing Maſſes, and pray for the Souls of the Departed, and ſuch as had Chantries, or were interred there, as appears by a Will of Gilbert Worthington, Rector of this Pariſh 280 Years ago, buried at the Door of the Chancel. Whoſe ſuperſtitious Gifts and Legacies, according to the Devotion of that Age, mentioned in his Will, on that Occaſion, we will record, being communicated to Strype by a curious Man, and his worthy Friend, of the ſame Name; who took it from the Office of Wills, in the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſtry.

George Worthington, Clerk, Rector of St. Andrew's Holbourn, LONDON, condidit Teſtamentum Jul. 28, 1447. Probatum Aug. 12. eodem Anno. He gives his Soul Omnipotenti Deo and B. Mar. St. Andr. and the reſt of the Saints; and his Body to be buried in Hoſtio Cancelli of the ſaid Church, if he died within 10 Miles of the City, or where elſe it ſhould happen God ſhould take his Soul out of his Body. He willed, that there ſhould be no very coſtly Candelabra circa feretrum, but only Candelabra lacun' Eccleſiæ. And that his Feretrum, [i. e. Biere] ſhould have four Cerei, [i. e. Wax Candles] not exceeding one Pound each. That after his Funeral, one Wax Candle be placed on the High Altar, another on the Altar of the Bleſſed Mary, another on the Altar of St. John Baptiſt, the fourth on the Altar of St. Nicholas, ſo long as they ſhould laſt. Willing his Debts ſhould be firſt paid, he bequeathed as follows:

John de Ipre, by his laſt Will willed, that the Rector of the Church of St. Andrew Holbourn, ſhould have his Bay Horſe, called Principal, ad orandum pro anima ſua.

Will. Hoſcroft, gave by his Will (dated about the Year 1390 odd) to the Rector and his Succeſſors, and to the Church-Wardens of St. Andrew Holbourn, for ever, a Rent of 13 s. 4 d. yearly, out of his Lands and Tenements in the ſaid Pariſh; pro miſſa celebrand, &c. Solvend. Presbyt. 6 s. 4 d. and 3 s. 4 d. annuatim inter infirmos & pauperes in lectis jacent. in dict. Parochia.

In this Church was a Guild, or Fraternity, of St. Sith's. To the maintaining of which, before the Diſſolutions of Chantries, belonged a Meſſuage and Tenement in Fetter-lane, in the ſame Pariſh, called the Plough; and one Garden, and one Barn. To which belonged divers Houſes, Edifices, Stables, Curtilages, Profits, Commodities, &c. Which coming to King Edward VI. by Virtue of the Act for Chantries, in his ſecond Year, he granted them to Thomas Bartlet, (the ſame who was the King's Printer) and to Richard Mody.

This Church, about the Year 1632, was in a very decayed Condition, and had ſo been for many Years, in many Parts of it: Inſomuch, that it then called rather for a Rebuilding than a Reparation. Which the Pariſhioners were then providing for, purpoſing very ſhortly to pull it all down, and rebuild, inlarge, and inrich it, with that Beauty that became ſo pious a Work.

This Church was at laſt rebuilt in the Year of Chriſt 1687, being then finiſhed.

It is a very pleaſant Church and ſpacious; the Columns that ſupport the Roof, are of the Corinthian Order, Walls of Stone, and Roof covered with Lead.

As

As to the Ornament, the Roof, and between the Arches, and particularly over the Altar-Piece, are adorned with curious Fret-Work.

THE Wainſcot is good, and here is a great deal of it, the Walls being lined round the Church 12 Feet high, and eight Feet above the Galleries, which extend on all Sides of the Church, except the Eaſt, all Boleſtion, ſwelling with raiſed Pannels; and the Organ-Gallery is ſupported with two large fluted Wainſcot Columns of the Tuſcan Order.

The Altar-Piece is very ſpacious, at leaſt 15 Feet high of Wainſcot, having two Columns and two Pilaſters fluted Eaſtward; alſo two Pilaſters on the South, and two on the North Sides, of the Tuſcan Order, with their Friſe, Cornice and Pediment carved, and four Lamps with their Tapers over the four Middle Columns and Pilaſters, two at each End of the Pediment, placed on Acroters; and under are the Commandments well done in Black, on Gold, as the Lord's Prayer and Creed are, within large Frames carved, and gilt with Gold. Over the Decalogue, and under the Pediment, is a Space about two Feet ſquare, within which are theſe Words in large Characters:

Do this in Remembrance of me, done in black Letters upon Gold, enriched round with Fruit, Leaves, &c. finely carved, as are the Surbace and four Pannels, two at the North, and two at the South Sides of this Altar-Piece.

HERE are four large Inner Door-Gates, two Northward, and two Southward, of fine Wainſcot.

THE Church is very well and regularly pewed uniform.

THE Pulpit is alſo a curious Piece of Wainſcot Carving, finniered, and there are two handſome Branches.

THERE is alſo a fine Marble Font, adorned with Cherubims, and a carved Wainſcot Type, or Cover, at the Top whereof is a gilded Dove, which ſtands directly Weſt from the Altar-Piece.

THE Length of the Church is 105 Feet, Breadth 63, and Height about 43.

NUMBER of Houſes about 3600.

THERE is a School adjoining to the Church of St. Andrew, which was one of thoſe that King Henry VI. in the 24th and 25th of his Reign, erected by Act of Parliament.

THERE is, in Hatten-garden, a Charity-School for 80 Boys and 80 Girls, maintained by Subſcription; the Boys are taught to Read, Write, and caſt Accompts, and 5 l. given with each of them when put to Trades. The Girls are taught to Read, Work, Sew, &c. and 5 l. given alſo with each of them when put out.

IN this Pariſh are two Workhouſes for the Poor; one in Shoe-lane, the other in Bell-alley, on Saffron-hill.

FROM this Church of St. Andrew up Holbourn-hill, are divers good Houſes, among which, on the Left Hand, ſtand three Inns of Chancery, whereof the firſt is called Thavie's-Inn, and is oppoſite to Ely-houſe.

BEYOND Fewters, or Fetter-lane, is Barnard's-Inn, antiently called Mackworth's-Inn, which is the ſecond Inn of Chancery, belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, as ſays the Record of Henry VI. the 23d of his Reign; and was founded by Inquiſition in the Guildhall of LONDON, before J. Norman, Mayor, the King's Eſcheater. The Jury ſaid, that it was not hurtful for the King to licence Thomas Atkins, Citizen of LONDON, and one of the Executors of John Mackworth, Dean of Lincoln, to give one Meſſuage in Holbourn, in LONDON, with the Appurtenances, called Mackworth's-Inn, but was commonly known by the Name of Barnard's-Inn, to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, to find one ſufficient Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Service in the Chapel of St. George, in the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, where the Body of the ſaid John is buried; to have and to hold the ſaid Meſſuage to the ſaid Dean and Chapter, and to their Succeſſors for ever, in Part of Satisfaction of 20 l. Lands and Rents, which Edward III. licenſed the ſaid Dean and Chapter to purchaſe to their own Uſe; either of their own Fee, or Tenure, or of any other, ſo the Lands were not holden of the King in Capite.

THEN is Staple's-Inn, the third Inn of Chancery, adjoining to Holbourn-bars Within, but yet it is out of the Freedom. This is a very large and handſome Inn, with a large Court-Yard, ſurrounded with Buildings, and a handſome Garden behind it, which has a Gate into Southampton-buildings.

ON the other Side of the Way in Holbourn is Ely-houſe, already mentioned, formerly called Ely's-Inn.

THIS Houſe is, at preſent, a very old Building, and ſtands upon a large Piece of Ground; having a ſpacious Hall, a good Chapel, and ſeveral large Rooms, but old faſhioned, with a ſpacious Yard, or Court, before it, and a large Ground for Gardening behind it, which, for want of a Gardener's keeping, lay in a rude Condition; and were this Ground improved by Building, it would bring in a great Revenue to the Epiſcopal See, beſides a good Houſe for his City Abode. The preſent Poſſeſſor thereof is the Right Reverend Dr. Thomas Green, now Lord Biſhop of Ely.

ABOVE this Ely-houſe and Hatton-garden, is Furnival's-Inn, ſeated betwixt Brook-ſtreet and Leather-lane, one of the Inns of Chancery; at preſent a very handſome Building. It has a large Court before it, and a handſome Garden behind.

NEXT are Brook-buildings, raiſed out of a large Houſe and Garden belonging to the Lord Brook, and built into Streets, viz. Brook-ſtreet, Grevile-ſtreet, Beauchamp-ſtreet, and Doddington-ſtreet.

Brook-ſtreet is the beſt, being a good handſome long Street, with new built Houſes, well inhabited: It comes out of Holbourn, and runs Northwards into Doddington-ſtreet. Betwixt which and Beauchamp-ſtreet, is Brook-Market, a good, large, and convenient Place, with Shambles, a Market-Houſe, and Stalls, &c. for that Uſe; but is of ſmall Reſort, as to the Market, but the Shambles are well ſerved with Meat.

On the Weſt Side of this Street, is a Paſſage into Gray's-Inn-lane, through Fox-court; as alſo through Bell-court.

Grevile-ſtreet comes out of Brook-ſtreet, and falls into Leather-lane; the like doth Beauchamp-ſtreet, and Doddington-ſtreet. All which ſaid Streets are graced with good new Brick Buildings, well inhabited.

But now, without Ludgate, on the Right Hand, or North Side, from the ſaid Gate, lieth the Old-Bailey. Then the High-Street, called Ludgate-ſtreet, down to Fleet-lane; in which Lane ſtands the Fleet, a Priſon-Houſe, ſo called of the Fleet, or Water, running by it, and ſome Time flowing about it, but now vaulted over.

Richard I. in the firſt Year of his Reign, confirmed to Osbert (Brother to William Longſhampe, Chancellor of England, and Elect of Ely) and to his Heirs for ever, the Cuſtody of his Houſe, or Palace, at Weſtminſter, with the keeping of his Jail of the Fleet, at LONDON. Alſo King John, by his Patent, dated the 3d of his Reign, gave to S. Archdeacon of Wells, the Cuſtody of the ſaid King's Houſe at Weſtminſter, and his Jail of the Fleet, together with the Wardſhip of the Daughter and Heir of Robert Leveland, &c.

About the Year 1586, the Priſoners of the Fleet petitioned the Lords of the Council. The Warden had let and ſet to Farm, the Victualling and Lodging of all the ſaid Houſe and Priſon, to one John Harvey; and the other Profits of the ſaid Fleet he had let to one Thomas Newport, then Deputy there, under the Warden; and theſe two, being very poor Men, having neither Land, nor any Trade, to live by, nor any certain Wages of the ſaid Warden; ſo that theſe, being alſo greedy of Gain, lived by Bribing and Extortion. And they did moſt ſhamefully extort and exact from the Priſoners, and raiſed new Cuſtoms, Fines and Payments, for their own Advantage; and cruelly uſed them, ſhutting them up in cloſe Priſons, when they found Fault with their wicked Dealings, not ſuffering them to come and go within the ſaid Priſon, as they ought to do; nor permitting their Friends to come to them that ſhould travel in their Cauſes for their better Relief; which, with other their abominable Miſdemeanours, without Reformation, might be the poor Priſoners utter Undoing.

And for the doing theſe Wrongs with the greater Secrecy, they made away with a Book that was always ready to be ſhewed, containing all Orders and Conſtitutions of the ſaid Houſe; that all Men committed might ſee what they ought to have in the ſaid Priſon; and what every one ought to do, touching all Manner of Duties, Rights, Conſtitutions and Ordinances, to be obſerved and kept in the Fleet. The Cuſtoms of which Fleet were, that every Priſoner ſhould have Meat, Drink, and other Neceſſaries and Commodities, and be well and decently uſed, as was meet for every Man's Degree.

All this the Priſoners ſet forth in their Petition; and therefore prayed their Lordſhips to appoint Commiſſioners to come to the Fleet, and examine Newport and Harvey. And to ſeparate the one from the other, that they might have no Conference together. And ſo be examined ſeverally, upon Interrogatories already prepared to be miniſtred to them. And that the Priſoners might be examined touching their Doings; and to take ſuch good Order for the Redreſs thereof, as to their Lordſhips ſhould ſeem convenient.

In the ſaid Year 1586, a Commiſſion was granted for the Relief of the Fleet. And for more convenient Uſe, the Recorder Fleetwood, by Commandment of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, did abbreviate and explain it.

Further, in the Year 1593, the Priſoners of the Fleet preferred a Bill to the Parliament, touching the Orders and Reformation of the Fleet, which Joachim Newton, Deputy-Warden, did all he could to hinder. They therefore petitioned the Lord Treaſurer Burghley to forward it; and to ſhew what Reaſon they had to exhibit this Bill, they ſent a Paper of Articles, in Number 28, of the Murders and other Miſdemeanors of the ſaid Joachim.

In the Year 1729, great Complaints having been made of Abuſes committed in this and other Priſons, a Committee of the Houſe of Commons was appointed to make an Enquiry into the State of the Jails, by whom ſuch Enormities were diſcovered, that the Warden of the Fleet, John Huggins, Eſq; and his Deputy, Thomas Bambridge, were turned out of their Offices, and committed to Newgate; and the former tried for the Murder of one of his Priſoners, by locking him in a Dungeon, without any Proviſion, either of Food or Raiment, where he periſhed in a deplorable Manner; but the Jury, upon the Trial, bringing in a ſpecial Verdict, he was afterwards acquitted. However, this occaſioned an Act of Parliament for the better Regulation of Jails for the future.

Near the Gate of this Priſon ſtood a Bridge over Fleet-ditch, but is taken down, the Ditch being at this Time filling up, for the Purpoſes mentioned Book I. Chap. III.

Against the South End of Shoe-lane in antient Time ſtood a Water Conduit, whereof Will. Eaſtfield, ſome Time Mayor was Founder. For the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, being poſſeſſed of a Conduit Head, with divers Springs of Water gathered thereinto, in the Pariſh of Paddington, and the Water conveyed from thence, by Pipes of Lead, towards LONDON to Tyburn, where it had lain for the Space of ſix Years, and more. The Executors of Sir William Eaſtfield obtained Licence of the Mayor and Commonalty for them in the Year 1453, with the Goods of Sir William, to convey the ſaid Waters, firſt in Pipes of Lead, into a Pipe begun to be laid beſide the great Conduit Head at Marybone, which ſtretches from thence to a Separal, late before made againſt the Chapel of Rounſeval, by Charing-croſs, and no further: And then from thence to convey the ſaid Water into the City, and there to make Receipt or Receipts for the ſame, to the Common Weal of the Commonalty, viz. the Poor to drink, the Rich to dreſs their Meat; which Water was by them thus brought into Fleet-ſtreet, to a Standard which they had made and finiſhed, 1471, near Shoe-lane.

The Inhabitants of Fleet-ſtreet, in the Year 1478, obtained Licence of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty, to make (at their own Charges) two Ciſterns, the one to be ſet at the ſaid Standard, the other at Fleet-bridge, for the Receipt of the waſte Water. This Ciſtern at the Standard they built, and on the ſame a fair Tower of Stone, garniſhed with Images of St. Chriſtopher on the Top, and Angels round about lower down, with ſweet ſounding Bells before them; whereupon, by an Engine placed in the Tower, they, divers Hours of the Day and Night, with Hammers, chimed ſuch an Hymn as was appointed.

This Conduit, or Standard, was again new built, with a larger Ciſtern, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1582.

Robert Mauncel, by his Will, 14—— gave his Tenement, called St. Andrew's-croſs on the Hoop, with a Garden, ſituate in the Pariſh of St. Dunſtan's in Fleet-ſtreet, between the Tenement of the Prior and Convent of Royſton, called The Key on the Hoop, on the Eaſt, and the Tenement of the Carmelite Fryars on the Weſt, extending itſelf to the Church of the ſaid Carmelite Fryars to the South.

THESE Places are alſo named in the old Regiſter of Wills and Teſtaments:

St. DUNSTAN in the Weſt.

FROM where this Conduit ſtood, up to Fewter's, or Fetter-lane, and further, is the Pariſh of St. Dunſtan, called in the Weſt, for Difference from St. Dunſtan in the Eaſt, in treating of which laſt named Church, Book II. Chap. II. is an Account of the Saint to whom they are both dedicated.

THE exact Time when this Church was firſt built, is uncertain; but it muſt be leſs than 750 Years ago, becauſe St. Dunſtan has not been dead quite ſo long; but that it was built above 300 Years ago, appears from Thomas Duke's being there buried, who built St. Catharine's Chapel, Anno 1421, (as Mr. Stow has it) and Nicholas Conningſtone and John Knap founded Chantries here. It was a fair beautiful Church in 1632, though it had not been then repaired of 20 Years; and it fortunately eſcaping the Deſtruction by the calamitous Fire of 1666, (which came very near this Church on that Side Fleet-ſtreet, and ſomewhat Weſtward of it on the South Side that Street,) it was much altered for the better, beautified and repaired in the Year 1701, the old arched Roof being taken down, and a handſome ſquare one, more lofty built, in lieu thereof; and the Windows, &c. added, rendering the Church more pleaſant and ornamental. All which was done by an Aſſeſſment on the Pariſh, according to the Poor's Rate, and amounted to about the Sum of 1500 l.

THIS Church is built of Brick and Stone, covered with a handſome Finiſhing on the Outſide the Walls; and it is moſtly now of the Tuſcan Order of Building, though ſome Part is of the modern Gothick.

THE Ornament of this Church conſiſts (on the Out-ſide) of a Nich and Pediment at the Eaſt End, and of a Clock on the South Side, near the Weſt End; here being two Figures of Savages, or Wild Men, well carved in Wood, and painted natural Colour, appearing as big as the Life, ſtanding erect, with each a knotty Club in his Hand, wherewith they alternately ſtrike the Quarrers, not only their Arms, but even their Heads moving at every Blow: They are placed ſo under an Arch of the Clockhouſe, which is of the Ionick Order, as to be viſible to ſuch as paſs on the South Side of the Street, whence they are more admired by many of the Populace on Sundays, than the moſt elegant Preacher from the Pulpit within. Theſe Figures were ſet up in the Year 1671.

THE Roof, or Ceiling of this Church is now ſquare, adorned with a ſpacious Quadrangle of deep Mouldings, Crocket-Work, an Elipſis, Roſes, &c. of Fret-Work; and above the Pillars, which ſupport the Roof, there is an Entablament of Painted Wainſcot extending round the Church; on the North-Weſt and South Sides whereof, there are Galleries of the like Wainſcot, and the Fronts are Bolection-Work, with an Architrave, Friſe and Cornice, and the Pulpit is of the ſame Kind of Work, and the Church is well pewed with Oak.

THE Altar-Piece conſiſts of two Columns of the Ionick Order, between which are the Commandments, and theſe placed between the Lord's Prayer and Creed, all done in Gold Letters on Black, adorned with painted Cherubims; over which is a Cornice, and in the Middle of that is a Globe between two Bibles, erected and gilt with Gold, denoting the wonderful ſpreading of the pure Goſpel over the World, all which Altar-Piece is fenced in with Rail and Balliſter, and the Space incloſed is paved with Marble.

THE Dimenſions of the Church are as follows; Length 90 Feet, Breadth (at the Weſt End) 60, Height 36, and the Altitude of the Tower and Turret about 100 Feet.

ON a ſmall Table-Monument on a Pillar in the North Iſle of the Choir:

The Memoriall of William Crowche, Citizen and Mercer of LONDON, and one of the Common-Councell of this City. Who gave by his Will Ten Shillings a Yeere for a Sermon on his Funerall Day; and Forty Shillings yeerly, for a Dinner to be made on that Day, for the Common-Councell, the Church-wardens, and twelve Freemen of this Pariſh, at the Election of his Executors. And he alſo gave Ten Pounds a Yeere for ever, to be diſtributed yeerley, among ſix and thirty poor people, of honeſt Life, dwelling in this Pariſh. Hee was buried neere to this Place, the Sixteenth Day of April, Anno Domini 1606.

Loe, thus he dyed, for vaine and fraile in Fleſh;

Yet

Yet lives his Soule (by Faith)
in endleſſe Bliſſe;
By Faith in Chriſt, whoſe
Grace was ſo inlarged,
That by his Bloud, Man's Sinne he hath diſcharged.

ON the ſame Pillar:

Here lieth George Harington, of Salby, Eſq; who dyed the ninth Day of October, 1556.

ON the ſame Pillar:

Here lieth Laurence Dalton, Eſq; late Norroy, King at Arms, who deceaſed on Saturday the Thirteenth of December, 1561, and Dorothy his Wife, Daughter to Richard Breame, late of LONDON, Eſquire.

ON the ſame Pillar:

Henry Leigh, ſome Time Citizen and Draper of LONDON; a Man borne of a good Family, whoſe Life and Converſation was pleaſing to God and Man. Departed out of this Life the ninth Day of April, Anno Dom. 1568. And lieth buried in the Church-yard by his two Wives, Iſabel and Elizabeth, both very vertuous; good to their Neighbours, and therefore right heartily beloved.

ON the ſame Pillar:

Here lieth buried Colborne, Eſquire, late Yorke Herald of Armes. Who deceaſed on Saturday, the thirteenth of September, 1567, and was buried on Munday, the 15th of the ſame Moneth.

A fair Table in a Glaſs, upon a Pillar in the Middle Iſle, thus written on:

The comfortable Farewell of a young Infant, ſighed out in his dying Sickneſs, to his mournfull Parents.

Let not my Father grieve, or Mother moane
That I this wretched World have ſoone forgone:
Better I dye
before I doe amiſſe, Than live to ſinne,
and be bereft of Bliſſe.
All that I can be charged with at the Tribunal Throne, Is Sinne originall, for actual I have none.
And that I know my Saviour with his Blood Hath waſht away, and made my Badneſs good And 'cauſe I know (though Knowledge I have ſmall)
That Jeſus Chriſt did dye to ſave us all;
I paſſe with Joy, in Heaven
to meet my King,
With Angels and Archangels
there to ſing.
Then Father mourne, and Mother weep no more,
I now dye rich, that might have liv'd but poore;
For had I progreſt unto Man's Eſtate,
It is not certaine
what would be my Fate:
Whether a Croſſe or Bleſſing I ſhould prove,
Or merit Parents
direful Hate, or Love.
For oft you ſee, how Youths rebellious Prankes, Make Sonnes ingrate, to thoſe they owe moſt Thankes.
And might not I have beene among the Number
Of thoſe that doe their Parents States incumber?
Yes, yes, I might, perhaps,
have been a Slave,
And kill'd your Hearts with Care, and digg'd your Grave.
But now my ſilly Dove-like Soule doth part In Peace of God and Love of Parents Heart.
Sweet Innocence, my Shield,
I bear in Hand,
To guard me towards that moſt Holy Land.
Where Parents both,
and Siſter I ſhall ſee,
In God's appointed Time triumphantly.
Till when,
Adieu, ſweet Parents,
Jehovah calls away,
My Name is * Simon
and I muſt obey.

* Simon ſignifies Obedience.

Before this Pew Doore, next to the Body of the above-named Cuthbert Fetherſtone, lyeth his beloved his Wife, Katharine Fetherſtone. Who as they piouſly lived in Wedlocke Forty odde Yeeres together, ſo at their Deaths they deſired to be interred together; not doubting, at the general Reſurrection, through Chriſt's Merits, to riſe together, and for ever in Heaven to live together.

A Table with a fair Coat of Arms, encompaſſed with a Wreath of Laurel, upon a Pillar in the Chancel, over-againſt the Veſtry, thus inſcribed:

In this faire fragrant Maiden Moneth of May,
When Earth her Flowre
Embroydery doth diſplay,
Jane Watſon, one of Vertues Flowers moſt faire,
For Beauty, Wit, and Worth, a Primroſe rare,
Adorn'd this Earth, changing
Earth's Marriage Bed,
To joyne her Virgin Soule to Chriſt, her Head.

A fair Monument over the Veſtry-Door, in the Chancel, with this Inſcription:

In Memory of the Honourable and Vertuous Margaret Talbot, Widow; who deceaſed the 31ſt of March, 1620.

By this ſmall Statue (Reader) is but ſhowne,
That ſhe was buried here;
but hadſt thou knowne
The Piety, and Vertues of her Minde,
Thou would'ſt have ſaid,
Why was not ſhe enſhrin'd?
Both Vere's and Windſor's beſt Blood fill'd the Veines, She matcht with Talbot, yet their noble Straines
Were farre below her Vertue, in whoſe Breaſt,
God had infus'd his Graces
'bove the reſt
Of all her Sex; whoſe ſacred
Courſe of Life,
Both in the State of Widow,
Maid, and Wife,
For each ſhe had beene, though her latter Dayes Chaſte Widowhood crown'd,
to her immortall Praiſe,
Was ſo immaculate,
ſhe deſerves to be
The Cryſtal Mirrour to Poſterity.
More Honour haſt thou
by her Burial here, Dunſtan, than to thee
chanc'd this many a Yeere.
Earth from her Coffin
heave thy ponderous Stones,
And for thy ſacredſt Relique keep her Bones.
Since, ſpite of Envy,
it cannot be deny'd,
Saint-like ſhe lived,
and like a Saint ſhe dy'd.

A Table hanging upon a Pillar, in the Middle Row of Pews, with this Inſcription:

On the Death of the Diſcreet and Virtuous Miſtriſſe Mary Davies, Daughter of Thomas Croft, of Okley Parke, in the County of Salop, Eſquire, and Wife of John Davies, of Hereford. She died on New-yeere's-day, 1612, Here lies her Duſt,

who in a Span of Life, Compaſt the Vertue
of the worthieſt Wife:
If oddes there be (well meaſured) 'twill be found,
She more acquir'd;
ſo her bright Stocke renown'd,
And to thoſe Wives that Glory moſt doe gaine
She was a Mirrour that no Breath could ſtaine;
Though ſhe a Female were,
her Judgment was,
To trueſt Maſculines, a truer Glaſſe:
For ſhe by Nature, Grace, and Wiſdome too,
Shew'd by a Woman,
what beſt Men ſhould doe
In their beſt Actions:
For ſhe acted nought
That came not from a grave and gracious Thought.
But Nature (though familiar,
yet moſt ſtrange,
Shewing how much
She doth delight in Change,
In thouſand Faſhions doth herſelf array) Permits nought heere to ſtand at conſtant Stay.
And Time and Death
with her therein conſpire, Elſe had theſe Aſhes ſtill held vitall Fire.
But theſe juſt Lines,
in Time and Death's Deſpight, Shall leade all Times
To do her Vertue Right.

A good Name is better than a good Ointment, and the Day of Death, than the Day that one is born, Eccleſ. vii. 3.

Here lies her Type, who was of late
The Prop of Belgia, Stay of France, Spaine's Foile, Faith's Shield, and Queen of State, of Armes, of Learning, Fate, and Chance:
In briefe, of Women ne're was ſeene, ſo good a Prince, ſo good a Queene.

Sith Vertue Her immortal made,
Death (envying all that cannot dye)
Her Earthly Parts did ſo invade,
As in it wrackt Self-Majeſty.
But ſo her Spirit inſpired her Parts,
That ſhe ſtill lives in Loyal Hearts.

Many Daughters have done well, but thou excelleſt them all.

I have fought a good Fight, I have finiſhed my Courſe, I have kept the Faith.

From henceforth is laid up for me a Crown of Righteouſneſs, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, ſhall give me at that Day; and not me only, but to them alſo that love his appearing, 2 Tim. iv. 7, 8.

NUMBER of Houſes 853.

IN this Pariſh are two Charity-Schools, one for 50 Boys, who are educated in the Principles of the Chriſtian Religion, and in Reading, Writing, and Arithmetick and Pſalmody, four of whom are taught Navigation. The other is for 40 Girls, who are farther taught to Work, get up Linnen, and what elſe is neceſſary to fit them for Services; and they make all the Linnen, and knit the Gloves and Stockings for both Schools. The Boys and Girls are compleatly cloathed at Eaſter; beſides which, in the Month of October, each Boy has a Pair of Shoes and Stockings; and the Girls Shoes, Stockings, and Pattens. They are publickly examined in the Queſt-Room four times every Year before the Subſcribers, and every Sunday Evening before their Parents and Friends, except when they attend the Evening Lecture. In this Pariſh is a Work-houſe for the Poor.

NEXT to St. Dunſtan's Church is Clifford's-Inn, ſome Time belonging to Robert Clifford, by Gift of Edward II. in theſe Words.

"The King granteth to Robert Clifford, that "Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, next the "Church of St. Dunſtane in the Weſt, in the "Suburbs of LONDON. Which Meſſuage "was ſome Time Malculine's de Herley; and "came to the Hands of Edward I. by Reaſon "of certain Debts, which the ſaid Malculine "was bound at the Time of his Death to our "ſaid Father, from the Time that he was "Eſcheator on this Side Trent. Which Houſe "John Earl of Richmond did hold at our Pleaſure, and is now in our Poſſeſſion.

Patent the 3d of Edward II.

AFTER the Death of this Robert Clifford, Iſabel his Wife let the ſame Meſſuage to Students of the Law, as by the Record following may appear:

Iſabel, quæ fuit uxor Roberti Clifford, Meſſuagium unipartitum, quod Robertus Clifford habuit in Parochia S. Dunſtani, Weſt. in Suburbio Londini, &c. tenuit, & illud dimiſit poſt mortem dict. Roberti Apprenticiis de Banco, pro 10 l. Annuatim, &c. Anno 18 Edvardi tertii, inquiſitis poſt mortem Roberti Clifford.

THIS Houſe fell afterwards into the King's Hands, but returned again to the Cliffords; and, in Stow's Time, was let to the ſaid Students for 4 l. a Year.

SOMEWHAT beyond this Clifford's-Inn is the South End of Chancery-lane, formerly called New-ſtreet, on the Right Hand of which is Serjeants-Inn, called Serjeants-Inn in Chancery-lane.

AND

And then next was ſome Time the Houſe of the converted Jews, founded by King Hen. III. in Place of a Jew's Houſe to him forfeited, in the Year 1233, and the 17th of his Reign; who built there for them a fair Church, now uſed, and called The Chapel for the Cuſtody of Rolls and Records of Chancery. It ſtood not far from the Old-Temple, but in the Mid-way between the Old-Temple and the New. In which Houſe all ſuch Jews and Infidels as were converted to the Chriſtian Faith, were ordained and appointed (under an honeſt Rule of Life) ſufficient Maintenance. Whereby it came to paſs, that in ſhort Time there were gathered a great Number of Converts which were baptized, inſtructed in the Doctrine of Chriſt, and there lived under a learned Chriſtian appointed to govern them.

If the Letter following to King Edward was ſent from this Houſe, as it ſeems to be, it appears from thence that they were of the Carthuſian Profeſſion, and that they received yearly Allowance from the Crown. And that this King, as this Houſe was founded by his Father, continued his Favour to it. In the 6th of his Reign, viz. Anno 1278, they ſent one with their Letter, named Fryar John the Convert, to bring the King's Charity. Which Letter was penned after this ſubmiſſive Manner by them, ſtiling themſelves Cælicolæ Chriſti, i. e. Chriſt's heavenly Inhabitants, but very poor.

Illuſtriſſimo & Magnifico Dno. Regi Angliæ, &c. Pauperes Cælicolæ Chriſti, & Conventus Dom. Dat. An. Dom.

M°. cc°. Lxx. viii. In craſtino be Lucie.

Since which Time, viz. in the Year 1290, all the Jews in England were baniſhed out of the Realm, whereby the Number of Converts in this Place was almoſt decayed; and therefore in the Year 1377, this Houſe was annexed by Patent to William Bruſtall, Clerk, Cuſtos Rotulorum, or Keeper of the Rolls of the Chancery, by Edward III. in the 51ſt Year of his Reign, (or rather the 50th, which was the laſt Year of his Reign;) and this firſt Maſter of the Rolls was ſworn in Weſtminſter-hall, at the Table of Marble Stone; ſince which Time that Houſe has been commonly called the Rolls in Chancery-lane.

In the 15th of the ſaid King Edward III. his Reign, that King annexed by Letters Patents this Houſe to the Office of Cuſtos Rotulorum; and there was an Act, wherein it was ſaid, "That "the Chancellor, or Keeper of the Great Seal, "after the Voidance of the ſaid Office of keeping the Rolls, ſhould inſtitute, ſucceſſively, "the Keeper of the Rolls in the ſaid Houſe of "the Convents." After which Act of Parliament John de Waltham, Guardian, or Keeper of the Rolls, obtained of Rich. II. in the 6th of his Reign, Letters, Patents, whereby the King granted to him and his Succeſſors, Keepers of the Rolls, the Houſe of Converts. This John of Waltham was after Biſhop of Salisbury, and after Treaſurer of England.

Notwithstanding, ſuch of the Jews, or other Infidels, as have in this Realm been converted to Chriſtianity, and baptized, have been relieved there; for it is in Record, that one William Piers, a Jew, that became a Chriſtian, was baptized in the 5th of Richard II. and had 2 d. a Day allowed him during his Life, by the ſaid King.

In the Reign of Henry IV, there was one Elizabeth, Daughter of a Rabbi (who was intitled The Biſhop of the Jews) that was a Convert; to whom, beſides a Penny a Day paid her by the Keeper of this Houſe of Converts, out of a Branch of the Exchequer, appointed for that Purpoſe, the King of his Grace granted another Penny a Day for her Life, according to a Patent to this Tenour, Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. Salutem Sciatis quod de gra' noſtra ſpeciali, Conceſſimus Elizabethæ Filiæ Rabi Moyſes, Epiſcopi Judæorum, unum denarium per diem, ultra unum denarium, quem ead. Elizabetha, ut una Judæorum ad fidem Chriſtianorum converſa, per manus Cuſtodis Domus Converſorum LONDON. de ſumma pro hujuſmodi Converſis, ad Scaccarium precipienda, aſſignata, ſingulis diebus percipit. Habendum & percipiendum dictum Denarium diurnum per nos eid. Elizab. tenore præſentium conceſſum, una cum dicto altero Denario, &c.

The Building is of Brick, Boulder, and ſome Free-Stone; the Doors and Windows are Gothick; the Roof is covered with Slate; the Ornament of the Preſſes for Rolls on the Inſide, is Columns and Pilaſters of the Ionick and Compoſite Orders.

It is in Length 60 Feet, in Breadth 33.

In this Chapel of the Rolls, againſt the Eaſt Wall, is a venerable Monument for Dr. Yong, ſome Time Maſter of the Rolls. It is cut in the Figure of a well wrought Stone Coffin, on which lies along a Man moſt artificially carved in Stone, with a Cap with Corners, covering his Ears, and Scarlet Gown, his Hands lying upon his Breaſt a-croſs. On the Wall, juſt above him, the Head and Shoulders of our Saviour appearing out of the Clouds, looking down upon him; and two Angels on each Side of our Saviour. Underneath this Figure is this Inſcription in Capitals, viz.

Jo. Yong, L. L. Doctori, ſacrorum ſcriniorum ac hujus Domus Cuſtodi, Decano olim Ebor. Vita defuncto xxv Aprilis, ſui fideles Executores hoc poſuerunt M. D. XVI.

Upon the Baſe of the Coffin, Dominus Firmamentum meum.

On the North Side of this Chapel is a magnificent Monument, adorned with the Effigy of an old Gentleman in a long Robe, in full Proportion, cumbant on his Right Side, his Head reſting on his Hand; this is between two Columns (with gilded Capitals) and Entablature of the Corinthian Order; and lower, on the Front, are four ſmaller Figures in a kneeling Poſture. The Inſcription is:

UP the Chancel Steps, on the South Side of the Chapel, is a ſpacious Monument of the Corinthian Order, with the Figures of a Man, Woman, and three Children, in a kneeling Poſture, and this Inſcription:

Arms: a Bend between ſix Billets, &c. 10 Coats, Quarterly; but the Colours not diſcernable.

AT the North Weſt Angle of this Chapel is a Bench, &c. where the Maſter of the Rolls hears Cauſes in Chancery.

THE Miniſter is appointed by the Maſter of the Rolls, the Honourable Sir Joſeph Jekyll.

THERE are Prayers upon Sundays and Holidays, at about Eleven and Three. The preſent Preacher is the Rev. Dr. Bolton. His Salary is about 20 l. each Term: It is reckoned a Place of great Credit.

ATTENDANCE is alſo given in this Chapel, from Ten to Twelve daily, for taking in and paying out Money, (according to Order of Court,) and for making Searches of Rolls, &c. by ſuch as come for that Purpoſe.

ON the Weſt Side of Chancery-lane was ſome Time an Houſe belonging to the Prior of Nefton Park, a Houſe of Canons in Lincolnſhire. This was commonly called Hereſtete-Inn, and was a Brewhouſe, but now built for the Six Clerks of the Chancery, and ſtands over-againſt the ſaid Houſe, called the Rolls; and near unto the Lane which entered Ficket's-croſs, or Fricket's-field, now called Carey-ſtreet.

THERE was an Act made for Aſſurance of a Tenement to the Six Clerks of the Chancery, called Hereſtete-Inn, in Chancery-lane, and for making them a Corporation. See Acts of Parliament enrolled 32 Hen. VIII. And in the 37th Year of the ſame King, another Act paſſed for the ſame. Under theſe Six Clerks, are 60 Clerks more for the neceſſary Diſpatch of Buſineſs. And the late Lord Chancellor Jefferies added 30 Clerks more, in all amounting to the Number of 90; which the other Clerks took great Offence at; and therefore there was afterwards an Endeavour to reduce them to the old Number, by not filling up the Vacancy by Death.

THE laſt Place on the North Side of Fleet-ſtreet is Shere, or Shire-lane, which opened alſo into the Place formerly called Fricket's-field. On this Side Fleet-ſtreet, in the Year of Chriſt 1595, Stow ſays it was obſerved, that when the Labourers had broken up the Pavement from againſt Chancery-lane End, up toward St. Dunſtan's Church, and had digged four Feet deep, they found another Pavement of hard Stone, more ſufficient than the firſt, and therefore harder to be broken; under which they found, in the made Ground, Piles of Timber, driven very thick, and almoſt cloſe together; the ſame being as black as Pitch or Coal, and many of them rotten as Earth; which proves that the Ground there (as ſundry other Places of this City) has been a Mariſh, or full of Springs.

ON the South Side of Fleet-ſtreet, from Ludgate, before the Wall of the City, are built ſeveral good Houſes to Fleet-bridge; on which was, in antient Times, a Ciſtern for the Receipt of Spring-Water, made by the Men of Fleet-ſtreet.

NEXT is Bride-lane, and therein Bridewel, of old Time the King's Houſe; for the Kings of this Realm have been there lodged, and their Courts of Law have been there kept of old Time. And, 'till the 9th of Henry III. the Courts were kept in the King's Houſe, whereſoever he was lodged, as may appear by antient Records.

KING Henry VIII. built there a ſtately and beautiful Houſe, new, for the Reception of the Emperor Charles V. who, in the Year 1522, was lodged himſelf at Black-fryars; but his Nobles in this new built Bridewel, a Gallery being made over the Water, and through the Wall of the City, into the Emperor's Lodging at Black-fryars. King Henry himſelf oftentimes lodged there alſo, as namely, in the Year 1525, a Parliament being then held in Black-fryars. He created States of Nobility there, viz.

Henry Fitz-Roy, a Child, whom he had by Elizabeth Blunt, to be Earl of Nottingham, Duke of Richmond and of Somerſet.

Henry Courtney, Earl of Devonſhire, Couſin-German to the King, to be Marquis of Exeter.

Henry Brandon, a Child of two Years old, Son to the Earl of Suffolk, to be Earl of Lincoln.

Sir Thomas Manners, Lord Roſs, to be Earl of Rutland.

Sir Henry Clifford, to be Earl of Cumberland.

Sir Robert Ratcliff, to be Viſcount Fitzwater.

Sir Thomas Boloine, Treaſurer of the King's Houſhold, to be Viſcount Rochford.

IN the Year 1528, Cardinal Campeius was brought into the King's Preſence, being then at Bridewel, whither he had called all his Nobility, Judges, and Counſellors, &c. And there, the 8th of November, in his great Chamber, he made to them an Oration touching his Marriage with Queen Katharine.

IN the Year 1529, the ſame King Henry and Queen Katharine were lodged there, whilſt the Queſtion of their Marriage was argued in Black-fryars, &c.

IN the Year 1553, the 7th of Edward VI. the 10th of April, Sir George Barne, being Mayor of this City, was ſent for to the Court at Whitehall, and there, at that Time, the King gave to him, for the Commonalty and Citizens, to be a Workhouſe for the poor and idle Perſons of this City, his Houſe of Bridewel, and 700 Marks in Land, late of the Poſſeſſions of the Houſe of the Savoy; and all the Bedding and other Furnitnre of the ſaid Hoſpital of the Savoy, towards the Maintenance of the ſaid Workhouſe of Bridewel, and the Hoſpital of St. Thomas in Southwark.

THIS Gift King Edward confirmed by his Charter, dated the 26th of June, next following. And in the Year 1555, in the Month of February, Sir William Gerard, Mayor, and the Aldermen, entered Bridewel, and took Poſſeſſion thereof, according to the Gift of the ſaid King Edward. The ſame was alſo confirmed by Queen Mary.

CONCERNING the forwarding of this good Work of Bridewel, and bringing it to a deſired Perfection, Perfection, this Act of Common-Council was made the laſt of February, in the 2d and 3d Years of Philip and Mary.

" Foraſmuch as King Edward VI. had given " his Houſe of Bridewel unto the City, partly " for the ſetting of idle and lewd People to " work, and partly for the lodging and har- " bouring of the Poor, Sick, Weak, and Sore " People of this City; and of poor Wayfaring " People repairing to the ſame: And had, for " this laſt Purpoſe, given the Bedding and Fur- " niture of the Savoy to that Purpoſe. There- " fore, in Conſideration that very great Charges " would be required to the fitting of the ſaid " Houſe, and the buying of Tools and Bed- " ding, the Money was ordered to be gotten up " among the rich People of the Companies of " LONDON, &c.

THERE is a Chapel belonging to Bridewel Precinct, which was inlarged and beautified at the proper Coſt and Charge of the Governors and Inhabitants of this Precinct, in the Year of our Lord 1620, Sir Thomas Middleton being then Preſident, and Mr. Thomas Johnſon Treaſurer of this Hoſpital.

THE Inlargement was by taking in of a large Room, that (before the Date above-named) joined upon the Head of the Chapel. This Ground adding to the Length of it (at the full Breadth going with it) 24 Feet and better.

THIS Room thus taken in, trimmed, beautified, and conſecrated, was made a handſome Chapel, it being before a Room empty, waſte, rude, and unſightly, though then in the Uſe deſerving a fair Commendation; for then the Ground that is now a Chancel to the Priſoners of the Houſe, was a Chapel; into which, every Sabbath, through a bye or backward Paſſage, they were brought from their ſeveral Lodgings to hear Divine Service and Sermons.

CLOSE by the Pulpit hung the Picture of King Edward VI. with theſe Lines under it:

This Edward of fair Memory the Sixt,
In whom with Greatneſs, Goodneſs was commixt,
Gave this Bridewel, a Palace in old Times,
For a chaſtiſing Houſe of vagrant Crimes.

IN this Chapel alſo was Queen Elizabeth's Monument, with the common Verſes:

But being deſtroyed by the Fire in the Year 1666, it was re-edified and finiſhed Anno 1668, in the Manner hereafter deſcribed:

IT is a very pleaſant Chapel, having a ſquare Roof, and two Galleries at the North and Weſt Sides, ſupported by Columns of the Tuſcan Order; at which Weſt End are Places for the Hoſpital Boys, and others for the Priſoners; the Walls are Brick; the Wainſcot and Finiſhing very neat. The Altar-Piece conſiſts of two Pilaſters, with their Entablature and Circular Pediment of the Corinthian Order; between which are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Gold on Blue, in gilt Frames, and farther enriched with gilt Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, &c. carved in Relievo; the Chancel was paved with Black and White Marble at the firſt Building; but now the whole Floor of the Chapel is paved in the ſame Manner, the laſt Part, with a handſome Pair of Iron Gates, were the Gift of Sir William Withers, as mentioned before in Book I. Chap. XIV. in which Chapter ſee more of Bridewel Hoſpital.

To this Chapel and Precinct belong the following Officers, the Reverend Dr. Valden, Miniſter, choſen by the Governors; the Lecturer the Reverend Mr. Penwarene; two Chapel-Wardens, one in the Houſe, the other in the Precinct; and one Conſtable living within the Houſe, generally the Porter thereof.

HERE are Prayers Wedneſdays, Fridays, and Holidays at Ten in the Forenoon.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

NUMBER of Houſes, in the Hoſpital 29, without 62, in the whole Precinct 91.

IN King James the Firſt's Time, Storehouſes were erected here for the Uſe of the City, to prevent any Dearth; for Anno 1608, it was conſidered what an unſpeakable Increaſe there was of People, as well Strangers as Natives, in and about the City: Wherefore the careful Magiſtrates, for Prevention of Famine, and for Proviſion for the Poor, began to build here 12 new Granaries, ſufficient to hold 6000 Quarters of Corn; and two Storehouſes more, for Sea-Coal for the Poor, which might hold 4000 Loads of Coals. Theſe Houſes were finiſhed Anno 1610; Alderman Leman took great Care and Pains in the contriving and accompliſhing this uſeful Work. The like Care the City had at other Times before taken, for providing Food for the Inhabitants of the City, as well by Bread Corn laid up by the ſeveral Companies of LONDON, as in building and furniſhing other Granaries.

OVER-againſt the North Side of this Bridewel, the Biſhop of St. David's had his Inn, which Palace was granted in the Time of King Edward VI. in Fee-Farm of a Mark-Rent to Dr. Huick, the Phyſician: Under which Purchaſe the ſame was enjoyed long after.

St. BRIDGET, or St. BRIDE's.

NEAR this is the Pariſh-Church of St. Bridget, or St. Bride's, as it is commonly called.

THERE were two Saints named Bridget (or Bride) of eſpecial Note; the one a Virgin, born in Scotland, or (as others ſay) in Ireland; the other a Widow, born in Sweedland, or Denmark; ſome term her the Queen of Sweedland.

BUT 'tis plain, that our Church of St. Bride, LONDON, was firſt dedicated to the Virgin Bridget, and not to the Widow, becauſe it appears by what follows hereafter that there was a Clerk inſtituted to this our Church of St. Bride, under the Denomination of St. Bride, or St. Bridget, Anno 1632, which was before the Widow Bridget was canonized for a Saint, which was not 'till the Year 1391, as Heræus; or 1400, as Hoſpinian: We ſhall therefore here only treat of the Virgin St. Bridget.

St. Bridget, or St. Bride, the Virgin, as moſt Writers affirm, was born in Scotland, of honourable Parents; her Father's Name, ſays Poſſevin, was Daboth, who, ſaid Dempſter, was Vice-Roy of Cathnes in Scotland. Of this Bridget writes venerable Bede, Volaterian, and many others; but Giraldus Cambrenſis, Capgrave, Surius, and ſome others write, that ſhe was born in Ireland, whoſe Father's Name, ſay they, was Dubtacus;

Dubtacus, come from a renowned Stock in Ireland, and her Mother was named Broſeca, a young Woman of an admirable Beauty, whom Dubtacus, her Maſter, got with Child, of whom came this Bridget, or Bride, famous afterwards for her holy Life and Miracles.

WHETHER ſhe was a Scottiſh, or Iriſh Woman by Birth, is not much material: However, it is agreed on all Sides, that ſhe was a Holy Virgin, living and dying in the Time of Juſtinus Major, Emperor, about the Year of our Lord 518, as ſome write; others, 525; the Engliſh Martyrologue, 540; John I. (as ſome ſay) being Pope of Rome, or, as others ſay, Boniface II.

THE Engliſh Martyrologue relates, that this Virgin Bridget was born in the County of Kildare, in Ireland, in a Town called Focart; and that after many Miracles done in Sign of her Sanctimony and Innocency of Life, ſhe died in the Year of our Lord 540: And that there was a fair Church erected in her Honour, in the City of LONDON, which 'till this Day is yet remaining, commonly called St. Bride's; as alſo many others in England, Scotland, and the Iſle of Man, and where it is recorded, that ſhe lived ſome Time, and where is an antient Town and Church of her Name, ſtill retaining the vulgar Denomination of St. Bride's.

HER Body was interred in the Town of Daune, or Dune, in the Province of Ulſter, in a Tomb, together with the Bodies of St. Patrick and St. Columbe, which was afterwards miraculouſly revealed to the Biſhop of that Place, as he was praying one Night, late in the Church, in the Year 1176, over which there ſhone a great Light.

Dunum (now named Down) is very antient, a Biſhop's See, and remarkable for the Tomb of St. Patrick, St. Bridget and St. Columbe, who have this chiming Diſtich written upon them:

Hi tres in Duno cumulo tumulantur in uno, Brigida, Patricius, atque Columba pius.

One Tomb three Saints contain, one Vault below
Does Bridget, Patrick, and Columba ſhow.

THIS Monument of theirs, is ſaid to have been demoliſhed by Leonard Gray, Lord-Deputy in Henry VIII's Time.

SHE is ſaid to be a Diſciple of St. Patrick, and very famous both in Ireland, Scotland, and England; her Miracles, and the Fire which never goes out (being preſerved and cheriſhed in the inner Sanctuary, like that of Veſta, by the Sacred Virgins) and ſtill burns without any Addition or Increaſe of Aſhes, are related by ſome Authors.

IT is ſaid, this Holy Virgin, St. Bridget, came out of Ireland into Britain, to obtain ſome Reliques of her dear and honoured Patron, St. Patrick, where ſhe paſſed ſome Years in a certain ſmall Iſland, near Glaſtenbury, where there was an Oratory conſecrated to the Honour of St. Mary Magdalen; the Iſland was called Bekery, or Little Ireland; afterwards having left behind her Scrip, Chain, Bell, and other Veſtments of her own Wearing (which, for the Memory of her Sanctity, are there expoſed) ſhe returned into Ireland, where, not long after, ſhe reſted in the Lord, and was buried in the City of Down.

As to the Foundation of this Church, Mr. Stow ſays, it was antiently very ſmall, which William Venor, Eſq; Warden of the Fleet, about the Year 1480, increaſed with a large Body; and the Side Iſles from the Choir, (which of old Time was the whole Church) down to the Weſt End. All through the Church built of his Charges, was wrought in the Stone-Work, round about, both within and without, the Figure, or Likeneſs of a Vine, (a Rebus on his Name, as if it had been Viner,) with Cluſters of Grapes amongſt the Leaves, &c.

THE Partition betwixt the old Work and the new, ſome Time prepared as a Screne, to be ſet up in the Hall of the Duke of Somerſet's Houſe in the Strand, was bought for 160 l. and ſet up in the Year 1557. One willful Body began to ſpoil and break the ſame in the Year 1596; but was (by the High Commiſſioners) forced to make it up again.

THIS Church was Repaired at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners, Anno Domini 1630, likewiſe in 1631, and 1632. The Battlements were then new built, ſo was the Middle Roof, and a handſome Gallery on the North Side; but being unhappily demoliſhed by the Fire of LONDON, was Rebuilt very ſolidly of Stone, and finiſhed in the Year 1680, it was Beautified in the Years 1698 and 1699, and in the Year 1732.

IT has a camerated Roof, beautifully adorned with Arches of Fret-Work, between each of which is a Panel of Crocket-Work, and Fret-Work, and a Porthole Window.

IT is a ſtrong, pleaſant, well built Church, and very regular, all the Apertures, &c. on the one Side anſwering exactly to thoſe on the other. And the Roof is elevated on Pillars and Arches with Entablament of the Tuſcan Order; the Groynings of which Arches are neatly carved, having a Roſe between two large moulded Pattens; on the Key-Stone of each Arch, a Seraph, and in the Middle between them a Shield, with Compartments and Impoſts finely done, and gilt.

IT is wainſcotted round with Oak, about eight Feet high, having ſpacious Galleries on the North, South, and Weſt Sides, with curious Fronts of deep Bolection-Works, as is the Pulpit, being carved and finniered; which are alſo right Wainſcot.

THE inner Door-Caſes are five, two on the North, and two on the South Sides, of the Compoſite Order; and a very ſpacious one toward the Weſt, having folding Doors, and adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature, and Parabolically arched Pediment of the Ionick Order, all of Wainſcot. And at the ſame Weſt End of the Church is likewiſe a large ſtrong outer Door-Caſe of the Ionick Order (as the other outer Door-Caſes are) over which are theſe Words under a Seraph, Domus Dei: And the Church is well pewed.

THE Altar-Piece is beautiful and magnificent; the lower Part conſiſts of ſix carved Columns (painted Flake-Stone Colour) with Entablature and Circular Pediment of the Corinthian Order, embelliſhed with Lamps, Cherubims, &c. all gilt with Gold. Above a Circular Pediment are the King's Arms finely carved, gilt and painted, with the Supporters: Under the Pediment the Words in 1 Cor. x. 16. The Intercolumns are the Commandments; and here is alſo the Lord's Prayer and Creed. Over the former, the Words of Matth. vi. 8. and over the latter, the 2d Epiſtle of Timothy i. 13. all well done in Black, upon Gold. The upper Part is painted, and conſiſts of ſix Columns, three on each Side, of a handſome arched five Light Window, with the Architrave, Frieſe, and Cornice, finely done (white and veined) in ſtrong Perſpective: In the Front of which are the Portraitures of Moſes, with the two Tables in his Hands, and Aaron in his Prieſt's Habit; over the Window 'tis painted nebulous, and above the Clouds appears (from within a large Crimſon-Velvet Feſtoon painted Curtain) a Celeſtial Choir, or a Repreſentation of the Church Triumphant, in the Viſion and Preſence of a Glory in the Shape of a Dove, all finely painted, the Enrichments are gilt with Gold, and the whole is incloſed or fenced in with Rail and Balliſter, and the Floor within that paved with Black and White Marble. Here are alſo three fine Branches.

THE Length of this Church is 111 Feet, Breadth 57, Height 41; and the Altitude of the Steeple is 234, which is above 30 more than that of the Monument. Sir Chriſtopher Wren was the Architect, it conſiſts of a Tower and lofty new Spire of Stone, adorned with Pilaſters and Entablature of the Corinthian Order, arched Pediments, Lamps, &c. Here is a fine Ring of 12 Bells.

MONUMENTS.

John Ulſthorp, William Eveſham, John Wigan, and others, founded Chantries there.

John Ulſthorp, Citizen and Taylor (Sciſſor) LONDON, by his Will bearing Date Jan. the 25th, 1432, 11 Henry VI. gave to the Rector and Keepers of the Goods of the Church of St. Bridget's, three Tenements in Fleet-ſtreet: "One called the Tabard, ſituate between the "Tenement called the Caſtle, on the Eaſt, and "the Tenement called the George at Scho-lane "End, &c. the Tenement called the Rabyn; "and alſo his Tenement adjoining to it, ſitu-"ate, &c. and the Land of the Abbeſs of God-"ſtow, &c. to have them for ever, on Con-"dition that they find a Chaplain to cele-"brate, &c. at the Altar of St. Anne, in the "Church of St. Bryget, for his Soul, and the "Souls of his Parents, and Alice his Wife, &c. "And that the ſaid Chaplain ſo intending pro "poſſe to do Divine Services there, without "having any other Service; and that he have "his Chamber, and reſide in the ſaid Pariſh. John Hill, of the Pariſh of St. Bridget, gave, by his Will, dated 1439, three Tenements in the ſaid Pariſh, lying between Bride-lane on the Weſt, and the Inn of the Abbot and Convent of Winchcomb, on the South, and Fleet-ſtreet on the North, to the Rector and Guardians of St. Bridget, to celebrate his Anniverſary for ever. Dated 7 Oct. 1437.

One Anne Cokerer was here buried, by her Will, dated October the 8th, 1549. The Strain of whoſe Will, ran quite different from the Wills formerly made, viz. "Be it known unto "all Men, that this my Will, Anne Cokerer, be-"ing in good Health at that Time, That I do "confeſs myſelf unto God in the ſeven dead-"lie Synnes I have offended my Lord. I ask "thee Mercy. My fyve Wytts I have much "miſſpended. The Ten Commandments I have "not fulfylled in all the Articles that belong-"eth thereto. Grievouſly I have offended my "Lord. The ſame "Pſalmes, as it ſeems, that were appointed to "be uſed at Burials, in King Edward's Book "of Common-Prayer.

ON a handſome Monument, in the South Wall of the Choir, was this Inſcription:

Here lieth Edward Truſſel, Citizen and Cloth-worker of LONDON, Son of Avery Truſſel, of Bilſeley, in the County of Warwicke, Eſq; with Anne his Wife, Daughter of James Philpot. Which Anne departed this Life Anno Dom. 1586. And hee having lived 38 Yeeres in this Pariſh, departed in the Lord the Nineteenth Day of June, Anno Dom. 1613. Ætatis 67.

He left behind three Sons by the ſaid Anne, and one Daughter by Elizabeth his ſecond Wife. Jacobus, filius natu maximus Pietatis ergo poſuit.

ON a fair Monument in the ſame Choir, in the Eaſt Corner of the Wall:

Here lieth James Kinnon, a Gentleman of Lentilo in Monmouthſhire, a Citizen and Cannoniere, and a Souldier. He dyed aged 67 Yeeres, over-heating his Bloud in preparing of forty Chambers, at the Entertainment of the Prince in the Artillery-Garden. To the which Society he gave forty Chambers, and five Markes in Mony. To the Poore of the Pariſh hee gave 10 l. per Annum for one and twenty Yeeres; and to the Poore of Lentilo the like Summe, and five Pound preſent. He had one Wife, and one Sonne. Obiit 19 Decemb. Anno Dom. 1615.

It ever was his Wiſh

Or elſe at Sea. Fates

A Prince and Army

Yet Age (o're wearied)

In which his Skill increaſt,

Wales gave him Breath, faire was his Birth and Name,
And though Death ſtole

A very fair Monument ſtanding in the South Iſle, in the Chancel, with this Inſcription:

In this Chancel lyeth buried Frances Trevor, Wife of Sir Thomas Trevor, Knight, Solicitor Generall to the Prince, at the Time of her Death; and now one of the Barons of the Exchequer. IN the Pariſh of St. Bridget, was a Meſſuage or Inn, call'd, The Faulcon, in the Tenure of the famous Printer, in the latter Part of Henry VII's Time, and Beginning of Henry VIII, named Wynkyn de Worde.

THE next is Salisbury-court, a Place ſo called, for that it belonged to the Biſhops of Salisbury, and was their Inn, or LONDON-Houſe, at ſuch Time as they were ſummoned to come to the Parliament, or came for other Buſineſs. It was afterwards the Dwelling, firſt of Sir Richard Sackvile, and after of Sir Thomas Sackvile, his Son, Baron of Buckhurſt, one of Queen Elizabeth's Privy Council, afterwards Lord Treaſurer; who very greatly inlarged it with ſtately Buildings.

THENCE it was ſome Time called Sackvile-Houſe. And being in long Leaſe made by Biſhop Capon, Biſhop there in the Times of King Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Queen Mary, was exchanged in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, by the greatly learned Jewel, Biſhop of that See, for Recompence of good Value, in Lands lying in his Dioceſe, or elſewhere in the Weſt.

The WHITE FRYARS; OR, The Fryars of our Lady of Mount Carmel.

White-Fryars.

BEFORE we treat of the Houſe called White Fryars in LONDON, it will be requiſite to ſay ſomething of the Order of White Fryars, or Carmelites, the Title of which Fraternity, is this, Fratres B. Mariæ de Monte Carmele, or Carmelite Fryars.

THIS Order had its Original in Mount Carmel, in Syria, where Elias, and Eliſeus, the Prophets, inhabited; there, in Proceſs of Time, many Anchorets firſt ſettled themſelves, who afterwards, by means of Almeric, Biſhop of Antioch, the Pope's Legate, were brought together, and having been there a long Time diſpers'd one from another, they were reduced to live together under one Government.

THERE was on that Mount, near to Elias's Fountain, a Church dedicated to the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, where they laid the firſt Foundation of their Convent; there this Almeric built their firſt Monaſtery, Ann. 1121, for, before, they lived in Caves and Dens. Afterwards, this Order was brought into Europe, by Albert, Patriarch of Jeruſalem, Legate to Pope Innocent III, about the Year 1216, who gave them a certain Rule to follow, taken much from the Rule of St. Baſil.

THESE Hermits of Mount Carmel, firſt profeſſed begging in Europe, after the Dominicans and Minorites; and then they were permitted to preach and hear Confeſſions. Their Order was confirm'd firſt by Pope Honorius III, or, as others ſay, Honorius IV, Pope Gregory IX, Innocent IV, and other Popes.

THESE Carmelites procured a Licence from the Pope to creep out of the Wilderneſs into the Cities, contrary to their firſt Inſtitution; againſt which Courſe, Nicholas Gallus wrote bitterly, deploring their State with pious Tears.

Pope Honorius (ſays Bale) granted to the Carmelites this Privilege, that they ſhould be free from the Juriſdiction of all Princes and Biſhops.

Trithemius Abbas, ſays, that the Colour of the Habit of this Order, at firſt, was White, whereby the inward Purity of the Brethren was ſignified, with ſuch a Cloak, they ſay, as Elias was clad; and that Eliſeus and the Children of the Prophets went in ſuch a Habit. After many Years, when the Holy Land came into the Hands of the Infidels, the Brethren were forced to change their Habit, the Saracens compelling them thereunto, who held it lawful only for the Nobility to wear a white Garment; ſo by Neceſſity changing their old Habit, they took to themſelves Hoods ſtreaked with two Colours, White and Black.

After many Years the Brethren were compelled, by the Malice of the Infidels, to depart out of the Holy Land, and then coming into Europe, that they might not ſeem ridiculous in a ſtrange Habit, they reſumed their old Habit, which is White, and which to this Day they uſe, and which was confirmed by the Popes.

But ſome may deſire to know why theſe Fryars are called Brethren of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel; the Cauſe thereof is this, not long after the Paſſion of our Lord, the Brethren of Mount Carmel built a Chapel on the Side of that Mount, to the Honour of the Mother of God, and choſe her for the Advocate and Patron of their Order, and thereupon afterwards, they were called her Brethren; as therefore they are called Carmelites, from Mount Carmel, ſo from the Chapel, which they built, they are, to this Day, called Brethren of the Bleſſed Virgin, the Mother of God. Thus Trithemius.

However, this is the more general and approved Opinion of the original Cauſe of this Title aſſumed by the Carmelites; yet ſome there have been that affirm, that the Bleſſed Virgin Mary appeared to one of their Order, and preſented to him a Scapulary, ſaying, Receive, my Beloved, this Scapulary, which I give unto this Order, in Sign of my Fellowſhip; whereupon they uſurp the Title of Fratres Ordinis beatæ Mariæ Virginis de Monte Carmelo. But the former Opinion is moſt current.

Now for that, Mr. Weaver omits the Name of him, to whom the Bleſſed Virgin is ſaid to appear, and beſtow this Scapulary (which is a narrow Piece of Cloth, which the Monks wear over their Habit, hanging down before and behind) his Name, Mr. Newcourt ſays, he finds to be Simon Stock, of whom, ſays Mr. Fuller, in his Church Hiſtory, the Carmelites boaſt very much; who, as he ſays, was a Kentiſh Man born, and being a Boy of 12 Years of Age, fed on Roots, and wild Fruit in the Woods, and lived in the Trunk of an hollow Tree, from whence he had his Name Stock, who was afterwards Maſter-General of the Order of Carmelites, and is ſaid to have been famous for Miracles; which, for Brevity ſake, we omit, and only tell you what Bale (inter alia) ſays of him.

That this Simon Stock, hearing that the Carmelites were come into England, took a cheerful Journey to them, being then near 80 Years of Age; and, for the Fame of his Life and Doctrine, was entertained by them as one ſent from Heaven; and in their next General Synod, which was held at Ayleſford, in Kent, An. Dom. 1245, was made the univerſal Preſident of their Order, throughout Europe. Alen Amoric, who was their fifth Preſident, reſigning it to him, which, as General, he ruled about 20 Years, he went over into France, and in the 100th Year of his Age died there, in Gaſcoigne, and was buried at Bourdeaux, Anno 1265; or, as ſome ſay, 1266. After his Death, for his great Devotion and Holineſs of Life, he was canonized a Saint, whoſe Feſtival is celebrated yearly, May 6.

Bale (who was a Carmelite Fryar himſelf) ſays, that the Carmelites firſt began to be famous in Europe, Anno 1220. After that, Angelus Hieroſolomit (a Jew by Birth) an Hermit of that Order, had preached at Rome, that the Commonwealth of the Church ſhould ſhortly be afflicted.

Moreover, Ralph Freſburne, a Carmelite Fryar, ſays Bale, laid the firſt Foundation of the Society of the Carmelites in England, Ann. 1224, as Poet Mantuan, a Carmelite, writes, Lib. 8. and in his own Lordſhips founded the Priories near Alnwick in Northumberland, and in Ayleſford, in Kent, in 1240, which were the firſt Houſes for theſe Carmelites in England. Theſe Fryars (ſays Bale) were not then ſhaven or anointed, nor did they obſerve ſingle Life, nor Poverty, in England, for 14 Years together after they had firſt built themſelves Priories, or Convents, during which Time the ſaid Ralph Freſburne was their Governor.

Fuller ſays, that Ralph Freeborn (ſo he names him) in the Reign of Richard I. brought over into England theſe Carmelite Fryars, and placed them at Alnwich in Northumberland, in a Wilderneſs. Fuller, very probably, miſtakes Rich. I. for Richard Duke of Cornwall, youngeſt Son of King John, under whom he had ſerved as a Soldier againſt the Saracens.

The firſt Entrance of the Carmelites into England, ſays Lambard, was about the Middle of King Henry III. when they made their Neſt at Newenden, in Kent; a woody and ſolitary Place.

When Milverton, the Provincial of the Carmelites in England, ſays Bale, was firſt impriſoned by Pope Paul II. about the Year 1460, both the School-Learning, and therewithal, the Eſtimation of the Carmelites in England, which 'till then they upheld, above all other Mendicants, fell to Decay.

This Order was Vertical, and in the higheſt Exaltation thereof, in the Reign of King Edward IV. Under Nicholas Kenton, their 25th Provincial, they reckoned no fewer than 1500 of their Order; but when John Milverton, his Succeſſor, began in Favour of Fryary, furiouſly to engage againſt Biſhops, and the Secular Clergy, the Carmelites good Maſters and Dames began to forſake them, and they never recovered their Credit 'till they were utterly diſſolved. They were very careful in keeping the Records of their Order, preſerving the ſucceſſive Series of their Provincials, from their Original here in England, 'till their Diſſolution; a Catalogue whereof, made by John Bale, may be ſeen in Fuller's Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory, B. VI. p. 272.

The PRIORY.

THIS Houſe of the Carmelites, or White-fryars, ſtood on the South Side of Fleet-ſtreet, between the New-Temple and Salisbury-court.

The Priory, or Church, was founded by Rich. Gray, Knt. Anceſtor to the Lord Gray of Codnor, in the County of Derby, in the Year 1241. King Edward I. gave to the Prior and Brethren of this Houſe a Plat of Ground in Fleet-ſtreet, whereupon to build this Houſe, which was afterwards wards re-edified by Hugh Courtney, Earl of Devonſhire, about the Year 1350, being the 24th of Edward III.

THE Curriers ſeemed formerly to live hereabouts. It is certain they had a Guild in this Church, founded Anno 1367, of which they brought in this Account into Chancery, about the 12th of Richard II. as did other Guilds in LONDON at this Time.

INTERMENTS.

John Luſken, Mayor, and the Commonalty of the City of LONDON, granted a Lane, called Crocker's-lane, reaching from Fleet-ſtreet to the Thames, to build the Weſt End of that Church. Sir Robert Knolles, Knt. (Anceſtor to the Earls of Banbury) was a great Builder here alſo, in the Reign of Richard II. and Henry IV. who, though born of mean Parentage (in the County of Cheſter) was by his valiant Behaviour, advanced from a common Soldier, in the French Wars, under Edw. III. to a great Commander. He built the goodly, fair Bridge of Rocheſter, over the River Medway, and founded a College of Secular Prieſts at Pontefract, and dying full of Years, at his Manor of Stone Thorp, in Norfolk, Ann. 1407, was brought to LONDON, and honourably buried by the Lady Conſtance, his Wife, in the Body of this Church of White-fryars, which he had newly built.

HERE, ſome Time, lay intombed, in a goodly Monument of Alabaſter, the Body of Robert Maſcall, Biſhop of Hereford, a Man for his great Learning and good Life, admired and beloved of all Men. He was often employed by Hen. IV. (to whom he was Confeſſor) upon Embaſſies to Foreign Princes, and was ſent, with two other Biſhops, to the Council of Conſtance. He built the Choir, Presbytery and Steeple of this Church, and gave many rich Ornaments to this Religious Houſe, wherein he died, Dec. 21, 1416.

In Place of this Fryars Church were built many Houſes, Lodgings for Noblemen, and others. Among the reſt, here lived Sir John Cheeke, Knt. in King Edward VI. his Time, his Tutor, and afterward his Secretary of State.

Anno 1608, the Inhabitants within the Compaſs of theſe White-fryars, as alſo thoſe of the Black-fryars, within Ludgate, obtained divers Liberties, Privileges, and Exemptions, by a Charter of King James I.

In the Year 1662, a Legacy was given by one Mr. Brown, to this Precinct, which will appear by what follows:

In Purſuance of this, Richard Charm, Orphan of Humphrey Charm, was firſt admitted into the ſaid Hoſpital, the 29th of July, 1664, from White-fryars Precinct.

The Precinct of White-fryars is extraparochial, and the Inhabitants are at Liberty to bury and marry where they pleaſe; nor do they pay any Tithes, as appeared upon Trial about the Year 1700.

Then is the Serjeants-Inn, ſo called, for that divers Judges and Serjeants at Law kept a Commons, and were lodged there in Term Times.

This Serjeants-Inn ſeems to have been ſome Time a Garden belonging to the New-Temple, and granted by King Henry III. to a Biſhop of Chicheſter; for ſuch a Patent is found R. Chicheſter Epo. nov. Templ. Gardinum in vico ante novum Templum, LONDON.

This, or ſome other Meſſuage of Serjeants-Inn, was in the Crown in Edward VI. his Reign, who, in his 3d Year, ſold all the Meſſuage, Lordſhip, and Hereditament thereof, to Sir Edward Montagu, and John Campanet.

The Judges and Serjeants are now removed, and the Inn lies empty.

The TEMPLE.

NEXT is the New-Temple, ſo called, becauſe the Templers, before building of this Houſe, had their Temple in Oldbourn. This Houſe was founded by the Knights Templers in England, in the Reign of Henry II. And the ſame was dedicated to God, and our Bleſſed Lady, by Heraclius, Patriarch of the Church called the Holy Reſurrection in Jeruſalem, in the Year of Chriſt, 1185.

It contained all that Space of Ground from White-fryars Eaſtward, to Eſſex-houſe without Temple-bar, and a Part of that too; as appears by the firſt Grant thereof to Sir Will. Paget, Knt. Secretary of State to King Henry VIII. Pat. 2. Edw. VI.

The Original of the Knights Templers.

These Knights Templers took their Beginning about the Year 1118, in Manner following: Certain Noblemen, Horſemen, religiouſly bent, bound by Vow themſelves in the Hands of the Patriarch of Jeruſalem, to ſerve Chriſt after the Manner of Regular Canons, in Chaſtity and Obedience, and to renounce their own proper Wills for ever. The firſt of which Order were Hugh Paganus, [i. e. Pain] and Jeffrey de S. Audomare. And whereas at firſt they had no certain Habitation, Baldwin, King of Jeruſalem, granted to them a Dwelling-Place in his Palace, by the Temple; and the Canons of the ſame Temple, gave them the Street, thereby to build therein their Houſes of Office. And the Patriach, the King, the Nobles, and Prelates, gave them certain Revenues out of their Lordſhips.

Their firſt Profeſſion was for Safeguard of the Pilgrims, coming to viſit the Sepulchre, and to keep the Highways againſt the lying in wait of Thieves, &c. About 10 Years after they had a Rule appointed to them, and a white Habit, by Honorius II. then Pope. And whereas they had but nine in Number, they began to increaſe daily. Afterward, in Pope Eugenius's Time, they bore Croſſes of red Cloth on their uppermoſt Garments, to be known from others. And in ſhort Time, becauſe they had their firſt Manſion hard by the Temple of our Lord in Jeruſalem, they were called Knights of the Temple.

Many Noblemen, in all Parts of Chriſtendom, became Brethren of this Order; and built themſelves Temples in every City, or great Town. In England this was their chief Houſe, which they built after the Form of the Temple near to the Sepulchre of our Lord at Jeruſalem. They had alſo other Temples in Cambridge, Briſtol, Canterbury, Dover, Warwick, and divers other Places. This Temple in LONDON was often made a Storehouſe of Mens Treaſure, ſuch as feared the Spoil thereof in other Places.

Matthew Paris notes, that in the Year 1232, Hubert de Burgh, Earl of Kent, being Priſoner in the Tower of LONDON, the King was informed, that he had much Treaſure laid up in this New-Temple, under the Cuſtody of the Templers: Whereupon he ſent for the Maſter of the Temple, and examined him ſtrictly, who confeſſed, that Money being delivered to him and his Brethren to be kept, he knew not how much there was of it. The King demanded to have the ſame delivered; but it was anſwered, That the Money being committed to their Truſt, could not be delivered, without the Licence of him that committed it to Eccleſiaſtical Protection. Whereupon the King ſent his Treaſurer and Juſticiar of the Exchequer, to Hubert, to require him to reſign the Money wholly into his Hands; who anſwered, That he would gladly ſubmit himſelf, and all his, to the King's Pleaſure. And thereupon deſired the Knights of the Temple (in his Behalf) to preſent all the Keys to the King, to do his Pleaſure with the Goods which he had committed to them. Then the King commanded the Money to be faithfully told, and laid up in his Treaſure, by Inventory; wherein was found, (beſides ready Money) Veſſels of Gold and Silver, unpraiſable, and many precious Stones, which would make all Men wonder, if they knew the Worth of them.

This Temple was again dedicated 1240, as alſo newly re-edified then.

In the Year 1245, Pope Innocent's Nuncio reſided in the New-Temple. And the ſaid Pope commanded the Biſhops of England to bring his Nuncio there, 6000 Marks, to be raiſed from the Engliſh Biſhopricks. Which King Henry forbad.

These Templers, at this Time, were in ſo great Glory, that they entertained the Nobility, Foreign Ambaſſadors, and the Prince himſelf very often. Inſomuch that Matthew Paris cried out on them for their Pride; who being at firſt ſo Poor, as they had but one Horſe to ſerve two of them; in Token whereof they gave in their Seal two Men riding on one Horſe; yet ſuddenly they waxed ſo inſolent, that they diſdained other Orders, and ſorted themſelves with Noblemen.

King Edward I. in the Year 1283, taking with him Robert Waleran, and others, came to the Temple, where calling for the Keeper of the Treaſure Houſe, as if he meant to ſee his Mother's Jewels, that were laid up there to be ſafely kept, he entered the Houſe, breaking the Coffers of certain Perſons that had likewiſe brought their Money thither; and he took away from thence to the Value of 1000 l.

Many Parliaments and great Councils have been there kept, as may appear by our Hiſtories.

In the Year 1308, all the Templers in England, as alſo in other Parts of Chriſtendom, were apprehended, and committed to divers Priſons.

In 1310, a Provincial Council was holden at LONDON, againſt the Templers in England, upon Hereſy, and other Articles whereof they were accuſed; but denied all except one or two of them. Notwithſtanding, they all did confeſs, that they could not purge themſelves fully, as faultleſs; and ſo they were condemned to perpetual Penance in ſeveral Monaſteries, where they behaved themſelves modeſtly.

Philip, King of France, procured their Overthrow throughout the whole World, and cauſed them to be condemned by a General Council to his Advantage, as he thought; for he believed to have had all their Lands in France, and therefore ſeizing the ſame in his Hands, cauſed the Templers, to the Number of 54, or, after Fabian, 60, to be burned at Paris.

Edward II. in the Year 1313, gave to Aimer de la Valence, Earl of Pembroke, the whole Place and Houſe, called the New-Temple, at LONDON, with the Ground called Fiquets-croft, and all the Tenements and Rents, with the Appurtenances that belonged to the Templers, in the City of LONDON, and Suburbs thereof; (alſo the Land called Flete-croft, Part of the Poſſeſſions of the ſaid New-Temple.)

After Aimer de Valence (ſay ſome) Hugh Spencer (uſurping the ſame) held it during his Life; by whoſe Death [he being attainted the 1ſt of Edward III.] it came again to the Hands of Edward III, but in the mean Time, viz. 1324, by a Council holden at Vienna, all the Lands of the Templers (leſt the ſame ſhould be put to prophane Uſes) were given to the Knights Hoſpitalers, of the Order of St. John Baptiſt, called St. John of Jeruſalem; which Knights had put the Turks out of the Iſle of Rhodes, and alſo won upon the ſaid Turks daily, for a long Time.

The ſaid Edward III. therefore granted the ſame to the ſaid Knights, who poſſeſſed it. And in the 18th Year of the ſaid King's Reign, were forced to repair the Bridge of the ſaid Temple. Theſe Knights had their chief Houſe for England by Weſt-ſmithfield. And they, in the Reign of the ſame Edward III. granted (for a certain Rent of 10 l. by the Year) the ſaid Temple, with the Appurtenances thereto adjoining, to the Students of the Common Laws of England. In their Poſſeſſion the ſame has ever ſince remained, and is now divided into two Houſes of ſeveral Students, by the Name of Inns of Court, viz. the Inner-Temple, and the Middle-Temple, who keep two ſeveral Halls; but they reſort all to the ſaid Temple Church:

In the Round Walk whereof, (which is the Weſt Part, without the Choir) there remain Monuments of Noblemen there buried, to the Number of 11, eight of them are Images of armed Knights; five lying croſs-legged, as Men vowed to the Holy Land, againſt the Infidels and unbelieving Jews; the other three ſtrait-legged: The reſt are coaped Stones, all of grey Marble. The firſt of the croſs-legged, was William Marſhall, the Elder, Earl of Pembroke, who died 1219. William Marſhall, his Son, Earl of Pembroke, was the ſecond; he died 1231. And Gilbert Marſhall, his Brother, Earl of Pembroke, ſlain in a Turnament at Hertford, near Ware, 20 Miles from LONDON. He died in the Year 1241.

After this, Robert Roſe, otherwiſe called Furſan, being made a Templer in the Year 1245, died, and was buried there.

In the Year 1381, the Rebels of Eſſex and of Kent, deſtroyed and pulled down the Houſes and Lodgings of this Temple, took out of the Church the Books and Records that were there in Hutches, of the Apprentices of the Law, carried them into the Streets, and there burnt them. The Houſe they ſpoiled and burnt, for Malice they bore Sir Robert Hales, Lord Prior of St. John's in Smithfield. But it was ſince again, at divers Times, repaired, namely, the Gate-Houſe of the Middle-Temple, in the Reign of Henry VIII. by Sir Amias Paulet, Knt. The great Hall of the Middle-Temple was newly built in the Year 1572, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

The Hall is ſaid to be built in Edward the Third's Reign: The Wall between the Thames and Garden, about the Year 1550; the Hall ceiled in 1554. About that Time Mr. Packington, Treaſurer, built Tanfield-court, ſo called from the Chambers of Sir Laurence Tanfield, Chief Baron, being there, till which Time it was called Packington's-court.

Anno 1553, the Kitchen was built; Anno 1559, the Buildings near the Alienation-Office was erected; in 1573, the great carved Screen in the Hall was ſet up; Anno 1595, Ceſar's-buildings, between the Church and the Hall, were erected, and ſo called, for that Sir Julius Cæſar, Maſter of the Rolls, gave 300 l. towards the Charge; Anno 1607, the Paper-buildings were erected, and being conſumed by Fire, were rebuilt a noble Pile of ſpacious pleaſant Chambers, at the North End whereof are finely painted, appearing like ſo many Statues, the Figures of the four Cardinal Virtues, &c. and was finiſhed Anno 1685, Sir Robert Sawyer, Treaſurer; Anno 1609, the Inner-Temple-gate was built; about 1616, Part of the Inner-Temple-lane, Fig-tree-court, (the Eaſt Side in 1607) and Buildings near Ram-alley, and the King's-Bench Office, were erected; Part of the Lane alſo in 1657; Chambers againſt the Weſt End of the Church, built in 1679, and Anno 1681.

In the Year 1684, was built the Middle-Temple-gate, next Fleet-ſtreet, which is a fine Structure, in the Stile of Inigo Jones; it has a graceful Front of Brick-Work, with four large Stone Pilaſters of the Ionic Order; and a handſome Pediment, with a Round in the Middle of it, having theſe Words inſcribed in large Capitals: Surrexit impenſis Societat. Med. Templi, MDCLXXXIV. Lower, juſt over the Arch, the Figure of an Holy Lamb, 1684.

Over the Coloñade, at the End of Pump-court, is an Inſcription in Memory of a Fire that happened there ſome Years ago, viz.

Vetuſtiſſima Templariorum Porticu igne conſumpta Anno 1678. Nova hæc ſumptibus Medii Templi extructa Anno 1681, Gulielmo Whitlock, Armig. Theſaurario.

The Temple Church having narrowly eſcaped the Flames in 1666, was newly beautified, adorned, and the curious Wainſcot Screen ſet up, An. Dom. 1682, when Sir Thomas Robinſon was Treaſurer of the Inner Temple, and Sir Francis Withens, Treaſurer of the Middle-Houſe. The South Weſt Part was, in the Year 1695, new built with Stone, whereon appeareth this Inſcription:

Nichol. Courtney, Rogero Gillingham, } Armig. Theſaur.

By the Workmen, at this Time, was broke down an Inſcription over the little Door next the Cloiſter. It was in old Saxon Capital Letters, within a Semi-Circle, and was as follows:

Anno ab incarnatione Domini MCLXXXV, dedicata hæc Eccleſia in honorem beatæ Mariæ a Domino Eraclio, Dei gratia ſanctæ Reſurrectionis Eccleſiæ Patriarcha, II. Idus Februarii. Qui eam annatim petentibus de injuncta ſibi penitentia LX. dies indulſit.

In the Year 1706, the Church was wholly new White-waſhed, gilt, and painted within, and the Pillars of the Round-Tower Wainſcotted, with a new Battlement and Buttreſſes on the South Side, and other Parts of the Outſide were well repaired; alſo the Figures of the Knights Templers were cleaned and painted, and the Iron-Work incloſing them, painted, and gilt with Gold.

It is an antient Gothick Building, the Walls Stone, covered with Finiſhing, and ſtrengthened with Buttreſſes; has a Treble Roof covered with Lead, and ſupported with neat Pillars of Suſſex Marble, and the Floor of the Whole is paved with Black and White Marble; that of the Chancel two Steps higher than the Middle, and one higher the Side Iſles; the Iſles are five in Number, viz. three (as uſual) running Eaſt and Weſt, and one Croſs-Iſle near the Entrance into the Chancel, and another parallel with the laſt, between the Weſt End of the Ranges of Pews and the Screen.

This Church is not only antique in its Order, neat in its Workmanſhip, and rich in its Materials, but very beautiful in its Finiſhing; Properties that ſeldom are found in one Structure. The Pillars and Floors are not only Marble, but the Windows are adorned with pretty ſmall Columns of the ſame Species of Stone. It is well pewed, and wainſcotted with right Wainſcot above eight Feet high; the Altar-Piece is of the ſame Species of Timber, but much higher, finely carved, and adorned with four Pilaſters, and between them two Columns with Entablature of the Corinthian Order; alſo Enrichments of Cherubims, a Shield, Feſtoon, Fruit, and Leaves, encloſed with handſome Rail and Balliſter. The Pulpit is alſo finely carved and finniered, placed near the Eaſt End of the Middle-Iſle; the Sound-Board is pendant from the Roof of the Church; it is enriched with ſeveral carved Arches, a Crown, Feſtoons, Cherubims, Vaſes, &c.

The Round-Tower at the Weſt End of the Church, is ſupported with ſix Pillars, wainſcotted with Oak ſix Feet high; and is alſo adorned all round (except the Eaſt Part) with an upper and lower Range of ſmall Arches, and blank Apertures.

The Screen at the Weſt End of the Iſles, is as the Altar-Piece, &c. of right Wainſcot, adorned with 10 Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order, alſo three Portals and Pediments; and the Organ Gallery over the middle Aperture, is ſupported with two neat fluted Columns of the Corinthian Order, and adorned with Entablature and Compaſs Pediment, and alſo the King's Arms finely carved; the Intercolumns are large Pannels in carved Frames; and near the Pediment on the South Side, is an Enrichment of Cherubims, and the carved Figure of a Pegaſus, the Badge of the Society of the Inner-Temple; and on and near the Pediment on the North Side, an Enrichment of Cherubims, and the Figure of a Holy Lamb, the Badge of the Society of the Middle-Temple, for though theſe two Houſes have but one Church, yet they ſeldom ſit promiſcuoſly there, but the Inner-Temple on the South, and the Gentlemen of the Middle-Temple Northward from the Middle-Iſle.

Length of the Church, from the Altar to the Screen, 83 Feet; Breadth 60, Altitude 34, and that of the Round-Tower at the Weſt End 48 Feet; its Diameter, at the Floor 51 Feet; Circumference 160 Feet.

Monuments in this Church were and are, for

Daughter of John Littleton, of Frankly, in the County of Worceſter, Eſquire, by Meriel, the Daughter of Sir Thomas Bromley, Kt. Lord Chancellor of England. She dyed the 6th Day of February, 1623.

On whom was made this Epitaph:

Here ſhe lies, whoſe ſpotleſs Fame
Invites a Stone to learn her Name.
The rigid Spartan that deny'd
An Epitaph to all that dy'd, Unleſs for War, or Chaſtity,
Would here vouchſafe an Elegy.
She dy'd a Wife, but yet her Mind,
(beyond Virginity refin'd)
From lawleſs Fire remain'd as free,
As now from Heat her Aſhes be.
Her Husband (yet without a Sin)
Was not a Stranger, but her Kin:
That her chaſt Love might ſeem none other Unto a Husband, than a Brother.
Keep well this Pawn, thou Marble Cheſt,
Till it be call'd for, let it reſt.
For while this Jewel here is ſet,
The Grave is but a Cabinet.

TOWARDS the latter End of King Charles II. his Reign, a terrible Fire happened in the Temple, whereby the Office of Chirographer of Fines of the Court of Common-Pleas, there kept, was ſo burnt, that ſeveral Records of Fines engroſſed, of Trinity and Michaelmas Terms, were either conſumed, or loſt; whereby an Act paſſed 31 Car. II. for the re-ingroſſing of thoſe Records; and that Office is now built in an open wide Court of the Temple, near the Water Side, not adjacent to any other Edifices, for the better Security of thoſe Records for all Time hereafter.

WE come next to the preſent State of this Ward.

To begin at the South Parts, viz. Ludgate-hill and Fleet-ſtreet, taking Notice, as we paſs along, of all the Lanes and Alleys through which there lie Paſſages, in and out of the ſaid Streets; as on the North Side, beginning at Temple-bar, there is Bell-yard, Chancery-lane, Fetter-lane, Shoe-lane, the Town-ditch. Then on the South Side of the Street, White-fryars, Water-lane, Salisbury-court, Bridewel Precinct. Then the Street beginning near Ludgate; and paſſing from South to North, called Old-bailey, which opens into the North Part of this Ward, as Snow-hill, down to Holbourn-bridge; then more North is Cow-lane, Hoſier-lane, Cock-lane, Chick-lane, Weſt-ſmithfield, Long-lane, St. Bartholomew-Cloſe and Hoſpital, Pye-corner, &c. with all the ſmaller Courts and Alleys contained in each of theſe: And laſtly, publick Buildings, and Things worthy Remark.

Ludgate-hill comes down from Ludgate, and runs Weſtward to Fleet-ſtreet; from which it is ſevered by a handſome large Stone Bridge, the Breadth of the Street, which gives a Paſſage over the new Canal where Fleet-ditch was; which ſince the Fire of LONDON was made ſo deep and wide, cut from Holbourn-bridge to the Mouth of the River Thames, that it received the Tides, and uſed to bring up Barges and Lighters to Holbourn-bridge; but one Part of this, viz. from Fleet-bridge to Holbourn-bridge, is now filling, as is before ſaid.

THIS Street, as alſo Fleet-ſtreet (into which it falls) and ſo to Temple-bar, is a great Thorowfare for Coaches, Carts, Horſe and Foot Paſſengers; being the great Way from LONDON to Weſtminſter, and the adjacent Parts. Both theſe Streets are therefore very ſpacious, graced with good Buildings of the firſt Rate, and well inhabited by Shop-keepers of the beſt Trades; as Woollen-Drapers, Linnen-Drapers, Grocers, Sadlers, Upholſters, Bookſellers, who drive a very very conſiderable Trade: A great Part whereof comes from the Inns of Court and Chancery, which are planted hereabouts. And for the Accommodation of this great Reſort of People, here are divers noted Coffee-Houſes and Taverns: Of which laſt theſe are the moſt noted; the Devil, the Golden-Lion, the King's-Arms, the Bull-Head, Pontack's, the Mitre, the Sun, the Horn, the Leg, the Globe, and the Caſtle.

To proceed to the Alleys, Courts, and Paſſages in Fleet-ſtreet. And firſt, on the North Side is Shear-lane, or Shire-lane. This Lane gives Paſſage into Little Lincolns-Inn-fields, formerly called Fickquets-field; but this Lane being without the Freedom, is ſpoken of under St. Clement's Pariſh. The like is Bell-yard, near adjoining, except ſome ſmall Part on the Eaſt Side, againſt Crown-court, in Chancery-lane, which may be rather termed a Street, for its Fairneſs and good Buildings: But there being but a little within the City-Liberty, we ſhall not ſpeak of it here, but in the Rolls Liberty, in which is the greateſt Part. Flying-horſe-court, but ſmall, with a Free-Stone Pavement; here is kept the Marſhalſea Office, for the making out Writs, &c. Clifford's-Inn-lane has on the Weſt Side Houſes, and on the Eaſt Side St. Dunſtan's Church; it leads into Clifford's-Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery; which Place, of late Years, is much inlarged in new Buildings, in the Garden, which is an airy Place, and neatly kept; the Garden being ſevered in from the other Part or Paſſage, with a Palliſado Pail, with Rows of Lime-Trees ſet round the Graſs-Plats, and Gravel Walks. It has the Conveniency of two Doors, the one into Serjeants-Inn in Chancery-lane, and the other into Fetter-lane. The Hall yet wants new Building.

Adjoining to Clifford's-Inn-lane, and fronting Fleet-ſtreet, is St. Dunſtan's Church in the Weſt, ſo called to diſtinguiſh it from St. Dunſtan's in the Eaſt. It is a good handſome Free-Stone Building, with a fair Dial hanging over into the Street.

The Inſide of the Church is neatly kept, and has an Organ uſed in Divine Service on Sundays; but not at the Prayers, which are every Day.

This Church received ſome Damage by the great Fire, but was ſoon repaired at the Charges of the ſaid Pariſh.

Adjoining to St. Dunſtan's Church, Eaſtward, is a ſmall Place of ſeveral Houſes, which bears the Name of Hen-and-chicken-court; and near to this Court, Fetter-lane falls into Fleet-ſtreet, Flower-de-lis-court, or rather Alley, being long, narrow and ordinary, with a Free-Stone Pavement; has three Outlets, two into Fetter-lane, and another into Weſt-harding-ſtreet. This Court is of ſmall Repute, being but meanly inhabited; the Buildings are on the Eaſt Side, the Weſt being the Back-yards to the Houſes in Fetter-lane.

Two-crane-court, a very handſome open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and graced with good Buildings, well inhabited by Perſons of Repute, the front Houſe being larger than the reſt, and aſcended up by large Stone-Steps, is in the Occupation of the Royal Society; in this Houſe is kept their Muſæum, and here is the Meetings of the Fellows.

Red-lion-court, good and large, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has a Paſſage into Weſt-harding-ſtreet, in Goldſmith's-rents. Johnſon's-court has but a narrow Entrance, but opens into a ſquare Court, with a Free-Stone Pavement and good Houſes, well inhabited. Out of this Court is another, which bears the ſame Name, but ſmaller, with one Row of Houſes, with pretty Gardens behind them, and this runs into Gough-ſquare, a Place lately built with very handſome Houſes, and well inhabited by Perſons of Faſhion. St. Dunſtan's-court, has a narrow Entrance, but towards the Upper End opens into two Parts, and both indifferent, as to Houſes and Inhabitants. Bolt-court, very good and open, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has good Houſes, well inhabited. Three-king-court, but ſmall, having two or three Houſes. Hind-court, large, and broad at the Upper End, where the Houſes are much better built and inhabited; and to the Whole is a very good Free-Stone Pavement, cleanly kept. Wine-office-court, long, with a Free-Stone Pavement, has good Houſes on the Weſt Side, the Eaſt Side having a Dead Wall, where there is a Paſſage into White-horſe-court; and at the Upper End has another Paſſage into Gough-ſquare on one Side, and King's-head-court, on the other, which leads into Shoe-lane on the Back-ſide of Gunpowder-alley. Three Faulcon-court. White-horſe-Inn, large, and of good Reſort for Coaches and Horſes, and has ſome private Houſes in it. White's-court, but ſmall. Peterborough-court, indifferent broad at the Upper End, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and well inhabited. Racket-court, ſeated betwixt Shoe-lane and the Ditch-ſide, a very ſpacious and handſome Place, with good Houſes, well inhabited; the front Houſe takes up the Breadth of the Court. Popingey-alley, has an open Paſſage, but is ordinarily inhabited by Victuallers, Hatters, &c. Out of this Place is a Paſſage into Harp-alley, which leads to Fleet-ditch. Black-horſe-alley, ordinary. Out of this Alley is a Paſſage to Fleet-ditch.

Beyond Fleet-bridge, on the North Side, and on Ludgate-hill, is Bell-ſavage-Inn, very large, and fit to entertain a great many Coaches and Horſes, and has a very good Trade, eſpecially for Stage-Coaches. The firſt Yard is an open Square, with ſeveral private Houſes in it; the Inner Yard, which is much larger, being taken up in Stabling.

Flower-de-lis-court, long and ordinary, haveing at the Upper End a Paſſage into this Inn. Sword-and-buckler-court, alſo but ordinary, has a Paſſage into Flower-de-lis-court. Adjoining to Ludgate is Half-moon-court, large, but none of the beſt; at the Entrance is a Coffee-houſe of a good Trade.

On the South Side of Ludgate-hill is Oxenden-corner, over-againſt the Old-bailey, well built and inhabited. Dolphin-court, but ſmall, having but one Houſe, which is an Alehouſe, and has the Sign of the Dolphin. Goat-alley, indifferent good, with a Free-Stone Pavement. White-lion-court, long, narrow, and ordinary, with a dark Entrance. Hanging-ſword-alley, ſo called from a Houſe of that Name, which is but ordinary, and leads into a Court ſo called, which has two Paſſages into Water-lane, near adjoining. Bolt-and-tun-Inn, of great Reſort for Coaches and Horſes, eſpecially in Term-Time: This Inn has a Back-Gate into Water-lane; in the Paſſage to it are ſeveral Dwelling-Houſes. Boars-head-court, but ordinary, has a Paſſage into Bolt-and-tun-Inn. Ram-alley, taken up by Publick Houſes, being a kind of privileged Place for Debtors, before the late Act of Parliament for taking them away: It has a Paſſage into the Temple, and into Serjeants-Inn in Fleet-ſtreet. Mitre-court, an open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, down into the Temple, by Steps; a Place much taken up by Publick-Houſes: And this Place did pretend the like Privileges as Ram-alley, before the ſaid Act. Faulcon-court, a good open Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, in which are about four or five Houſes. Hercules- cules-pillars-alley, but narrow, and altogether inhabited by ſuch as keep Publick-Houſes for Entertainment, for which it is of Note.

ON the South Weſt Side of Fleet-ſtreet are the two Temples, called, the Inner and Middle; although the Buildings before the Fire were, for the greateſt Part of Timber, yet they wholly eſcaped the general Deſolation: But ſince that Time have felt two great Fires, and both beginning within the Confines of the Houſes, which deſtroyed almoſt all the Offices and Lodgings in the ſeveral Courts; but the Church, and both the Halls, eſcaped. Since which Fires, the Property of ſome of the Courts, and moſt of the Buildings, have been altered, as to their former Poſition; but again rebuilt in a moſt beautiful uniform Manner, very lofty, and more ſubſtantial and convenient than before, and all of Brick. Theſe two Temples take up a large Tract of Ground backwards, having no viſible Front to the Street, only the two Gates at the Entrance into the Middle-Temple-lane, and that leading to the Inner-Temple; in both which are Chambers for the Students in the Law; and backwards they are furniſhed with divers large and fair Courts, garniſhed with lofty Buildings, all of Brick, and uniform, viz. Exchequer-court, Tanfield-court, Cloyſters-court, Hare-court, Vine-court, Figtree-court, Elm-court, Pump-court, Middle-Temple-hall-court, Brick-court, and Eſſex-court. And in theſe Courts are kept divers Offices belonging to the Crown, with others belonging to the Law: As the Exchequer Office, the Crown Office, the Firſt-Fruits Office, the Attorney and Sollicitor-Generals Office, two of the Prothonotaries Office, the King's-Bench Office, &c.

BOTH Inns have a diſtinct Government, but for Divine Service they make Uſe of one Place, viz. the Temple Church; and each Society have their Side in the Church, and the Charges of the Church are defrayed betwixt them, as well for the Maintenance of the Maſter, Reader, and Clerk, as for the Reparations of the Church, in which there is a moſt ſtately Organ.

THE Inner-Temple is within this Ward, but the Middle-Temple is without it. Each of theſe Temples have their Halls, of which the Middle is the largeſt and moſt ſtately. And both Houſes have their Gardens fronting the River Thames, which are very well kept, with delightful Walks; the Inner-Temple Garden being the largeſt, the beſt, and moſt reſorted to. The Buildings in both Houſes that front the Thames, as lying open and airy, and enjoying a delighting Proſpect into Surrey, are of the moſt Eſteem.

THE Place called the King's-Bench Walks, is now made all level, neatly gravelled, and kept in good Order; and very commodious for the Attorneys, and others concerned in the Law, who meet every Afternoon in Term-Time, about their Law-Concerns, for their Clients.

AND at the lower End of this Walk, next the Thames, is built a large Office, called the King's-Bench Office, for keeping the Records of the Court, in caſe of Fire: This Office ſtanding apart, and no Buildings for Lodgings over it, but a Platform leaded.

AT the lower End of Middle-Temple-lane is a large and handſome Pair of Stairs of Free-Stone, for taking Water at, much reſorted to.

THESE Temples have a Paſſage into White-fryars by a Gate; into Fleet-ſtreet through Mitre-court, Ram-alley, and Serjeants-Inn; into Eſſex-ſtreet, and into the Strand, through Palſgraves-head-court, beſides the two large Gates in the two Temple-lanes.

THE ingenious Author of A Critical Review of the Publick Buildings in and about LONDON, &c. ſays, "The Property of this Place "is ſo divided and ſubdivided, that 'tis next to "impoſſible that any Agreement ſhould ever "be made in Favour of Harmony and Decora- "tion in the Buildings here. 'Tis certain that "nothing can be finer ſituated than the Temple, "along the Side of the River; and if we con- "ſider the Elevation of the Ground, and how "far it extends, the moſt barren Invention can't "fail of conceiving the Uſes it might be put "to, and the Beauties of it would admit of; at "preſent there is but one Thing which is worth "obſerving, and that is the old Church, and "even the Outſide of this is covered from the "View. The Inſide, indeed, is yet viſible, and "may juſtly be eſteemed one of the beſt Re- "mains of Gothick Architecture in the City.

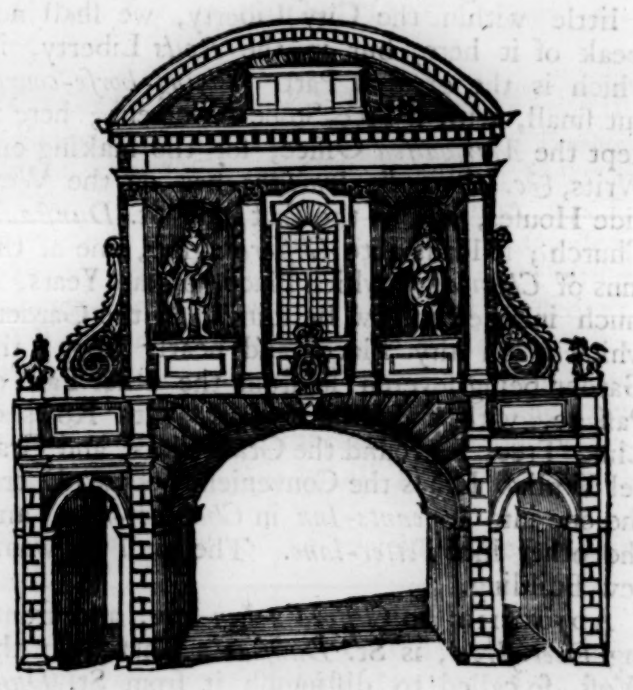
TEMPLE-BAR.



Temple-Bar is the Place where the Freedom of the City of LONDON, and the Liberty of the City of Weſtminſter part; which Separation was antiently only Poſts, Rails, and a Chain, ſuch as now are at Holbourn, Smithfield, and Whitechapel-bars. Afterwards there was a Houſe of Timber erected croſs the Street, with a narrow Gate-way, and an Entry on the South Side of it, under the Houſe. But ſince the great Fire, there is erected a ſtately Gate, with two Poſterns, on each Side, for the Convenience of Foot Paſſengers, with ſtrong Gates to ſhut up in the Nights, and always good Store of Watchmen, the better to prevent Danger.

THIS Gate is built all of Portland Stone, of Ruſtick Work below, and of the Corinthian Order. Over the Gate-way, on the Eaſt Side, fronting the City of LONDON, in two Niches, are the Effigies, in Stone, of Queen Elizabeth, and King James I. very curiouſly carved, and the King's Arms over the Key-Stone of the Gate, the Supporters being at a Diſtance over the Ruſtick Work.

AND on the Weſt Side, fronting the City of Weſtminſter, in two Niches, are the like Figures of King Charles I. and King Charles II. in Roman Habits. Through this Gate are two Paſſages for Foot Paſſengers: One on the South, over which is engraven, Erected, Sir Samuel Starling being Maior. And another on the North, over which is engraven, Continued, Sir Richard Ford, Maior. Finiſhed, Sir George Waterman, Maior.

UPON the Diſſolution of the Priory of White-fryars, the Church and Buildings in Proceſs of Time became ruinous, and were pulled down. Afterwards converted into Buildings, and now contains ſeveral Courts, Lanes, and Alleys; as Dogwel- Dogwel-court, Eſſex-court, Aſh-en-tree-court. Davis's-yard, which was lately purchaſed by Captain Seale, and converted into a Glaſs-Houſe, for making Flint Glaſſes, for which Art this Gentleman is very famous. Waterman's-lane, as leading to the River Thames, where there is a Pair of Stairs to take Water at; all Places of ordinary Account; beſides the long Turning Paſſage out of Fleet-ſtreet, into the Lower End of Water-lane, which runs by the Back-ſide of the Temple Buildings, where there is a Gate into the Temple.

THIS Place was formerly, ſince its building into Houſes, inhabited by Gentry; but ſome of the Inhabitants taking upon them to protect Perſons from Arreſts, upon a pretended Privilege belonging to the Place, the Gentry left it, and it became a Sanctuary to the Inhabitants, which they kept up by Force, againſt Law and Juſtice; ſo that it was ſufficiently crowded with ſuch diſabled and looſe kind of Lodgers, and had the Nick-name of Alſatia: But however, upon a great Concern of Debt, the Sheriff, with the Poſſe Comitatus, forced his Way in, to make a Search, and yet to little Purpoſe; for the Time of the Sheriff's coming not being concealed, and they having Notice thereof, took Flight, either to the Mint in Southwark, another ſuch Place, or ſome other private Place, till the Diſturbance was over, and then they returned.

IN the latter End of King William the Third's Reign, the Parliament taking this great Abuſe into Conſideration, an Act was made to put down this, the Savoy, and many other pretended Privileged Places.

THE Inhabitants of White-fryars maintain their own Poor, collect their Taxes, and chooſe their own Officers among themſelves.

Water-lane ſevereth White-fryars from Saliſbury-court; it is a good, broad, and ſtrait Street, which comes out of Fleet-ſtreet, and runs down to the Thames, where there is one of the City Lay-ſtalls, for the Soil of the Streets; which is taken from thence by Barges and Dung-Boats, and made Uſe of by Gardeners and Farmers, for the manuring their Grounds. This Lane is better built than inhabited, by reaſon of its being ſo peſtered with Carts to the Lay-ſtall and Wharfs, for Wood, Coals, &c. lying by the Water-Side, at the Bottom of this Lane; as alſo to White-fryars, into which it has an open Paſſage; as likewiſe another into Salisbury-court. In this Lane is Black-lion-Inn, of good Reſort, which has a Paſſage by Sufferance into Dogwel-court, in the Fryars. On the Weſt Side of this Lane is Briton's-alley, as alſo Dove-court, both ordinary Places, and has a Paſſage into the Fryars.

Dorſet-court, commonly called Salisbury-court, was a large Houſe inhabited by the Earls of Dorſet, which was, many Years ago, pulled down and converted into Buildings; as was the Garden and Wilderneſs; there being a handſome well built Street, which comes out of Fleet-ſtreet, called Dorſet-ſtreet, and runs Southward to the River Thames, where there are Stairs of Free-Stone, for taking Water at, where many Watermen ply.

NEAR to which Place lately ſtood the Theatre, or Play-Houſe; a neat Building, having a curious Front next the Thames, with an open Place for the Reception of Coaches: On the other Side is a large Wood-Yard Wharf belonging to the Company of Carpenters.

THIS Street, on the Weſt Side paſſing down to the Thames, is a handſome, airy, open Square, all taken up with good Buildings, the beſt inhabited of any in the Court; for that Part towards the Thames, as alſo the Wilderneſs, with the ſmall Courts, are not to be much boaſted of. In this Place are theſe Courts and Places of Note, viz. Blue-ball-court, an indifferent good Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Half-paved-court, but ordinary. Dorſet-court, a ſmall Place, handſomely built, and indifferently well inhabited, in which is the Charity-School for St. Bride's Pariſh, for Fifty Boys and Fifty Girls. Sugar-loaf-court, very ſmall and ordinary. The Wilderneſs, ſo called, as being built in that Part of the Garden where the Wilderneſs was. Fiſher's-alley, alſo ordinary, has a Paſſage into Water-lane. Near this Alley is George-yard, but mean; and Crown-alley, inconſiderable, has a Paſſage into Tuder-ſtreet, and ſo to the Ditch-ſide.

THIS Dorſet, or Salisbury-court, claimed a peculiar Liberty to itſelf, and to be exempt from the City Government, and the Inhabitants would not admit of the City Officers to make any Arreſt there. How far theſe Privileges reach, is uncertain, but many reſorted hither, who fled from their Creditors, till the Act was made to ſuppreſs pretended Privileged Places. Out of Dorſet-court is a paved Free-Stone Paſſage into St. Bridget's, the Pariſh-Church.

Bride-lane comes out of Fleet-ſtreet by St. Bridget's Church-Yard, which, with a turning Paſſage by Bridewell and the Ditch-ſide, falls down to Woodmongers Wharfs, by the Thames. This Lane is of Note for many Hatters there inhabiting; it took its Name from St. Bridget's Church, to which there is a Paſſage up Stone Steps.

THIS Church of St. Bridget, or St. Bride's, is large, and well built, ſince the great Fire, when it was wholly deſtroyed. It was rebuilt out of the Money raiſed by the Impoſition on Coals, as to the outward Structure; but the Pews, Galleries, and Inſide Work, was performed at the Charges of the Pariſhioners and Benefactors.

Bridewel, ſeated on the Weſt Side of Fleet-ditch, a large Building of Brick, already mentioned.

King Tuder, King Edward, and Water-ſtreets, are on the Back-ſide of Bridewel, and have a Paſſage into Salisbury-court, through Crown-alley; all Places inhabited by private People, and none of the meaneſt Rank; one Row, which fronts the Wood-Yard, and regards the Thames, conſiſts of good Buildings. Green's-rents falls into St. Bride's-lane, and is but mean, as is Bear-alley.

THE Ditch-ſide, called Fleet-ditch, is a ſpacious Place, with good Buildings on both Sides of the Canal, ſo made ſince the Fire of LONDON, and has on both Sides a broad Paſſage for Carts to the Wharfs next the Thames; this Canal is railed in, for fear of Danger of People's falling into it. The Part of this Canal, on the South Side, next the Thames, has the Eaſt Side in the Ward of Farringdon within; but all the reſt, down to Holbourn-bridge, on both Sides, is in this Ward. The Weſt Side of the Part next to Holbourn, is the beſt inhabited; and of late, much taken up by Upholſters, and others that ſell Second-hand Goods, for which it is of Note. The Eaſt Side of that Part from Fleet-bridge to the Thames, has the beſt Houſes, and beſt inhabited. On the Weſt Side, from Fleet-bridge to Holbourn-bridge, are ſeveral ſmall Alleys which lead up to Shoe-lane, where they ſhall be ſpoken of. On the Eaſt Side is the Fleet-Priſon.

IN antient Times there was a Brook, called Turnmill-brook, which ran under Holbourn and Fleet-bridges into the Thames, as is before-mentioned.

Anno viceſimo ſecundo Car. II. in the Act for Rebuilding of the City, it was enacted:

" THAT the Channel of Bridewell-dock, from " the Channel of the River Thames to Holbourn- " bridge, ſhall be ſunk to a ſufficient Level, " whereby to make it navigable; and that the " Ground to be ſet out for the Breadth of the " ſaid Channel, and of the Wharfs on each Side " thereof, ſhall not be in leſs Breadth than one " hundred Feet; nor ſhall exceed one hundred " and twenty Feet. And that all the Wharf- " Ground on each Side of the ſaid River, ſhall " lie open and at large, (Crains and Stairs only " excepted) without any Diviſion or Separation; " and each Perſon's Propriety therein, to be " diſtinguiſhed only by Denter-ſtones in the " Pavement thereof. —— And that all Buildings " that ſhall hereafter immediately border upon " each Side of the ſaid Wharfs, ſhall front and " be placed in the Line that ſhall be ſet out for " the Bounds of the Wharfs from the Channel. " ——— And that the ſaid Buildings ſhall be of " the Second Rate of Buildings, mention'd in " the Act for Rebuilding of the City. ——— " And that no Lighter, Boat, or Veſſel, ſhall " lie before any of the ſaid Wharfs or Keys, " longer than ſhall be neceſſary for the Lading " or Unlading of Goods, without the Conſent or " Permiſſion of the Wharfingers or Proprietors " thereof.—— And that it ſhall and may be " lawful for any Perſon or Perſons to land any " Goods and Merchandizes at any of the ſaid " Wharfs or Keys, within this new Channel or " River. For Wharfage or Crainage whereof, " every Proprietor, Wharfinger, or other Per- " ſon concerned, ſhall demand and receive ſuch " Rates (and no other) for the ſame, as ſhall " from Time to Time be ſet and appointed by " his Majeſty, with the Advice of his Privy " Council. And that certain reaſonable Rates " for Tolls, and other Profits ariſing by the Na- " vigation of the ſaid Channel, ſhall be ſet and " appointed by the Lord Mayor and Court of " Aldermen (with Approbation of two of the " Barons of the Exchequer.) And the ſame " Tolls and Profits, veſted in the Mayor, Com- " monalty, and Citizens of the City of LON- " DON, for Preſervation of the ſaid Naviga- " tion-Sluices, and other accidental Charges " thereof.

" AND for the carrying on of this Work, it " was enacted and declared, That the ſinking " and making the ſaid Channel of Bridewell- " dock and Fleet-ditch, from the Thames to " Holbourn-bridge, and the Sluices for the better " Navigation thereof, and the Raiſing and Sink- " ing other Wharfs or Keys, on each Side of the " ſaid Bridewell-dock and Fleet-ditch, (whereby " to bring the ſame to a Level) ſhall be born " and firſt defrayed, by the Mayor and Com- " monalty, and Citizens of LONDON, out " of the fourth Part of the Impoſition to be rai- " ſed on Coals, by Virtue of this Act. And " in the next Place, after the Charge before- " mentioned ſhall be born out of the ſaid Fourth " Part, Satisfaction ſhall be made out of the " ſaid Fourth Part, to the Proprietors whoſe " Ground ſhall be laid open, or from whom any " Ground hath been, or ſhall be taken, for the " ſaid Publick Uſe.

BY Virtue of this Act of Parliament, the Work of making this Channel navigable, began in the Year 1668, and was finiſhed in November 1673. It contained in Length, from South at the Thames, to North at Holborn-bridge, two thouſand and one hundred Feet. It is in Breadth forty Feet; ſo that two Lighters might meet, and paſs each other in any Part of it. It is wharfed on both Sides with Stone and Brick, laid with Tarras. It had a ſtrong Campſhot all along on both Sides, over the Brick Wharfing, with Land-Ties in ſeveral Places. It had Rails of Oak, Breaſt high, above the Campſhot, to prevent Dangers that might happen in the Night Seaſon. It had five Feet Water at the Head thereof, at Holbourn-bridge; and that at a Five-o'-Clock Tide, (which is the ſlackeſt of all high Tides) but at Spring, and other Nepe Tides, it hath much more Water. The Wharfs on each Side of this Channel, are thirty-five Feet broad, with fair Buildings.

THE whole Charge of Sinking, Clearing, and Levelling, Wharfing, Planking, and Piling, Paving, Poſting, and Railing, amounted in all to Twenty Seven Thouſand, Seven Hundred, and Seventy Seven Pounds; beſides what was paid to the ſeveral Proprietors whoſe Grounds were taken, or may be, for the Enlargement of the Wharfs and Key.

OVER this Canal there were four Bridges, all of ſolid Portland Stone; two of them, viz. Fleet and Holbourn-bridges, were of Stone before the Fire of LONDON; but afterwards much enlarged and beautified. The other two, viz. one againſt Bridewell, and the other againſt Fleet-lane, were, before the Fire, only of Timber; but, ſince that, were handſomely built with Arches and Steps, of Purbeck and Portland Stone. The latter is now took down, and the Ditch filling up for divers Uſes.

THE Fleet Priſon is ſeated on the Eaſt Side of the Canal, being large, and reckon'd the beſt Priſon of any in this City, for good Rooms, and other Conveniencies, the Benefit of an open Yard and Garden, incloſed with a very high Wall and Fence. The Priſon-Keeper is called, The Warden of the Fleet. It belongs to the Court of Common-Pleas. To this Priſon, Perſons are committed for Contempt of Orders, &c. in the High Court of Chancery, or upon Debt, when they, by a Writ of Habeas Corpus, remove themſelves thither, from another Priſon. And, as a further Perquiſite to the Warden, beſides his Fees from the Priſoners for turning the Key, Chamber-Rent, &c. which is very conſiderable, he hath the Rents and Profits of the Shops in Weſtminſter-hall.

TO this Priſon there have been, ſome Years ſince, granted Rules, which are all the North Side of Ludgate-hill, the Weſt Side of the Old Bailey, to Fleet-lane, and down the ſame on the South Side; and ſo the Eaſt Side of the Row of Houſes next the Fleet, taking in all the Courts and Alleys within the ſaid Limits.

THIS Fleet Priſon was conſumed in the Fire of LONDON; and, during the Time of the Rebuilding, the Priſoners that were therein at that Time, were removed to Ceroon-houſe in South Lambeth, which was made into a Priſon; and, upon the finiſhing of this Place, the Priſoners were brought back; and ever ſince it hath continued as a Priſon.

ON the Eaſt Side of Fleet-ditch, from this Priſon to Holbourn-bridge, are theſe Places: Fleet-lane, which comes down from the Old Bailey, over-againſt the Seſſions-Houſe, and falls into the Ditch-ſide, a Place of no great Account for Buildings or Inhabitants. In this Lane are ſeveral ſmall Courts, as Cheſhire-rents, Well-yard, Harrow-court, and Cock-alley, all Places but of mean Account.

ON the North Side is Seacoal-lane. This Lane is very ordinary, both as to Houſes and Inhabitants. Out of this Lane is a Paſſage to Snow-hill, and another into Green-arbour, and a Third into Biſhop's-court; the two laſt aſcended up by a great many Steps, or a Pair of Stairs, made through London-wall; but having their chief Entrance out of the Little Old Bailey, is there there taken Notice of. On the West Side of this Lane, are these Alleys, which fall into the Ditch-side, viz. George-alley, or Yard; Bear-alley, on the South Side of which is another small Alley called Little Bear-alley, Goose-alley, against which is a small Place call'd Ford's-rents.

Newcastle-street comes out of Seacoal-lane, and falls into the Ditch-side, an open Place, and pretty well built.

Turn-again-lane hath a Passage out of Town-ditch into Snow-hill, a Place tolerably well built. At the End, next to Snow-hill, on the North Side, is a Timber-Yard; Crown-court, very small, and on the South Side is Queen's-head-court, indifferently built.

The Old Bailey, of which there are two, the Great and the Little. The Great Old Bailey is an open Street, with good built Houses, and well inhabited by Tradesmen, and others. In this Place is Justice-Hall, commonly call'd the Sessions-House, as well for the City and Liberty thereof, as for the County of Middlesex. This is a Building commodious enough for the Use it is designed, having two large Galleries on the Sides or Ends, for Auditors and Spectators. The Court-Room is advanced by Stone-Steps from the Ground, with Rails and Ballisters, inclosed from the Ground before it. The Bail-Dock, which fronts the Court, where the Prisoners are kept till their Trials, is also inclosed. Over the Court-Room is a stately Dining-Room, sustained by ten Stone Pillars, and over that a Platform leaded, with Rails and Ballisters. On each Side the Court are Lodging-Rooms and other Conveniencies: It stands backwards, so that it hath no Front towards the Street, only the Gateway, leading into the Yard before the House, which is spacious, and cost above 6000 l. building. And here the Lord-Mayor, Recorder, the Aldermen, and Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex, sit and keep his Majesty's Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, for the Trial of Malefactors, for Treason, Murder, Felonies, Burglaries, and other Riots and Offences committed within the City of LONDON, and County of Middlesex.

This Court or Sessions is held, most commonly, some Days before and after the four Terms; also once in the Time of Lent, and once in the long Vacation, about Bartholomewtide.

At the Time when the Sessions are held, which commonly last three Days, every Morning before the Court sits, the Prisoners to be tried are brought hither from Newgate, the Jail for such Offenders; and here are two Places provided for them to be kept in till they are called to their Trials, one for the Men, the other for the Women; and at Night, when the Court breaks up, or adjourns to another Day, the Prisoners are returned to Newgate, under the Conduct of the Serjeants and their Yeomen, who are the Sheriffs Officers, and take their Turns to attend the Court for that Purpose.

The Lord-Mayor is Chief Judge of this Court, but is assisted by the Recorder of the City, and oftentimes by the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and some other of the Judges. Of this more will be said hereafter in what relates to the Government of the City.

The East Side of the Old Bailey runs down by the City Wall, upon the Ditch called Hounds-ditch, from Ludgate to Newgate. About the Middle of the great Street, on this Side, is Ball's-court, which is but small; also Red-cross-court, which is indifferent. On the West of this Street, from the Corner of Ludgate-hill to Fleet-lane, are these Places, viz. Ship-court, but small; Prideaux-court, large, with good Houses on the West Side, having an Entrance into it, fit for Coach or Cart; Black-and-white-court, a large open Place, with handsome Buildings; at the upper End of which is Chequer-yard; out of which is a Passage into Fleet-lane.

In the Little Old Bailey are these Places, viz. Dean's-court, long and narrow, with a Free-stone Pavement; Brown's-court, long, narrow, and ordinary; Ellis-court, well built and inhabited; Bishop's-court, indifferently well inhabited; and hath a Passage down Steps into Seacoal-lane; Green-arbour-court, at the upper End is a very good Square, with tolerable good Houses, and Inhabitants answerable. Out of this Court is also a Passage down Steps into Seacoal-lane. And out of this Court is another Passage into Angel-court, seated on Snow-hill, against the Saracen's-head-Inn, being a very handsome Place, having at the upper End a very good large House, with a Garden before it, once made use of for the Farthing-Office; St. Dunstan's-court, seated betwixt Bishop's-court and Ellis-court.

Now back to the West Part of Fleet-street, on the North Side, is Chancery-lane, a Street of a very great Resort, and well inhabited by Tradesmen, in the Part next Fleet-street, and in that Part next to Holbourn, (into which it falls) by Lawyers, and those depending on them: And the rather, for that in this Lane is Lincoln's-Inn, Serjeants-Inn, the Rolls, the Examiners Office within the Rolls Yard; the Six Clerks Office, (to which belong Twelve Masters in Chancery, and Six Clerks); Symond's-Inn, where the Register's Office for the Court of Chancery is kept; the Cursitors Office; the Office for the Masters in Chancery, &c. All which Places are out of the City-Liberty, except Serjeants-Inn, which is an antient Building. Opposite to this Inn, is Crown-court, a square Place, but the Building old. The City-Liberty goes not much farther.

Next, on the North Side, is Fetter-lane. For the Generality, the Houses here are good, and well inhabited. It runs Northwards from Fleet-street into Holbourn. Of this Lane, the Middle Part is the best. CHAP. XIII.

BRIDGE WARD Without.

HAVING treated of the Wards in LONDON, on the North Side the Thames (in Number 25) we are now to croſs over the ſaid River, into the Borough of Southwark; which is alſo a Ward of LONDON without the Walls, on the South Side thereof, as Portſoken is on the Eaſt, and Faringdon extra on the Weſt.

IT was antiently called the Village, or Town of Southwark; and the City of LONDON, from antient Times, endeavoured to get this Place under its own Juriſdiction, finding a great Inconvenience by the Neighbourhood of it, Malefactors in LONDON eſcaping thither out of the Reach of the Cognizance and Puniſhment of the City Magiſtrates: But how Matters ſtood in former Times between the City and Southwark, may, in ſome Meaſure, be ſeen by theſe Paſſages, ſome three or four hundred Years ago.

THE City of LONDON came to have a Propriety in this Borough for many Ages paſt, by petitioning the Parliament in the firſt Year of Edward III. ſhewing the great Inconvenience and Miſchief accruing to the City of LONDON by Malefactors, who did many lewd Deeds there, and then fled to Southwark, out of the Reach of the City-Officers, and ſo were ſecure. On this Reaſon the King granted the City a Charter for the Place; which was to this Tenor:

Edwardus Dei gratia, &c. i. e. "Edward by "the Grace of God King of England, Lord of "Ireland, and Duke of Acquitain, To all to whom "the preſent Letters ſhall come, Greeting. "Know ye, That whereas our well beloved, "the Citizens of the City of LONDON, by "their Petition before us, and our Council, in "in our preſent Parliament, called together at "Weſtminſter, exhibited; have given us to un- "derſtand, that Felons, Robbers, and divers "other Malefactors, and Diſturbers of the Peace, "who in the ſaid City, and elſewhere, have "committed Murthers, Robberies, and divers "other Felonies, departing ſecretly from the "ſame City, after ſuch Felonies committed, "flee to the Village of Southwark, and cannot "there be attacked by the Miniſters of the ſaid "City, and are there publickly received; ſo that "they are made bolder by the Defect of due "Puniſhment, to commit ſuch Felonies; and "therefore having beſought of us, for the Pre- "ſervation of our Peace in the ſaid City, and to "reſtrain the Wickedneſs of thoſe Evil-doers, "that we would grant to them to have the ſaid "Village, to them their Heirs and Succeſſors, "for ever, for the Term thence due to us at our "Exchequer, to be yearly paid; we, in Conſi- "deration of the Premiſes, and by the Aſſent of "the Prelates, Earls, Barons, and Commonalty "of our Kingdom in Parliament aforeſaid aſſem- "bled, have granted for us and our Heirs, to "the ſaid Citizens, the ſaid Village of South- "wark, with the Appurtenances: To have and "to hold, to them, their Heirs and Succeſſors, "Citizens of the ſaid City, from us and our "Heirs for ever; paying to us and our Heirs, "per Ann. at our Exchequer, at the accuſtomed "Terms, the Farm thence due and accuſtomed. "In witneſs whereof we have cauſed theſe our "Letters to be made Patents. Witneſs our ſelf at "Weſtminſter, the 6th Day of March, in the "firſt Year of our Reign.

THIS is recorded in the Memoranda of the Exchequer, de Anno Edw. III. poſt Conqueſtum primo finiente, incipiente ſecundo, int. Recorda de Termino Sti. Michaelis.

So that Edward III. in the ſecond of his Reign, granted to the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, Ballivam de Suthwark, i. e. the Bailiwick of Southwark; which they held of the King at Fee-Farm, paying 10 l. a Year; and their Bailiff was Thomas Clopham, who ſeems to be put in by the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON.

THERE was another Patent of the ſaid King's, in the 13th of his Reign, to pay no more than 10 l. for the ſaid Fee-Farm.

IN the 51ſt of the ſaid King Edward III. the Citizens pray that King to confirm to them their Liberties for puniſhing all Miſdemeanors in Southwark: And that Commandment be given, that the Marſhal do not intermeddle within the Parts of Southwark, that be guildable. This was not granted; the King anſwering, That he could not do it without doing Wrong to others.

AGAIN, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of LONDON, pray King Richard II. in the firſt Year of his Reign, that they may have the like Puniſhment of Evil-doers in Southwark as in LONDON, ſaved to all Lords their Rights. But that King alſo denied, anſwering, That it was prejudicial to the King, and alſo to the Biſhops of Canterbury and Wincheſter.

BUT King Henry IV. in the 7th of his Reign, granted a Patent to the City, for Power to arreſt Robbers and other Malefactors in the Borough of Southwark; and to bring them thence into the Priſon of Newgate, and to exerciſe almoſt every other Kind of Juriſdiction there; and granting the Citizens all Goods and Chattels, called Waifs and Strays, and the Aſſize of Bread, Wine, Beer, and of all other Victuals; and to have Return of all the King's Briefs, Extracts, Precepts and Commandments. Teſte the 23d Day of July in the ſaid 7th Year of his Reign.

YET the next Year, viz. 8 Henry IV. the Borough of Southwark preferred a Petition to the ſaid King; That being Parcel of the County of Surrey, and paying 10 l. Fee-Farm to him, they may be exempted from the Juriſdiction of LONDON, notwithſtanding any Letters Patents obtained by the ſaid City. The Anſwer was, The Parties ſhould come before the King and his Council, and ſhould be heard according to their Evidence.

AND Edward IV. in the 7th of his Reign, granted a Brief to the Sheriff of Surrey, for Allowance of Liberties and Juriſdictions within the Borough of Southwark.

BUT before the particular Deſcription of this Ward, it will not be impertinent to declare when, and by what Means the Borough of Southwark, now called Bridge Ward without, was made one of the ſix and twenty Wards belonging to the City of LONDON, which was in this Manner:

AFTER the Diſſolution of Monaſteries, Abbeys, Priories, and other Religious Houſes, in this Realm of England; The Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of this City of LONDON, takeing into their Conſideration, how commodious and convenient it would be to the City, to have the Borough of Southwark annexed thereto, and that the ſame Borough was in the King's Hands wholly, they became humble Suitors to King Henry VIII. and to the Lords of his Highneſs's Privy Council, for the obtaining of the ſame. Which Suit not being granted to them, after the Deceaſe of King VIII. they renewed their Suit to his Son and next Succeſſor, King Edward VI. and to the Lords of his Privy-Council, for the obtaining the ſame Borough.

AT length, after long Suit, and much Labour, it pleaſed King Edward VI. by his Letters Patents, ſealed with the Great Seal of England, bearing Date at Weſtminſter, the 23d Day of April, in the 4th Year of his Reign, as well in Conſideration of the Sum of 647 l. 2 s. 1 d. of lawful Money of England, paid to his Highneſs's Uſe, by the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of LONDON, as for divers other Conſiderations him thereunto moving; to give and grant to the ſaid Mayor and Commonalty, and to the Citizens of LONDON, divers Meſſuages, Lands, and Tenements, lying in or near the ſaid Borough of Southwark, in the ſaid Letters Patents particularly expreſſed, which were ſometimes the Lands of Charles, then late Duke of Suffolk, and of whom King Henry VIII. did buy and purchaſe the ſame.

THIS Purchaſe conſiſted of a Meſſuage ſituate within the Manſion of the late Duke of Suffolk, in the Tenure of one Simon Sybatſon, and divers other Meſſuages, Lands and Tenements in Southwark, and divers Liberties there. The yearly Value whereof was 35 l. 14 s. 4 d. The Patent dated in April, to commence at the Feaſt of St. Michael then laſt paſt.

Alſo the Houſe, Meſſuage, or Lodging there, called the King's-Bench, and the Gardens to the ſame belonging, ſo long as it ſhould be uſed as a Priſon for Priſoners, as it was then uſed.

Alſo there was excepted and reſerved out of the ſaid Grant, the Houſe, Meſſuage, or Lodging there, called the Marſhalſea, and the Gardens to the ſame belonging, ſo long as it ſhould be uſed as a Priſon for Priſoners, as it was then uſed.

ALSO it was provided, that the ſaid Letters Patent ſhould not be prejudicial to the Officers of the Great Maſter or Steward of the King's Houſhold, within the Borough and Precincts aforeſaid, to be executed, while the ſame Borough and Precincts ſhould be within the Verge. Nor to John Gates, Kt. one of the Gentlemen of the King's Privy-Chamber, concerning any Lands, Tenements, Offices, Profits, Franchiſes, or Liberties to him granted, during his Life, by the ſaid King Edward VI, or by his Father King Henry VIII.

ABOUT a Month after the ſaid Borough of Southwark was ſo granted to the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of LONDON, and they by Force of the ſaid Letters Patent ſtood charged with the Ordering, Survey and Government of the ſame Borough, and of all the King's Subjects inhabiting therein, and repairing thither: At a Court held before Sir Rowland Hill, Kt. then Lord-Mayor of LONDON, and the Aldermen of the ſame City, in the Guild-hall of LONDON, on Tueſday the Eight and Twentieth Day of May, in the ſaid fourth Year of the Reign of King Edward VI, the ſaid Town or Borough was named and called, The Ward of Bridge-Ward Without: And Sir John Ayliffe, Kt. Citizen and Barber-Surgeon of LONDON, was then alſo named, elected, and choſen by the ſame Court, to be Alderman of the ſame Ward.

AND it was then alſo order'd, That the ſaid Sir John Ayliffe, by that Name of Alderman of Bridge-Ward Without, and all other that from thenceforth ſhould be Alderman of the ſame Ward, ſhould have the Rule, Survey, and Government, not only of the Inhabitants of the ſaid Town and Borough of Southwark, and other the King's People repairing to the ſame, but alſo of all the Liberties, Franchiſes, and Privileges within the ſaid Town and Borough, then formerly granted by the King and his Progenitors to the ſaid Mayor, Commonalty and Citizens of LONDON. And for the due Execution of which Office, the ſaid Sir John Ayliffe was then preſently ſworn and admitted.

THIS Borough, which is in the County of Surrey, conſiſts of divers Streets, Ways and Winding-lanes, all full of Buildings inhabited. To begin Weſtward: On the Bank of the Thames there is a continued Building of Tenements, about half a Mile in Length to the Bridge.

THEN from the Bridge, ſtrait toward the South, is a continued Street, call'd, Long Southwark, built, on both Sides, with divers Lanes and Alleys up to St. George's Church, and beyond it thro' Blackman-ſtreet, towards Newtown, [or Newington.] The Liberties of which Borough extend almoſt to the Pariſh-Church of Newtown aforeſaid, diſtant one Mile from London-bridge; and alſo South Weſt, a continued Building, almoſt to Lambeth, more than a Mile from the ſaid Bridge.

THEN from the Bridge, along the Thames Eaſtward, is St. Olave's-ſtreet, having continued Buildings on both Sides, with Lanes and Alleys up to Battle-bridge, to Horſleydown, and towards Rotherhithe, a good Half Mile in Length from London-bridge.

So that the whole continued Buildings on the Bank of the River, from Weſt to Eaſt, may be accounted more than a Mile in Length.

THEN, from the Entering towards the ſaid Horſe-ly-down, is another continued Street, called Bermondſey-ſtreet, which ſtretches South; likewiſe furniſhed with Buildings on both Sides, almoſt half a Mile in Length, up to where the Monaſtery of St. Saviour, called Bermondſey, ſtood, before the Diſſolution.

FROM thence is Long-lane, ſo called from its Length, turning Weſt to St. George's Church, afore-named. Out of which Lane breaks another Street towards the South and by Eaſt, and this is call'd Kent-ſtreet, becauſe it is the Way leading into that County: And theſe are the Bounds of the Borough.

THE Antiquities moſt remarkable in this Borough were, Firſt, for Eccleſiaſtical, Bermondſey, an Abbey of Black Monks; St. Mary Overies, a Priory of Canons Regular; St. Thomas, a College or Hoſpital for the Poor; and the Loke, a Lazar-Houſe in Kent-ſtreet. There were ſix Pariſh-Churches, five of which are yet remaining. The firſt was St. Mary Magdalen, in the Priory of St. Mary Overy, which is the Pariſh-Church for the ſaid St. Mary Magdalen, and for St. Margaret on the Hill, that is now called St. Saviour's.

St. MARGARET on the Hill.

ST. Margaret on the Hill, which now long ſince is ceaſed from being a Church: But when it was, it had Monuments for John Hough, Eſq; Thomas Curſon, Eſq; Thomas Yard, Eſq; Robert Barbet, Eſq; William Sidney, Eſq; Peter Saverey, Thomas Hever, and Gayer Moreton.

THIS Church being put down, is now a Court for Juſtice, and called the Town-hall, fronting the Street, was burnt down, and rebuilt again. On which ſtands a fine Statue of King Charles II, with his Scepter in his Hand; underneath thus inſcribed: Combuſtum, An. 1670. Reædificatum annis 1685, & 1686. JACOBO SMYTH, Mil. & ROBERTO GEFFERY, Mil. Prætoribus. Impenſis, S. P. Q. L.

St. Thomas in the Hoſpital ſerves for a Pariſh-Church, as before. St. George, a Pariſh-Church, as before it did. So does St. Olave, and St. Mary Magdalen, by the Abbey of Bermondſey.

THERE are theſe Priſons or Jails:

The Clinke, on the Bank Side.
The Compter, in the late Pariſh-Church of St. Margaret.
The Marſhalſea.
The King's Bench.
The County Jail. And Bridewell.

ANTIENT Houſes of moſt Note were:

The Biſhop of Wincheſter's Houſe.
The Biſhop of Rocheſter's Houſe.
The Duke of Suffolk's Houſe, or Southwark-Place.
The Tabard, an Hoſtery, or Inn.
The Abbot of Hyde his Houſe.
The Prior of Lewis his Houſe.
The Abbot of St. Auguſtine his Houſe.
The Bridge-houſe.
The Abbot of Battaile his Houſe.
Battaile Bridge.
The Stews on the Bank of Thames.
And the Bear Gardens there.

OF theſe laſt there were two, the Old Bear-garden, and the New; Places wherein were kept Bears, Bulls, and other Beaſts, to be baited; as alſo Maſtives, in their ſeveral Kennels, were there nouriſhed to bait them.

Paris-Garden is now become a Pariſh, and a Church is built there, called Chriſt-Church. For the doing of which there was an Act of Parliament made under King Charles II, intitled, An Act for making the Manor of Paris-Garden a Pariſh, Paris-Garden made the Pariſh of Chriſt-Church by Act of Parliament.

Pariſh, and calling it Chriſt-Church. Wherein may be ſeen ſome Account of the building of the Church, and the Occaſion of making it a Pariſh. It ſets forth, how John Marſhal, of the Borough of Southwark, Gent. by his laſt Will dated the 21ſt of Auguſt, 1627, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, the 15th of April, 1631, did declare his Will and Meaning to be, That his Feoffees, or Truſtees, (of whom Sir Samuel Brown, late one of his Majeſty's Juſtices of the Court of Common-Pleas, Weſtminſter, was one, and the Survivor of all the reſt of them) their Heirs and Aſſigns, ſhould raiſe out of the Revenues of his Lands, mentioned in the ſame Will, the Sum of 700 l. and with it erect a new Church and Church-yard, in ſuch Place as they ſhould think fit. And that the ſaid Sir Samuel, in Purſuance of a Decree in Chancery, made 1663, in a Cauſe wherein the ſaid Sir Samuel was Defendant, upon the Statute made in the 44th of Queen Elizabeth, touching Gifts to pious and charitable Uſes, did convey all the Lands mentioned to be deviſed to the ſaid Sir Samuel, and other his Co-truſtees, by the aforeſaid Will of the ſaid John Marſhal, unto Sir Edward Bromfield, Bart. Peter Scot, L. L. D. Edward Woodward, James Reading, Richard How, Edward Cook, Edward Ball, Eſquires; John Butler, William Sherlock, Samuel Hyland, Michael Hart, and William Apps, Gentlemen, in the ſaid Decree nominated and appointed Truſtees, or Feoffees, in that Behalf, and their Heirs and Aſſigns for ever; to the Intent to perform the ſeveral Truſts mentioned in the ſaid Will of John Marſhal. And that the ſaid new Truſtees raiſed the ſaid 700 l. out of the ſaid Rents: And that William Angel, Eſq; Owner of the ſaid Lordſhip, Manor, or Liberty of Paris-Garden, by his Indenture dated April 1, 1670, did, for Conſiderations therein mentioned, infeoffe, and by Fine aſſure unto the ſaid Sir Edward Bromfield, and the other Truſtees, their Heirs and Aſſigns for ever, a convenient Parcel of Land for the Building of a Church, and for a Church-yard: And that the laſt mentioned Truſtees had laid out the ſaid Sum of 700 l. and other Monies, upon the Building of a Church on the Ground aforeſaid, according to the Will of the ſaid Marſhal: And by the ſame Will the ſaid Truſtees were to allow to a Miniſter of the ſaid new Church, out of the Rents of the Lands of the ſaid Marſhal, expreſs'd in his Will 40 l. per Ann. till out of the Reſidue of the Rents and Profits of his Lands, they can raiſe ſufficient to purchaſe Lands and Tenements to the Value of 60 l. per Ann. over and above all Reprizes. And ſuch Lands and Tenements to purchaſe, and to endow the ſaid Church with the ſame.

And that after the building of a Church, and a Miniſter ſettled therein, the ſaid Truſtees were to diſpoſe of, and pay the Rents, Iſſues and Profits of a certain Meſſuage or Tenement in Axyard in St. Saviour's Pariſh, of the yearly Value of 20 Marks, unto the ſaid Miniſter and his Succeſſors for ever.

And that the Choice of the ſaid Miniſter is by the ſaid Will, to be for ever in the ſaid Truſtees, and their Succeſſors for the Time being.

And laſtly, That the Inhabitants of the ſaid Paris-Garden had petitioned the Parliament to be made a diſtinct Pariſh, to the Intent that theſe Things might be accompliſhed.

Upon all theſe Premiſes it was enacted, 1. That Paris-Garden be a diſtinct Pariſh accordingly, ſubject to the ſame Orders as other Pariſhes, and called Chriſt-Church, according to Marſhal's Will. And, 2. That the ſaid Truſtees, viz. Sir Edward Bromfield, &c. and the major Part of them, be the Patrons of the Church, they, their Heirs and Aſſigns for ever. 3. That the Rector be empowered (without any Licence to purchaſe in Mortmain) to have, receive, purchaſe, and take to him all that is left by the Will of the ſaid Marſhal. 4. The Inhabitants ſhall be liable to all ſuch Duties, Offices, Rates and Aſſignments, as if it had been an antient Pariſh. 5. The Ground and Soil whereon the Church ſtands, and the Church-yard, to remain in the ſaid Truſtees, and their Heirs, &c. for ever, to the Uſes aforeſaid, and ſuch Articles, Clauſes and Agreements as are expreſſed in the Indentures made by the ſaid William Angel, unto the ſaid Truſtees. 6. The Profits ariſing by Burials in the Church and Churchyard (except the Vaults made by William Angel) to go towards the Repairs of the Church, Chancel, and Vaults abouts. 7. That there ſhall be yearly choſen by the Inhabitants of the ſaid Pariſh, two or more Church-wardens, two or more Overſeers, and two Surveyors of the High-ways, and to have the ſame Powers as in other Pariſhes. 8. The Truſtees are authorized to pay the Rector till the ſaid Church be endowed, the 40 l. per Ann. mention'd in the Will. 9. The Rector to receive all ſuch Tythes, Compoſitions for Tythes, Oblations and Dues whatſoever, which are payable, or ought to be paid by the Inhabitants of Paris-Garden. 10. The Truſtees allowed to raiſe farther out of the Eſtate of the ſaid John Marſhal, over and above the 700 l. already, a Sum not exceeding 400 l. as they, or the major Part of them, ſhall judge neceſſary for the compleating of the ſaid new Church, and for paying the Church-wardens or Impropriators of St. Saviour's 100 l. for, and in reſpect of ſuch voluntary Contributions and Tythes as have formerly come unto the ſaid Church-wardens from the Inhabitants of the ſaid Lordſhip, Manor, or Liberty, for repairing the Church. And they are required to pay the ſaid Sum accordingly.

Provided always, That nothing in this Act ſhall extend, or be conſtrued to extend, to make any Part of the Manor of Southwark, or the Clinke Liberty, belonging to the See of Wincheſter, to be within the Pariſh of Chriſt-Church aforeſaid, or to alter, diminiſh, or abridge any of the Paſſages, Bounds, Limits, Ways or Bridges, of Right belonging to the Manor of Southwark, or Clinke Liberty aforeſaid.

The Inhabitants hereabouts, on the Weſt Part of Southwark, bordering on the Thames, were multiplied conſiderably, conſiſting of Woodmongers, Timber-merchants, Shipwrights, Bargemen, Watermen, and ſuch whoſe Livings depended upon the River. And being a good Diſtance from St. Mary Overy's Church, it was a ſeaſonable and pious Act to provide a nearer Place for the People to meet together for Divine Worſhip.

The Stews on the Bank Side.

Next, on the Bank, was ſome Time the Bordello, or Stews, a Place ſo called from certain Stew-Houſes there privileged for the Repair of incontinent Men to the like Women.

In a Parliament held at Weſtminſter, the 8th of Henry II. it was ordained by the Commons, and confirmed by the King and Lords, That divers Conſtitutions for ever ſhould be kept within that Lordſhip, or Franchiſe, according to the old Cuſtoms that had been there uſed Time out of Mind; amongſt which, theſe following were ſome, viz.

That no Stewholder, or his Wife, ſhould let or ſtay any ſingle Woman to go and come freely at all Times, when they liſted.

No Stewholder to keep any Woman to Board, but ſhe to Board abroad at her Pleaſure.

To take no more for the Woman's Chamber in the Week, than fourteen Pence.

Not

NOT to keep any ſingle Woman in his Houſe on Holidays, but the Bailiff to ſee them voided out of the Lordſhip.

No ſingle Woman to be kept againſt her Will, that would leave her Sin.

No Stewholder to receive any Woman of Religion, or any Man's Wife.

No ſingle Woman to take Money to lie with any Man, but ſhe might lie with him all Night till the Morrow.

No Man to be drawn or enticed into any Stewhouſe.

THE Conſtables, Bailiffs, and others, every Week to ſearch every Stewhouſe.

No Stewholder to keep any Woman that hath the perilous Infirmity of Burning; nor to ſell Bread, Ale, Fleſh, Fiſh, Wood, Coal, or any Victuals, &c.

THESE, and many more Orders were to be obſerved, upon great Pain and Puniſhment.

THERE were divers Patents of Confirmation, one was dated 1345, the 19th of Edward III. In the 4th of Richard II. theſe Stewhouſes belonging to William Walworth, then Mayor of LONDON, were farmed by Froes of Flanders, and were ſpoiled by Walter Tylar and other Rebels of Kent. Notwithſtanding, Ordinance for the ſame Place and Houſes, were again confirmed in the Reign of Henry VI. to be continued as before. Alſo Robert Fabian writes, that in the Year 1506, the 21ſt of Henry VII. the ſaid Stewhouſes in Southwark were (for a Seaſon) uninhabited, and the Doors cloſed up. But it was not long (ſaith he) e'er the Houſes there were ſet open again, ſo many as were permitted, for (as it was ſaid) whereas before were 18 Houſes, from thenceforth were appointed to be uſed but 12 only. Theſe allowed Stewhouſes had Signs on their Fronts, towards the Thames, not hanged out, but painted on the Walls, as a Boar's-head, the Croſs-keys, the Gun, the Caſtle, the Crane, the Cardinal's-hat, the Bell, the Swan, &c. Theſe ſingle Women were forbidden the Rights of the Church, ſo long as they continued that ſinful Life, and were excluded Chriſtian Burial, if they were not reconciled before their Death; and therefore was a Plat of Ground, called The ſingle Woman's Church-yard, appointed for them, far from the Pariſh-Church.

IN the Year of Chriſt, 1548, the 37th of Henry VIII. this Row of Stews in Southwark was put down by the King's Commandment, which was proclaimed by Sound of Trumpet, no more to be privileged and uſed as a common Brothel, [Bordel,] but the Inhabitants of the ſame to keep good and honeſt Rule as in other Places of this Realm, &c.

The Clinke Priſon.

THEN next is the Clinke, a Jail or Priſon for the Treſpaſſers in thoſe Parts, namely, in old Time for ſuch as ſhould Brabble, Fray, or break the Peace on the ſaid Bank, or in the Brothel Houſes, they were by the Inhabitants thereabout apprehended and committed to this Jail, where they were ſtraitly impriſoned.

NEXT was the Biſhop of Wincheſter's Houſe, or Lodging, when he came to this City; which Houſe was firſt built by William Gifford, Biſhop of Wincheſter, about the Year 1107, the 7th of Henry I. upon a Plat of Ground pertaining to the Prior of Bermondſey, as appears by a Writ directed to the Barons of the Exchequer, in the Year 1366, the 41ſt of Edward III. (the Biſhop's See being void) for 8 l. due to the Monks of Bermondſey, for the Biſhop of Wincheſter's Lodging in Southwark.

THIS Biſhop had alſo the Lordſhip and Manor of Southwark, which came to King Edward VI. upon Biſhop Gardiner's Deprivation. And Anno 1552, there was an Exchange made between the Lord Marquis of Northampton and the King, whereby that Lord had the Lordſhip and Manor of Southwark, and the King had the Chief or Capital Meſe of Lambeth, ſome Time belonging to the Duke of Norfolk, attainted of Treaſon. The ſaid Marquis built a Gallery in Wincheſter Houſe, and in Queen Mary's Time it was reſtored to the See.

ADJOINING to this, on the South Side, was the Biſhop of Rocheſter's Inn or Lodging, which was erected where certain Houſes had been that were ſome Time Parcel of the Poſſeſſions of the Priory of St. Swithin's in Wincheſter.

THE Abbot of Naverly had alſo a Houſe there.

The Priory CHURCH of St. MARY OVERY.

EAST from whence the Biſhop of Wincheſter's Houſe ſtood, is the Church called St. Mary-over-the-Rie, or Overy, that is, Over-the-Water. This Church, or ſome other in Place thereof, was (of old Time, long before the Conqueſt) an Houſe of Siſters, founded by a Maiden, named Mary: To which Houſe and Siſters ſhe left (as was left to her by her Parents) the Overſight and Profits of a Croſs-Ferry, or Traverſe-Ferry over the Thames, there kept before that any Bridge was built. This Houſe of Siſters was after, by Swithin, a noble Lady, converted to a College of Prieſts, who, in Place of the Ferry, built a Bridge of Timber, and from Time to Time kept the ſame in good Reparations. But laſtly, the ſame Bridge was built of Stone, and then, in the Year 1106, was this Church again founded for Canons Regular, by William Pont de le Arche, and William Dauncy, Knts. Normans.

To this Monaſtery, among other its Revenues, belonged the Rectory and Church of Banſtead, and the Manors of North Todworth and South Merſield, with the Appendances, in the County of Surrey.

THIS Priory was burned about the Year 1207. Wherefore the Canons did found an Hoſpital near their Priory, where they celebrated till the Priory was repaired. Which Hoſpital was after (by Conſent of Peter de la Roche, Biſhop of Wincheſter) removed into the Land of Anicius, Archdeacon of Surrey, in the Year 1228, a Place where the Water was more plentiful, and the Air more wholeſome, and was dedicated to St. Thomas.

The PARISH of St. MARY MAGDALENE.

THIS Peter de Rupidus, or de la Roch, founded a large Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, in the ſaid Church of St. Mary Overy. Which Chapel was afterward appointed to be the Pariſh-Church for the Inhabitants near adjoining.

THIS Church was again new built in the Reign of Richard II, and King Henry IV.

John Gower, a learned Gentleman, and a famous Poet, (but no Knight, as ſome have miſtaken it) was then an eſpecial Benefactor to that Work, and was there buried on the North Side of the ſaid Church, in the Chapel of St. John, where he founded a Chantry. He lies under a Tomb of Stone, with his Image alſo of Stone being over him. The Hair of his Head aburne, long to his Shoulders, but curling up, and a ſmall forked Beard; and on his Head a Chaplet, like a Coronet of four Roſes, an Habit of Purple, damasked, down to his Feet, a Collar of SS of Gold about his Neck; under his Head the Likeneſs neſs of three Books, which he compiled; the firſt, named Speculum Meditantis, written in French; the ſecond, Vox Clamantis, penned in Latin; the third, Confeſſio Amantis, ſet forth in Engliſh. Beſide, on the Wall where he lies, there was painted three Virgins crowned, one of which was named Charity, holding this Device:

En toy qui es Fitz de Dieu le Pere,
Sauve ſoit, qui giſt ſour ceſt Pierre, i. e.

In thee, who art the Son of God the Father,
Be he ſaved that lies under this Stone.

The ſecond Writing, Mercy, with this Device:

O bone Ieſu fait ta mercy,
Al' alme, dont le corps giſt icy, i. e.

O good Jeſu, ſhew thy Mercy
To the Soul whoſe Body lies here.

The third Writing, Pity, with this Device:

Pour ta Pite Ieſu regarde,
Et met ceſt alme en ſauve garde, i. e.

For thy Pity, Jeſu, have Regard,
And put this Soul in Safeguard.

His Arms; in a Field, Argent, on a Chevron, Azure, three Leopards Heads, Gold, their Tongues, Gules, two Angels Supporters: On the Creſt a Talbot.

The Roof of the middle waſte Iſle fell down in the Year 1469. This Priory was ſurrendered to Henry VIII, the 31ſt of his Reign, the 27th of October, in the Year of Chriſt 1539, valued at 624*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* by the Year.

About Chriſtmas next following, the Church of the ſaid Priory was purchaſed of the King by the Inhabitants of the Borough. Dr. Stephen Gardiner, Biſhop of Wincheſter, putting to his helping Hand, they made thereof a Pariſh-Church for the Pariſh of St. Mary Magdalen, on the South Side of the Choir, and of St. Margaret on the Hill, which were made one Pariſh of St. Saviour.

There was an Act of Parliament, Anno 1540, the 32d of Henry VIII, for uniting theſe two Pariſhes, whereby the Church-wardens elected by the Pariſh were a Body Corporate.

In the Year 1618, a Screen at the Weſt End was ſet up, Anno 1621 and 1622, the Church was in many Places repaired, the new Chapel at the Eaſt End, which had been for above 60 Years let to Bakers, was Anno 1624, reſtored again to the Church, and 200*l.* laid out in the Repair, all at the Charge of the Pariſh. But that which has juſtly render'd this Church admired for its Beauty, is the Repair, an Account of which follows, as it is in a Table hanging on a Pillar againſt the Pulpit:

This Church was laid thro'out with Stone, new Pewed and Gallery'd; the great Vault ſunk, the Pulpit and Altar-piece erected; the Communion-Table railed, and ſet with Black and White Marble; the Choir incloſed by Gates; the South and Weſt Windows opened and enlarged, the whole new glazed; the 6th and 7th Bells caſt; the Chapel paved, and all the Church cleanſed, white waſhed and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſh, An. 1703.

It is a noble ſpacious Church, built with three Iſles running from Eaſt to Weſt, and a Croſs Iſle after the Manner of a Cathedral, and is probably the longeſt Parochial Church in England, as will appear by the Dimenſions. It is built of the antient Gothick Order, both Pillars, Arches, Roof and Windows; the Roof of the Body of the Church and Chancel, is ſupported by 26 Pillars, 13 in a Range, that of our Lady or New Chapel (now uſed for the Biſhop's Court) with ſix ſmaller Pillars; and that of the former Church of St. Mary Magdalen (on the South Side) by ſix Pillars like the laſt, there are Galleries in the Walls of the Choir, adorned with Pillars and Arches as Weſtminſter-abbey. The Tower is erected on four very ſtrong Pillars, over the Meeting of the Middle Iſle with the croſs Iſle; at the four Angles of which Tower is a Spire, all built of Stone, and the Walls of the Church of Brick and Boulder; the Roof is covered with Lead and Tile, the Floor well paved with Stone, and the Floor of the Chancel one Step higher.

The laſt mentioned Reparation of 1703, will more plainly appear, by deſcribing the Ornaments of this Church, which are not a few, for it is wainſcotted nine Feet and half high, alſo pewed and gallery'd, on the Weſt, North and South Sides, with right Wainſcot; the Pulpit and Communion-Table are of the ſame Species of Timber, and finely finniered; the Latter having Enrichments of a Glory, Cherubims, Doves, &c. placed on a fine Black and White Marble Foot-pace, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, and with a Wainſcot Fence, having Iron Spikes. The Altar-piece is very ſtately and beautiful, in Altitude about 35 Feet of Wainſcot, it conſiſts of an Upper and Lower Part, the Latter is adorned with four fluted Columns, and their Entablature of the Corinthian Order; the Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Black Letters on large Slabs of White and veined Marble, under a Glory, and Triangular Pediments, and between four Attick Pilaſters, with an Acroteria of the Figures of ſeven Golden Candleſticks repleniſhed with Tapers; all which Ornament is under a ſpacious Circular Pediment belonging to the ſaid Corinthian Columns, which are placed between the Pater-Noſter and Creed, curiouſly depencilled in Golden Letters on Black, each under a Pediment, and between ſmall Pilaſters. The upper Part is adorned with four Pedeſtals, and between them two Attick Pilaſters, with a ſmall Compaſs Pediment: On theſe ſix, and one on the Middle of the Pediment, are placed ſeven Lamps, and in the Center of this upper Part is a Glory in the Shape of a Dove deſcending within a Circular Gruppa of Cherubims, all very ſpacious, and finely painted, and preſented to the View, as it were by the withdrawing of a rich Curtain painted in Feſtoons; behind all which is a five Light Window, the Arch whereof is enriched with the Figures of ſix Swans, and an Angel. The Organ-Caſe is alſo of Oak, very lofty, elevated on ten ſquare Pillars, the upper Part whereof is adorned with three Fames carved, ſtanding in full Proportion, about 42 Feet from the Area of the Iſle.

There are two handſome inner Door-Caſes opening into the Choir Northward and Southward, and an Iron one at the Weſt End of the Church under the Organ; alſo an outer Door-Caſe on the South Side, ſet up in 1676. Over the Apperture of the Weſt Door, are the Words of Geneſis xxviii. 17. Pſal. xxxix. 5. Jerem. vii. 2, 3.

Had Kings a Power

The Wound Death's Arrows make, for thou haſt theſe.
In thy King's Court

THE Monument of Biſhop Andrews is in a Chapel at the End of the Church, and his Body lies within the Monument, on which is a long Latin Inſcription:

IN the new Chapel, on a Grave-Stone, is this written:

Not twice ten Years of Age, a weary Breath,
Have I exchanged for a happy Death;

God takes them ſooneſt whom he loveth beſt:
For he that's born to Day, and dies to Morrow,
Loſeth ſome Days of Reſt, but more of Sorrow.

In Montagu's-close was the House of the Lord Montagu, and of the Lord Montacute also, now Part of the Estate of —— Overman, Esq; In this Close it is said the Gunpowder-Plot was discovered by the Miscarriage of a Letter, to one of which Lords it was delivered by a Mistake, instead of delivering it to the other; which Place, viz. Montagu-close, enjoyed several Privileges for the happy Discovery of the said Plot, particularly one, viz. that whoever dwelled there, were exempted from having any Actions of Debt, Trespass, &c. served on them. But this Privilege, as also those of other Places, is suppressed by Acts of Parliament.

Now passing through St. Mary Overy's-close and Pepper-alley, into Long-Southwark, on the Right Hand thereof, the Market-hill, where the Leather is sold, there stood the late named Parish-Church of St. Margaret, given to St. Mary Overy's by Henry I. put down and joined with the Parish-Church of St. Mary Magdalen, and united to the late dissolved Priory-Church of St. Mary Overy.

A Part of this Parish-Church of St. Margaret is now a Court, wherein the Assizes and Sessions are kept.

Farther up on that Side, almost directly over-against St. George's Church, was some Time a large and most sumptuous House, built by Charles Brandon, late Duke of Suffolk, in the Reign of Henry VIII. which was called Suffolk-house; but coming afterwards into the King's Hands, the same was called Southwark-place, and a Mint of Coinage was there kept for the King.

The Mint.

This House was also called, while it was in the Duke's Possession, The Duke's Place; which Place he exchanged with the said King Henry VIII. And the King, in Exchange, gave him the Bishop of Norwick's Place in St. Martin's in the Fields. And this Exchange was enacted 28 Henry VIII.

The PARISH of St. GEORGE, SOUTHWARK.

NOW on the South Side, to return back again towards the Bridge, over-against this Suffolk-place, was the Parish-Church of St. George, some Time appertaining to the Priory of Bermondsey, by the Gift of Thomas Aderne, and Thomas, his Son, in the Year 1122.

The old Church here was lately taken down, in order to erect a new one in its Place, at the Charge of the Parishioners, who are impowered, by Act of Parliament, to raise a certain Sum for that Purpose. On Tuesday the 23d of April, this present Year 1734, being St. George's Day, the Reverend Nathaniel Hough, D. D. Rector of this Parish of St. George the Martyr, did, (as Proxy for his Majesty,) with several of the Gentlemen Trustees for rebuilding the said Church, assisted by Mr. Price the Architect, lay the first Stone on the North West Corner of the new intended Church, on which is the following Inscription:

D. S.
Serenissimus Rex Georgius Secundus
Per Deputatum suum
Reverendum Nathan. Hough, D. D.
Hujus Parochiæ Rectorem
Fiduciariis ejusdem Ecclesia dignissimis
Eum unacomitantibus
Et Adjuvante Johan. Price Armig. Architecto
Primum hujusce Ecclesiæ Lapidem

Monuments in the old Church were, for

William Kirton, Esq; and his Wives, 1464.

On a fair Monument in the South Wall of the Chancel was this Inscription:

Lo, Master William Evans, he whose Body lieth here, Bequeathed hath by his last Will,
for ever by the Yeere,
Ten Pounds eight Shillings to the Poor,
which is a blessed Stay,
And must be given them in Bread, on every Sabbath Day.
One half to Crekederne Poor,
his native Soil so deare:
The other Moiety to the Poor of this our Parish here.
See now all ye that love the Poor,
how God did guide his Ways,
Ten score and eight are served with Bread in two and fifty Days.
More than many would have done
To yeelded any Share.
Praise God, ye Poor, who gave to him so provident a Care.

He was free of the Right Worshipful Company of Merchant-Taylors, and deceased the nine and twentieth of July, 1590, in the two and thirtieth Year of the most prosperous Reign of our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth. Ætatis 67.

On a Grave-Stone, under the Communion-Table, was this Inscription:

Behold James Savage graciously hath done a godly Deed
To the Poor of this Parish, for to relieve their Need,
Five Pounds a Year for evermore,
by Will he hath bequeath'd,
Which must out of the Angel Rents quarterly be received,
By the Church-wardens of this Church,
whom he hath put in Trust,
As Fathers in the Poor's Behalf, to be upright and just.
Which Men I doubt not but our God, who seeth all Things, shall find True in dispensing of the same,
according to his Mind.
Ye Poor, thank Christ for Savage still,
extol God's Name with Praise,
That he to follow his good Act, in Time may many raise.

Anno Domini 1588.

NUMBER of Houſes upwards of 740.

IN this Pariſh is a Charity-School for 50 Boys, which is carried on by Subſcription.

ON the Weſt Side of the Road, near Newington, are 22 Alms-houſes, founded by Sir Thomas Hunt, and others, for the Relief of indigent Freemen of the Fiſhmongers Company, or their Widows; to each of whom is paid 2 s. per Week by the ſaid Company; and each Houſe hath one Chaldron of Coals yearly. To theſe there is a Chapel, and one of the Penſioners hath 40 s. per Ann. extraordinary for reading Prayers twice every Day.

NEAR the Pariſh Church of St. George is the new built Jail for the County of Surrey, which was antiently kept at a Place called the White Lion, it having been a common Hoſtery, or Inn, with that Sign.

A little farther is the Jail, or Priſon, of the King's-Bench, but of what Antiquity is uncertain. The Courts of the King's-Bench and Chancery, have oft Times been removed from LONDON to other Places, and ſo hath likewiſe the Jails that ſerve thoſe Courts; as in the Year 1304, Edward I. commanded the Courts of the King's-Bench and the Exchequer, which had remained ſeven Years at York, to be removed to their old Places at LONDON. And in the Year 1387, the 11th of Richard II. Robert Triſilian, Chief Juſtice, came to the City of Coventry, and there ſate for the Space of a Month, as Juſtice of the King's-Bench, and cauſed to be indicted in that Court, about the Number of 2000 Perſons of that Country, &c. The King's Bench.

IT ſeems therefore, that for that Time, the Priſon or Jail of that Court was not far off. Alſo, in the Year 1392, the 16th of the ſame Richard, the Archbiſhop of York being Lord Chancellor, for good Will that he bare to his City, cauſed the King's-Bench and Chancery to be removed from LONDON to York. But e're long they were returned to LONDON.

THE Priſoners in this Priſon of the King's-Bench were formerly not only reſtrained of their Liberty, but were further puniſhed by Reaſon of the Straitneſs of Room; there being more a great many about the Middle of Queen Elizabeth's Reign committed there than before, as well for Debt, Treſpaſs, as other Cauſes. By Reaſon of which ſtreightning and peſtering one another, great Annoyances and Inconveniences grew among the Priſoners, that occaſioned the Death of many. So that within ſix Years an hundred Perſons died.

THERE are large Rules, at this Time, belonging to this Priſon, taking in all St. George's Fields, the Mint, and Part of the Borough, which the Priſoners have the Privilege of living in, after they have agreed on certain Terms, and given Security to the Marſhal.

The preſent Marſhal of the King's-Bench is Richard Mullins, Eſq;

ON the ſame Side of the Way is the Marſhalſea, in which is kept the Marſhal's-Court, which was at firſt intended for determining Cauſes or Differences among the King's Menial Servants, held under the Knight-Marſhal, whoſe Steward is Judge of the Court, to which alſo belong four Counſel, and ſix Attorneys, beſides whom none may practiſe in this Court, they are all ſix of Clifford's-Inn. The Court Days are every Friday, when they hold Pleas for Debt, Damage, and Treſpaſſes in Cauſes for 10 Miles round Whitehall, except in the City of LONDON.

THE preſent Judge of this Court is Sir John Darnell.

FROM the Marſhalſea up to the Bridge are many large Inns, among which the moſt antient is the Talbot, which is the Sign of a Dog ſo called, as it is now painted; but was of old Time called the Tabard, the Sign being then of a Garment of that Name, which was a Jacket or Sleeveleſs Coat, whole before, open on both Sides, with a ſquare Collar winged on the Shoulders; this ſtately Garment was worn by Noblemen, and others, at home, and in the Wars abroad; but in the Wars their Arms were embroidered, or otherwiſe depict upon them, that every Man might be known by his Coat of Arms: But now theſe Tabards are only worn by the Heralds, and called their Coats of Arms in Service; for the Inn of the Tabard, Geoffrey Chaucer, the moſt famous Poet of England, in Commendation thereof, in the Reign of Edward III. writes thus:

It befel in that Seaſon, on a Day,
In Southwark, at the Tabart as I lay,
Ready to wend on my Pilgrimage
To Canterbury, with full devout Courage:
That Night was comen into Hoſterie
Well nine and twenty in a Companie,
Of ſundry Folke, by adventure yfall
In Fellowſhip, and Pilgrims were they all,
That toward Canterbury woulden ride:
The Stables and Chambers weren wide,
And well we were eaſed at the beſt, &c.

WITHIN this Inn was alſo the Lodging of the Abbot of Hide (by the City of Wincheſter) a fair Houſe for him and his Train, when he came to the City to Parliament, &c.

UPON the Sign Poſt of this Talbot-Inn, is at this Time written:

This is the Inn where Sir Jeffery Chaucer, and the nine and twenty Pilgrims lodged in their Journey to Canterbury, Anno 1383.

Number of Houſes about 1500.

In this Pariſh is a Charity-School, where 40 Boys are Taught and Cloathed by Subſcription; and here is alſo a Charity-School for 60 Girls, who are Cloathed and Maintained. A Free-School, called the Free-School of Queen Elizabeth, in the Pariſh of St. Olave's Southwark; and ſhe incorporated 16 Pariſhioners to be Governors. Here is a firſt and ſecond Maſter; the former hath 60 l. per Ann. the latter hath 40 l. The Writing Maſter hath 40 l. per Ann. and the Engliſh Maſter hath 40 l. per Ann. The Lands and Revenues by which this Foundation is endowed, were purchaſed by the Pariſh, and conſiſt chiefly of Ground-Rents in Horſely-down; and they have been augmented by ſeveral Donations and Benefactions. The School is for the Uſe of the Pariſh, and Dorothy, the Widow of Arthur Rawlins, Eſq; gave 150 l. to it.

Here in this Pariſh are 20 Alms-Houſes, but the Poor are removed to the Work-Houſe, where they, and poor Children, to the Number of 100, are kept in excellent Order, and provided with Lodging, Food, and Phyſick.

Over-againſt this Pariſh-Church, on the South Side the Street, was ſome Time one great Houſe, built of Stone, with arched Gates, which pertained to the Prior of Lewes and Suſſex, and was his Lodging when he came to LONDON.

Then Eaſt from the ſaid Pariſh-Church of St. Olave is a Key. In the Year 1330, by the Licence of Simon Swanland, Mayor of LONDON, it was built by Iſabel, Widow to Hamond Goodcheape; and next thereunto was then a great Houſe of Stone and Timber, belonging to the Abbot of St. Auguſtin, without the Walls of Canterbury, which was an antient Piece of Work, and ſeems to be one of the firſt built Houſes on that Side the River, over-againſt the City: It was called the Abbot's-Inn of St. Auguſtin in Southwark, and was ſome Time held of the Earls of Warren and Surrey.

NEXT is the Bridge-house, so called, as being a Store-house for Stone, Timber, or whatsoever pertains to the Building or Repairing of London-bridge.

THIS House seems to have taken Beginning, with the first Founding of the Bridge, either of Stone or Timber: It is a large Plat of Ground on the Bank of the River Thames, containing divers large Buildings for Stowage of Things necessary towards the Reparation of the said Bridge.

THERE were also divers Garners, for laying up of Wheat, and others for Service of the City, as Need requires; moreover, there were certain Ovens built, in Number ten; of which six were very large, the other four not being half so big: These were purposely made to bake out the Bread Corn of the said Graineries, to the best Advantage, for Relief of the poor Citizens when Need should require. Sir John Throstone, Knt. some Time an Embroiderer, then Goldsmith, one of the Sheriffs, 1516, gave (by his Testament) towards the making of these Ovens, 200 l. which Thing was performed by his Executors; Sir John Munday, Goldsmith, then being Mayor.

OVER this Bridge-house there are two Bridge-Masters appointed, and these must be Freemen, chosen by the City, whose Office is to look after the Reparation of the Bridge: They have a liberal Salary allowed them. The Place hath sometimes been a good Relief for some honest Citizens fallen to Decay. The Keeper of the Bridge-house had, in antient Times, an Interest in certain Mills upon the River Lee, near Stratford; and the Master of St. Thomas of Acres had a Title to other Mills there. For, as it appears by an old Inquisition taken in the Time of King Edward I. there was a Calcetum, i. e. a Chalk Cawsey on the North, near Stratford, which was made by Queen Maud, through which there were three Trenches made for three Courses of Water to run, for the Use of several Mills, partly belonging to the Master of St. Thomas, and partly to the Bridge-Master: Over which were three Wooden Bridges made by the said Masters.

AT a Common-Council, July 14, Ann. 33 H. VIII. it was ordered, that the Seal of the Bridge-house should be changed, because the Image of Thomas Becket, some Time Archbishop of Canterbury, was graven thereon; and a new Seal to be made, devised by Mr. Hall, to whom the old Seal was delivered.

Note, This was occasioned by a Proclamation, which commanded the Names of the Pope and Thomas Becket to be put out of all Books and Monuments.

IN this House are managed the Affairs of the Bridge, to which there belongs a great Revenue in Lands and Houses.

THE present Justice of the Bridge-yard is John Nicholas, Esq; and

THE Clerk-Comptroller of the Bridge-house, Jeremiah Pemberton, Esq;

NEXT, between the Bridge-house and Battail-bridge, likewise on the Bank of the River Thames, was the Abbot of Battail's-Inn; the Walks and Gardens appertaining thereunto, were on the other Side of the Way, before the Gate of the said House, and were called the Maze.

The PARISH of St. JOHN in SOUTHWARK.

OUT of the last Parish is lately taken another called St. John in Southwark; and the Church, which is one of the 50 new ones appointed to be built by an Act passed in the Reign of Queen Anne, being finished, was consecrated on the 15th of June 1733, by Richard Lord Bishop of Winchester.

IT is built of Stone, the Roof is flat, the Steeple is a fluted Column of the Ionick Order; there are two Venetian Windows adorned with Pillars of the same Order; it is paved with Stone, and hath three small Isles.

THE Ornaments of this Church are as follow: The Roof is Quadrangular, adorned with Fret-Work; on the West, North and South Sides are Galleries supported by Pillars of the Dorick Order; the Pews, Pulpit, and Reading-Desk are all of Oak; the Altar-Piece is painted Green, and edged with Gold; it is adorned with four Columns, Entablature, &c. of the Ionick Order; the Intercolumniation is of the same Colour, without the Commandments, Creed, or Pater-Noster. At the West End of the Church is a small Marble Font, set within a handsome Iron Rail.

THE Parsonage-House is near adjoining, and there is a handsome Vestry-Room, detached from the rest of the Building.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the King.

THE Rector is the Reverend Mr. Philip Ayscough, who is likewise Rector of St. Olave's; the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. North.

PRAYERS are Wednesdays, Fridays, and Holidays, about 10 of the Clock. No Organ, two Bells.

THE Vestry is General.

NUMBER of Houses about 1500.

THEN is Battail-bridge, so called from Battail-abbey, for that it stood on the Ground, and over a Water-Course (flowing out of the Thames) pertaining to that Abbey, and was therefore both built and repaired by the Abbots of that House, as being near adjoining to the Abbot's Lodging.

The Antient ABBEY of St. SAVIOUR BERMONDSEY.

BEYOND this Bridge is Bermondsey-street, turning South, in the South End whereof was some Time a Priory, or Abbey of St. Saviour, called Bermond's-Eye, in Southwark, founded by Alwin Childe, a Citizen of LONDON, in the Year 1081.

Peter, Richard, Obstert, and Umbalde, Monks de Charitate, came to Bermondsey, the Year 1089, and Peter was made first Prior there, by Appointment of the Prior House, called Charite, in France:

France: By which Means this Priory of Bermondſey (being a Cell to that in France) was accounted a Priory of Aliens.

In the Year 1094, deceaſed Alwin Childe, Founder of this Houſe: Then William Rufus gave to the Monks his Manor of Bermondſey, with the Appurtenances, and built for them there a new great Church.

More in the Year 1122. Thomas Aderne, and Thomas his Son, gave to the Monks of Bermonds-Eye, the Church of St. George in Southwark, &c.

In the Year 1165, King Henry II. confirmed to them the Hide, or Territory, of Southwark, and Laygham Wadden, with the Land of Coleman, &c.

In the Year 1371, the Priories of Aliens (throughout England) being ſeiz'd into the King's Hands, Richard Denton, an Engliſhman, was made Prior of Bermondſey; to whom was committed the Cuſtody of the ſaid Priory, by the Letters Patents of King Edward III. ſaving to the King the Advowſons of Churches.

In the Year 1380, the 4th of Richard II. this Priory was made a Denizon (or free Engliſh) for the Fine of 200 Marks, paid to the King's Hanaper in the Chancery. In the Year 1399, John Attelborough, Prior of Bermondſey, was made the firſt Abbot of that Houſe, by Pope Boniface IX. at the Suit of King Richard II.

In the Year 1417, Thomas Thetford, Abbot of Bermondſey, held a Plea in Chancery againſt the King, for the Manors of Preſton, Bermondſey, and Stone, in the County of Somerſet; in which Suit the Abbot prevailed, and recovered againſt the King.

In the Year 1539, this Abbey was valued to diſpend by the Year 474 l. 14 s. 4 d. ob. and was ſurrendered to Henry VIII. the 31ſt of his Reign. The Abbey Church was then pulled down by Sir Thomas Pope, Knt. and in Place thereof a ſtately Houſe built of Stone and Timber, ſince pertaining to the Earls of Suſſex.

THE Pariſh of St. George's is of no large Extent, lying Southward of St. Saviour's. The principal Places are, St. Margaret's-hill and Black-man-ſtreet.

THIS Pariſh is of chief Note for the King's-Bench Priſon, the Marſhalſea Priſon, and the Mint, the antient Retreat of Perſons of ill Principles, who there ſhelter'd themſelves from the Payment of their juſt Debts, before the late Act of Parliament, that took away that pretended Privilege.

THERE was formerly, in Southwark, but one Priſon, particularly, ſerving for the whole County of Surrey, and that called the White Lyon, which was for the Cuſtody of Murtherers, Felons, and other notorious Malefactors. It was ſituate ſituate at the South End of St. Margaret's-hill, near unto St. George's Church; but that being an old decay'd Houſe within a few Years paſt, there has been a new County-Jail erected. Then is the King's Bench and Marſhalſea Priſons, already mention'd.

St. Margaret's-hill, a ſpacious broad Street, and a great Thoroughfare for Paſſengers, Coaches, Carts and Waggons out of Kent, Surrey, Suſſex, and Part of Hampſhire; by reaſon of which it is much reſorted unto, but not of ſo good a Trade as the Borough, nor is ſo accommodated with Inns. In this Street is kept the Fair, which begins ſome Days after Bartholomew-Fair in LONDON, and, according to Cuſtom, continues a Fortnight, although it ought, by Charter or Grant, to hold but three Days; but this Fair is of ſmall Concern for Commodities, being chiefly for Shows, as Drolls, Puppet-Shows, Rope-Dancing, Muſick-Booths, and Tippling-Houſes.

In this Part of the Hill, which ſtands in this Pariſh, are a great many Courts and Alleys.

White-ſtreet begins at Blackman's-ſtreet, runs by St. George's Church, and falls into Long-lane, and receives Kent-ſtreet. This Street is not over well built and inhabited.

Kent-ſtreet, ſo called as being ſeated in the Road out of Kent into Southwark; a Street very long, but ill built, chiefly inhabited by Broom-Men and Mumpers. But here are divers large Yards, wherein are vaſt Stocks of Birch, Heath, and ſome only of Broom-ſtaves, which the Maſter Broom-Men diſpoſe of to thoſe that make the Brooms.

Blackmans-ſtreet runs from St. George's Church almoſt unto Newington; the Street is broad, but the Buildings and Inhabitants not much to be boaſted of; the End next to Newington hath the Weſt Side open to St. George's-fields, being rather a Road than a Street.

The Mint, generally ſo taken, is very large, containing ſeveral Streets and Alleys. In this Tract of Ground, called the Mint, ſtood the Duke of Suffolk's Houſe. The chief Street in the Mint is ſo called, being that which gives an Entrance into it out of Blackman's-ſtreet; it is long and narrow, running into Lombart-ſtreet, thence into Suffolk-ſtreet, and alſo into George-ſtreet; which ſaid Suffolk-ſtreet and George-ſtreet have open Paſſages into St. George's-fields. Before we leave this Place, we cannot help taking Notice of a Garden here, remarkable for a Summer-Houſe in it, which is ſaid to be built by the Celebrated Mr. Ruſhworth, at his own Expence, when he was a Priſoner in the Rules of the King's Bench, in which he compiled his Valuable Collections.

In this long Tract of Ground there are, in the Borough of Southwark, generally ſo called, theſe Pariſhes, viz. St. Saviour's Southwark, St. George the Martyr's, St. Thomas's, St. Olave's, the new Pariſh at Horſely-down, called St. John's in Southwark, and St. Mary Magdalen Bermondſey. Then, on the Weſt Side, the Pariſhes of Chriſt-Church and Lambeth. On the South Side, the Pariſh of Newington. And on the Eaſt, the Pariſh of Rotherhith.

This Borough, as a Subſidy to the King, yields about a Thouſand Marks, or Eight Hundred Pounds, which is more than any one City in England pays, except the City of LONDON. And alſo the Muſter of Men in this Borough doth likewiſe in Number ſurpaſs all other Cities, except LONDON.

This Ward hath an Alderman, who is always the Eldeſt, or what they call, The Father of the City; he hath three Deputies, and a Bailiff; there are no Common-Council-Men; ſixteen Conſtables, ſix Scavengers, and twenty Ward-mote Inqueſt-Men.

It is taxed to the Fifteen, at ſeventeen Pounds ſeventeen Shillings and eight Pence.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir William Humfreys, Knt. and Bart.
